After this month the oyster will take a four months' vacation.

Ten days more until you can lawfully "hook" speckled beauties.

An O. U. A. M. lodge was organized in the Paradise Grange hall last week.

A number of "April fool" jokes were perpetrated in Reynoldsville last Saturday.

The last Saturday of this month E. T. McGaw's time as Justice of the Peace expires.

The twin boys that arrived at Joseph McKernan's home last week both together weighed seven pounds.

Frank Hoffman, the ex-butcher, has opened a green grocery in the room formerly occupied by his meat market.

The new advertisements of Ed. Gooder, H. Alex. Stoke, J. B. Arnold and Henry A. Reed will be found in this issue.

Mrs. James Cathcart fell week before last and injured her back so badly that she has not been able to walk around much since.

Rev. J. C. McDonald, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Punxsutawney, will preach in the M. E. church at this place next Sunday, April 9th.

Prof. Wingert's school at Rathmel closed on Monday. Miss McGrainor's room closes next Monday, and Miss Patton has three weeks yet of school.

"Around the World in 80 days" was greeted with a fair-sized audience at the opera house last Thursday evening. Those who attended say it was a good show.

The regular monthly meeting of our Borough "Dads" was not held Monday evening on account of some other business, but it will be held to-morrow evening.

An old shanty near Sandy Valley, which was owned by James McGehee and occupied by a section hand on the R. & F. C. R'y and his family, was burned down last Friday evening.

This is the last day of school for two rooms in West Reynoldsville, Prof. Lucas and Miss Lizzie Burris. On account of sickness Miss Mildred Fuller has three weeks yet of school.

You will miss seeing a fine decorated store room and the largest and most complete stock ever brought to this place if you are not at Arnold's opening Thursday evening, April 6th.

William Frantz died Saturday evening and was buried in the cemetery near Ben. Yoho's, in Paradise, Monday forenoon. Quick consumption is reported to have been the cause of his death.

The directors of the Electric Railway held a meeting on Monday and transacted a little business. The directors are not entirely discouraged, but have hopes yet of Reynoldsville having street cars.

Papa Henry Alexander Stoke allowed his little eight months old daughter, Gertrude, to fall out of bed Saturday morning and she peeled a generous portion of cuticle off the point of her proboscis.

M. J. Farrell, the A. V. R'y ticket and freight agent at this place, talked with Rev. Furbay at Tyrone last Friday. This was the first time connection had been made between the two places by telephone.

Prof. J. H. Hughes, present county superintendent, is now a candidate for another term, subject to the decision of the County School Directors' Convention which will be held the first Tuesday of next month.

A seven thousand dollar property for forty-five hundred, three lots and dwelling. House alone is worth the price asked. Corner Fourth and Jackson Sts., Reynoldsville, one square from best part of town. Address owner, C. H. Gordon, No. 208, 11th street., S. E., Washington, D. C.

A gentleman from Bennezzette was in Reynoldsville Saturday to make arrangements with Herpel Bros., the machinists, to manufacture a patent wagon tongue holder, which he thinks will find a ready sale.

A number of wooden awnings in front of business places on Main street are soon to give way for canvas ones. It would make a great improvement in the appearance of the town if canvas awnings would be contagious.

There are now about twenty passenger trains each day arrive and depart from Falls Creek on the many different railroads and when the Clearfield and Mahoning road is opened several more will be added to that number.

Little Susie, six year old daughter of Joseph McKernan, presented ye editor with a dozen fresh eggs Saturday evening for Easter. Susie's smiling countenance is seen in the STAR office about once every three weeks. She gathers Pittsburg Times' votes for her teacher, Miss Lizzie Burris.

The first green truck of the season was sold in our markets last week. Cucumbers sold at twenty-five cents apiece and radishes the size of a hickory nut at a penny apiece. Strawberries sold for fifty cents a quart. It requires a fat pocket book to indulge in such luxuries at this season of the year.

