The date for the session has not been set as it is not yet ascertained whether all the prospective special guests will be able to attend on the same night. The intention of the officials of the house committee is to arrange the date for shortly after the first of the year, just in the middle of the winter season and at a period when the ball players will begin to get the tots out of the moth balls for the trips to the training camps.

—Michael Cannon and bride, who were married in Carbondale on Wednesday, mention of which appeared in the last issue of The Citizen, returned home Thursday night. The bride and groom of a day were given a rousing send off by their Pioneer City friends at the train that evening. The groom's dress suit case, still quivering with the excitement from its experience of a few moments before, could not keep still and without warning it fell out of the rack, striking County Commissioner Neville Holgate upon the shoulder and breaking a window in the passenger coach. The Delaware Lackawanna and Western Railroad company may communicate with its passengers from the outside world by wireless, but it takes a "Cannon" to make known what is going on on the Delaware & Hudson line. The boarders of Hotel Wayne, where Mr. and Mrs. Cannon will make their home, presented the bride and groom with a handsome upholstered chair.

FOOD PRICES STIR WHOLE COUNTRY

Federal Probe Is Aimed at Cold Storage Operators.

TO PLACE RESPONSIBILITY.

Housewives' League Urges a General Boycott Until Eggs Are Cheaper—A Proposed Investigation by Congress of an Alleged Egg Trust.

Retail prices of the principal articles of food used in the workingman's home were higher Aug. 15, 1913, than at any time in the twenty-three years and seven months preceding, according to figures made public by the bureau of labor statistics. Washington is among the forty principal cities used as a basis for the statistics. The increase in prices over the same date of last year is 8 per cent, the bulletin states.

Of the eighteen articles included in the statistics fifteen showed an increase and three—sugar, flour and cornmeal—indicated a decline in price.

Now a federal investigation of the alleged cold storage combine has been formally ordered by Attorney General McReynolds. He has instructed employees of the bureau of investigation and district attorneys throughout the country to get complete figures on the allegations that cold storage men are withholding eggs and other products from the market in an effort to boost prices.

The inquiry will cover every large city in the United States, and if evidence proves the statements already made to the attorney general he will bring prosecutions both under the criminal provisions of the pure food law and the interstate commerce law.

Particular attention will be paid to the situation in Philadelphia, New York and certain other large cities. The department will try to ascertain whether there has been any conspiracy among cold storage plants to raise prices of eggs and similar food articles or so to regulate the flow of products from cold storage plants as to force prices to a higher level by creating artificial shortages. Attorney General

McReynolds is understood to have been seriously impressed with statements that have come into his possession showing a remarkable increased price of eggs and other food products.

At present the high price of eggs is agitating the public mind to such an extent that the national executive committee of the Housewives' league, of which Mrs. Julian Heath of New York city is national president, has called a nation wide boycott on eggs. This action was decided upon at a recent meeting of the executive committee at Mrs. Heath's home.

Telegrams were sent to several hundred heads of local organizations throughout the country asking co-operation in the boycott. This is the telegram to the local leagues:

The situation in the egg market is acute and chaotic. The consumer is being exploited. After careful deliberation the national executive committee of the Housewives' league calls upon its members and the consumers in the United States to protest against the present manipulation by ceasing to use eggs until conditions change. Notify all members. Report to national executive committee. Give wide publicity. Watch daily papers.

The national organization of the Housewives' league claims some 700,000 members.

Representative Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee declares that there is an egg trust and that carloads of eggs are smashed to raise the price, and he has announced his intention of asking an immediate investigation by congress of the cold storage interests. He claims to have information to show that manipulation of markets by cold storage interests has caused the present high prices for food products.

"Food Gamblers." A part of the information which the Tennessee representative has obtained is now in possession of the department of justice.

Mr. McKellar says that he has been informed that one concern had actually destroyed eggs by the carload after its warehouses had become taxed to their capacity, rather than allow the eggs to go on sale at retail and thereby curtail the plan of "cornering" the egg market.

"I believe the federal government can, by a simple law," said Representative McKellar in a recent interview, "largely do away with this unjust use of cold storage. The scheme is simply to prohibit interstate shipments of all kinds of fresh meats, fish, butter, eggs and the like that have been kept in cold storage for a longer period than three months, with fine or imprisonment or both for violation. Food gambling cannot be excused on any ground.

"I find that there are now stored in cold storage warehouses in one state 10,000,000 dozens of eggs and that 90 per cent of these have been in storage since April 1. This is probably relatively the case in every state in the Union, and the cold storage men seem to be simply manipulating the market by creating an artificial scarcity. What is true of the egg situation is also true of fish, meat and butter."

MAETERLINCK ON SPIRITS.

His Opinion About Those Materialized by Mediums.

Maurice Maeterlinck, writing about life after death in the Fortnightly Review, makes these remarks about the so called "spirits" that are materialized by mediums:

"It is a remarkable thing that they appear to be much more interested in events here below than in those of the world wherein they move.

"They seem, above all, jealous in establishing their identity, to prove that they still exist, that they recognize us, that they know everything, and to convince us of this they enter into the most minute and forgotten details with extraordinary precision, perspicacity and prolixity.

