Fred. A. Bell, of Buffalo, N. Y., a member of the large coal concern at this place, came to town last week and brought a photographer with him from the "Queen City of the Lakes," who took a large picture of the works at the Big Soldier mine. He also photographed several other points connected with the company's works at this place.

In the tenth annual announcement of the Medical and Dental Departments of the National University, Mt. Vernon Square, Washington, D. C., for 1893-94, we find in the list of demonstrators the name of E. King Gerow, D. D. S., demonstrator of prosthetic dentistry. Dr. Gerow is one of the young men who bought Dr. McCreight's dental rooms at this place.

Thomas Clayton and William Bailey had a case before Squire Neff Monday afternoon. Bailey was charged with assault and battery on one of Clayton's boys, for which he had to give bail in the sum of $200.00 for his appearance at court. The aforesaid Bailey was also accused by Thos. Clayton of swearing eleven times, for which Bailey had to pay $5.36 and costs.

An umbrella mender was in town Saturday and late in the evening he was standing on the edge of the sidewalk near Hotel Belnap and several young men came along and ran against the "mender" and knocked him into the ditch. The fellow cried and said his arm was broken and the rascals who pushed him ran. The man's arm was painfully injured, but not broken.

Monday afternoon while C. Mitchell was pleading a petty case before Squire Neff, one of the witnesses got "huffy" at the incredible manner with which Mr. Mitchell handled his testimony in the case. The Justice told the man to keep quiet, but the fellow brought his fist down on the bar of justice with great force and made it emphatic with an oath. Such contempt of court just cost the fellow $1.42.

Harry, a two-year-old son of Wm. Ellenberger, had the little finger of his left hand very nearly severed by a hatchet in the hands of a four-year old sister Saturday. The little girl was playing with the hatchet and Harry ran his hand between it and the ground the girl was striking at. The finger was so near cut off that the doctor had doubts of saving it, but now thinks the finger will knit all right.

The committee appointed for the purpose, as stated in our last issue, met County Chairman Burns at Hotel Belnap, in this place, last Wednesday afternoon and counted the vote cast for prothonotary at the primary on the 12th inst. There were fourteen hundred votes cast, of which D. W. Clark, of Brockwayville, received 1006, and J. G. Allen, of Allen's Mills, received 396, they being the only candidates in the field.

Near the coal company's office at Big Soldier there is a reservoir eight or ten feet deep. Ed. Jennings, who was working in Capt. Reynolds' place last week, went out one night for a bucket of water and his gold watch dropped in. Ed. told Jim Maloney, who has charge of the compressor at night, what had happened and he donned an old suit he had at the engine house and dived into the reservoir, where the watch had dropped and brought the "ticker" up at the first attempt.

He Got $30.00.

Rev. J. M. Lyons returned from Reynoldsville on Monday. He collected about $30 for the Baptist church here, at Reynoldsville last Sunday.—Johnsonburg Breeze.

How Could They?

(Punsutawney Spirit.)
Dr. J. B. Neale, of Reynoldsville, was in town yesterday with his mustache shaved off, and his best friends failed to recognize him until he discovered himself unto them.

Distinguished Visitors.

A party of gentlemen from the Western Pennsylvania Mining Institute, accompanied by prominent operators and engineers, will visit the mines at this place and DuBois to-morrow. The party will number about one hundred. They will come from Pittsburg on the A. V. R'y, arriving here at one o'clock. After they dine a special train will convey them to Big Soldier and from there to Rochester mine.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Last Saturday Maggie McConnell, of the Beechwoods, started for the potato patch to unearth some "murfies" and in crossing the fence she lost her equilibrium and fell. Her left shoulder struck mother-earth so hard that a dislocation—not of the earth, but shoulder—was the result. Dr. Neale went out and restored the dislocated member to its wonted place. Maggie will not dig potatoes for a few days at least.

Buried in Rock.

An old farmer named Irvin is buried at the top of one of the barren mountains that towers above the C. & M. R'y between Blooms Run and Bridgeport. Many years ago the old man was working on his land and he found a grave in the rock which was filled with leaves and other stuff. He made a request that his remains be buried in that lonely spot in the stone grave made by unknown hands. It is said that the grave was such a snug fit that a shovel could hardly be run down between the coffin and stony walls of the grave. Mr. Irvin's wife died first and was buried at Curwensville.

