LOCAL LACONICS.

The town did not lack for politicians Saturday.

Square dealing is the motto at Robinson's shoe store.

The deep holes on Main street have been filled up with stones.

The correct schedule of the B. R. & P. will be found in this issue.

Strawberries! Strawberries! at McKee & Warnick's next Friday and Saturday.

Corwin, the photographer, will soon have the new addition to this gallery completed.

A financial statement of the Winslow township School District will be found in this issue.

Esq. McGaw will hereafter be found in the room next door to Henry A. Reed's shoe store.

Felix Weber has opened a shop in the building formerly occupied by Wiley's meat market.

A patent on a new double-action fishing hook may soon be applied for by a Reynoldsville citizen.

In all probability the Jr. O. U. A. M. will have charge of the Fourth of July celebration at this place.

The young Grangers of Paradise Settlement held an ice cream festival in their hall Saturday evening.

C. H. Gordon, the retired merchant, presented the M. E. church with two very pretty chandeliers last Saturday.

Jasper McIntire, the black smith, had a bandage on his right wrist a few days last week, caused by a kick from a mule.

Reserved seat tickets for the concert in the opera house June 14th, will be checked at H. Alex. Stoke's any time after June 11th.

Three itinerant Italian musicians, with a harp and two violins, made some delightful music on Main Street one day last week.

A social hop was given in the club rooms Wednesday evening. The Italian musicians who were in town that evening, furnished the music.

The ministers of Reynoldsville have been requested by the County Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. to preach a sermon on the use of tobacco.

Bion H. Butler, of the Bradford Era, and Miss Anna Schwem are to be married at the home of the bride's parents in Luthersburg to-day at 11 A. M.

There will be communion services in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. Dr. Conway, of Brookville, will preach in the church Friday evening.

If the people are to be persuaded to remain in Reynoldsville on the Fourth of July the energetic citizens must bestir themselves or the day will dawn and nothing done.

Jas. McCoy caught a large snapping turtle at Falls Creek Monday and brought it to Reynoldsville for Hon. S. B. Elliott to have turtle soup. The Hon. is quite an epicure.

A quiet wedding will occur at the residence of the bride's mother on Main street, on Tuesday, June 21st. The soon to be bride lives between Arnolds' corner and the school house.

Esquire Neff is now comfortably settled in his office on Main street, in room formerly occupied by Esquire Kerr, and is ready to dispense legal advice to all who have any use for it.

There will be a special meeting in Centennial Hall on Thursday, June 9, to make arrangements for celebrating the 4th of July. All interested are invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. E. L. and Mrs. E. M. Evans take this method of giving expression of their heart-felt thankfulness to all who were so kind and thoughtful and assisted them in the time of their bereavement.

The greatest game of ball—so far as blowing is concerned—of the season will be played at this place this week. The business men of the south side of Main street will play those of the north side.

The officials of the B. L. & Y. C. M. Co. met at the company office in this place on Wednesday of the last week elected directors for ensuing year. The following were elected: Geo. H. Lewis, F. A. Bell, A. G. Yates, S. B. Elliott and Harry Yates.

A swarm of bees invaded the Commercial hotel bar-room at DuBois one day last week and had full sway for a short time. They imbibed so freely of beer and other intoxicants that many of them died in their debauchery. The liquid destroyer "gets there" in due time, but does not always kill on the first drunk.

The Alumni Association of the Central State Normal School, of Lock Haven, of which Prof. Will H. Stamey is president, and Will J. Weaver Chairman, have issued circulars announcing the Commencement Exercises of the school to be held from the 26th to 30th of this month at the Normal in Lock Haven.

The musical entertainment in the Opera House last evening did not receive the patronage that it deserved. Prof. Jaquay assisted with the music on Decoration Day and he thought the kindness should have been reciprocated by a large attendance at his concert. Reynoldsville never was much on musical entertainments.

Hon. S. B. Elliot, general manager of the B. L. & Y. C. M. C., informs us that he issued orders almost two years ago forbidding any one soliciting subscriptions of any nature in the mines save for charitable purposes, and that his son, W. C. Elliott, solicited subscriptions in the mines the last time without his knowledge or consent.

A lecture on "Turkey in Asia and Her People," by Rev. Messiah Mesropian, a native missionary, will be delivered this evening in the Baptist church. The lecturer will appear in Turkish costume, and deliver a most interesting and instructive lecture concerning a people unto whose ancestors Paul preached. Admission free. A collection will be taken.

Lee N. Young, a Chinese laundryman of DuBois, was in Reynoldsville last week looking for a room to open a laundry. He failed to find a suitable place. Lee outstrides the general run of Chinamen in becoming Americanized. He dresses like an American, keeps his cue neatly done up under his hat, sports a gold ring and can use the English language liberally.

