The painters and cigar makers played base ball yesterday afternoon. The score was 18 to 18 at the finish of the seventh inning, and as the players were weary they called it quits.

Francis Jerome Black, proprietor of Hotel McConnell, has a choice lot of flowers for making button-hole bouquets. Frank has taste for things beautiful and knows how to arrange a pretty bouquet.

The N. T. L. Society will hold an ice cream social at the home of the Misses Ayers on Main St., Thursday evening, Aug. 22nd. Proceeds to be applied to the painting of the Presbyterian parsonage.

Forty-seven people went on the excursion from this place to Niagara Falls Sunday. They were to have arrived here about 1.00 A. M. on the return trip Monday, but on account of a freight wreck they did not get home until almost noon Monday.

Harry O'Bryan says he has a cucumber that measures twenty-seven inches in length. According to Dr. Neale's statement Harry only lied 124 inches. Doc. says he measured it and it is fourteen and one-half inches long. It is still a good sized cucumber even at 144 inches.

The A. V. R'y Co. are reducing expenses. The carpenters on the Low Grade Div. have been taken off, one man laid off at the machine shop here, and the man who gives the engines their supplies here has been taken off and the car inspector is attending the supply house.

Some of the people living in the neighborhood of the Syphrit church claim that there is a panther roaming around there. The carnivorous quadruped has made its presence known only by its midnight cries, no one has met the fiery-eyed animal yet. In all probability it is an hallucination.

We mentioned last week that two young men fought about a girl they were both "amitten" on, but were mistaken as to cause of fight. They had been to a dance the night before and had some trouble about the right to a place on the dancing floor, which was the cause of the fracas Tuesday night.

Hose Co. No. 3, of West Reynoldsville, has ordered three hundred feet of hose. The hose cart is not here yet, but they expect to have one before very long. Where the hose cart will be kept is not known positively yet. There is some talk of building a house to keep it in and where the fire lads can hold their meetings.

A concertist, banjo player, singer, and several other fellows who travel with 25 cent shows, visited Reynoldsville last week. They gave free exhibitions and concerts on the streets and passed the hat. If there is no law requiring a fine from such fellows, there is certainly a proviso for blockading the streets and sidewalks.

Some person tried to get into Ralph McKee's residence on Hill street one evening last week. Ralph heard him at the door and got up and asked him what he wanted and the fellow left. When the family got up in the morning they found that the lock had been broken off the door. If Mr. McKee had kept quiet a little longer the intruder would have been in the house.

Frank Sutter accidentally knocked a little daughter of Milton Schlabig's down with his bicycle while riding on Main street a few days ago and broke one of the small bones of her left arm, and in a few days afterward ran over the same gentleman's dog. Frank was arrested when he ran over the dog, but as the Burgess could find no law that provided for the case, he was discharged without a fine.

It is a wonder there has not been numerous accidents to chronicle about small boys being injured by bicycles on Main street. The boys are so daring. Two or three of them will stand on the street until the bicycle rider is almost onto them and then perhaps they will start to run in different directions about the time the bicycle rider turns out for them and one of the boys will run in front of the wheel. If a boy happens to get run down when doing such tricks he is not deserving of any pity.

The Republicans of Jefferson county held a special primary election on Saturday to nominate one person as a candidate for the office of prothonotary and clerk of courts. There were two candidates in the field, J. G. Allen, of Warsaw township, and W. D. Clark, of Brockwayville. A committee appointed by the County Chairman, E. C. Burns, will meet in Reynoldsville at 2.00 P. M. to-day to compute the returns and declare the result. The committee appointed are: F. A. Weaver, of Brookville; Geo. W. Wales, of Puxsuttawney; A. R. Chapin, of Brockwayville; L. A. Hays, Winslow township; C. D. Rowan, of Oliver township. There is very little doubt but that W. D. Clark will be declared the candidate for above mentioned office.

Both got Frightened.

Frank J. Black, proprietor of Hotel McConnell, owns a spirited pony which is hard to ride and it is seldom ladies ride it. Thursday Miss Annie Black got onto the pony to take a ride and just as she got into the saddle the steed frightened and gave a little jump, then Miss Annie got frightened and jumped and sprained one of her ankles so badly that she rested a few days from the responsible position she holds as mistress of the hotel for her brother.

Not Going to Resign.

Last week's issue of the Brockwayville Record contained an article headed, "An important change," which was in substance that Hon. S. B. Elliott, general manager of the Bell, Lewis & Yates C. M. Co. at this place and DuBois, and the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron Co., which includes the mines at Adrian, Walston, Eleanor and Bechtree, is to retire from this responsible position at an early date. When interviewed by a representative of the STAR, Mr. Elliott said it was news to him, that he had no intention of resigning, but does expect to take a six months' vacation as soon as arrangements can be made for it.