Get the Gold Prize.

The prize of twenty-five dollars in gold to be awarded to the ladies lodge of the Golden Eagles that had the largest percent of membership in the parade at DuBois on the 8th inst., was at first decided in favor of the ladies of Brockwayville, but the Reynoldsville people had their "eagle eye" on the prize and objected to Brockwayville getting it. When the matter was investigated it was discovered that a mistake had been made and that Pleasant Valley Temple, No. 25, of Reynoldsville, is entitled to the gold prize. Twenty-five out of the twenty-seven members of this lodge was in the parade.

Three Brothers.

There are three Bigglemen boys braking on the Low Grade Div. of the A. V. R'y, and all three have been injured since they began railroading, and the accident happened in each case a few weeks after they went onto the road. Frank was the first one to begin braking and also to get injured. Felix had his left arm badly smashed in the yard at this place last winter. About six weeks ago Lewis, the youngest brother, went on the road, and in making a coupling at Red Bank last Wednesday a link run into him and let his intestines protrude. It was at first thought that he could not live, but the fellow seems to be getting along nicely.

'Twas False.

Monday morning the DuBois Courier contained an item from that paper's special correspondent at Brockwayville, which claimed that a young lady seventeen years old, living near Brockport, had given birth to triplets, which had human heads and dog bodies from the shoulders back, and that all are doing nicely. The correspondent finished the wonderful news item by saying, "This is no 'fish' or 'snake' story, but a fact as reported to your scribe by a reputable citizen of that vicinity." The report had a lie on the face of it, because such a thing is an impossibility. A gentleman came from Brockwayville Monday evening and said there was no truth in the statement and no foundation for such a report.

Blew Out His Light.

A corn doctor got two dry goods boxes and three or four tallow candles for lights and opened up his medicine grip and his "bazoo" on Fourth street, near Hotel Belnap, Saturday evening and soon had a large crowd around him, with the small boys in the front row. The corn-cure peddler soon learned that the boys could make more noise than he could. Polite requests for the boys to behave was like water on a duck's back. The impudent young scamps throw paper balls at the candles, extinguishing them one at a time until the old doctor and his audience were left in the darkness. The fakir said he had paid a license to sell on the street and he should be protected, but in this statement he handled the truth rather carelessly, for he had not paid for a license. While the old man was breaking an ordinance and should have been "pulled in" for it, yet that was no excuse for the hoodlum actions of the small boys.

Tumbled In.

Tennie May, eleven-year-old daughter of William Barkley, narrowly escaped being drowned in the Sandy Lick creek last Wednesday. Tennie and her little brother, Cearing, and Junna Love crossed the creek on a foot log, a short distance below Mr. Barkley's house, to gather some elderberries. On the homeward trip Junna crossed first and Tennie started after her, but when near the middle of the stream she stopped to wait on Cearing, she being afraid he might fall in. While standing there waiting Tennie got dizzy and tumbled into the water. She went down twice, and when she came up the second time she caught hold of a board and held onto it until help came. The screams of the children attracted the attention of some fellows who were playing cards under a shade tree hard-by, and they hastened to the rescue. Before the men arrived Cearing stood on the frail foot walk and reached out his little hand to help Tennie out of the water, but the girl had sense enough to know that she would pull her brother in to if she took hold of his hand. The parents were away from home and Doc wanted Tennie to go and get meat for dinner before she started for berries, but Tennie would not go. She says it was awful dark under the water and all she could think of was not going after that meat for Doc.

Kicked Out.

Glenn Millren has a young horse that is not a lover of dogs, and it will kick at one whenever it gets an opportunity. Last Thursday morning Glenn was driving his nag along Main street in a buggy and when he got opposite Hotel Dillman a boy passed with a Billy goat hitched in a little wagon. Glenn's horse mistook Billy for a dog and kicked at it and started to run. At the Belnap house the animal's rear extremities flew into space and one foot caught Glenn on the left side and raised him out of the buggy. The runaway bent an axel on Jacob Schwem's buggy, which was standing on Fourth street, near Hotel Belnap, and then the horse ran into a pile of brick and left the buggy and took a jaunt to Solomon Shaffer's lumberyard and came back and met Glenn on the street and stopped. The buggy was a little disfigured, Glenn's watch had the tick knocked out of it, as it was between Glenn's side and the horse's hoof when the kick was delivered that compelled the young man to ungracefully get out of the buggy, otherwise there was no damage done. The young merchant was a little sore for a few hours.

