—Bradford county has another murder case on hand. Samuel Wheeler, a farmer residing about two miles west of Bentley Creek, shot George Kline, a neighbor, through the heart with a shot gun a few mornings since. Wheeler has an ungovernable temper, and getting into a tantrum at about 4 o'clock in the morning, he made it so dangerous for his aged mother and sister, with whom he resided, that they sent for Kline to quiet him. As soon as Kline entered the room Wheeler drew an old shot gun and shot him through the heart. Wheeler served one term of two years in state's prison for assaulting Frank Thomas.

—In a letter to the conference of the International Anti-Vivisection Congress held at Washington, Senator Gal. of New Hampshire, who is a physician, said there was every reason to believe that in some hospitals the pauper children were "innoculated with loathsome diseases." He expressed himself as opposed to vivisection except under strict regulations. The senator said he had learned that school children were taught to inflict needless suffering on dumb animals to observe facts which had been proven a thousand times. Thousands of physicians, he declared, are opposed to vivisection.

DUTY BEFORE SAFETY.

When in 1865 the cholera broke out in Paris, among those who offered their services for the terrible conflict was Louis Pasteur, then professor in the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, and already famous in the scientific world. With two assistants, Pasteur established himself in the attic of one of the hospitals above the cholera ward, and there carried on his experiments with the diseases. One day a friend spoke to him of the work he was doing. "Experiments of that sort require much courage," he said. Pasteur's answer was in three words: "What about duty?" he asked, quietly. It was a grand answer, because the whole man stood behind the words. It was the thing that life offered him; where duty called, no matter what the toll or danger or discomfort, the man obeyed. His genius he never counted his own; it was a gift to be held in trust for the world, and magnificently he fulfilled his trust. The world is his debtor not alone for his discoveries, but for his character.

One may not possess Pasteur's genius, but there is not one who cannot, if he will, meet life with his great question: "What about duty?"

Fleming and Mrs. J. J. McAndrew, both of Scranton, and Mrs. E. F. Riley of Omaha, Neb. The body was taken on Monday over the O. & W. to Pleasant Mt. where the funeral will be held on Wednesday.

TWO ECLIPSES OF SUN AND TWO OF MOON.

There will be four eclipses in 1914, two of the sun and two of the moon, and a transit of the planet Mercury over the sun's disc.

February 24 there will be an annular eclipse of the sun, visible in the Southern Pacific and Antarctic regions.

On the evening of March 11 and morning of March 12, there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, visible throughout North and South America, and partially in Europe and Africa. This eclipse will take place at the moon's descending node, the moon passing from west to east, through the southern part of the world's shadow, leaving only a small portion of her face un eclipsed. The moon will enter the penumbra at 8:41 p. m., March 11, eastern standard time, and the shadow at 9:42 p. m.; middle of eclipse, 11:13 p. m.; moon leaves shadow at 12:44 a. m., March 12, and the penumbra at 1:45 a. m. For central time deduct one hour.

There will be a total eclipse of the sun August 21 at sunrise, visible as a small partial eclipse to the north-eastern part of North America as far south as Washington, also in Europe, northern Africa and the western half of Asia. The path of the total phase passes the Arctic regions between Norway and Sweden, southern Russia and Persia.

September 4 there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, visible to Australia and the greater part of Asia, and in part to the western portions of Africa.

A transit of the planet Mercury across the face of the sun will occur November 7, and will be partly visible here, the sun rising with Mercury on its disc. If one looks at the sun through an opera glass with smoked or stained glass he may observe a small, round black spot on the disc, which is the planet.

The planet Mercury, the star nearest to the sun, will be brightest as an evening star February 15 to 20, and October 17 to 23. As a morning star it will be brightest April 5 to 10 and November 17 to 27, rising before the sun.

Venus will be brightest as an evening star October 20 to 26, and as a morning star December 27 to Jan. 3, 1915. It will be visible for a few days before and after February 11 and November 27, being a morning star until Feb. 11 and after November 27, and an evening star from February 11 to November 27.