If Reynoldsville is to celebrate the Glorious Fourth it is high time that she awake from her lethargy and commence to prepare her decoration attire and lay plans for a good time in general. We understand that a number of our live business men held a meeting last evening to consider the matter. There is no excuse for a town like this to be drained of her citizens on the Fourth. Of course not.

Wm. C. Bond, of Snyder township, Republican candidate for Congress, was in Reynoldsville several days last week looking after his political interests in this section and endeavoring to impress the people with the thought that they should support him at the primaries next week. Mr. Bond was a candidate for Senate four years ago. He is a well educated man and is not afraid of work, be it on the farm or any other place.

The Titusville Express, on the A. V. Ry, run into a washout near Franklin last Thursday evening, throwing the engine and baggage car over the embankment. The engineer, Alex. P. Reed, and fireman, Frank Shearer, were so badly injured that they died on Friday. Mr. Reed has been hauling the pay car over the Low Grade every month for almost two years. He made the trip last month.

It was only through the kindness of the Punksutawney News that the Spirit of that place made its appearance last week. The editor of the Spirit gets real eloquent in his description of their trouble caused by the inability of their engine to do the work required of it. For this act of kindness on the part of the News the Spirit has made this promise: "We will never refer to the News as 'our measly contemporary' as long as we live."

John W. Phillippi, the Democrat candidate for Assembly, was in Reynoldsville Monday. Mr. Phillippi is giving himself no unbusiness about political affairs at present, as he is the only candidate for Assembly on the Democratic ticket and will, of course, get the nomination. After the primaries are over and the fight lies between the Democrat and Republican candidates for the general results, then the Winslow township aspirant expects to get a move on himself.

Agents of various kinds are not uncommon in Reynoldsville. But the man who goes around town denouncing the physicians of this place in attempting to sell a medical work he may be agent for, will find it up hill business. Notwithstanding any attack made on the physicians of Reynoldsville by some "smarty" that happens to tarry here for a few days, they are good physicians. Many agents have such large knowledge bumps and are so everlasting smart that one town will not hold them long, and, hence, they travel from place to place to enlighten the people.

A VERY GOOD ENTERTAINMENT.

A Good House Well Pleased—A Program of Solos, Duets, Trios and Quartets. (DuBois Daily Courier.)

The concert at the opera house last night, given by the Methodist choir, was attended quite well but the net financial result was not learned. So far as the entertainment was concerned it was entirely satisfactory to the audience; better than a considerable number who were heard to express themselves had expected. The choir had taken a deep interest in their work and the result of diligent application can not be short of perfect satisfaction on the part of the members as well as the audience. One lady of fair capacity for judging, who is partial to musical entertainments, said that to her it was the best performance by home talent that she had attended in the town. W. R. Chesnut, the leader, is rather a magnetic individual and is responsible for much of the enthusiasm displayed in preparation and execution of the program. L. E. Weber, of the Reform church choir, assisted. The solos were by Mrs. Whitmarsh, Alice Trezise, W. R. Chesnut, Ollie Blair and Agnes Coyne; the duets by Mrs. Brown and Ethel Mitchell, F. H. Beck, and Alice Trezise and W. R. Chesnut, and a trio by Ollie Blair, Mrs. Whitmarsh and Annie Rowe. There were also four pieces of four parts on the program and four pieces by the choir.

At the Reynolds Opera House Tuesday, June 14th. Hon. W. O. Smith, editor of the Punksutawney Spirit, and candidate for the second term for Assembly, devoted a column and a half in his paper last week as a refutation of a base political scheme concocted for the purpose of defeating him for the nomination for Assembly. The report that is being quietly circulated by these tricksters is that because Mr. Smith acted as editor for the Bradford Era a few months last year, that he is disqualified, under the Constitution of the State, to represent the people of Jefferson county in the Legislature. Their political rigmareole will not go down with the intelligent voters of this county. It was fully understood by Mr. Smith's friends that his connection with the Era was only temporary, as he fully expected to return to the county of his nativity. The political gun of treason has been fired almost at the last moment, yet it will, doubtless, miss its mark. No man, be he Democrat, Republican or Prohibitionist, should be misrepresented to the people, in character or business relations, when seeking a public office. THE STAR disapproves of any such actions and will gladly aid in setting aright all such attempts to hoodwink the people. Mr. Smith's connection with the Era does not disqualify him as a candidate for assembly.

An Exciting Runaway.

A large iron gray horse, owned by a DuBois Company created quite an excitement on Main street last Thursday afternoon. David Grant was driving the steed and was on his way home when the runaway occurred. The horse was a little excited and the driver turned down Sixth street to let a conveyance pass and then turned to drive up Main street just as a little girl came along with an umbrella, at which the horse became frightened and made a quick turn, throwing the driver out of the cart. David hung on to the lines and was dragged some distance on his back before relinquishing his hold. The horse came down Main street at a reckless speed and all attempts to stop him were unsuccessful until Hotel Belnap was reached, there he was shied off and ran onto the sidewalk in front of Centennial Hall and the cart struck one of the iron posts and unhitched the beast in a jiffy. The only damage done was to demolish the cart and disarrange some of the horse's gearing.

