WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1893.

A bill has been introduced in the State Legislature providing for the protection of deer, by prohibiting the killing of deer for three years.

It is estimated that there are 20,000 boomers standing at the edge of the Cherokee strip waiting for Uncle Sam to give the word go.

James G. Blaine died at his home in Washington, D. C., at 11.00 A. M., Friday, Jan. 27. A sketch of his life, beginning of his political career, Speaker, Secretary of State, Presidential Candidate, and historian, his bereavements and ill-fated house in Washington, will be found on an inside page of the STAR.

The following article from an exchange may remind some of the husband of Reynoldsville.

Little things do not enter into the life of a man so much as they do into that of a woman, and I believe that in this fact lies the basis of many a man's misunderstanding of the opposite sex. I know wives to whom the husband's morning kiss, as he goes to his office, is a sweet remembrance through all the day, and is to her as much of her being as is the newspaper to the man. There are men—splendid men, too—who are perfectly incapable of understanding this. Only a few days ago, one of the most estimable men in the world, a model husband, and one of the best fathers, said to me touching this very point: "It is positively funny to me to see the perfect delight which my wife takes in putting her arms around me, and insisting upon a kiss every morning when I leave her for the office. Do you know I never think of it?" That's just it! Men do not think of these things half as much as they should. Many a wife's heart would be lighter, her home would be brighter if men were more considerate of these very things. Trifles you may call them, my dear friend—and I am now talking to the men who read me—but they are more than that to a woman. They are the rays of sunshine which makes her life happy. They tell her louder than any spoken words would that she has her husband's love, and she is the queen of his heart and the guiding star of his life. Trifles? Well, perhaps, but I wish the world were fuller of them.

They were beautiful hands, soft, white, shapely, but they had not been trained. They couldn't keep accounts, or use the needle, or the broom, or the dish-cloth, or the mop, or the cooking utensils. They had at one time glided skilfully over the piano keys and wielded the pencil to some purpose; they were graceful hands and made pretty gestures, or folded themselves harmoniously over the soft draperies beneath them. By and by the ample provision that had been left to keep these hands in idleness was wasted because the hands couldn't keep accounts; wicker men took advantage of these helpless hands and stole their treasures from them, and then days of darkness and trouble came. The owner of the hands had to board because she didn't know how to cook, and of course she had to eat what was set before her, and so her digestive apparatus got all out of order. She had to hire her dresses made. She couldn't manage her business affairs, and so had to trust them to a lawyer, who in her case, proved untrusty, and made exorbitant charges for work which was poorly done. At every point where she came in contact with the world she lost and lost, until at last she was glad to find a refuge in the church home which in the days of her prosperity she had helped to found. If she had only known how to take care of her simple self, she might have lived on the wreck of her fortune in modest comfort and independence. This is a sketch from life. Just such histories are transpiring ever day, and yet girls are permitted to grow to womanhood without knowing how to do what is indispensable for their own personal comfort and existence even. It is not a wise parent who allows a child to grow up in idleness. There are many adverse circumstances for humanity to meet from the cradle to the grave, and the boy or girl who has been brought up without being taught how to do the every day duties of life, even if they are never compelled to toil, are a poor excuse indeed. One great reason why there are so many worthless girls to-day is the intended to be kindhearted mothers of our land. There are so many mothers that will toil all day while the daughter sits around reading a novel or "gads" the streets or wastes her time in some other manner. The far-seeing mother is the one who supervises the household work while the daughter does the work.

Paradise.
The box supper at the Paradise literary hall was a success socially and financially.

The oyster supper given at the Grange hall by the members of the Synphit M. E. church, was largely attended.

Some of Sykesville's handsome young ladies attended the bogus court at this place last week. Come again ladies and learn to court.

Some of our young men seem to be greatly interested in the protracted meeting at Sykesville. Lookout for the wild cat boys!

What has become of the Trout Run scribe? We would like to know. Perhaps he has died of joy on seeing the first production of his pen in print. If not, come again, brother S., and bring along your knitting.

At which one of the halls was the worst order kept and the most drinking done during the two suppers last week? Answer this ye dads who will not allow your children to go to the literary hall.

There were a few errors in our last week's letter. In one item a few words were left out, and another should have read Bell Lewis & Mowery, not Bell, Lewis & Yates.

You can never tell what a slight cold may lead to; it is best, therefore, to give yourself the benefit of the doubt, and cure it as soon as possible with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A day's delay, sometimes an hour's delay, may result in serious consequences.

Notice.

The stockholders of the Reynoldsville Building and Loan Association will hold their annual election in Flynn's hall February 20, 1893. There are four directors to be elected from the following candidates: Jno. M. Hays, Chas. Herpel, W. Marshall, E. J. Lotts, M. S. Sterley, F. M. Brown; and one auditor to be elected from the following: M. C. Coleman, L. J. McEntire.

Be Respectable.

Whatever you have been, are, or expect to be, let it be your aim to maintain respectability. If you do this you will always be on top. You will always have the self-consciousness of having done right. Others may bark at you as a small cur barks at a large handsome Newfoundland dog, but the bark cannot injure you while it will attract attention to the despicable littleness of the one who barks. Be respectable.

Labeled a Rustic.

