LOCAL LAONICS.

Election day draweth nigh.
If it is news you want, subscribe for THE STAR.

L. D. Rupert, the barber, has had his shop enlarged.

"One of the Finest" at the Opera House Tuesday evening.

The festive fly is like an old stage horse these mornings—rather stiff.

The pay car made its monthly trip over the Low Grade Div. last Thursday.

Holiday goods are being displayed this early in the season by H. Alex. Stoke.

Two weeks from next Tuesday will be a chilly day for many of the office seekers.

C. F. Hoffman, the jeweler, has been wearing a $225.00 diamond ring the past week.

Columbus memorial services will be held at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening.

The Daughters of Rebeckah held a special meeting in their lodge room last Friday afternoon.

There was no lack for dust on Main street Saturday. It was the dustiest day of the summer.

Sam. Whitaker and John Beck will sell their livery stock at public sale next Saturday at 10:00 A. M.

Brookville Republicans were conspicuous by their absence at the meeting in this place last Friday evening.

The Methodist Episcopal parsonage has been adamanted, papered and a new roof put on it and it is now inhabitable.

An important thing to remember is that if you have not yet paid your subscription for this paper now is a good time to liquidate.

Don't forget the waffle and chicken supper in the G. A. R. hall Saturday evening, given by the Daughters of Liberty. Supper thirty-five cents.

Appropriate exercises consisting of songs, recitations and essays, are being arranged for the public schools in the borough next Friday, Columbus Day.

Mrs. James McPherson fell while about her household duties last Saturday morning and fractured the caudal extremity of her spinal column.

The regular monthly meeting of the Building and Loan Association was held in the Flynn Hall Monday evening and eighteen shares at an average of 29 per cent were sold.

Hopkins' big mill shut down at noon on Monday for the season, and many of the employees thereof packed their "grips" and left for new fields of labor during the winter months.

The Allport Mountain Courier has ceased to exist because its editors could not live on compliments. Kind words, no doubt, were appreciated, but it takes money to run a newspaper.

It is one of the rare things to find a man up in the forties who is cutting new teeth. A Reynoldsville citizen forty-seven years old has one new tooth out and another just coming.

Paul Broadhead, who has been a noted resident of Sandy Valley for a number of years, has shaken the dust of that village off his feet and moved to Jefferson Line. Monday was Paul's moving day.

Our informant was mistaken last week about the date of Rev. J. Ash, of St. Petersburg, Clarion county, preaching in the Lutheran church at this place. He will preach here on Sunday, Oct. 23rd, at 11:00 A. M. in German and 7:30 P. M. in English.

W. J. Boner, of Sandy Valley gave us some fine large "King of Tomkins County," "Baldwin" and "Smoke House" apples last Monday. Mr. Boner is one of those kind-hearted farmers that lives in Sandy Valley, and his orchard bears some of the choicest kinds of fruit.

THE STAR is not a company organ nor a political organ, but it is an independent paper that contains all the local news of Reynoldsville and vicinity, and general news of the day. Hand in your name, accompanied with one hundred and fifty cents, and have THE STAR visit you for one year.

As many men so many minds; every one his own way. In one point, however, there is a delightful unanimity of opinion; that is the way you get your hair cut or shaved at H. W. Herpel's. He never fails to please the most critical.

A festival will be held in the Grange Hall at Paradise on Tuesday evening, Oct. 25th. Oysters and a good supper will be served. Proceeds for benefit of the new Lutheran church in that section. It would be a nice drive to get up a hack load and go out from Reynoldsville.

George Washington Stoke, who was one of the horse-back riders in the Republican parade Friday evening, took his horse to the barn after the parade and the beast gave him the slip and ran up the alley and left town. Mr. Stoke found his horse at a hamlet six miles from Reynoldsville on Saturday.

Friday has been designated as Arbor Day. We hope that many of our citizens will devote a little time to tree planting that day. Shade trees beautify a town, but it requires an effort on the part of some one to transplant the trees from the forest to our streets. King & Co. will furnish a team for use in hauling trees.