The drivers at the Rochester mines at DuBois, instituted a short strike at that place last week. The boys got paid for ten hours as a days work, but the boss drivers managed to make them work eleven hours and the boys rebelled. After a day's idleness work was resumed on a basis of ten hours per day.

The Rathmel correspondent to the DuBois Courier claims a thousand inhabitants for that village and suggests that it be made a borough. The street car projectors figure on five hundred people in Rathmel, but if there is a thousand so much the better for the street car line. The street cars, however, are yet a nonentity.

Miss Marguerite Thompson, of Brookville, who has been playing the vocalian organ in the M. E. church at this place each Sunday since the first of last December, has resigned on account of the extra time, at this season of the year, demanded by the additional scholars to whom she gives music lessons at DuBois, Reynoldsville and Brookville.

A typo from Lock Haven, who was "holding cases" on the DuBois Courier, came to Reynoldsville recently to see a fair maiden with whom he was so enamored that he preferred, after staying with her two days, to remain another day at the sacrifice of his job. A daily paper must be published even though printers do get tangled in love's meshes.

Last Sunday evening just about the time Dr. S. S. Gilson, who preached in the Presbyterian church, had reached the "lastly" in his sermon, Thomas Shields fainted and raised considerable excitement. Mr. Shields was not feeling very well before he went to church, the room was warm, and the air was not good, and before he could get out he swooned.

The new whistle at Hopkins' mill busted the first time it was tried last week and it was sent away for repairs. It was returned on the accommodation Saturday night and was tried again about ten o'clock that night, which sounded like a fire alarm and led many Reynoldsville people to think that there was a fire at the mill. The new whistle is a loud one.

In an official proclamation Governor Pattison has named the 15th and 29th of this month to be observed as Arbor Days in Pennsylvania. This is an excellent custom and it is becoming more observed every year. Those who own property in Reynoldsville who have not already a row of trees in front of their property should observe the days designated by the Governor.

Lawyer C. Mitchell left Reynoldsville on the evening train last Thursday and went as far as Penfield. He returned Monday afternoon. The gentleman was dressed for either hunting or fishing and carried an outfit of some kind with him. When asked by a representative of this paper where he had been, answered, "at DuBois." The readers can draw their own conclusions.

William G. Campbell, an employee at Hopkins' mill, had his left hand badly injured while at work last Friday. Mr. Campbell is familiarly known as "Mike." Once upon a time he bought a boat from a man named Mike Kahoe in Lock Haven, where William comes from, and when he took his first ride in the boat his sister said, "here comes old Mike," and that is how the appellation was appended to his name. Little did his sister think her brother would be called "Mike" from that time on.

A fatal fire occurred at Bradford, Pa., last Saturday morning, in which three lives were lost and a number of people badly injured by jumping from the second and third story windows of the Higgins House. This hotel, the B., R. & P. R'y station, freight house and other buildings, and several grocery stores were entirely destroyed by fire. The railway company's loss was about $50,000, but it was covered with insurance. The fire started at 4:00 A. M. from a gas jet under a coffee boiler in the kitchen of the Higgins House.

A Big Wreck.

An expensive freight wreck occurred on the A. V. R'y a few miles on this side of Driftwood last Wednesday evening, which blocked the track so that the trains could not pass until noon on Thursday. The evening and morning accommodations had to transfer, which delayed the trains two or three hours. A broken axle caused the mischief. Nine cars were demolished, but fortunately no one injured.

Re-organized.

The directors of the Reynoldsville Building and Loan Association held their annual meeting on Monday evening and re-organized and elected the old officers with the exception of secretary. The officers are: President, George Mellinger; vice-president, Dr. S. Reynolds; treasurer, Dr. W. B. Alexander; solicitor, C. Mitchell; secretary, Glen Milliken. The salary of the secretary was reduced from 125 per share to 10 cents. The new directors, Milton S. Storer, Wm. F. Marshall and James Moore, were installed on the evening above mentioned.

