on a mission of importance. writer of this department talked with them from Hoadleys until trainman Laughanny had said the magic words, "the next stop is Hawley— all change for Lackawaxen, Port Jervis, Middletown and New York don't forget your packages." The four gentlemen were John D. Purtell, trainmaster of the Erie's Wyoming Division, John E. Swift, of the Union Cash Stores, Thomas McNulty and Superintendent of schools Charles Hoban, all of whom are of Dunmore and the first three of whom are members of the Dunmore school board. They constitute a special committee, and were appointed to make a study of the vocational side of the educational question. They are to make their report in December.

The quartette shook hands with waits Hawley acquaintances while waiting for baggage, et cetera, to be transferred from the E. & W. V. to the branch train, and soon were speeding on their way towards the Bay State.
The vocational training system is in use in Fitchburg, a city of about 40,000 population. It includes manual and domestic training courses in the high school's curriculum and the products of the school may be fitted to meet the needs of the community. If the committee finds that the system works well in Fitchburg a favorable recommendation will be made to the Dunmore board, and, as a new law enacted by the legislature provision of which the state pays two thirds the cost of vocational courses, this provision makes it rather convenient for that district to introduce such a system. The mem-bers of the board claim that manual training and domestic science badly needed in the schools there. They state that arrangements can be made with the Erie shops and other industrial establishments whereby boys may be permitted to attend school during the morning and work at some trade in the afternoon.

The writer was especially inter-ested in the work of this committee because it shows that our neighboring towns are reaching out along progressive lines. In this department several weeks ago suggestion was made that the Hawley school board investigate the work and methods of other schools. Objection was made, of course, that such work was expensive and unnecessary, and on the surface it would seem that pub-lic schools are some sort of moneymaking enterprise, maintained for the purpose of creating rich school

The writer is a great believer in vocational study. He believes such study is necessary and that the time is ripe for its introduction in every high school in the larger towns and cities of the land; but he does not propose to make any argument here along that line. As far as he cares to go here is to hold up the progresspirit of the Dunmore school board as a sort of object lesson and inspiration to the school directors and the people of Hawley.

+ + + A Little Matter That Made Us Feel Good.

To be button-holed and asked in a confidential manner, "What's the matter with the Gurney Elevator Works?" brought joy to our jour-nalistic heart as we could respond with a gusto that fairly made things jingle, "Why they're all right!" The writer hereof wants to see everybody in Wayne county prosper-ous and happy, and when the wheels in our factories are all going 'round their music spells Prosperity with a big capital letter.

Big dinner on Sunday At Baschon's will delight you; Chicken? You've guessed it! They warmly invite you. No extra charge, you know.

The Weasel Market Is

Good Around Lakeville. On Tuesday Mr. Francis Cawley, of Lakeville, brought to the office of 'Squire Ammerman the seal brown a weasel that his son had shot while it was trespassing on the sacred precincts of his hen house. The 'Squire looked over the dainty bit of fur, fished out a big pair of cut the ears from the pelt, and Mr. Cawley was ready to return to Lakeville a richer man by two dollars than he was before he enter-ed the office of the genial Justice of the Peace. That is the bounty that is paid for the extermination weasels, $2.00 each. The bounty is leaders of the boys, and thereafter none too high, and if the State paid everything was so still that a man a small bounty also for woodchucks over in East Hawley heard his

Trying to Settle a

Matter Out of Court. There was a little lawsuit before 'Squire Ammerman one day last week, and the temple of justice was filled with witnesses and contradictory testimony. Each side was represented by able counsel, and when the noon whistles rang out their call to hungry humanity court was adjourned and the various parties went outside to the sidewalk in front of the 'Squire's office. Instead of quietly and speedily seeking the var-ious sources for dinner, they went right on with the battle out there in the open, prosecuting the war contrary to all established martial rules by fighting on empty stomachs.

Finally one of the parties to the suit and the attorney on the oppo-site side concluded that the best way and also the speediest to settle the differences was to adjust matters out of court; and at it went. There was some noise. The 'Squire heard the noise, and decided that a battle without general officers was not tactical. He called for a truce until proper regulations could be made. The combatants were separated. The wounded were properly cared for, and all traces of the carnage were removed. As to the suit itself, the 'Squire has reserved his decision.

