Sixty-two excursion tickets were sold here Saturday evening for Niagara Falls. A few Brookvilleites took in the excursion. The train arrived at this place at 3:30 Monday morning and the county seat people could not gain admittance any place, consequently they sought the soft side of the boards around the A. V. Weaver, 18 months, R. J. Wiseman, 6 months. WILL BOND THE BOROUGH.

The New Ballot System Was Tried by

345 People Saturday. On Saturday, June 25th, the citizens of Reynoldsville voted on the question of bonding the borough for the purpose of building a new school house. There are 669 voters in the borough, but only 345 found their way to the voting place Saturday. The vote was as follows: For bonding, 293; against, 25. The result was the only wise decision for the citizens, of a town with as bright a future as Reynoldsville has, to make. The bonds are not to exceed $34,000, but will not be over $25,000. The new ballot system was used and as the people are not familiar with it. 27 votes were thrown out by not being marked properly. Some made the x, which designated what they were voting for, on the left hand side, while others crossed out what they did not want, thus making their ballots of no consequence. Thirteen booths were used. It will be an utter impossibility for the voters of Reynoldsville to east their votes at one place under the new system without more assistance on the election board. County Commissioner Mulhollan came up from Brookville Saturday morning and got the new system in working order.

A side election was held at the same place, the Burn's House, for the purpose of getting an expression from the people in regard to the location of the proposed new school building. There were 313 votes east for location as follows: Old location, 281; Old Sandy Lick, 19; Corner Jackson and Sixth streets, 13.

Not in a Bottle.

Rather a pleasant fellow, with black curly hair, who did not want to be classed among the street fakirs who travel through the country, opened his "bazoo" and notion box near Hotel Belnap one evening last week and done considerable talking and sold some goods. He apologized for his appearance on the street and said he had come here to open a store but was unable to secure a room, hence his appearance on the street to make a little money to keep up with his expenses. He had a neat little street lamp with him that he carried to use in cases of emergency. Before talking many minutes he said he had been in that business for nineteen years. He claimed to have the genuine old devil in a bottle and has had his majesty there for seventeen years. The people of Reynoldsville know that the fakir is mistaken because his satanic majesty is raised to often in this place for the citizens to believe he is traveling just with this especial store-room-hunting merchant. No one hearing the fakir talk a few minutes would dispute his claim of seventeen year's association with the master of the infernal regions.

Boy Drowned.

Last Thursday afternoon Reynoldsville citizens were startled by the announcement that a boy had been drowned in the Sandy Lick near Soldier Run. John Francis Dacy, son of David Dacy, was the youthful victim. He, in company with George White, a little lad who makes his home with his grandfather, John Cottle, went to Sandy Lick to paddle around in the water, as they could not swim. The creek was high at the time and Johnny got into a deeper hole than he had expected to find and the little chap sank beneath the water. His companon says he came up three times. The alarm was given and assistance was soon upon the scene but too late to save the boy's life. After dragging the stream an hour and a half the body was recovered. The funeral services were held in the Catholic church at 9 o'clock Saturday morning and the remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery. The boy was 10 years and 8 months old.

This is another warning to boys who become reckless about playing along the creek, and especially little fellows who cannot swim.

An Axe Dent.

Charles Burket, of Camp Run, met with an accident Friday evening in which he very nearly lost all the fingers on his right hand. He was coming home from work carrying an axe with him and he tripped and fell, the sharp tool coming down upon his hand. The end of the index finger was cut off and the other members of the hand had to receive some stitches to hold them in their respective places. The young man was fortunate in not being left with four stubs. Dr. Bowser, who dressed the wound, has had four injured hands to fix up in as many weeks.

Arm Fractured.

Herschel Barry, a lad about eight years old, while playing with some other boys Monday evening, attempted to jump off of a shed eight or nine feet high and fell and broke his left arm in two places, at the elbow and wrist.

Cut His Foot.

John Fuller made an ugly gash in his left foot with an ax one day last week while chopping wood. The great toe was nearly severed from the foot.

Excursion Rates.