Foot Cut Off.

Leonard Bennett, at one time an employee at the tannery at this place, and a brakeman on the A. V. R'y, lately a brakeman on the B., R. & P., had his right foot cut off at Falls Creek last Monday. His train was at Falls Creek and as the westbound passenger train on the A. V. R'y was pulling into the station Bennett attempted to jump onto the engine to talk to the fireman, but he made a misstep and fell under the tank of the engine with the above result. One minute he was a strong man, the next minute he was a cripple for life. The injured man has two brothers at Big Run who formerly lived in Reynoldsville.

A Midnight Tumble.

Mrs. James Tapper was very sick one night last week and got up out of bed about midnight to go down stairs to while away a few long hours. When she got to the bottom of the stairs she became unconscious and fell over with a large glass lamp in her hands. The chimney was broken into smithereens, some oil was spilt, but it did not ignite nor the lamp explode. Jim heard her fall and was soon at her side. She did not return to consciousness for some time. In falling her head struck and bruised the right side of her face, broke a tooth off and blackened her eye. Another case which might have resulted in cremation.

From Whence Cometh it?

A large swan flew into town last Thursday evening, coming from the east, and was floating around in the Sandy Lick Creek when killed by John Brosius and Charley Grubbs. It measured six feet and a half from tip to tip of wings. Swans are rare birds in this section. They are like a goose, but handsomer and more graceful, having longer neck and beak, and being generally larger and stronger. They are usually of a white color when mature. This one was white as snow. It was, no doubt, what is known as the Cygnus Americanus. The swan was shot in the creek and brought out by a bird dog.

He's a Hustler.

John W. Phillippi, of Winslow township, the hustling agent who is selling counties for the Lindsey Mowing Machine Knife Grinding Co., was in Reynoldsville Saturday attending a school meeting, he being one of the directors of Winslow township. Mr. Phillippi just returned from the eastern part of the state where he sold the patent-right for Bucks, Montgomery, Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin and Northumberland counties. The knife was patented by Kellogg and is manufactured at Lindsey, Pa. This is not an expensive knife grinder and it is undoubtedly a good thing. They are such good sellers that about all that is necessary is to explain how it works to the farmer and he wants one immediately. It is something that every farmer should have. Mr. Phillippi has the patent-right of Pennsylvania and is rapidly disposing of it in counties. He is a good salesman and having such a labor-saving article to sell for a paltry sum, he, and also the company, are meeting with great success.

Singed His Mustache.

What might have proven a serious fire, including a cremation, occurred in Bell Bro's tailor shop last Tuesday evening. On account of a rush of work the firm finds it necessary to have their employees work at night. On the evening named William Craig, the cutter, was in the act of extinguishing the light of a large brass lamp to close the shop when the lamp exploded throwing the burning oil around promiscuously. Mr. Craig and a young man who works in the shop, "got a move on" for once, at least, and soon got the best of the fire find, not however, until after one side of the wall had been scarred by the blaze and Craig's mustache had been so badly singed that amputation was necessary, which was a great sacrifice to Craig as it was a brand-new mustache. Mr. Craig's clothing was also afire, but quick work and presence of mind saved him. The barn adjoining the shop contains a large quantity of oil which would have assisted in making a big fire out of it had the shop burned.

Organized Friday Night.