Peter Doverspike, the great fish eater of Sandy Valley, who went to Oklahoma about three years ago, returned to the Valley Monday afternoon, not the strong robust fellow of former days, but badly crippled. His left arm and leg are almost useless to him. A stroke of paralysis last March robbed him of his wonted activity.

It is seldom we have seen such flattering press testimonials and tributes of praise as E. J. Hassan's "One of the Finest" has received from the press of the metropolitan cities. It is one of the best known and best advertised amusement attractions ever placed before the public. At Reynolds Opera House on Tuesday, Oct. 25th.

A gentleman who lived in Reynoldsville about eight years ago was in town last week. He thinks the town has been blessed with numerous substantial improvements in eight years, and we agreed with him, but when he commenced to express his opinion about some of the miserable sidewalks in the town, we had not a word to say.

Mrs. A. E. Hetherington, the milliner, is in Philadelphia this week buying her fall stock of fashionable millinery goods. She will return home Thursday and if you want something of the very latest styles in her line it will be to your interest to see her goods before making your fall purchase. Store corner Main and Fourth streets.

John B. Keenan, of Greensburg, Pa., Democratic candidate for Congress in this district, accompanied by J. Wood Clark, of Indiana, Pa., son of the late Supreme Judge Silas Clark, Jos. Wilson and Elmer Shaffer, of Punxsutawney, visited in Reynoldsville last week. Mr. Keenan was here getting acquainted with the people and making friends.

The school directors have decided to build two new school houses and use the old one as a central building. The location of the new buildings have not been fully decided upon yet, but will, no doubt, be at a meeting of the directors which will be held this evening. The people are anxiously waiting for the school question to be solved.

The turbid, stench-giving water of the Sandy Lick Creek just now is the first thing that greets the eye and the odor therefrom fills the nostrils of comers to town on the A. V. R'y. The black water of the stream stays within the channel, but the smell thereof stops not along the shore but stalks the streets, enters houses and gives offense to many sensitive smelling organs of our village.

The "Observation Social" held at Dr. Alexander's last Tuesday evening by the Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society, was a very pleasant affair. Miss Britta Butler got the prize for "observing" the most and James Lusk carried home the small prize for his inability to tell what he saw that evening in the "observation" department. Cake and coffee were the refreshments served.

Joseph Shaffer, the Adams Express agent of this place, who has had only two weeks vacation since he came to Reynoldsville, seventeen years ago, is compelled by impaired health to cease from his labors for a time and rest. William B. Stauffer is now learning the ways of express business and will have charge of the same while the veteran expressman recuperates. Mr. Shaffer has faithfully discharged his duties during the past years.

Some of our readers may be surprised to know that Prof. W. E. Eshelman, who was in Reynoldsville Tuesday last week, was married early Wednesday morning of the same week to Miss Maud Cale, of Corsica. Rev. F. P. Britt, the Presbyterian minister of that place performed the ceremony. The benedict had a matrimonial air about him when here on Tuesday. Had we been naming the prospective bride we would have called her by some other name. However, Professor, we extend congratulations.

New Officers.

Following is a list of new officers in the I. O. O. F. lodge: N. G., David Heffner; V. G., A. H. Hoon; Sec., M. L. Winslow; Asst. Sec., J. H. Moore; Treas., John Benson; Warden, F. W. Deemer; Cond., Richard Miller; L. G., John Waite; O. G., A. G. Millen; R. S. N. G., Fred Schurig; L. S. N. G., W. H. Stamey; R. S. V. G., T. E. Evans; L. S. V. G., L. G. Lidle; R. S. S., W. L. Bowser; L. S. S. Wilson Barry.

Rattle Snake and Rat.

