WEDNESDAY MARCH 29, 1893.

Historic males hunt to a cold great death, but often a cold great ones.

Eight thousand dollars has been appropriated for Pennsylvania's fish exhibit at the World's Fair.

Cheese sold, "true glory take a root, and even sorrows; all false pretenses, like flowers, fall to the ground; nor can any counterfeit last long."

The amendment to the Baker ballot law relieves the borough and township auditors from the bother of getting election tickets printed. The work has been placed on the county Commissioners.

Pennsylvania has to congratulate herself on the excellent condition of her finances. The net indebtedness of the State is only $2,606,592.53 and part of this consists of long outstanding liabilities in the shape of bonds whose owners are not to be found, and which, in all probability, will never be presented for payment. The revenues of the State are very large, $9,144,500.

A promise should be given with caution, and kept with care. A promise should be made with the heart, and remembered by the head. A promise is the offspring of the intention, and should be nurtured by recollection. A promise and its performance should, like a true balance, always present a mutual adjustment. A promise delayed is justice deferred. A promise neglected is an untruth told. A promise attended to is a doubt settled.

Newspaper literature is more invaluable as an educator than books, because the price of books place them out of the reach of the multitudes. Wendell Phillips once observed "that the millions have no acquaintance with letters, no school, and almost no pulpit but the press. It is parent, school, pulpit, theatre, example, counselor, all in one. Every drop of our blood is colored by it. Let me make the newspapers and I care not who makes the religion, or the laws."

Individuality is never to become eccentricity. Personality is never to stand out oddly. A strong personality is to be as a mountain range, composed of the same material as the plain, yet rising above the plain, lifting the plain skyward, its highest peak hidden in the cloud of mystery, its slopes resting firmly on the solid earth. A strong personality is a part of humanity, but it seems to be more and higher than humanity, lifting humanity itself above its low-lying planes of being. Into this humanity you are sent forth.

It is stated that the new postal money orders will soon be ready for use, and the system is pronounced such that there is little or no complication, and at the same time it is a good way to send money. A sheet calling for any amount from a cent up to $3 has been prepared, and which on payment of the amount to be sent, will be torn off about the same as an express order. There will be no writing upon it by the postmaster, the sender endorsing it as a check or draft. The government guarantees its transportation.

Commenting on errors which creep into newspapers, the Oil City Blizzard says: "Mistakes are sure to occur in the best regulated newspaper office now and then. Articles are printed which should have been left out, and articles are left out which should have been printed. The more or less able editors have so many things on their minds that they seldom or never know where they are at, and sometimes in mad haste and general confusion things are printed in advertently which cause a great deal of remorse when remorse is too late. The worst of it is that the average reader takes a little mistake too much at heart; he just pines and sickens and grows pale, when he really should not breathe a single sigh."

All about us are thousands who hunger in the midst of plenty. They come not out to see how great are the blessings prepared for all, and we are apt to allow our ease or our selfishness to keep us from going to them with messages of peacefulness and plenty. What beauties would appear if they would only look for them and cease to complain that nothing is fair and good. Why, my dear friend, this is not just a tolerable world; it is a great, grand world with boundless possibilities and resources for good. If we look about us, every feature of nature is a chaste and powerful sermon, corrupted only as human ignorance and weakness may despoil it.

"For a long time I suffered with stomach and liver troubles, and could find no relief until I began to use Ayer's Pills. I took them regularly for a few months, and my health was completely restored."—D. W. Baine, New Berne, N. C.

Blown up by Dynamite.

(Pottsville News.)

John Coy of the East End had rather a novel and exciting experience the other day one which might have ended badly for him. He was digging a well for A. T. Earhart and had put a blast of dynamite in, and while he was being drawn out of the well the dynamite exploded, throwing Mr. Coy out of the well and up in the air about thirty feet landing him on the roof of Mr. Earhart's kitchen. Mr. Coy sustained no injury but we are safe in saying that he was somewhat shaken up and scared. He doesn't fancy such quick means of being hoisted out of a well.

There is no reason why children should suffer from loathsome scrofulous sores and glandular swellings when such a pleasant, effective and economical medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla may be procured of the nearest druggist. Be sure you get Ayer's.