The Allegheny Valley Railway will sell excursion tickets on July 2nd, 3rd and 4th, good for the round trip until July 6th, inclusive.

Robbers Frustrated Again.

Three robbers attempted to rob Jas. B. Arnold's house early Tuesday morning. About 2 o'clock Jim heard some one tiptoe around on his front porch and he got up and looked out of the window, which was raised, and just as he stuck his head out he heard a low whistle and in a second a revolver was fired and Jim discovered a man in his front yard who was making a rapid exit. He emptied a chamber of his revolver just as the robber leaped the fence. Policeman Mineer was the fellow who had fired the first shot. One man was stationed outside while the other two were preparing to enter the house. The policeman noticed the man on the corner and quietly tried to get near him, but the villain was on the alert and when he spied Mincer he gave the warning whistle and jumped about 10 feet and ran like a deer. The policeman shot at him. twice but was not close enough to hit his mark. Two of the robbers ran up Grant street and the other one ran through Motter's and Stoke's gardens and fell headlong in jumping from Stoke's garden to the street. Mrs.E.C. Sencor heard the confusion and get up in time to see the fellow go through the gardens. A dose of cold lead some night will end the career of some of the house-breakers who, doubtless, reside not more than a hundred miles from Reynoldsville. Sometime during Monday night an entrance was made into the Methodist church through a window and the front door pried open but nothing taken The following Sunday after the birthday box was robbed the Children's Day exercises were held in the church and a birthday offering was asked for from all members of the Sunday school and church which, with the collection, amounted to almost $30. No doubt the contemptible thieves thought they would find the money in the birthday

A Pleasant and Profitable Convention,

The county convention of the Y. P. S. C. E. was held in the Beechwoods Presbyterian church last Thursday. The various societies of the county were represented. Forty-two Reynoldsvilleites were in attendance, twenty-two from the Presbyterian Endeavor, this being the largest delegation from any one society, ten from the Baptist Endeavor and ten visitors. Notwithstanding the storm before the morning light made its appearance over the eastern hill tops, the day was an ideal one for such a gathering in a nook of the Beechwoods settlement. The program prepared for the occasion was carried out in detail. The address of the day was made by Rev. Spooner, of Altoona, in whose church the Endeavor State Convention will be held this fall. Ridgway and Penfield were admitted into the Association. The next convention will be held in DuBois in December. The young people returned home with increased enthusiasm and zeal for their work. The convention was not only profitable but also an enjoyable affair. Dinner and supper were served in the pretty grove on the church property where over 500 people did ample justice to the "lay out" while the young people made the welkin ring with their shouts of laughter and glee. The long tables were covered with unbleached muslin and a bountiful supply of good things were placed thereon. Visiting delegates carried baskets with them, but the generous people of Beechwoods, to prepare edibles to please the most fastidious epicure, prepared tempting supplies of the choicest kinds. Some of the Reynoldsville people faired so sumptuously that they might justly be called gourmands.

Drown the Foggies.

The sprightly Eccning Express, of Lock Haven, got out a special boom edition last Saturday, in which the bright prospects for that old staid town were portrayed in an excellent manner. Lock Haven, no doubt, has many advantages and should be a live town. We mentioned several weeks ago the energy and enterprise of the Express, and their special edition is another proof of the fact that it means to do its part in making that town a veritable hive of industry. Yet the Express may issue special editions until their press is sold for old iron, the office yields to the ravishings of time and the editor becomes as old as Mathuselah, and still if the moneyed men keep their vaults locked and discourage every laudable enterprise that may come their way, the town will merely be a place where the inhabitants eke out a miserable existence. A newspaper is the life of a town, but when it booms the people must push with their capital, and then the delightful hum of industry will continually be heard in their midst. The worst curse to any town's business outlook is a lot of old foggies, who are satisfied with a living, afraid to risk a penny and utter their benediction of failure upon any enterprise that may necessitate an outlay of cash. Deliver Reynoldsville from any such town destroyers. We, with our friend in the eastern valley, want live business men who are not satisfied with a mere living, but look well to the future.

ANSWERED AN ADVERTISEMENT.

