Pedagogues were numerous in Reynoldsville Saturday. A desire to teach school in Winslow township was the cause of the influx.

There were twenty-eight rigs tied on Main street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, at one time Saturday afternoon, besides the ones on the go.

One of the floral beauties in Mrs. George Mellinger's collection just now is the night blooming cerus. There are several of these beautiful flowers in town, Mrs. Wesley Motter has one.

The probabilities are now that the B., R. & P. will not build a new depot at Falls Creek, but will move into the A. V. depot there and pay rent. The first named road is too poor at present to build depots.

We expect all of our subscribers to get their papers regularly every week, and will consider it a favor if they will notify us when they fail to get their paper. There are some things in this world we cannot account for and one of them is why all the readers of the STAR do not get their papers each week.

A Pleasant avenue young lady saw a snake the other day that was forty feet long.

She says the above statement is not exaggerated. This we consider, is a very large snake provarication.

John Goodwill, who lives along the northern suburbs of Reynoldsville, raises as fine garden truck as can be found in this section.

He brought cabbage into market Saturday that goes away ahead of what is shipped in from Baltimore.

There is more water wasted in Reynoldsville than should be. A small boy got the hose out in a hurry the other day to sprinkle the street in front of his papa's store before a fast coming shower arrived, as a did not want to get wet before the job was finished.

Will Rhines, of Ridgway, who at one time had something of a reputation as a ball pitcher, will have to return to peeling bark for a livelihood, or some other vocation, as his days for emolument by twirling the ball are being fast covered over by the cobwebs of time.

The third annual picnic of the Paradise Grange will be held in the Miller grove, near Keller's blacksmith shop, on Thursday, August 17th.

Arrangements are being made to have two or three excellent speakers present to entertain the people with their eloquence.

Frank Campbell, who can artistically handle a paint brush and has a good eye for paper hanging, got a job from the school directors last Thursday to beautify the interior of the borough school rooms.

All the rooms are to be repainted and papered with the exception of Prof. Stamey's room which received such an application not long ago.

The latest improvement at Falls Creek by the A. V. R. Co. is two portable signs painted black with a gold bronze band at the top of each, one pointing east the other west, and several prominent towns in the direction the hands are pointing are named on the boards.

The signs are wheeled out beside the noon passenger trains for the accommodation of the public.

Edward J. Schultze, the butcher, and Fred Burns drove to Punxsutawney Thursday afternoon. When driving "faster than a walk" over a little bridge two mile out of town one of the plank broke and let both horses down.

A piece of the plank struck Mr. Schultze on the chin and cut inch gashes two or three ways. The horses miraculously escaped uninjured and Ed. might have been more seriously hurt.

In strolling along the street Saturday looking for anything that could be converted into news, we sized up the market to see what there was in it to please the epicureans of this place and we found water-melons, cantelopes, new beans, new peas, new potatoes, apples, pears, peaches, sweet potatoes, roasting ears, cabbage, tomatoes, cucumbers, celery, beets, carrots, onions, oranges, bananas, lemons, butter eggs, &c.

A woman stepped into a restaurant at Falls Creek yesterday about the time the noon trains were due and asked for change for five dollars. The restaurant man refused to change it, and a blind man sitting there said he could give her the change, which she accepted.

After she went out some one said her reputation was not of the best, which induced the blind man to examine the "william," and it turned out to be a counterfeit she had palmed off on him. The woman disappeared.

What was known as the Carrier House at Falls Creek, was destroyed by fire between three and four o'clock Monday morning. The house had been remodeled at an expense of $1,000 and Mr. Lahey, of Lock Haven, had his goods at Falls Creek ready to move into the house Monday morning. The origin of the fire is unknown, but there is not a shadow of a doubt but that it was the work of an incendiary. An application would have been made at the next license court of Clearfield county for license for the hotel.

The job of paving Main street from the iron bridge to Russ street has been completed. About four hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber was used in the work. The paving will not be fully appreciated until the muddy season gets here. If Burgess Hays had fined all persons who broke the ordinance for fast driving over the paved streets on Sunday the borough exchequer would have been greatly replenished. The "Borough Dads" draw the reins too tightly at "six mile an hour" with a good horse on a paved street.