About thirty-five citizens met in the Flynn hall last Friday evening for the purpose of completing the organization of the Board of Trade of Reynoldsville. At the previous meeting twenty-six names were secured for charter members, and a committee of three was appointed to canvass the town and get as many names as possible before the next meeting night. The committee got enough additional names to make one hundred and twenty-five altogether. Only two men in the town who were asked refused to become members of the organization. The only business transacted was to elect officers and appoint one committee. The officers elected were as follows: President, Dr. W. B. Alexander; 1st vice-president, George Mellinger; 2nd vice-president, John M. Hays; secretary, Henry A. Reed; treasurer, C. F. Hoffman; trustees, Dr. S. Reynolds, Jas. K. Johnston, M. J. Farrell. The president appointed Frank J. Black, George Mellinger and C. J. Kerr as a committee to draft by-laws, and report at the next meeting, which will be held on Friday night of this week. Every one of the one hundred and twenty-five should attend the next meeting, and others who have not already joined, should hand in their names before that time. The Board of Trade is an organization for the benefit of Reynoldsville, not a few individuals, therefore all citizens are expected to help the good work along by their aid, influence and words. Success is sure to crown the efforts made by a live Board of Trade.

The president, W. B. Alexander, was instructed to appoint all the other committees necessary and publish them in the papers. The president has appointed the following gentlemen on the committees mentioned:

Finance:—A. M. Woodward, F. M. Brown, P. F. Bolger. Manufactures:—Chas. Herpel, L. M. Simmons, Robt. Wilson, Solomon Shaffer, Dr. J. B. Neale, C. J. Kerr, W. C. Schultze. Transportation:—M. J. Farrell, E. Neff, E. J. Lofts, Henry Herpel, Ed. Gooder. Protection of Trade, &c.:—H. Alex. Stoke, I. H. London, M. Mohney, Wm. Copping, J. S. Morrow, J. B. Arnold, W. H. Bell. Public Improvement:—C. Mitchell, D. F. Robinson, H. S. Belnap, David Wheeler, F. J. Black, J. J. Sutter, W. S. Ross.

A Real Genius.

On the first page of this issue will be found a picture of Prof. W. J. Weaver, a borough school teacher. He is a native of Clinton county, Pa. Was left an orphan at an early age; was cared for by his grand-parents. Attended the common schools of his native village until seventeen. Began teaching in 1878, intending with the proceeds to contribute to the support of his grand-parents and fit himself for teaching during the summer terms at the Central State Normal school at Lock Haven, Pa. While at this institution Dr. Albert N. Raub, the principal, selected him as his private secretary and confidential clerk, thus giving him an opportunity to take the complete elementary course and graduate, which he did in 1880. He was editor of the Normal Gazette for a number of terms, and at a meeting of the Alumni in 1880, was chosen poet for the evening commencement. Since that time he has successfully taught school in different parts of the state. He has considerable poetic ability, is a good painter, a newspaper writer, is now reading medicine in Dr. J. B. Neale's office. Has applied for a patent on a contrivance he just finished and is at work on another model. He is a real genius. He has served as secretary of the Jr. O. U. A. M. here since its institution and still holds the office. Is an ex-National Deputy of the Daughters of Liberty, and at the delegate convention of the Jr. O. U. A. M. held at Punxsutawney recently was elected secretary of the West Middle District Reunion Association of the above named order.

An Intruder.

The C. T. A. U. of A. ball given at Reynolds opera house Monday evening was well attended and passed off pleasantly, save the excitement in the early part of the evening. Soon after the mazy dance had commenced an uninvited guest made its appearance and caused considerable commotion among the ladies, and the floor was soon cleared of the dancers. A nasty big rat had everything its own way for a minute. The antics of the ladies as they jumped on chairs, wrapped their dresses around their feet and screamed at the top of their voices, was enough to frighten the rodent, but it was either charmed or dazed, because it walked slowly around the middle of the room until some of the men tramped on it and murdered the poor rat.

Last Night's Lecture.

John R. Clarke, of Buffalo, N. Y., who delivered his second lecture here last night, "To and Fro in London," was greeted with a fair-sized and appreciative audience. Mr. Clarke stands high as a lecturer in this place. The Lecture Association, which gave this lecture free to holders of season tickets, come out three dollars behind.

According to the Herald's statement there will be more building done at Falls Creek this year than any other in the history of the place. Six large business blocks will be commenced inside of two months.