A rat was caught at Hotel McConnell one day last week and put in the box with Cam. Mitchell's rattle snake. The rat got its "mad up" but was "knocked out" in short order. The snake struck the rat two or three times and the battle was over and there was one less file-tailed vermin in Reynoldsville. The rat was left in the box for sometime to see if the snake would eat it, but it did not. The snake has not eaten anything for three months.

Getting to be An Old Fake.

A few weeks ago a story was circulated in Reynoldsville that five men in Punxsutawney drank beer from a keg in which there was a dead snake and that they were all poisoned, three having died and the other two not expected to live. The story was told in good faith by some of the people. The Pittsburg papers published an article last Thursday to the effect that six miners of West Newton were poisoned by drinking beer out of a keg in which was a dead copperhead snake. The story is getting to be an old fake.

Ran a Pencil into his Hand.

Patsy, a six-year-old son of Pat. Madden, of Prescottville, met with a mishap two weeks ago that has caused the boy considerable pain ever since. The little fellow was attending school and went to room No. 1 to borrow a slate pencil from his older brother and in running from the room fell and ran the pencil into his right hand two inches. Drs. King and Neale gave the boy chloroform and extracted the broken piece of slate pencil, but the little fellow's arm swelled up and he has to carry it in a sling.

A Runaway.

Willie Reynolds, who is just recovering from a severe attack of diphtheria, was propped up in bed near a window Saturday afternoon and he said, "now I will see a runaway this afternoon." The young prophet was not disappointed. W. S. Ross' team was left standing near the hotel with a wagon load of coal and the horses were a little skittish and at a slight provocation ran off. They made two trips around the square at a break-neck speed. The wagon struck the large rock in front of the hotel and was detached from the team in a jiffy. Very little damage was done.

A Farmer's Loss.

John Penfield, a farmer of Sugar Hill, lost his barn, all the hay and grain raised this season, two horses, valued at $400.00, one colt, three cows and a calf, by fire on the night of the 10th inst. He had been attending his father-in-law's funeral, William Dougherty, that day and did not get home until after dark and a lantern was used to put the horses away, but the lantern was lighted in the house and the farmer is unable to account for the fire unless tramps were lodging there and carelessly set the barn on fire. The loss amounted to about $3,000 with only $1,000 insurance. It was a sad day for Mr. and Mrs. Penfield.

Beat the Record.

Of all the outlandish, unnerving, noisome noise that has been sprung upon the people of Reynoldsville in many a day, was heard here last Friday evening. One of our merchants gave out one thousand patent noise-makers with his advertisement on one side and on the other side was the picture of Harrison and Reid for Republican boys, and Cleveland and Stevenson for the Democratic boys. The "clappers" and campaign horns placed in the hands of the young Americas was all that was required to produce a pandemonium on the streets. A boy with a "clapper" in each hand and a horn in his mouth, all in good working order, was not an unfrequent sight. Capt. Reynolds said: "I don't know whether hades has been let out for dinner or recess."

Profusely Decorated.

Prof. W. J. Weaver, teacher of room No. 3, and his scholars have ornamented their room with pictures, colored paper and inscriptions. The ceiling is beautified with worked colored paper and balloons. Back of the teacher's desk in large letters are the words: "Earnestness alone makes life eternity," and on the other walls can be found the following: "An idol brain is the devil's workshop," "Knowledge is power," "Know steps backwards," "We seek the why." Three large pictures, Henry W. Longfellow, Columbus at the Court of Spain, and a landscape, adorn the walls. The ends of the seats are trimmed with worked colored paper, and curtains have been hung at the windows. The bare walls and ceiling have been robbed of their dingy appearance and the room has been made attractive for the scholars.

Did Not Enjoy It.