A gentleman living on a piece of land above the tannery, paid three dollars per dozen for a setting of eggs, something above the ordinary hen fruit. The eggs were hatched and before the little chickens were large enough to run fast, a man passed by and discovered what he supposed to be a nest of young pheasants and he gathered up the brood and took them home. He afterwards decided not to keep them and told a friend if he would come after the pheasants he might have them. The owner of the game chickens found out who carried them away and invited the man to pay for the chickens. This placed the fellow in a bad predicament. He had given the chickens away and now a big bill is awaiting his liquidation.

Lost a Finger.

Five or six loaded cars running into some empties was the cause of his injuries.

Dry Goods Box for a Platform.

E. W. Mills, of McKeesport, a Prohibition organizer, was to have lectured in Centennial hall last evening, but as the crowd in the hall was small he mounted a dry goods box on the street in front of the hall and succeeded in getting a fair-sized audience.

Hose Company No. 3.

A fire company was organized at Herpel's machine shop last evening. It was christened "Hose Company No. 3 of West Reynoldsville." It was organized with a membership of 19. Chas. A. Herpel was elected foreman; Wilson Barry assistant foreman; Will Woodring secretary; Henry Herpel treasurer.

Bottling Works.

D. J. Burgoon, of Punxsutawney, will have his bottling works at this place in operation next week. Mr. Burgoon has put up a building on 4th street where he will bottle soft drinks. He will employ three or four men and several boys during the summer months. Mr. Burgoon will move his family to this place next week.

Easily Accounted For.

A man from Reynoldsville is reported as having made a balloon ascension at the World's Fair recently and fell a distance of 1234 feet without receiving a scratch. His descension was so slow that it caused him no disturbance.—Falls Creek Herald.

Excursion to Clearfield.

The Epworth League of this place will run an excursion to Clearfield on Wednesday, August 9th. Tickets for adults, $1.00, children, between five and twelve years, 50 cents. Train leaves here at 7.10 A. M., returning, leaves Clearfield at 5.15 P. M. Tickets on sale at Bing & Co.'s dry goods store and Henry A. Reed's shoe store. All who go must have tickets before they get on the train.

The Bull Got Mad.

Mrs. John Goodwill was attacked by a Jersey bull a week or so ago and narrowly escaped instant death. The bull had never shown any signs of being ferocious before. Mrs. Goodwill had to be carried into the house. Mr. Goodwill went to the barnyard and gave the bull a severe whipping and it immediately left the premises and has not been back since. Mrs. Goodwill is able to be around again to attend to her household duties.

W. Va. Wants it.

A gentleman from Morgantown, W. Va., was in Reynoldsville last Friday for the especial purpose of trying to persuade Sykes, Allis & Moorhouse to go to Morgantown and start their woolen mill. As an inducement to go they were offered a row building, which would be built just as the woolen mill men want it, besides a new building they were also offered a bonus. We were informed last week by a member of the firm that the mill would be built on the old site, but the gentlemen are now undecided as to what they will do or where locate.

Winslow Township Teachers.

The school directors of Winslow township met at the Ohlotown school house last Saturday and selected their corps of teachers for the ensuing term, as follows: Ohlotown school, O. H. Johnston principal, Mildred Fuller No. 2, Lizzie Burris No. 3; Prescotville, Mabel Kennerson principal, Minnie Smeltzer No. 2; Dean, J. M. McCreight principal, Susie McGrainor No. 2; Sykesville, Prof. W. H. Quigley principal, Etta M. Work No. 2; Sandy Valley, Laura Patterson; Panoast, Mattie Wait; McCreight, Ethel McCreight; Saltwork, Taey Dempsey; Kline, Myrtle Geist; Jenks, Mollie Miles; Bollinger, Netta Coax; Steele, J. C. Faulk; Cross Roads, J. J. Wingert; Best, Bert Woodward; Phillippi, D. M. Geist.

Changed by Love.

The following story is told by Dame Rumor: A fair maiden of Reynoldsville was teaching school at a hamlet near this place not many moons ago and a red-headed, bow-legged young man of that hamlet fell in love with the school marm. A revival was in progress at the time and the young man was converted and he decided to be baptised and join the church. The preacher announced that the y. m. would be baptised on a certain day. The Reynoldsville girl differed with the y. m. on the question of baptism and succeeded in winning the fellow to her way of thinking. If there is ever a time in her life a woman can persuade a man to her view of matters, it is just about the time he "pops" the question. "After marriage business" is a failure. The preacher had to announce to his congregation that the man had decided not to be baptised that day. He explained it by saying that a greater power than his had been working with the young man—it was love. The girl went back on the youth and now he has no girl, was not baptised and is not a member of the church.

