INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Washington, D. C., November 17, 1913.—Informal complaints to the Commission indicate that the annual recurring failure of transportation facilities known as "car shortage" is again appearing. The Commission urges on all shippers and all carriers that close attention to methods of loading, unloading, moving and promptly returning to use the cars now available will go far toward making the present supply of cars sufficient for all purposes.

In order that the business of the country may go forward without interruption, the Commission urges through their associations, to cooperate to secure the prompt and full loading of cars and their prompt release. One of the chief causes of failure of car supply in past seasons has been the unnecessary detention of cars by careless shippers and by shippers using them for storage purposes. In the general public interest shippers should endeavor to release cars at the earliest possible moment without regard to the free time given by the tariffs.

All the efforts of the shippers will be unavailing, however, unless the carriers also use extraordinary measures to eliminate all delays chargeable to them.

The commission is moved to make this appeal by its desire to save both shippers and carriers from the losses which are occasioned by failures of our supply, and by its knowledge that measures such as are here suggested have operated in past seasons to save all concerned from heavy losses.

DR. COOK BESEGES CONGRESS.

Wants an Inquiry Into Rival Claims for Polar Discovery.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook announced on his arrival here today that he would ask Congress to investigate the conflicting claims of Rear Admiral Peary and himself as to the discovery of the north pole and to determine who was the victor.

Dr. Cook intimated that he had assurances that a resolution will be introduced to authorize an inquiry. He avowed himself as willing to have the investigation conducted by the Naval Affairs Committee of either house.

Dr. Cook is practically a Wayne County man, his home being just across the river from the Wayne county side in the New York State village of Callicoon. The doctor lectured in Honesdale two years ago and told his own story. The "woods are full" of people who believe that he is as much entitled to credit for discovering the North Pole as is Admiral Peary. The Citizen would like to see the resolution for such an inquiry favorably acted on by Congress.

COMMENTS ON DR. SWENTZEL'S SERMON.

I notice that the Brooklyn Eagle, of Monday printed in full the sermon delivered on the previous evening in that city by Rev. Dr. Henry C. Swentzel, rector of St. Luke's church, Clinton avenue. In his talk upon "The Power of Reverence," Dr. Swentzel said in part: "Any program for humanity which omits the fear of God will prove to be sadly deficient. The public school may be an adjunct, but it cannot be the prime mover in the glorious advance for which we dare to hope. In a country without an official religion, the non-religious character of the public schools is inevitable. The school work must be supplemented, somehow, and sentiments of reverence for the true God must be put into the souls of the rising generation, else the net result will be not far removed from civilized paganism, which will surely be less and less civilized as the years go on. The church, so far from submitting to this possibility, must set out to repair the grievous defect."

It is intimated that higher academies and other institutions of learning are open to a similar criticism. Educational ideals and methods are wickedly inadequate if they make no effort to draw out the best that is in human nature. No remissness can equal the failure to inculcate a reverential disposition towards the Almighty. It is a disaster if our colleges for men and women are graduating heathen. It is almost a tragedy if, when the students receive their diplomas, they have less reverence for holy things than they had to start with. There can be no genuine culture which omits the majesty and glory of the infinite, and no man should presume to think himself to be a gentleman who is not a gentleman to his God." Dr. Swentzel was rector of St. Luke's church in Scranton about twenty-one years ago. Upon his acceptance of a call to the Brooklyn church he was succeeded by Bishop Israel. When in Scranton Dr. Swentzel was noted as a forceful pulpit orator, and the sermon from which the above was clipped indicates that he has lost none of his old time eloquence and logic.

—In Stroller's Note Book, Tribune-Republican. Dr. Swentzel is well known in Honesdale, having been a former rector here.

ATTORNEY GEN. BELL RULES ON STATE APPROPRIATIONS.

$300,000 Available for Reimbursement of Cattle Owners.

Auditor General A. W. Powell was last week advised by Attorney General John C. Bell to the effect that he could pay appropriations of $300,000 for the reimbursement of owners of cattle taken because of disease and for the suppression of cattle diseases; $50,000 for the purchase of forestry reserve lands; $100,000 for encouragement of agricultural exhibitions; $830,000 for reimbursement of counties for expenditures for uniform primaries and $3,000 for the expenses of the commission to investigate methods of recording deeds and insuring titles, all in the general appropriation bill. The auditor general had questioned whether the above items were "ordinary expenses" of the

Gettysburg Address

NOVEMBER 19, 1863

NOVEMBER 19, 1913

The Gettysburg Address

Remarks at the Dedication of the National Cemetery at Gettysburg, November 19, 1863.

FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow, this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us, the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain; that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.

TRADE WITH THE MERCHANT WHO HELPS BUILD UP THE TOWN

A Chicago mail order house, has a scheme by which it sends out periodical letters to people who once dealt with them. It is said that one of these letters reached a Honesdale physician, whose reply is worth reading:

"Your letter of recent date asking why I had not traded with you for a long time received and as you asked me to tell you frankly why, I will give you a few reasons.

"First—I am in business in this community and I am looking to this community with its varied industries for my support. I cannot ask the merchants of this town for their support if I do not give them mine.

"Second—In looking over my books I do not find the company's name, which reminds me that neither of this firm has ever given me a penny's patronage. Why is this? Am I too far away, or have neither of them needed a physician or are they afraid of the mail order plan when it comes to the practice of medicine? I can certainly give as good a satisfaction by mail as your house can, and will appreciate a call from either of them when in need of medical service.

"Third—In looking over the subscription lists for improving our streets and public highways, I have failed to find the name of either member of your firm down for one penny to assist in the work. Also I have failed to find your name on either of the charity lists where help has been rendered to our labor; in other words you are not down as the contributor to our aid societies. In fact, in all the movements for the betterment of our conditions, when our community has needed the united efforts of her public-spirited citizens, I have failed to find your name among the list of our contributing merchants.

"Your name is not on our city tax books, nor do I find where you have paid a license to do a mercantile business in competition with home merchants. Consequently I fail to see why you should have my support."

state government and were therefore within the power of the legislature to provide for in the general appropriation bill. The attorney general is an exhaustive opinion holds that they are proper expenditures in the ordinary course of government.
