The belie tions are that the Legislature will not got through with the work that is before them in time to adjourn sine die b fore the last of May.

Many people do with opportunities as children do at the sea-shore: they fill their little hands with sand, and then let the grains fall through one by one till all are gone.

It takes four things to be a gentleman: You must be a gentleman in principles, a gentleman in your tastes, a gentleman in your manners, and a gentleman in your person.

Don't whine, Kick, struggle, sink: but don't whine. You may make a complaint but let it be in a manly, stand-up, once-for-all fashion. Dont drizzle forever; but pour, and stop. It is the peevish, disgruntled, incessant lament. it is the whine that wears. A vigorous tempest, a hearty scold, we can stand. The oak will brace itself against the storm and defy it. It despises the worm at its heart that bores on and kills Who rouses himself to resist a whine? It is too contemptible to awaken resistance, and yet it has its effect.

The heavenly light in which virtue reveals herself to the mind, humbles us by showing the defect of our principles. and saddens us by revealing the deformity of our character. Painful as the light is, we would not dim its luster; faded as is our moral comeliness, we would not mar the beauty of virtue, nor pull her down to our low level. On the contrary, fascinated with her charms, the purposes of the mind are stirred up to woo and wed her; to cast off its soiled and defiled garments and clothe itse'f in her beautiful image.

A late essayist says the newspaper is so comprehensive in its scope, so universal in administering to the wants of all classes, and of every occupation in life, that it brings, as it were, the financial an commercial markets of the world to our counting rooms, so that it may be truly said that a good advertisement in a widely circulated newspaper is the best of all possible salesman-one who never sleeps and is never weary, who goes after business early and late, who accosts the merchant in his shop. the lawyer in his office, the student in his study, the cultivated woman at the fireside, who can be in a thousand places | to get in the shooter's way on purpose to each day, saying only the best things at the right time and in the best manner.

The frequency with which lynch law is applied in many parts of the United States to-day is a blot upon our civilization. It is anarchy in its worst form, and a public spirit should be aroused against it which will suppress it. No man should be deprived of any right, more especially the right to life, until he has been notified of the charges against him, confronted with his accusers, given an opportunity to produce his witnesses, and cross-examine those produced against him, and been tried and judged by impartial triers. This is the foundation of security for all social rights, and when this idea is put aside we have anarchy pure and simple. The thing is not to be tolerated among a civilized people. It should be suppressed, and public opinion is the agency by which it is to be suppressed.

The habit of borrowing trouble is wrong, because it has a tendency to make us overlook present blessings, writes Dr. Talmage. To slake our thirst the rock is cleft, and cool waters leap into our brimming cups. To feed our hunger the fields bow down with bending wheat, and the cattle come down with full udders from the clover pastures to give us milk, and the orchards yellow and ripen, casting their juley fruits into our laps. Alas! that amid such exuberance of blessings we should growl as though we were soldiers on half rations, or sailors on short allowances; that we should stand neck-deep in harvests, looking forward to famine; that one should feel the strong pulses of health marching with regular tread through all the avenues of life, and yet tremble at the expected assault of sickness; that we should sit in our pleasant homes, fearful that ruthless want will some day rattle the broken window-sash with tempest, and sweep the coals from the hearth, and pour hunger into the bread tray; that we who are fed by Him who owns all the harvests, should expect to starve.

It is to be lamented that this and all communities have those who are so ready to speak lightly of woman's charneter. If the persons who are so ready with unauthenticated charges to lay at the door of some innocent woman, would stop and think for a moment upon what depends on the purity of woman, th y ould not be so fast to in jest or in earnest bring charges that if looked into would place the perpetrator behind bars, where he so richly deserves to be, Whatever of greatness we expect to attain to, either as individuals, as families or as a nation, depends upon the saf-guards and protetion we throw around our moth is and sisters, for to wip out her purity is to sink man beneath the waves of despuir, with no star to guide his life into a channel of safety. The roughest hand may pluck out and destroy the fairest flower, and the vilest and most blasphemous tough may destroy the fair name of a virtuous woman. Ponxsutawney Spirit,

"Six days shalt thou labor," says the great lawgiver. To do good work man must be at his best. This condition is attained by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It overcomes that tired feeling, quickens the appetite, improves digestion, and makes the weak strong,

A Magnetic Detecter.

A clever contrivance has been invented for the detection of small pieces of magnetizable metal, such as needles, tacks, steel and iron chips, etc., that may have entered the human body unawares and hidden themselves in the skin or deeper tissues. The instrument was devised by Dr. J. B. Williams and consists essentially of a partially a static combination of small magnetic needles suspended within a glass tube, the tube being covered with tinfoil to minimize electric action, except for a small space through which the needle can be observed. It is claimed that the instru-ment is sufficiently delicate to detect the presence of one-eighth of an inch of steel or iron wire at a distance of six inches from itself.-New York Telegram.

What You Shoot In China.

A naval officer once told the writer pheasant shooting in China was fair and would be really good if there were not so many obstacles about to enjoying it comfortably. He said that the people were so numerous that if you let a gun go off almost anywhere in China you were pretty sure to hit a China-man. They seemed easy, however, to deal with, a small present as damages sending them away in a contented state of mind, and indeed this naval authority did say that they would sometimes try zine.

Imitation In the Matter of Dress. Imitation is one of the most marked characteristics of human nature, and in nothing is this more noticeable than in the matter of dress. To the desire to do as others do may be attributed the prevalence of almost all the fashions that have existed since the days when our primitive ancestors donned their unpretentious fig leaves.—London Tit-Bits. Metal Ties For Roadbeds.

Numerous metal ties have been invented and many railroads have tried them, but all have proved unsatisfactory. The principal objections to them are based on their cost and their nonelasticity. track laid on metal ties wears out rolling stock much faster than one laid on timber.—New York Tribune.

Tempting Providence. "Mary Jane," said the Dakota farmer to his spouse, "it seems like flyin in the face of Providence to name the boy Elijah. It sounds too much like the old feller in the Bible that was carried away by a cyclone. I don't think it's a proper name at all fer this country."—Indianap-

In some of the departments at Wash ington there are so many clerks that the useless ones stand in the way of those who are disposed to work. The working clerks are a splendid force of experienced and capable men, but the Tite Barnacles are found everywhere.-Pittsburg Post.

It is a common thing for actors and actresses on the road to send money orders to themselves at coming places on their route lists, which is often the only care for the future many of them will

Was you at our Opening

Last week of Spring Goods; we appreciate the kind words of the ladies in commendation of the largest stock ever brought to the place, and their praise of our store decorations which has never been equalled in this section, and our town can now make the boast that we have a shopping mart second to none in this section. We intend to keep it up to the highest mark as regards stock and quality. As to prices, we only ask you to compare them with other places and see if we are not ten per cent lower. In white goods we have forty different styles from ten cent grade up to forty cents a yard, including the latest styles in dimitys. In wash goods for ladies' and children's waists we have an endless variety. In single dress patterns, no two alike and trimmings to match, we have them in all the latest shades; no such a variety has ever been brought to the place. House cleaning time means a change in drapery, something to brighten up the home. We have them from the satine grade at fifteen cents a yard up to the finest silk with silk fringe to match. Ladies kid gloves in all the desirable spring shades, both in lace and button, prices from seventy-five cents to one dollar and a quarter a pair. Dealing with us means a selection from the largest stock and the lowest prices. What more can you ask.