School Directors Meeting.

The school directors of Reynoldsville borough met in the private office of Seelye, Alexander & Co's bank Monday and settled up their accounts for the past year. A new law has gone into effect requiring school directors to be sworn in when entering upon their duties. Dr. Alexander, the re-elected director, and Jos. M. Cathers, the new one, took the oath of office. Dr. J. B. Neale is the retiring director. Prof. Will H. Stamey was re-elected principal, for term of seven months with a possibility of making it eight months. The salaries to be paid per month this year are as follows: Principal, $75.00; sub-principal, $50.00; and all primary rooms $45. David Wheeler was elected president of the new board, Dr. J. C. King secretary and Dr. W. B. Alexander re-elected treasurer. The board adjourned to meet July 7th to elect teachers for the coming term of school.

Good Advice.

We received the following article through the mail the other day: "The way to save money. From each pay deposit with the Reynoldsville Building and Loan Association a certain amount, say two, five or ten dollars, which at once begins to draw interest, daily adding to your capital. But do not be tempted by every stove-pipe hat gentleman that comes to town representing some scheme on paper how they can make money for you. They must be paid and you are the one who does the paying. Patronize home."

"Muz" Surprised.

A pleasant surprise, indeed, was the home-gathering of Mrs. Amelia Reynolds' family for dinner last Monday. "Muz," as she is familiarly known, passed her seventy-fifth birthday on Sunday, June 5th. She is well known in this section. Before her daughters were wooed and won, her house was somewhat of a resort for the young people. Miss Ida Reynolds, at the suggestion of her brother-in-law, J. S. Morrow, invited the boys and girls—older grown—to again meet in the home circle and enjoy, with the mother, a meal as of other days, minus the family disagreements, hair-pulling and other youthful pranks, that the stubborn realities of life have robbed them of. "Muz" was ignorant of the plans being laid to spring a surprise upon her, and was not apprised of the re-union until Mrs. Chas. Montgomery arrived on the one o'clock train. This family, like many others, have stood beside new made graves, a father, two boys and two girls have long since mouldered in the dust, but two boys and six girls seated themselves around the table, with the mother at the head, and partook of the good things provided, while the memories of by gone days flashed through their minds in panoramic views. The children are: David Reynolds, Albert Reynolds, Mrs. C. C. Gibson, of Reynoldsville, Mrs. L. L. Seelye, of Spivey, Kan., Mrs. J. S. Morrow, Miss Ida Reynolds, of Reynoldsville, Mrs. Frank Miller, of Punksutawney, Mrs. Chas. Montgomery, of Sligo. The children all gave their mother a present. David says this is the first time he has ever given his mother a present and he thought if he ever intended to it was about time he was doing it. After dinner the family gathered in a group outside the house and Corwin, the photographer, took their picture.

Experience With a Woodsman.

Dr. J. S. McCreight tells of a funny experience with a woodsman which occurred sometime ago. He (the woodsman) was a tall, rawbone, sandy-haired son of the forest, togged out in the usual spiked shoes, overalls, red flannel under shirt and a heavy woolen top shirt open down the front in close imitation of a ball dress. He said he had the "hoppin' toothache" and he wanted it pulled, (the tooth not the ache). He sank down into that "gol darn'dst looking chair" as though he expected to be electrocuted the next minute, and told the Dr. to "hitch on and snake it out almighty quick." The Dr. picked up two pair of forceps and laying one of them in the woodsman's open shirt front, he yanked out the aching molar with the other pair, pair No. 1 in the meantime slipping unnoticed down inside the shirt front. The woodsman said he felt a "mighty sight better" and after paying for the work started out through the front room in which several ladies and gentlemen were sitting, suddenly as he reached the middle of the room, he let out a yell and frantically grabbed his pants leg at the knee while a look of awful terror overspread his countenance that suggested an advanced stage of delirium tremens. "There's something in there!" he gasped trembling like a leaf and gazing around helplessly for some means of deliverance. The doctor took in the situation and as soon as he recovered from the first spasm of laughter, told the fellow to let go and the missing pair of forceps dropped to the floor. The woodsman wanted to lick the crowd but finally calmed down and started home after buttoning his shirt collar tight around the neck.

Are You One of Them?

It is not an uncommon thing to see people, especially ladies, use a pin to pick their ears. This is a dangerous practice and frequently serious results occur therefrom. We clip the following from the Punksutawney News of last week. Mrs. Nancy Coy, east end, while probing her right ear with a pin the other day made a mistake while going down stairs and the head of the pin penetrated the membrane tympani, or drum-head. She was unable to remove it, and finally called on Dr. Walter who took it out but it proved quite painful, and will likely leave quite a defect in the hearing of that ear in the future.