Mars will be brightest and an all-night star in January, rising at and near the setting of the sun. It will be visible as an evening star all the year except in December.

Jupiter will be visible in January and December. In February it will be a morning star and it will continue to be until about the middle of May, after which it will become an evening star. It will be at its brightest in July.

Saturn will be a very bright evening star and will be visible nearly all night at the beginning of the year. It will be visible in June, but from July to September will be a morning star and for the remainder of the year an evening star.

Uranus will be brightest in August but scarcely visible to the naked eye. Neptune will be brightest in January, but visible only by means of a telescope.

WISHING YOU ALL A HAPPY NEW YEAR

GIVES NEW CUSTOMS RULES

McAdoo Makes Public Regulations Regarding Personal Belongings.

Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo has made public the new customs regulations regarding the admission of the personal belongings of persons entering the United States. The regulations follow: The exact number of baggage must be furnished passengers. The declaration should be prepared and signed at least one day before the expected arrival of the vessel. The coupon at the bottom of the form must be detached and returned by the passenger and the declaration delivered to the ship's officer designated. The coupon must be presented at the Inspector's desk after the baggage is landed, and an Inspector will then examine the baggage. Passengers must acknowledge in person, on the pier, their signatures to declarations. Residents of the United States, returning, must declare all articles acquired abroad, whether by purchase or gift or otherwise, and whether dutiable or free. Exemption allowed on articles aggregate value of which is not more than $100 if suitable for personal or household use and whether intended for personal use or as gifts, provided the articles are not bought on commission or intended for sale. Articles so exempt, however, must be declared. Articles belonging to one passenger cannot be included in the exemption of another. Use of articles does not exempt from duty, but allowance will be made by appraising officers for depreciation. Passengers must not deduct the $100 exemption in making out their declarations. Wearing apparel, personal and household effects taken out of the United States by residents shall be admitted free of duty. If remodeled or repaired, cost of remodeling must be declared and receipted bill presented.

CHRISTMAS WEDDINGS.

Christmas Day was made doubly happy for several people in that it either marked the anniversary of many happy years or will be known hereafter as the day of much rejoicing. In Honesdale there are quite a few persons who were married upon that glad some day, in fact many couples have been joined together over fifty years. Among this year's Christmas brides are: Roland J. Reynolds and Florence Schoell, both of Honesdale, who were married by Dr. Balta. Richard M. Bryant and Miss Antoinette B. Brown, Honesdale young people, married by Mr. W. H. Swift. Raymond Lockwood, of Honesdale, and Edna Molter of Seelyville, by Rev. A. L. Whittaker. Edward Brehmer and Caroline McCane, at Lakeville, by Rev. Stephen Treat.

POPULAR PLAY THIS TUESDAY EVENING.

Lottie Blair Parker's "Way Down East," unimpaired in any way and seemingly more virile and compelling than in the past, is now in its nineteenth season and is playing to audiences that completely fill the theatre when the company appears. The audiences nightly follow the thread of the famous story with as much interest as if it were all new.

One of the secrets of the longevity of this simple play of a simple people lies in the high standard always maintained in production and presenting company. Considering the wholesomeness of its atmosphere, the richness of its comedy and the genuineness of its pathos, it is not surprising that it has such a strong and lasting hold upon the amusement loving public, and no one is at a loss to explain the perennial popularity of the play after all this time.

Never has the grand old play had a finer presentation. A capacity audience will undoubtedly greet the old favorite at the Lyric Tuesday night. A bargain matinee is announced. Prices, 25c and 50c. Evening prices, same as always, 25c to $1.00.

Samuel Wedge, who has been confined to his bed with pneumonia the past two weeks, is improving rapidly. Wallace Seely is looking after his business during his sickness.

Child Wouldn't Pray.

Pittsburg, Kan.—C. E. Winsby, a painter, was recently convicted in police court of abusing a 3-year-old stepdaughter. He was fined $20 and sentenced to 15 days in jail. Several neighbors testified that Winsby beat the child with a board. Winsby denied most of the charges, but explained that he frequently punished the child because she was reluctant about saying her prayers.