False Report.

The scandalous report that was circulated at this place several months ago about a young man's barbarous act with a young lady at Puxsuttawney, has proven to be a base lie, without any foundation. The father of the lie deserves nothing less than the full extent of the law for the attempt to ruin the character of two young people. If there is anything that is branded with the trade mark of hates, it is the contemptibleness of an effort to besmirch a man or woman's reputation. Such attempts are generally the offspring of the green-eyed monster, or an effort on the part of those who have already lost their self respect to drag others to their own level.

Formerly Night Dispatcher.

Arthur H. Collins, who was a night dispatcher in the A. V. R'y office at this place for some time, but who left here a year ago, died at the home of his parents at St. Petersburg, Pa., Aug. 8th, at 7.00 P. M., after an illness of ten days. Mr. Collins resigned his position as dispatcher on account of poor health and after a two months' rest he went to work for the National Transit Co. and was working at Bradford and caught a heavy cold which ended his life so suddenly. I. M. Hoch, one of the operators at this place, attended the funeral as a representative of the Low Grade telegraph operators. The Transit boys bought a very pretty casket and the floral offerings were beautiful.

He Killed the Cat.

One day last week Frank Rodgers and his wife were very badly frightened. Their baby was not feeling very well and Mrs. Rodgers gave it a dose of paregoric and put it to bed. Some time afterwards she went into the room where the baby was sleeping and found a strange cat, as they do not own a feline, sitting close to the baby's face. The mother screamed, Frank ran into the room, caught the cat by the hind legs and knocked its brains out against a post on the porch. Grandpa Rodgers was there at the time and he dispatched Frank after a doctor, in the mean time all attempts to get the baby awake were fruitless. When the M. D. arrived he discovered the only thing wrong was a little too much paregoric.

Accepted the Call.

It is a well known fact that since the first of last April the Presbyterian flock at this place has been without a shepherd, Rev. Furbay at that time resigning his pastorate of the congregation. The Presbyterians have been on qui vive ever since until Wednesday night of last week. At that time the church was largely represented at a congregational meeting and a unanimous call was given to Rev. H. R. Johnston, of Latonia, near Pittsburg. On Saturday word was received that Rev. Johnston will accept the call. It is expected that he will begin his work here about the middle of September. The congregation think they have made an excellent choice, and that Rev. Johnston will do good work at this place. He has a wife and one little child.

Don't Tie to Shade Trees.

People who have horses in their charge should be very careful where they tie them. A gentleman who knows better, but was thoughtless about it, tied his team to one of the pretty shade trees in front of the M. E. parsonage one day last week and the horses peeled the bark off in several places, one strip was three feet long. There is a fine of $20.00 for just such acts as destroying or damaging trees. It is often carelessness on the part of the parties who tie the horses, but there is no proviso for carelessness. In the case above cited the gentleman may be thankful if the trustees of the church do not come onto him for damage. We live in a section where trees are plenty, but when a man gets a pretty tree in front of his house that is getting to be of some good, he does not want it destroyed just for a hitching post. Never tie a horse to a shade tree.

After a Pennsylvanian.

Prof. Harry Pattison, principal of the New Whatcom, Wash., high schools, came to this section in the early part of July, presumably for the purpose of visiting friends here and his parents near Puxsuttawney, but the Prof. only tarried here and at his home a few days, as he was anxious to visit at several other places, especially Avalon, a village five miles below Pittsburg. The secret of the long trip from the Pacific slope has been explained. Prof. came back for one of Pennsylvania's charming fair maidens. On Wednesday, August 9th, he and Miss Effie Finley, of Avalon, joined hands at hymen's altar and promised to love and cherish one another so long as life lasts. Rev. Johnston, Methodist minister, of whose church the bride was a member, performed the ceremony. The marriage was the outgrowth of a bud of affection which made its appearance when the twin were school mates together. Mrs. Pattison has a husband of whom she has reasons to be proud of, while Prof. has secured a highly educated and accomplished lady who will be a congenial companion in life's uncertain pathway. The STAR joins the Prof.'s many friends here in wishing he and his bride a pleasant and successful voyage as they travel over the sea of time.

The happy couple came to Reynoldsville Saturday and remained until Monday afternoon and then returned to Avalon. Next week they will go to Washington state to live.

Don't Know the Difference.