[Driftwood Gazette.]
The man who fools with a dirty, dauby, rubber stamp, instead of letting a printer do a decent job for him, is wasting his time and losing money in the outcome. Be business like, if you are a business man. He who attempts to do business without firm name, business and address neatly printed on a letter and envelope, is considered extremely rustic by the commercial world.

Reed, the shoe man, sold 178 pairs of shoes and rubbers last Saturday. His low prices are attracting attention, as most of the shoes went over to Eleanor and that vicinity. Have you seen their $1.50 line they are selling? Their motto is "Great Value for Little Money."

Special Offer.

We are making a special offer to each of our readers paying a year's subscription to the STAR in advance, and to all new subscribers paying in advance, we will give them the best local paper in Jefferson county and will give them free, either the Womankind or American Farmer, for one year. The two papers above mentioned are excellent monthly papers and the subscription price of each is $1.00 a year.

Reed is showing the best $1.50 shoe in town.

A HANDSOME OFFER!

A Popular Illustrated Home and Woman's Publication Offered Free to Our Subscribers.

The STAR has perfected arrangements by which we offer FREE to our readers a year's subscription to WOMANKIND, the popular illustrated monthly journal published at Springfield, Ohio. We will GIVE a year's subscription to WOMANKIND to each of our readers paying a year's subscription to the STAR in advance, and to all new subscribers paying in advance. WOMANKIND will find a joyous welcome in every home. It is bright, sparkling and interesting. Its household hints and suggestions are invaluable, and it also contains a large amount of news about women in general. Its fashion department is complete, and profusely illustrated. It has a bright and entertaining corps of contributors, and the paper is edited with care and ability. Its children's department makes WOMANKIND a favorite with the young, and in fact it contains much which will interest every member of every household in its sixteen large, handsome illustrated pages. Do not delay in accepting this offer. IT WILL COST YOU NOTHING to get a full year's subscription to WOMANKIND. Samples can be seen at this office.

To grow old gracefully, one must live temperately, calmly, methodically; be cheerful, happy, and contented, and above all, keep the blood pure and vigorous by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's.

By order of the Board, W. D. KASE, Clerk, January 20, 1893.

Overexercise.
Physicians are protesting against the overexercise taken by the slender, high strung people who would better be holding on to what little flesh they have, while it is next to impossible to stir up the lazy, heavy class to exert themselves enough to relieve them of their superfluous bulk. Nature does not safely guide us in this particular. Thin people are moved to be active and flashy people to be lazy. The case calls for use of that brain power that plans and reasons and proves us higher than the monkey.—Newport News.

His Lordship's Weight.
The present Earl Granville, some years since, when Lord Leveson, swallowed half a crown during the performance of some conjuring trick at a Christmas party. He was none the worse for the misadventure, although the family were somewhat alarmed at first. The late earl, on being asked after his son's health, told Lord Rowton that he had gained eleven pounds. "Ah!" replied the witty peer, "that makes £11 2s. 6d."—London Tit-Bits.

Falling Memory.
Leech was at his best as an entertainer in his own home. Dean Hole asked him one day, after Leech had given him a delectable dinner at his lodgings in Scarborough, how he made such good champagne cup. "The ingredients," he replied, "of which this refreshing beverage is composed, and which is highly recommended by the faculty for officers going abroad and all other persons stopping at home, are champagne, ice and aerated water, but in consequence of advancing years, I always forget the seller."—Exchange.

We Don't Believe It.
Husband (to wife at the theater)—Have you brought the opera glass? Wife—Yes, but I can't use it. "Why not?" "I forgot to bring my diamond bracelet."—Texas Siftings.

Notes About Alligators.
There is nothing that a gator likes better than fresh pork, and he will toddle three miles from water for a Florida razorback. In cool weather he buries himself in mud and becomes dormant until it grows warm. Hunter still make a living by killing him for his hide and teeth. The killing of alligators from the decks of river steamers in Florida has been stopped by law. Tourists became very careless in their use of firearms, and would endanger the lives of passengers in their haste to get a shot before the boat got by a plump saurian. Yet it is remarkable that only one person, a woman, was ever wounded in these reckless fusillades.—New York Sun.

Protests Against the Antioption Bill.
There is a marked change between this session and the last so far as the antioption bill is concerned. Last session petitions poured in by bushels asking for the passage of the measure, while now protests are coming in against the senate acting favorably thereon.—Washington Cor. New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Every Tenth Sale GIVEN AWAY!

Commencing this Wednesday morning, January 25th, we inaugurate the largest sale of Boots and Shoes!

Ever attempted in the place. Our invoice of last week shows that we have on hand thirty-five hundred dollars worth of Boots and Shoes.

This is by far the largest stock in the place.

We intend to close out the entire line in the following manner:

We have reduced the price on all our Boots and Shoes, as you can well see when you come to buy, as our goods are all marked in plain English figures, that is, you can see what they originally sold for and what you can now buy them at. This is inducement number one.

Number two is as follows:

We intend to give away every tenth pair of Boots or Shoes, no matter what they originally sold for. A strict account will be kept and the lucky tenth buyer gets their purchase free.

Ladies have you ever used TABLE FELT on your dining table? If not, you lack this one item to set a nice table. We have it in two grades.