Borough Dads.

The borough dads meet in council Monday evening and transacted some important business. Orders to the amount of $304.45 were presented and disposed of. The council decided to build a structure on the vacant lot back of the Reynoldsville Hardware Company's store, facing Grant Street, to be used as a lock-up, Burgess' department, and fire department. The building is to have a large tower upon it. Work will begin on this immediately. The rink will be torn down when the new building is completed. Thus Reynoldsville will be relieved of an eyesore.

Harry Shaner Dead.

Harry Shaner died at 10 o'clock last evening. He had been sick about ten days. A stroke of paralysis was the immediate cause of his death. He was a young unmarried man and has been an employee of the tannery for a number of years. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made yet, but it will likely occur to-morrow afternoon. You buy the best shoes for the least money at Robinson's.

BETWEEN THE DRAW-HEADS.

A Reynoldsville Boy Meets Death on the Railroad.

The people of this earth are sure of one thing, and that is death. When disease enters a home, and after a long struggle, claims an inmate for its victim, then follows deep grief by those who are bereft, but when the icy fingers of death touches the heartstrings, without a moments warning, of one who is in the vigor of young man-hood and who, a few hours before as he left the parental roof, gave the parents no reasons for a thought but that a long life was in store for him, is suddenly hurled into the vast eternity, and in the quietness of the early morning hours the parents are called out of bed to hear the awful news that their son is in death's embrace, ah! what pen can express the anguish of those parents, or who can conceive, for a moment, the grief of their hearts, save those who have passed through similar deep, dark valleys in life's journey. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Evans, of Reynoldsville, have tasted this cup of sorrow even to its bitterest dregs during the past week. Gerald G. Evans, conductor of the night crew on the R. & F. C. R. R. was killed in the Reynoldsville yard at 3:15 Thursday, morning, June 2nd. In attempting to make a coupling between the engine and car in some way—it is thought he fell—he was caught between the draw-heads and never uttered a word afterwards. One of the brakemen heard his lamp drop and—as is the custom with railroad men when a lamp drops or goes out to run quickly to see what the difficulty is—he ran to the place and saw a heartickening sight. A signal was given and the engine moved ahead, but Gerald only moaned two or three times and then yielded to the monster death. The young man was caught across the left breast and his heart was crushed. His remains were taken to the undertaking rooms of Priestner Bros., where they were kept until Thursday evening. The funeral service were held in the M. E. church at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. P. Murray. This funeral was the most largely attended of any ever held in Reynoldsville. About 1,000 people viewed the remains in the church. The mortal remains of Gerald were deposited beneath the sod of Pleasant Avenue cemetery. The crew of which he was conductor acted as pall-bearers. Beautiful flowers that had been plucked from the parent stem were placed upon the casket, giving their life as a token of the esteem in which the young man was held by his associates. The cross was presented by the employees of the Company store, the anchor by his crew, and the wreath by his aunt, Mrs. Anna Hendricks.

$75.00 for Sheep.

The school board and auditors of Winslow township met at the school house in West Reynoldsville on Monday and settled all their accounts for the year. The board expended $75.00 for sheep that had been killed in the township by dogs during the past year. The dog tax of townships or boroughs all goes into the hands of the school directors, and no portion of it to the State, as we mentioned in THE STAR last week. If any sheep have been "necked" by canines, the dog tax fund goes to pay for the sheep. When this fund, after the sheep are paid for, amounts to $100.00 it is then used for school purposes. After paying their $75.00 sheep bill the directors had something over $100.00 to apply for school purposes. If a few dogs of Winslow township were sent to "dog-land" the township would have a larger school fund.

A Big Throw.

Several exchanges have been commenting on the distance some of their ball sports can toss a base ball. Alex. Whitehill, accompanied by Fred Reed of THE STAR office, went to the ball ground Monday afternoon and threw a six ounce ball a distance of 361 feet before it touched the ground. When any of the chaps who have been throwing a ball about 300 feet—and think they are doing big things—out do this, perhaps Alex's muscle will be in good condition to even do better. Alex. is no "slouch" in handling a base ball.

Jefferson County's Share.

(Brookville Republican.) Jefferson county's share of the $5,000,000 appropriated by the State for school purposes for the year 1892 will be $42,759.08. Washington township gets the largest sum of any district in the county, her quota being $3,886.88, while Brookville borough comes in next for $3,357.35.

It will Pay You.

A. O. McWilliams, county treasurer, will be at Hotel McCounell, Thursday, June 16th, to receive county and State taxes for the borough, and the same place Friday, June 17th, to receive taxes for Winslow township. All who pay their taxes at that time will save ten per cent.