A man who digs "dusky diamonds" at the Sprague mine and lives in Rathmel got a bath one evening last week that was not relished with complacency. The man often gets his wages and comes to Reynoldsville and gets loaded with "tangle-foot" and after a few days spreeing returns to his home and family filled with whisky and devilishness and abuses his family shamefully. The kind hearted men of Rathmel, and there are many in that village, wearied of such conduct in their midst and decided that they would make it interesting for the offender. On Wednesday evening of last week, after a three or four days spree, the man who loveth to "guzzle" intoxicants wended his way to his domicile and forthwith began to abuse his family. A mob of about a dozen men decided to take him to the woods and give him a good trouncing with mule whips, but this plan was not carried out. The "guzzler" was lured away from his home on an invitation to "come down the road and have a drink." The deceiver and his victim had travelled but a short distance when they came to some men who were talking rather loud and acting as if they were going to fight. The "victim" was led into the midst of the gang where two tubs and a pail of water were in readiness and he was put into one tub and the other one was turned on top of him and then the pail of water was thrown on to rinse him off. The fellow went home a wetter if not a wiser man. He threatened vengeance on the men who gave him the ducking. The man may be thankful he escaped so easily and had better treat his family in a more becoming manner hereafter.

A Suspicious Character.

Several men near Jas. A. Cathers' farm, came into town Monday evening with a tough looking fellow whom they said was prowling around their premises in a suspicious manner, and they wanted to give him a dose of law. The man was taken before Squire Neff for a hearing. The Justice asked him where he came from and the answer was, "quite a piece, mister." The next interrogative was, "what is your name?" "I don't know, mister. I don't trouble any person with my name and I don't want to be troubled about it, mister." According to the testimony the Justice said he was a vagrant tramp and he would fine him five dollars and costs. The man said he had no money and he was sentenced to lodging in the lock-up and five days work on the street. He did not object to the five days work, but he was not pleased with the lock-up part of the sentence. The tramp, as he was dubbed—and his appearance indicated it was not a misnomer—could have made it lively for some person. He was not arrested by an officer of the law, the men who brought him to town took the law in their own hands. The fellow got a square meal and was released the next morning.

Fire Saturday Evening.

Benjamin Jones, a coal miner who lived near Cold Spring Hollow, was made homeless by the fire flend Saturday evening, October 15th, which consumed his house about nine o'clock. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Mrs. Jones was ironing at the time and had the gas turned on very strong. The household goods were mostly all saved, although many articles were badly used. Mr. Jones' best pair of pants, with a twenty dollar bill in one of the pockets, mysteriously disappeared that night during the excitement. The fire company responded promptly to the alarm, but as there was no water plug near the fire the hose cart was only taken to the Arnold block and returned, but the hook and ladder truck was hauled to fire by a mule. The house and furniture were insured for $1,050.00 by Walter Spry in the Springfield, Mass., Company. The building was insured for $750.00. An adjuster will be here this week.

Electric Railway Meeting.

Thursday evening of last week the stockholders of the electric railway for Reynoldsville, met at Lawyer Cam. Mitchell's office to organize and get things arranged to do something in a business-like manner in bringing the matter to a head. F. K. Arnold was chosen as president, Cam. Mitchell secretary, and the following named gentlemen were elected directors: M. C. Coleman, J. S. Morrow, Frank J. Black, George G. Sprague, H. S. Belnap, W. S. Ross and W. T. Cathers. A committee of five, J. S. Morrow, Geo. G. Sprague, F. J. Black, F. K. Arnold and W. T. Cathers, were appointed to select a route for the road. The gentlemen performed that duty Monday forenoon. Mr. Arnold and Mr. Coleman measured the distance and it is three and four-tenths miles from the iron bridge across the Sandy Lick creek to the extreme limit of a road at Rathmel.

Ridgway Driving Park Races.

In order to accommodate persons desiring to attend the races at Ridgway on October 20th and 21st, 1892, the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. will sell excursion tickets to Ridgway Oct. 20th and 21st, good to return Oct. 22, 1892, at reduced rates.

We will sell lime by the load at 10 cents a bushel.
J. C. King & Co.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

The Streets Were Dusty—The Parade a Fizzle—Speeches Full of Republicanism.

