One of the bright legal lights of Lock Haven and a prominent lady of the same place, have given the gossip mongers of that staid old town a sweet morsel to roll around with their tongues. A farmer of Young township had forty-five sheep killed, out of a flock of fifty-one, in two nights by dogs. ### A Small Blaze.

About two o'clock Monday morning an ice house and barn, combined, belonging to J. D. Woodring at the tannery was destroyed by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown. There was some furniture stored away in the barn. Mr. Woodring's loss amounts to one hundred dollars or more.

Thigh Broken.

Charles William Minnich, a lad about nine years old, living with his parents near Peter Baum's, was sitting overhead in the barn watching a thrashing machine work Monday afternoon and lost his equilibrium and fell to the barn floor. His left thigh was broken and his chin badly hurt, as a result of the fall.

Co., had dropped dead from heart trouble, and afterwards it was reported that his death was the result of a sun-stroke. We are glad to state that Mr. Tovey is enjoying his usual health. He is subject to epileptic fits and had an attack Friday afternoon.

Preparing for a Big Time.

The Knights of the Golden Eagle are commencing to make preparations for a big time at this place on the 13th of September, it being the occasion of the third annual reunion of the North-western Association of the above named lodge. The Reynoldsville Castle will offer, as a prize, a fifty dollar silk banner to the Castle that has the largest percentage of membership in the parade. Reynoldsville can look for a large crowd on that day, as the Eagles will be well represented.

Rattle Snakes.

C. Mitchell, the attorney, has a large rattie snake on exhibition in a box in his office window. His snakeship has eleven rattles in his possession. The reptile was captured last week in Clearfield county where Dr. Neale and Cam. Mitchell and son, James, were fishing. Rattle snakes were not as numerous as trout. They got a snake for every hundred trout. Two of the serpents were killed and two captured. One is on exhibition at Hotel Pantal in Punnxutawney. It has nine rattles.

Of Course We Will.

Last Wednesday morning just as the force of this office were busy making up the town mail, Miss Eleanor E. Reed stepped into the office carrying a tray that was covered with a pure white linen napkin. She asked if we would accept a treat and at the same time raised the napkin and exposed to view large bananas, coconut cake and ice cream. It was a tempting "lay out" and was immensely enjoyed by the printers. Miss Reed watched us devour the treat and no doubt thought it was "blessed to give." We all joined heartily in expressing our thanks to Miss Eleanor, and hope her Sunday school class will hold another picnic soon.

Death and a Consumptive.

Emma, a six month old daughter of Charles Arnold, died at three o'clock Monday morning, after an illness of three or four days. The little remains were taken to Brookville on the morning train Tuesday and buried in the Catholic cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Arnold is not expected to live. The dread destroyer, consumption, is rapidly sapping her vital power. The doctors have abandoned all hope of her recovery. The mother could not follow the remains of her babe to the cemetery.

An Upset.

On Monday a hack load of berry pickers were dumped into the road several miles from town on their way to the berry patch by the carelessness of the driver, who ran the hack into a fence corner. There were four or five grown people and two children in the hack, all of whom escaped injury but two. Mrs. Monroe Fetterhoff was injured in the side and her face bruised, while Mrs. Aaron Fry received a sprained hand and wrist, little finger on left hand dislocated and her face badly bruised.

Lost a Good Horse.

H. Alex. Stoke lost a valuable horse on Thursday. The animal took sick Wednesday and on Thursday morning Mr. Stoke thought the indications were sufficiently strong that the horse's days of usefulness were o'er, that he had the beast lead out to the horse graveyard on the hill west of town where it died several hours afterwards. Funeral expenses were saved by the horse walking to his grave. Alex. says that $250.00 was the amount of money that would have been required to part with the animal.

A Punnxutawney Broker.

A Punnxutawney clothier was summoned before a magistrate of that borough by information of Supt. Robinson, of the Walston and Adrian mines, charged with false pretense. The clothier has been procuring employment at the mines for Hungarians at ten dollars a head, claiming that the money went to the superintendent, which was false. Mr. Robinson, on getting an inkling of the brokerage business, had the man arrested. He admitted that he had taken money from Hungarians, but only where he got them a job in return for the cash.

Oil City Relief Fund.

Stewart; Phillippi, Homer Brumbaugh; Panoast, James Waite.

The directors had good material to select from this year. Grant Lucas the young man selected as principal of the Ohiotown school, taught in the borough school several years ago.

Cut His Windpipe.

William Buzzard, aged 27 years, who was working on a bark contract for his father, Samuel Buzzard, in the Beechwoods, narrowly escaped instant death last Monday morning. He had been to Reynoldsville on Saturday and purchased a pair of shoes, having nails put in the heels, but not in the soles of them. He had a log partly peeled and his double bit ax was sticking in it. He started to walk over the log and when he raised his heel off the peeled timber his foot slipped and he fell upon the ax, cutting 4 inch into and completely through the upper end of the breast bone penetrating the windpipe and extending 3 inches up along the neck in the median line, severing none of the large blood vessels, but barely missing the innominate and exposing to view the right internal jugular vein. The young man also had several teeth knocked loose. Drs. J.B. Neale and J.C. King were summoned and dressed the wound. They think he will get well unless blood poison sets in. Mr. Buzzard can congratulate himself on an almost miraculous escape from being ushered into the mysterious eternity.

A Sabula Cow.

A Prescottville man was accused of stealing a cow, and thereby hangs a tale. The gentleman whose bovine had been stolen lives at Sabula, six miles east of DuBois. He came within the jurisdiction of Winslow township last Thursday and employed the constable to invite the gentleman to accompany him to DuBois, there to give an account of the whys and wherefores that the Sabula man's cow was found in his possession. Ed. McKee, the constable called on the Prescottville citizens and read the warrant to him. The man said he would go along but wanted to step into the house to get his coat. The constable granted the request and was surprised to see his man making quick steps through the back yard. The constable followed, but not until a mile of a run had been made did he get his man. The prisoner was taken to DuBois and released under $200 bail. He claims he bought the cow from a man named Jones for ten dollars and a watch. There are so many Jones in the country that it will be hard to get the guilty man. Perhaps the Prescottville citizen was running to "Davy Jones" when the constable was after him. The Sabula man drove his cow home with him.

The Ability to Belie.

A DuBoisite deliberately lied on a respectable citizen of that place in the most slanderous manner. The father of the lie had the alternative of a prosecution for malicious slander or the publication of an article acknowledging his statement was entirely false. He wisely made an acknowledgment in the Courier Monday morning that he was a base liar. The fellow may thank his stars he got off so easily. People who carelessly trifle with a persons good name should be taught a most severe lesson. It is too often the case that slanderous lies are told that have their origin in the brain of some vile man or woman, unworthy the respect of decent people. You do not always have to seek the offscouring of a town to find those who are in possession of large propensities for prevarication. No difference whether the one who handles the truth carelessly be dressed in the latest fashion or in common garb, they are soon labeled by those with whom they associate. Those who hold their heads above the common class are not as often told of their falsehoods as are those of the poorer class, because their friends are afraid of offending them, yet they are soon "spotted" and little weight given to what they may say, though the very people with whom they are conversing may smile and bow and apparently take in all that is said, while they are really thinking what a "whapper" that is. Mark you, what ever may be your station in life, if you handle the truth carelessly, you are sure to be classed with those who are unworthy the notice of respectable people, though you may mingle with the best of society.