Once upon a time, since the Falls Creek Herald was established, the editor hid himself through the rural districts hardly his town with a view of increasing his circulation, and while at a farm he strolled through the orchard with the farmer, who was explaining the variety of apples, and a Lincolnshire lamb the farmer had just received from Chester county, attracted their attention. The lamb's fleece was about eight inches long. The farmer ran his fingers through to show the Herald editor what fine long wool it had on and Bangert said: "Oh my Lord, what long hair that has on it. That should be cut off." When Sykes, Allis & Moorhouse move to Falls Creek the Herald man will want them to buy their wool at the tannery.

Brick Pavement.

E. L. Evans is having a brick pavement laid in front of his property on Main street, from Geisler's tailor shop to Herpel's barber shop. We are pleased to note such substantial improvements.

CAPITAL OF CLEARFIELD CO.

A Pretty Town—Beautiful View—Mysterious Cave.

Last Thursday morning W. C. Elliott, editor Volunteer, and his office force, E. Will Groone and L. L. Gourley, and ye editor of STAR and office force, Roman E. Koehler and Harry Truitt, laid aside the cares of the print shops for a day and visited Clearfield. The scribes and typos boarded the 7.10 train with P. H. Hannon, engineer, and Barney D. Lavery, conductor. The engineer had just gone to work after a two weeks' vacation and he made a fast run to Falls Creek. Will Coax, the brakeman, says it is a "cannon ball" train between Reynoldsville and DuBois. The morning was a delightful one for a ride down the Anderson Creek Valley. From Rocton to Curwensville there is enough picturesqueness—for those fond of barren mountains, dotted with leafless and limbless trees—to please the most fastidious. There is signs of life and verdure from Curwensville to Clearfield.

When we entered Clearfield we found quietness encamped all around the little city, even having full way in its main thoroughfares. We visited the three printing offices, Journal, Public Spirit and Republican. Bro. McQuown, of the Journal, was out of town, Goodlander of the Republican, seemed to have some pressing business to look after, but Matt. Savage, ex-principal of the Clearfield schools for a number of years, ex-county superintendent of Clearfield, now the genial, hustling editor of the Public Spirit, found time to show us the town in its every day life. Bro. Savage hired a two horse carriage, bought a water-melon, and the three married men of the party accompanied him to several hill-top views of the town, while the single members of the party were having a jolly time in the park with the Clearfield maidens that were attending a Sunday school picnic. There are few places, if any, where a more beautiful view greets the eye as one stands upon one of the eastern hills and looks down on the well shaded town with its pretty paved streets. There is plenty of room to build a large city, and from the way the town is now awaking from its lethargy and getting manufactures within her borders, it is only a matter of time until their streets will be filled with busy humanity and the hum of industry will be heard far up the valley towards Curwensville. One mistake they have made is to have two boroughs of what should be one.

The Public Spirit is an excellent paper, yet we have wondered what boomed the circulation of the paper, but learned the secret while at Clearfield Thursday. Savage is such a genial fellow that he draws people to him like sugar does flies. If Clearfield does not boom it will not be Matt. Savage's fault.

Among the hotels of Clearfield we found Hotel Windsor a first-class house, furnished elegantly and has all the latest improvements. It is a $2.00 a day house. Clearfield is an old town and got its present name from the fact that traveling to the town from the east it was all a wilderness until the top of the hill was reached and the entire town and river greeted the weary traveler's eye. It was formerly an Indian village. In the hills west of town is an unexplored cave. Men, with ropes around them, have ventured in three or four hundred feet but found no end to the mysterious cave. When the town was an Indian village the red men had large quantities of gold and silver ore, but would not tell the white man where they got it, and some people connect the cave with the Indians and their gold.

Clearfield can knock Reynoldsville out when a pretty town is the consideration, but for business our town is way ahead. "Beauty is only skin deep," you know.

Town Council.

A special meeting of the town council was held at Burgess John M. Hays' office Monday evening. The first business was to appoint a Board of Health. The following gentlemen were appointed to look after the sanitary condition of the districts named:

First district, from west borough line to Fourth street, M. J. Farrell.

Second district, from Fourth to Seventh street, Dr. A. H. Bowser.

Third district, Seventh to Tenth street to Soldier Run, Richard Jennings jr.

Fourth district, from Tenth street to east borough line, W. K. Marshall.

Fifth district, all the borough on south side of Soldier Run, L. D. Klein-hans.

The sanitary sample law from State Board of Health was referred to the ordinance committee to add too and take from it what would be suitable for our borough.

Council decided to complete the work of paving Main street between Hotel Belnap and the Arnold block by extending the paving in to the sidewalks. It was expected at first that the property holders would pave from the sidewalks out to connect with the work done by the borough. A. O'Donnell will furnish the lumber and the Burgess and Street Commissioner will do the work by the day and will hire all help necessary.

Men's heavy Congress shoes $1.25 at Robinson's.