Nothing But Pleasure.

An editor's life is a continual holiday from Christmas to Christmas. Discouragement is unknown in his environments. He gets free rides on railroads, free tickets to shows, and an occasional square meal, free! Mind you, free! (for two or three times their value in advertising) and the dear public are so easily pleased. Complaints about the way a newspaper is run, tongue lashings for publishing certain items, having a number of people on the subscription list who fail to liquidate for the paper, boom a town and have some of the business men support a print shop in some other town, live on promises and the "devil" to pay every Saturday night, all these, and many more such trifles, if they were poured into an editor's every day life might have a tendency to make him wish for a hastening of the time when he will cross over the little stream of death and enter the "land of pure delight," but all editors are aware of the absurdity there would be in it even to insinuate that such things are ever heard of in a newspaper office. An editor don't have much to do but work hard from Saturday to Saturday and attend church twice on Sunday. Some editors who associate too much with people who are sanctimonious on Sunday and serve the devil through the week, have been known to have their conscience so sored over that they will quietly enter their sanatorium on the Lord's day and write an editorial about closing the World's Fair on Sunday, &c. Hypocrits would, in the course of time, lead even a newspaperman from the path of rectitude. The man who is looking for a business that never gives trouble and brings in the "root of all evil" so rapidly that he will be puzzled to know where to lock it up so he will not be robbed, let him enter the newspaper business.

Soured on Shafer.

About fifty people of Reynoldsville accepted an invitation from E. E. Shafer, proprietor of Hotel Whitney at Punxsutawney, to attend the opening of that hotel on July 27. To make the affair a success, so far as this place was concerned, the Keystone band was taken along to furnish music, which they did in their usual excellent style. A common meal was served at 50 cents apiece. What soured the Reynoldsville parties was the proprietor taxing the band boys 50 cents a piece for supper, which was paid by one Reynoldsville man, and just before starting home this same gentleman asked for a box of cigars for the band and the proprietor charged him $1.75. Shafer did not even thank the band. Had it not been for the people from our town he would not have had much of a crowd. He proved himself to be such a genial host (?) that all who were over from here will use their influence (in a pig's eye) to persuade people who attend Punxsutawney to stop at the hotel. Hotel Pantale is the hostelry of "Punxay," and Mine Host McConnell is a first-class hotel man who has the neck down fine of catering to the public, which most all Reynoldsville people know and consequently Hotel Pantale suits them very well.

Take Exceptions.

A letter was received at this office Monday signed by four young ladies of Emerickeville, who take exceptions to the item which appeared in the STAR two weeks ago about the conduct of some young people of that place when they met two young men of Reynoldsville who were driving home from Brookville. A part of the letter reads as follows:

"Two dearly beloved drunken sots were out on a spree. While taking a swig these fellows drove over a gutter and up the side of a big mountain. They drove into the crowd and hurt a girl badly. She just took the band-aids off to-day. Her doctor bill was something immense, as the doctor's fees are five dollars a trip. They made out that we Emerickeville people were quite tough and were the cause of all the trouble. We know it was their own fault."

The ladies were mistaken in the name of one of the gentlemen mentioned, and in fact must have been a little confused and mistaken about the whole affair. One of the young men has never tasted whiskey.

"Deacon" Done it.

Monday morning Mrs. Thomas Taper asked her husband to bring up some boiling meat for dinner. "Deacon," like a good husband, promised he would and then went to his business and forgot about the meat until ten o'clock. When he got home his wife was down town buying something for dinner, and he thought he would play a joke on her and he put the meat on and returned to the livery stable, intending to go back to the house soon again, but his memory served him as it did in early morning, and "Deacon" did not go back until the fire alarm was given. The meat boiled dry and then burned and raised quite a smoke, which was discovered by a passer-by who thought the house was on fire and gave the alarm. The hose company was ready to appear at the fire, but was informed of the false alarm and did not go. A little thing sometimes raises a "big stink," and this was no exception, for the smell was simply awful. "Deacon" will not play such a joke on his wife soon again.
