The Citizen Publishes Article From the New York World That * Hawley People Seem to be Specially Interested in Reading-Coal News-Real Estate News-Personal News, and a Batch of Just Plain Every-Day News.

EVERAL people in Hawley were very much interested in an article in the New York World of Friday, Dec. 5. The writer begged to look at a copy. The new would give it to me. He met mis at the train with the paper and pointed out the article. The writer read it in disappointment for not one of the parties did he know, nor had he ever heard of them before. Neither could be understand what was in the article that should be so increasing to Hawley people; but there must be something, and, in order that all who are interested may read the article for themselves we publish it in this department, heading and all, and here it is:

George H. Mulligan, Jr., Who Divorced Former Chorus Girl, Married Miss Gertrude Boucher Canada Oct. 8.—Soon After Bridal Trip She Departed to Jersey—
"Thinks He's the Great I Am," She Says, "And We Did Not Agree on Anything."

No cigars have been named after Goo. H. Mailigan, Jr. He has gained fame in other ways. Not to crowd the first paragraph, the ways are these:

First, he selected a father who is rated as a multi-millionaire. Second, his father bought him a garage full of automobiles. Third, George, Jr., and his friends used the automobiles so much to entertain chorus girls that the customers didn't have a look-in. Fourth, he married a chorus girls that the customers didn't have a look-in. Fourth, he married a chorus girl Bessie Van Ness, in 1999.

Fifth, George, Sr., disinherited his son right after the marriage. Sixth, George tried chauffeuring here and laboring as an electrician's helper in St. Louis. Seventh, he divorced his chorus girl wife. Eighth, in there somewhere George, Jr., faked suicide in a vain attempt to soften his father's heart.

That's all old stuff. The newspapers have been full of it. The real news that The World is printing exclusively this morning is this:

Second Venture Was Brief.

Second Venture Was Brief.

George married Miss Gertrude Boucher, twenty-six, of a wealthy Canadian family, in Tarrytown, Oct 8. He took her on a brief honeymoon to New Orleans and Atlantic City and then they started housekeeping in the Hotel Marseilles. One Hundred and Third street and Broadway. And then—well, the latest Mrs. Mulligan told a World correspondent last night that she had left George three weeks ago, after five weeks of married life, and had flown to Red Bank, N. J. And she will never, never live with him again, she says. Second Venture Was Brief.

"I found him out," said Mrs. Mulligan last night. "He likes to be in the limelight. I'te thinks he's the great 'I am." But he has a fine old father. Even his father has put him out."

"Tush, tush," warned Clarence S. Houghton, a lawyer with offices at No. 111 Broadway, Manhattan, at whose home in Shrewsbury avenue, Red Bank, N. J., Mrs. Mulligan is stopping. "You shouldn't have said that."

Met Him at Counter Club.

Met Him at Country Club.

Met Him at Country Club.

"Well." said Mrs. Mulligan in answer to questions. "I met Mr. Mulligan first in the Forest Hill Club, Pike County. Pa. He appeared to be wealthy and made violent love to me. He told me he was setting a divorce from his actress-wife, and begged me to marry him as soon as he got it.

"At first I refused absolutely. That was in July. 1911. But, after teiling him I couldn't consider it we became engaged in October, 1912. He was a perfect lover and we were married in Tarrytown.

"It was on the trip to New Orleans that I began to suspect him. He insisted on my wearing a certain dress because, he said, it attracted attention to me. I soon discovered that he thought it attracted attention to him. I didn't want attention. Agreed Only in Disagreeing.

Wealth Came in Contracts.

Wealth Came in Contracts.

Mr. Mulligan, Sr., made his money in the contracting business. He also derives a revenue from a line of sightseering automobiles in this city. After George Jr., was disinherited he drove one of these. After that he drove a taxi.

The reporter missed Georga Jr. at the Hotel Latham by seconds. The manager of the Marseilles refused to say where the young man had gone. "It's a good story, though," he said.

When George Jr., was in his heyday on Regadway he was known as "The Millionnire Kid." When he had a hig allowance he placed many chorus girls on the road to success in various Broadway productions. Even the most cynical said that young George gave simply out of sheer good heartedness.

The first Mrs. Mulligan brought an unsuccessful suit for alleged alienation of affection against Mr. Mulligan, Sr., after George, Jr., had sued for divorce.

George has lived only twenty-eight years.

Perhaps You Failed to Note This Rare Bargain Last Week.

That is why we tell you again that C. P. Nell. Hawley's meat man, has a 19-horse power upright engine that he wants to sell for want of use as he now uses electric rower. Mr. Nell used the engine about 8 years and took splendid care of it. The engine is as good as the day it was brand new. It makes no difference if the engine did cost $125 when new, for Mr. Nell will be very reasonable in price as he wants to sell it right away. If you need an engine, go right around and see it. Adv. A Quick Marriage

Leads to Quick Divorce.

Leads to Quick Divorce.

Only a few months ago Floyd Quick and a young girl by the name of Buckingham were married at Diamond Valley and they came to Hawley to live. The marriage was another exemplification of the old saying, "Marry in haste and repent at leisure." This was surely a Quick marriage whether it was a hasty one or not. Last Saturday Mrs. Quick had her husband arrested for non-support. The good 'Squire before whom the case was brought released the arrested man on parole. On Monday Quick was re-arrested on the supposition that he was endeavoring to skip out of town. He was caught at the lower depot and brought back. It is alleged that the matter has been settled by Quick's granting his wife an uncontested divorce, paying her $50, and assuming responsibility for payment of expenses.

The Coal Pocket Situation In the Town of Hawley.

In the Town of Hawley.

Work is being rushed on the Degnan's crossing pockets for retailing coal. They are being constructed in a very substantial manner. Wherever solidity and substantiability are required, concrete is being used. It will be at least a month before the pockets will be completed.

In the meantime it was reported on Tuesday, that another set of pockets at the Eddy will be built on the Millham property right where the late Hon. Jas. Millham had a store. It was told as a fact that H. Von Franck was to build the pockets, and that a contract for their construction had been awarded H. W. Bea.

An Important Purchase

Of Hawley Real Estate.

P. J. Bower has purchased what is known as the old Insulator property which is situated on the Honesdale branch of the Erie railroad. It is by all olds the most valuable factory site in the entire town. It is fronted by the Erie, and is in size 800 feet long and an average of 150 feet in depth. Spurs from the railroad into the rear of the site could be constructed very easily. On the property is a valuable sand bed, and a deposit of gravel. There is a rumor on the streets that Mr. Unser intends putting coal pockets on the property to accommodate the White Mills has pockets, but they were condemned as unsafe several years ago. If Mr. Unger goes into the coal business and H. Von Franck goes into the same line of trade at the Eddy, that will make four places in Hawley where coal will be retailed.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE

Tuesday Evening.

There was a large attendance of young people, both boys and girls, in fact the largest attendance of any of the sessions.

Fred W. Card opened the evening ession with an excellent address the "Call of the Land." The speaker appealed to the young people to stick to the farms and spoke of the many opportunities that the farm offers to them among which are: Healthful employment, independent life and also a continuous life. These things are very seldom found or connected with the life of the average business man in the city. Another thing is the home on the farm. No other occupation can produce the happiness and contentment whic his associated with the home on the farm. It is the ideal home and this thing if no other should induce the young man or the young lady to cling to the farm

Mr. Card was applauded with enthusiasm.
