WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1893.

Truth never builds on the sand, no matter how much like rock it may look.

When you go to see the man who is too poor to take a newspaper, be careful that his dogs don't bite you.

People who visit your home and tell what your neighbor says about you will make known your remarks to the neighbor. There is a homely saying that "a dog that brings a bone will carry one away."

Always say a kind word, if you can, if only that it may come in perhaps with singular opportuneness, entering some one's darkened room like a beautiful fire-fly, whose happy circumvolutions he cannot but watch, forgetting his many troubles.

Virtue will surely be rewarded, but one who seeks virtue for the sake of reward can never find it, because the end at which he aims is not virtue but the reward. He makes virtue a secondardy consideration, and no one can obtain it who does not make it first.

The fountain of content must spring up in the mind; and he who has so little knowledge of human nature as to seek happiness by changing anything but his own disposition, will waste his life in fruitless efforts, and multiply the griefs which he proposes to remove.

In catering to the taste of the reading public it is well to remember that people who are altogether crude want something sensational—something to make them howl. Persons of some refinement want something to make them feel-something humorous, pathetic or emotional. Persons who are altogether refined want something to to make them think .- Punxsutawney Spirit.

The following article, which was published in the STAR one year ago last week and clipped by the Courier, is just as applicable for the two towns as it was the first time published:

"A howl has gone up from the DuBois Courier because the town's water works are not a success. During wet weather they have no trouble, but in the dry season their supply is limited. Reynoldsville people have reason to rejoice because we are blessed with a good water supply."

Christopher Columbus was the son of a weaver, and also a weaver himself. Claude Lorraine was bred a pastry-cook. Cervante was a common soldier. Homer was the son of a farmer. Demosthenes was the son of a cutler. Oliver Cromwell was the son of a brewer. Howard was an apprentice to a grocer. Franklin was a journeyman printer and son of a tallow-chandler and soap boiler Daniel Defoe was a hosier and son of a butcher. Cardinal Wolsey was the son of a butcher. Lucien was the son of a maker of statuary. Virgil was the son of a porter. Horace was the son of a shopkeeper. Shakespeare was the son of a wool-stapler. Milton was the son of a money-scrivener. Pope was the son of a merchant. Robert Burns was the son of a plowman in Ayrshire.

Many of the misfortunes which men suffer are due to ignorance, and many to carelessness. Diligence in acquiring information and careful attention to the business in hand would save many from bitter disappointments and regrets. The time to exercise care and good judgment is before an act has been undertaken and while it is being performed. Six million letters reached the Dead-Letter Office in Washington last year. These contained money amounting to $28,642, and drafts, checks and notes amounting to $1,471,871. A large proportion of these letters were misdirected or only partially addressed, and many of them were not addressed at all. Of these six million mistakes doubless nearly all were due to carelessness or excuseless ignorance. The address on multitudes of letters cannot be disciphered. For this blunder there is seldom the shadow of an excuse. If illegible writing were confined to those who have never enjoyed educational adrantages, the case would not be so bad. But many fine scholars offend grievously in this particular. This is only a ingle illustration of the carelessne which characterizes men and women in other and more important affairs. Much delicate and important work is being put through without much attention. Among mechanics, clerks, mer-chants, lawyers, physicians, teachers and ministers may be found many who owe their failures to this cause.

gues too numerous to mention. In the evening the young people met there and had a real jolly time. They left, after wishing Mrs. Garvin many happy returns of the day.

Only Looks Like a Man.

A fellow who looks like a man, dresse like a man, and talks sometimes like a man, but lacks the first principles of a man, has been in town on some business for a short time. If this would-be-lollipop masher persists in stopping ladies on the street after night he will run against some person's fist some evening with such force that the small quantity of brains in his big pate will rattle around so lively that he will think a heavy thunder storm is raging above This may teach him a lesson, especially if the job is a success and his probosels is spread around sufficiently to mar what he, no doubt, thinks is a pretty face, but he is as conceited in entertaining that thought as he is checky in stopping ladies on the streets. It is evident that the fellow was brought up in the "slums" of some city where respectability is a stranger and stopping females is one of the pastimes of the inhabitants of such "slums." This conduct will not be tolerated long in a civflized community.

Dog days began on Monday, July 10, and will end on Monday, August 25, a period when it is popularly believed the blood of animals, especially the dog, breeds rables, sending them forth in raging conditions of ferocity. It is also a belief that during the dog days care should be taken how men and boys bathe, and where they indulge in their ablutions, as the heat of the season produces boiles, ulcers, etc., on the human body.

If the rain still continues to retain its habitation in the heavens, Sandy Valley will soon be able to boast of some very good roads. We are sure that this fact will gladden the hearts of many of our young people, as they are very fond of buggyriding.

Thursday last was rather a big day in Sandy Valley, owing to the fact that quite a large number of people from Reynoldsville (supposed to comprise the Y. P. S. C. E. of that place) picnicked here. We hope they all enjoyed themselves as well as possible, owing to the magnitude of our busy, bustling city.

Last Friday Mrs. W. K. Garvin, of this place, left here for DuBois, intending to return the next afternoon. On her return what was her surprise to find her home taken possession of by a large crowd of ladies and gentlemen who quietly informed her that they had met there to celebrate the 35th anniversary of her birthday. When they left a beautiful picture and easel, also a handsome spring rocking chair remained as a gentle reminder that they had been there. These were the gifts of her many friends of this place and vicinity. Besides this were many other gifts too numerous to mention. In the

The Preachers are Away.

(Brookville Democrat.) This week most of the flocks of Brook ville are without shepherds. How much they will suffer in consequence we know not. We guess the lambs will get along all right if the old sheep will just keep within proper range. Dr. Conway, of the Presbyterian church is visiting his old home in Scotland; Rev. J. J. Kerr, the Lutheran minister, is at Chautauqua: Rev. J. W. Blaisdell, the Methodist preacher, is visiting his aged parents in New Hampshire; and Rev. J. T. Adams, United Presbyterian pastor, with his family is spending a few weeks with relatives in Venango and Butler counties.

REYNOLDSVILLE, PA., July 5, 1893. To all whom it may concern:

My dwelling house on Hill street, Reynoldsville, Pa., was struck by lightning on June 25th and was insured in N. G. Pinney's agency, Brookville, Pa., by Walter Spry, solicitor. The loss was paid Thursday and I can recommend Pinney's agency as prompt and JOHN WILLIAMS. reliable.-10-6.

An Elk county boy has had the pluck to make the trip to the World's Fair on a bycicle. Carl Oberg, of Wilcox, started Tuesday morning, July 11, for Chicago on his wheel and reached his destination in 71 days. The distance as recorded by the cyclometer on his wheel was 590 miles. He road a thirty pound safety wheel with pneumatic tire. He was compelled to ride fifteen miles of the distance over railroad ties on account of bad roads .- Ridgway Advocate.

The people of Reynoldsville and vicinity know when they have a good thing; that accounts for the great increase in business at Reed's shoe store. Henry is a worker and knows how to buy and sell good footwear.

The young people no doubt have lots of fun occasionally, but for the genuine article, married women take the cake. On Thursday evening last Henry Doverspike took about sixteen, more or less, of our married ladies to Oak Ridge in a hack. He was so much exhausted from laughing he was unable to unhitch his norses when he got home.-New Beth-