+ + + Clothes Thieves Are

Operating Around Hawley. And now it would seem that there are people in the vicinity of Hawley who need clothing, and need it so much they don't wait to get it from the merchants, but help themselves the nearest convenient source of supply, which in a recent instance chanced to be the well filled clothes line of Mrs. Peter Beilman. If this item should be read by the needy ones who are taking the neighbors clothes line method of replenishing their wardrobe, take a bit of advice and "cut it out," for you are liable to get hurt if you are not very care-

'Squire Ammerman's Flock A Source of Temptation.

Two recent attempts to rob the down at the Eddy, proved unsuccessful because the Squire has the knack of putting his official seal on his locks The lovers of other peo ple's poultry first tried to get the 'Squire's hens on Friday night last. They had such a longing for them that the following night they made another try, but the old-fashioned wrought iron hasp was too much for them, and they had to give up the job as a failure. In the 'Squire's chicken house are about 45 white leghorn layers, and it is the Not-ary's purpose to keep them right there on the job of laying eggs at 45 cents a dozer

The firm with whom he is employed have decided to open a branch office in Boston, and Rowland will be sent from Gotham to the Hub. Last Saturday evening Claude Watrous, Erie engineer, and Miss Frances Robinson, formerly employed as head clerk in E. L. Sch'ager' department store, were married. They were married in the house they are occupying as a residence, and began house-keeping immediately after the conclusion of the marriage ceremony. Indeed, they had previously furnished their new home, and were all ready to occupy The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Watrous is on River street, well known as the old Snyder home. + + + Death of Mrs. M. McAndrew Of Marble Hill.

Mention was made here last week of the dangerous illness of Mrs. Michael McAndrew, of Marble Hill. Pleurisy was the disease which recently made a serious attack, and, despite the care of physicians, she died on Monday night at 7 o'clock. The funeral was held on Thursday in St. Philomena's Catholic church. Mrs. McAndrew leaves her husband and six children, three sons and three daughters, to mourn her departure. The sons are Edward, of Port Jervis, William of Staten Island, and Michael, of New York city. The daughters are, Miss Alice, at home, Mrs. Jas. The Last Apprentice Completes His Apprenticeship.

On Thursday, November 13, Peter Rose, the last apprentice of Hawley Branch No. 29 of the G. B. B. A. completed his apprenticeship, and on Saturday night he celebrated the event by giving a banquet at Hotel Reafler, whose proprietor, Mr. J. A. Baschon, was at one time a glass blower himself. The dining room was artistically decorated for the occasion by Miss Helen Baschon. One of the decorations was a streamer stretched agrees the room. streamer stretched across the room, the color scheme being in red and green, and bearing the magic let-ters, "Branch 29 G. B. B. A." WAYMART WOMAN SHOOTS RABBITS.

Even Though Her Husband Did Not Get a Deer or a Bear While Hunting in Pike county, She Got Bun-

Some time ago it was reported in a Scranton newspaper that a Lackawanna county woman was the only woman hunter in the Northeastern tier of counties. We thought so at that time but since then proof has been obtained that shatters the truth of the newspa-per story. Wayne county has a woman hunter, perhaps more, but at least one real hunter who brings not only the gun but rabbits and birds.

That woman is Mrs. J. B. Dymond of Waymart, and a better shot will be hard to find in that vicinity. Last week Mr. and Mrs. Dymond, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dymond, of Wilkes-Barre; Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of Wilkes-Barre, and Mrs. Edward Husband of Edwardsville, went to Greeley Lake, Pike county, and made their head-quarters at Greeley Lake Inn. They spent the week in hunting in the woods and while the men were tracking deer the women went after the smaller game and were successful in bagging ten bunnies and other small game. The men did not get any deer but had the pleasure of seeing a deer and a 400-pound bear brought in to the hotel while they were there. The successful hunter was a fellow guest at the Inn. Mr. Dymond said that residents there estimated that at least day evening at 7 o'clock to attend two hundred hunters were in the St. John's Evangelicai Lutheran woods last week, but that he did church in a body, where the annual not hear more than two or three shots during the week's hunting trip through the dense woods. The party returned home Saturday.

The slump in business that is being felt in many parts of the country is not bothering people and mer-chants of Waymart.