"They are also extremely clever at unraveling the intricate family connections of the person actually questioning them, of any of the sitters, or even of a stranger entering the room. They recall this one's little infirmities, that one's maladies, the eccentricities or tendencies of a third.

"They have cognizance of events taking place at a distance, . . . but there comes from it all no breath, no glimmer of the hereafter, not even the something vaguely promised and vaguely waited for.

"We shall be told that the mediums are visited only by inferior spirits, incapable of tearing themselves from earthly cares and soaring toward greater and loftier ideas. It is possible, and no doubt we are wrong to believe that a spirit stripped of its body can suddenly be transformed and reach in a moment the level of our imaginings, but could they not at least inform us where they are and what they feel and what they do?"

SURVEYING FOR ELECTRIC TRUNK LINE TO PITTSSTON.

Isaac B. Sanderoock, county surveyor, is now working for the Wayne Development company between Wilkesville and Pittston. The surveying corps is now at Elmhurst. The route starts from the proposed power house at Hawley, thence to Salem, through Hollisterville to Elmhurst, via of Lake Scranton to Avoca and thence to Pittston. Surveyor Sanderoock told a Citizen representative Monday that three routes are being surveyed, but he thought the above mentioned would be followed. The purpose of the survey is to establish a line to convey electricity to Pittston for commercial use.

That the Wayne Development company means business is evinced by the fact that they are going ahead with so many improvements.

Death of Benjamin Tyler.

Benjamin Tyler, probably the oldest resident of Sullivan county, N. Y., died at his home in Hankins, N. Y., Sunday morning, Nov. 30th, aged 95 years. His death was due to the effects of a hard fall received a few weeks ago.

The deceased was born at Rock Run, Sullivan county, N. Y., in 1818, being a grandson of Capt. Bazateel Tyler who was killed by the Indians in the battle of Minisink.

He married Miss Rosetta Ross in 1839, and to them five children were born, Rufus R., Mrs. Abram Bennett and Miss Loretta, who are dead, and Leonard B. of Salamanca, N. Y., and Miss Nettie, at home. His wife died April 3, 1888.

Benjamin Tyler was probably the best known and most respected man in his vicinity, having been a lifelong Christian and member of the Methodist church. He owned and operated a farm and ferry at Cooley, on the Wayne county side of the Delaware river for many years doing an extensive lumbering business. Many of our older readers will remember him as an experienced raftsmen in the days when they were numerous along the Delaware. Tyler's ferry is a landmark which is still known by that name.

For the last forty-five years of his life he conducted a general store at Hankins, being ably assisted by a faithful daughter, Miss Nettie.

CLEANED FROM THE EXCHANGES

A peculiar state of affairs exists in Cooperstown. Leon H. Ellsworth is the town clerk; he is to be married Saturday of this week to Miss Laura P. Barnum. As clerk he has no legal right to issue his own license and by law no other provision is made other than for the town clerk to issue such papers. To obtain a license it is expected that Mr. Ellsworth will resign as clerk and the successor will issue the license needed.

Perhaps you will not believe it, but they say that one of our town girls recently sent the usual twenty-five cents to find out how to whiten her hands, and in a few days the following answer came: "Soak them in dish water and dry them on the broom handle." Her mother was tickled almost to death.—Sidney Enterprise.

MONA LISA, THE EVIL ONE.

Painting Stolen From Louvre Reviled by London Lecturer.

London.—Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa," the picture which was stolen from the Louvre, is the embodiment of evil, according to Kane S. Smith, a lecturer at the University of London, who spoke on "Beauty and Morality" recently.

He contended that the celebrated painting is "one of the most actively evil pictures ever painted, the embodiment of all evil the painter could imagine put into the most attractive form he could devise."

"It is an exquisite piece of painting," continued Mr. Smith, "but if you look at it long enough to get into its atmosphere I think you will be glad to escape from its influence. It has an atmosphere of undefinable evil."

The audience, composed mainly of women, applauded enthusiastically.

CHEMICALLY TREATED AIR INSTEAD OF SKIN GRAFTING SAVES LIFE OF A VICTIM

With 200 square inches of flesh burned from his body and his life despaired of, Tarry F. Stabler, 23 years old, of Baltimore, Md., after undergoing a new treatment at a hospital here, is now able to walk about the hospital courtyard and enjoyed his Thanksgiving dinner.

Skin-grafting was deemed impracticable and physicians at the hospital decided to try the effect of chemically treated air on the burned surface of the patient. As a result, seventy-five square inches of surface have healed.

Little hope was entertained for Stabler's life when he was brought to the hospital on October 4, unconscious from burns caused by boiling tar. The flesh on his neck, breast and abdomen was baked to a depth of a sixteenth of an inch, and the physicians worked on him for five hours cleaning the burned part.

An experiment was conducted with Stabler's hand and arm, and the result encouraged the physicians to extend the method. A special framework of pliable wood was designed to fit securely about the body of the patient from the mouth to the waist. The burned surface from the chin down was exposed to the air that filtered through the chemically treated stretched on the frame.