EASTER IN REYNOLDSVILLE.

The Day was Observed by Special Services in Several Churches.

Sunday was a beautiful day. One well suited for those who had purchased new wearing apparel for Easter Day occasion, especially new bonnets and hats, and the number was not small in Reynoldsville. Many people, even professed christians, seem to forget the significance of the day, and think only of what they shall wear. Others make themselves miserable all day by seeing how many eggs they can eat for breakfast. The great thought of the resurrection morning passes thoughtlessly and unheeded by, and the glorious message it brings is unnoticed by many.

An appropriate Easter service was held in the Lutheran church, conducted by Rev. J. Ash, which was followed by communion.

The regular Easter services were held in the Catholic church last Sunday. The church was beautifully adorned with potted plants and cut flowers. Mrs. John H. Kaucher sent the cut flowers from Philadelphia. The mass was the finest and best executed of any they have had in their church for years. A special service was held in the evening, and the sight, with the altar filled with flowers and candles burning here and there, was a grand one indeed, and it was greatly admired by the large congregation that was present. The Catholic people of Reynoldsville usually decorate with a lavish hand, and this was no exception.

Special Easter services were held in the M. E. church last Sunday morning. The exercises were given by the scholars of the Sunday school, all of whom performed their parts in a creditable manner. The Epworth League, assisted by Aaron Rodgers, decorated the pulpit very nicely and neatly with potted plants. Considerable taste was displayed in the decorations. A basket of cut flowers, which Aaron Rodgers collected money for and sent to DuBois after, filled the room with sweet perfume. The collection, which was for mission, amounted to $56.69. In the evening the League gave a short literary program, as published in the STAR last week, with an additional recitation by Miss Mollie McKee, which was left out by mistake of the president of the League, M. M. Womer, and a recitation by Willis Hoon.

An Answer to "Enigma."

In last week's issue of the Volunteer was an article purporting to have answered School Girl, whose article appeared in the STAR of the previous week. It was not my intention to get up a controversy. Neither was it my intention to make one personal allusion in the article, which was only a few thoughts clothed in words. I have since been told that a number of young men are quite indignant about it. Why any of the young men of Reynoldsville should consider the article applicable to themselves is not for me to say. "Enigma" says my condemnation of the boys is uncalled for. If "Enigma" had carefully read my article, she (?) would have seen that there was no foundation for that accusation. The condemnation spoken of is not there. Life is a reality. Are there not deceptions practiced daily? We do not dream these things. If we did life would be a summer idyl indeed. Is it not terribly true that of the vast number of young men of our land, the greater proportion choose evil rather than good. My article had reference to no town or locality. There are undoubtedly a great number of noble young men in Reynoldsville. "Enigma" truly says that my experience is limited, and yet who can walk the streets of our little town after night has shrouded it in its mantle of darkness, without discovering that evil exists even within our own borders. A greater portion of the article in the Volunteer voices my sentiments exactly.

I was writing an article for boys. Had I written for girls I probably would have used just as plain language. Herein is the difference, boys, not one girl in the town would have acknowledged that the article touched her in any way. Boys, fight the battle of life bravely. You are the architects of your own fortunes. Inscribe on your banner self reliance, faith, honesty and industry. Don't drink. Don't chew. Don't smoke. Don't swear. Don't deceive. Love truth and virtue. If this advice is implicitly followed by the young men of the country the millennium is near at hand. SCHOOL GIRL.

Self-Acting Pump.

H. Alex. Stoke has an automatic pump in his cellar that was not very expensive, but which he would not part with for four times what he paid for it if he could not get another one like it. The cellar is drained so that the water runs into one corner and there a barrel has been put down and when it is filled with water the pump goes to work on its own accord and works away until the water is all pumped out. The pump requires no attention and will go to work in the middle of the night if needs be. Such an apparatus in a number of other cellars in this town would be a good thing.