Friday evening the campaign ball was started by the Republicans in this place. The people anticipated seeing a big torchlight procession, but their expectations were knocked out when the parade was seen on Main street. The conspicuousness of the long procession by its absence was what disappointed the people. The procession, what there was of it, made a good appearance with the men in their handsome uniforms marching along amidst the red lights that were burned on Main street and to the music of brass and martial bands. County Chairman E. C. Burns and the candidates, D. B. Heiner, for Congress, James G. Mitchell, for Senate, and W. O. Smith, for Assembly, rode ahead of the parade in a carriage, followed by the Reynoldsville Cornet band and the martial band followed the uniformed paraders and boys with campaign horns. The decorations were not elaborate, the most extensive being forty-two Chinese lanterns strung across the street from the Arnold block to McKee & Warnick's store.

After the street performance the Centennial hall was packed and many decided not to go in to hear the speakers simply because they could not gain an entrance into the hall. Dr. J. W. Foust was elected chairman, and he read a list of two dozen names of gentlemen who occupied seats on the platform as vice-presidents. A. J. Truitt, one of the legal lights of Punxsutawney, was first introduced and he eulogized the candidates who were present. Daniel B. Heiner, of Kittanning, was the second speaker. Mr. Heiner's forte is not as an orator. The third, and best speaker of the evening, was John W. Reed, Esq., an able lawyer of Clarion. It was evident by the repeated applause during his speech that the Republicans sanctioned all that he said, in fact all three speakers were applauded heartily. The Republicans were highly pleased with the meeting in the hall, but have little to say about their street parade.

A Political Joke.

Davis McCracken, the veteran merchant of Reynoldsville, sprung a joke on several men who were in his store Monday, that has caused considerable comment in political circles. In talking about political foppers, Mr. McCracken said that Mr. C. H. Prescott, who has been known as a life-long Republican, is now a Cleveland man. Mr. Prescott's Republican friends gave vent to their opinions very freely for such action on his part, while the Democrats rejoiced over the fact. Mr. McCracken said he was a "Cleveland man," but in the repetition of the accusation it was changed to a "Democrat." No one can deny the truthfulness of the statement that Mr. Prescott is a Cleveland man, for he has been a resident of that city for several years. Do you "tumble?"

A False Report.

EDITOR STAR:—It has come to my notice that political schemers of this place have been busy circulating reports that while I am chairman of the County Committee of the Prohibition party of this county, I still adhere to and vote the Democratic ticket. I desire to say that this is untrue, and that I have voted the Prohibition ticket in every instance since the vote on the Constitutional Amendment was taken, when there was a Prohibition ticket nominated, and shall vote the Prohibition ticket at the coming election, and also in the future. Now I trust no voter will allow himself to be deceived by such a report, which could only be circulated by an unprincipled and malicious person desiring to deceive voters.
S. SHAFFER.

Death of an Old Man.

James Dickey, an old timer, has been numbered with the dead. He was born in Bedford county, Pa., in Feb. 1818, and died October 13th, 1892, aged 74 years and 8 months. He moved to Winslow township fifty-three years ago where he resided ever after until he responded to Death's call. He was married in 1841 and was the father of thirteen children, of whom four boys and three girls, together with the aged widow, survive him. His funeral took place on Saturday last and a large number of his friends and neighbors assembled at the Syphrit M. E. church where appropriate services were held. Rev. P. J. Slattery, pastor of the Reynoldsville M. E. church, officiating.

Obituary.

At twenty minutes before 4 o'clock P. M. Monday, Oct. 17th, Lena, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hart, died after a continued illness of two weeks. She was born August 27th, 1890. The body was taken to Toga county for interment, near to the place where Mr. Hart's parents reside.

A Good Play.

Dan'l J. Hart, known everywhere as the best impersonator of the tramp on the American stage, is giving his original specialty of "Handsome Dan," in the Pier Scene of "One of the Finest," and is making it one of the especial hits of the play. At Reynolds Opera House, Tuesday, Oct. 25th.