Robert M. Yeany, a young man who was reared on a farm near Summerville, and who is well known in this place, had an experience with city life during the

A Country Boy's Short Experience With City Business Life

month of roses that has lead him to believe that "all that glitters is not gold." The young man saw an advertisement in a newspaper offering $100 per month, expenses and 10 per cent. of sales to any one who had $1,000 to invest in the business of a book concern. Robert is an energetic chap and being anxious to grasp as much filthy lucre, "the root of all evil," as possible, he answered the advertisement and opened a communication with Mason & Co., of Chicago, who were the agents for a St. Louisfirm. Inquiry was made of Dunn's agency at Pittsburg and the St. Louis firm was highly recommended by them. Everything indicated a favorable impression of its being a square busi-Robert went to Chicago, met Mr. Mason, was taken to that gentleman's large book store, treated very nicely and entertained at Mr. Mason's home during his stay in Chicago, which was only over night. He gave Mason & Co. a check for $400, paid their agent, who came to Pittsburg with him, $100 and was to pay $200 more when the books arrived. They asked $1,000 but as Robert was not in a financial condition to pay over $700, they said they liked him and accepted the $700, giving him the Pittsburg agency. Mr. Yeany and his assistant rented a room in the Penn building, porchased a type writer, some furniture and got their business in working order, minus the books they were to handle, which were to have been shipped by Mason & Co. The Yeany Publishing Co. advertised for agents who had $600 to invest, offering to pay a salary of $65 per month and expenses. A gentleman who had communication with the new company looked upon the concern with a suspicious eye. He promised to call on Tuesday of last week at a certain hour, but instead of going himself a detective called to transact business with them. The surroundings indicated that it was a swindling scheme and the young proprictor and his assistant were escorted to the station house and placed behind the bars for safe keeping until an investigation was made of their business. Mr. Yeany thought the business was straight and that they would soon be released, but had it not been for J. Van Reed, book-keeper for Yeany's uncle, Solomon Shaffer, of Reynoldsville, the young man would have rosticated in the work house for about sixty days. Mr. Reed was heard in the case and Yeany was released, but his assistant, who was an old employee of Mason & Co., was sentenced to the work house for 30 days. He paid $50 and costs and thus gained his liberty. During their confinement in the station house four boxes, weighing 1000 pounds, arrived in the city for the Yeany Publishing Co., and a bill of lading for $200 sent to a Pittsburg bank. Yeany did not lift the bill of lading, but is waiting for Mr. Mason to come to the Smoky City, get the books from the freight depot and remove the fraudulent aspect of the Yeany Publishing Co. There is no doubt but Yeany is perfectly innocent of any swindle being connected with the business, and if there is, he is

The pastors of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist churches gave their congregations quite a surprise Sunday evening by exchanging pulpits unannounced. Rev. Murray preached in the Presbyterian church, Rev. Furbay in the Baptist and Rev. Derr in the Methodist. It was so arranged that the preachers did not enter the churches until the second bell rang. It was a complete surprise all around. Some people who had friends visiting them went to one church in the morning and took their friends to another church in the evening to hear that pastor and heard the same man that they heard in the morning. One gentleman was requested by his wife to attend another church in the evening from their accustomed one, but he would not go, and went to his own church and heard the very man he refused to go with his wife to hear. Such exchanges will go along way in keeping churches in harmony with each other.

Gone to Kentucky. Frank Ruster and wife, who have been in Reynoldsville seven or eight years, left Tuesday morning for Middlesborough, Ky., where Mr. Ruster will take charge of a loft in Hall & Vaughan's tannery at that place. They are a very pleasant couple and have made a host of friends who were sorry to see them leave here. The Rebekah's held a social at M. I. Winslow's on Jackson street Saturday evening in honor of the Mr. and Mrs. Ruster. After lodge a number of the Odd Fellows attended the social, which was an enjoyable affair. Mr. Ruster is an Odd Fellow and his wife is a member of the Rebekah lodge. On Monday evening a number of their friends met at the residence of John Orr, where they were stopping, and gave them a final social.
