WEDNESDAY, APRIL 26, 1893.

The glycerine works of the Climax Powder Company at Emporium was blown up last Friday morning and three men were killed.

A number of people have responded liberally to Dr. Talmage's request for money to pay off the indebtedness of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, but according to Talmage's report last Sunday it will require sixty thousand dollars yet to save it from the auctioneer's hammer.

Longfellow says: Every man must patiently abide his time. He must wait, not in listless idleness, not in useless pastime, not in querulous detection, but in constant, steady and cheerful endeavor, always willing, fulfilling and accomplishing his task, that, when the occasion comes, he may be equal to the occasion.

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, without a thought of fame. If it comes at all it will come because it is deserved, not because it is sought after. It is very indiscreet and troublesome ambition which cares so much about fame, about what the world says of us, to be always looking in the face of others for approval, to be always anxious about the effect of what we do or say, to be always shooting to hear the echoes of our own voices.

One is forcibly reminded, in going from place to place, how small and seemingly trivial of ten are the things which go to make or mar the comfort and peace of home. In some households there is a genuine good-will and kindness which only works out half of its mission, for the reason that it does not express itself in little courtesies of speech and action.

These are more important than some of our busy men and women may realize. The ready "thank you," "if you please," etc., at table and elsewhere, the quiet "excuse me," when obliged to pass directly before or inconveniently near another; the loving "good-night" and cheery "good-morning," although little things, are helps in making a happy home.

Courtesy is but the ready overflow of kindness and good-will to all, and is therefore, but a natural expression which costs nothing, but which often cheers an aching heart, and which never fails to make home brighter and more attractive to old and young.

If a newspaper man plainly made public all that he knows about the hidden movements in business or social life he would be able to create many a sensation as well as to enlighten the general public concerning many things whereof they are likely to die in ignorance.

We suppose the physicians know more than any of their neighbors concerning the personal life of a community in which they live, but an experience of a quarter of a century leads us to the conviction that the newspaper man comes next to them in abundance of his knowledge, and in certain departments he does not yield even to them.

Nor is his direction less great, for in spite of his anxiety to print a readable sheet and contrary to the general impression that he puts everything he hears and much he imagines into his newspaper, he is one of the most secretive of men and carries about with him a whole menagerie of secrets, the escape of any one of which would create a prodigious uproar and sometimes bring a proud head low.

But it is seldom that one gets away.—Lock Haven Express.

The assignment of Mr. A. G. Yates, of Rochester, N. Y., has been the topic of conversation in this section the past week, and various statements have been made by the newspapers concerning it. Our people need not have any uneasiness about the matter as it does not in any way affect the enterprises in this vicinity with which he has been connected.

The co-partnership of Bell, Lewis & Yates is succeeded by Bell & Lewis who announce they will pay all claims of the old firm. The coal and railroad companies are corporations and no assignment of any one interested in them could affect anything but the ownership of the stock which such individual might hold.

The credit or standing of the corporations would not be affected by change in such ownership if it should be made. Mr. Yates claims that his failure was caused by indorsing for H. H. Warner—the Safe Kidney Cure man of Rochester. Financial friends of Mr. Yates in Rochester came forward with proffered aid, but he declined it on the ground that it would only aid in paying notes so indorsed. The receiver has not yet made a report and it is not yet known how great the amount involved may be.

Rathmel.

Miss Rose Fye has returned to Rathmel.

If you want to know the way to Oliveburg, ask Ed. Moore.

The dressmaking and milliner work are booming in our town.

Miss Clara McClarren has gone to Eleanora for a few weeks.

Miss McKee will open her day school May 8th, instead of the first Monday.

Miss Eliza Charlton and Master Dorz made a flying trip to Frostburg last Tuesday.

Mrs. Nana Barnet and little daughter, Elda, returned to Rathmel to spend a few months.

The members of the M. E. church have organized a Sabbath school which meets at 9.30 A. M. every Sunday.

Those not attending other places at the same hour are cordially invited to meet with them.

Miss McKee will teach a night school commencing Monday evening, May 1st.

Young men, now is your time to make a start in the educational line.

You will never regret becoming a good common school scholar at least.

Rev. J. Bell Neff, of Parker, will give his famous lecture "Into the King Row and Crowned," in the M. E. church at Rathmel in the near future under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society, for the benefit of the church.

Don't fail to hear him.

Sandy Valley.

Mrs. Carl, of Seigel, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Walter Dillman, at this place.

Mrs. Blanche Schlabig, of DuBois, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cox, of Valley Home, during the past week.

James McGhee, of this place, started south Monday of last week.

We hear he intends to engage in the lumber business.

Mrs. John Cox and daughters, of Columbia county, visited her aunt, Mrs. E. J. Bompr, at this place during the past week.

A handsome monument has been erected to the memory of Mrs. Nancy Cox, who is buried in the Epworth cemetery at this place.

W. T. Cox is making extensive repairs on his farm at this place.

A long row of maple trees, a wire fence and the removal of innumerable stumps have improved the looks of his place very much.

Mr. Hannibal Hutchison returned home Saturday evening from attending the funeral of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hutchinson, of Johnsonburg, who were killed during a cyclone at that place.

It is generally understood among her many friends that Mrs. Ella Beels, of this place, is starting an onion farm, and, if we remember correctly, a large raspberry patch.

Ella says that if she must do the farming, that she is going to do it right and also to suit herself.

Of course we wish her unparalleled success.

The festival here last Saturday evening was a success, taking into consideration the fact that the rain and snow, which fell during the day, rendered it almost impossible for any one living at a distance to attend.

The Sherwood Cornet band was present and delivered some very fine music. The proceeds netted $11.53.

It is only of late years that rheumatism has been treated as a blood medicine.

But that this is a correct theory is proved by the extraordinary success attending the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in this painful and very prevalent malady.

It seldom fails of radical cure.

Swapped Yarns.

[Brookway Record.]

Sheriff Young of Brookville, and Uncle Robert Smith swapped yarns in the Logan house office one day during the week.

The adversities and privations of the early settlers was their topic, and each had a fund of experience to relate.

Uncle Robert was severe upon the fashions and foibles of the present day, and recalled the time when the housewife would trade some farm produce for a web of calico from which she would make a frock for each of several buxom daughters.

"And they looked every bit as pretty then as they do now," said the old man.

"Prettier, too," he added after a pause, with a far away look in his eyes.

"Do you remember the blue drilling pants we used to wear?" asked the sheriff.

"Mother would get enough of cloth to go around the houseful of boys, cut the pants out on the chopping block with an axe, run them together with a darning needle and a stout linen thread, and all were fixed for the season.

The cloth being dyed with indigo, we left blue prints on the chairs for a long time after the pants were new."

Then both recalling the time of the big frost in '59, when they lived on buckwheat cakes until the harvest of the following year.