Most all Wind.

A fellow, of Hopkins, raised quite an excitement near the A. V. R'y station last Saturday evening just after the seven o'clock train pulled out from the station. The parties had some previous trouble and Jim, with a number of friends, was at the train to meet Harry for the purpose of settling the matter in a Sullivanistic style. The Hopkins lad had a crowd with him. Words are cheap and wind plenty, but when it came to the fighting point Jim lacked staying qualities and he ran through the crowd with Harry after him. Jim squealed for mercy and the fight, without the spilling of a drop of blood, ended. There is no doubt but that some person was to blame for the disgraceful scene, just whom we are unable to say, but it would have been right to have arrested the participants.

House Burned.

Last Wednesday the house of Isaiah Wolfe, with all its contents but a sewing machine, was totally destroyed by fire. Mr. Wolfe has a wife and seven children and even their clothing was burned, only that which was on their backs. The unfortunate man lived near Paoli. E. W. McMillen circulated a subscription paper in Reynoldsville and raised about fifty dollars for Wolfe. Some of the good people in their immediate vicinity bought goods and clothing for the family.

Two Boys Drowned.

Malachi and Martin Graham, of Clarion, aged 12 and 14 years, were drowned in the river at that place last Friday afternoon. The boys had been out gathering berries and stopped to take a swim on their way home. It is supposed that they were warm and took cramps when they got into the water. They were sons of Martin Graham. Mrs. M. Kearns and son John, of Reynoldsville, friends of the bereaved parents, went to Clarion Saturday and attended the funeral Sunday, which was a very large one.

A Preacher Married.

Rev. J. G. Harshaw, a Methodist Episcopal minister at Salem, Clarion district, and Miss Mertie Thompson, of Portland Mills, Pa., will be united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at the last named place at ten o'clock to-day. The Reverend and his bride will pass through Reynoldsville on the 1:42 train this afternoon on their wedding trip. The bride is a sister of Dr. H. P. Thompson.

Sept. 4th.

Four of the American lodges of this place will serve dinner and supper in the G. A. R. hall on Labor Day. A good program has been prepared which will be free to all who go to hear it.

The State pays all expenses and allows the boys $1.50 per day during the encampment. The two Lowther boys enlisted for three years and their time will expire next March. They were called out last year during the Homestead difficulty.

Grange Picnic.

The third annual picnic of the Paradise Grange, No. 854, was held in the Miller Grove last Thursday, and was an exceedingly pleasant affair. The rain the night before and the strong indications of more rain Thursday morning, induced some people to remain at home, but notwithstanding the unfavorableness in the morning a large number of people, with well filled baskets, hied themselves away to the grove. Lumber had been hauled to the grove and a platform built and the remainder of the boards were converted into seats and long tables. At 11:30 A. M. J. M. Norris called the picnicers together on the seats in front of the platform for a few appropriate exercises. Jacob Sutter was elected to preside and ye editor was chosen as secretary. The program was as follows: "Welcome song," by Noah Strouse and family; address of welcome by Mrs. Noah Strouse; music by choir, "Whom Shall we Let in?" The speakers of the day not being present yet, Rev. H. G. Tegarand was called upon for an address, and he told the Grangers all he knew about farming, which was not very much, and then discussed some of the topics of the day in which the farmers are interested. Instrumental music on a mandolin and two guitars by W. L. Estella and John Strouse. Rev. J. H. Jelbart was then called upon for a few remarks. Rev. Jelbart said his knowledge of farming was limited, in fact he was ignorant of farm work, but if the subject was on digging coal he might give them a few pointers, however, Rev. Jelbart said some things that were worthy of consideration. Dinner was announced, which was good news to some people who were on the grounds. Space will not permit giving the bill of fare, but people who have ever been fortunate enough to dine with some of the good farmers of Paradise settlement can have some conception of the eatables that were piled on those long tables 'neath the shades of the tall forest trees. While the woodpeckers were busy pecking on nearby trees, pine squirrels were running from tree to tree, occasionally stopping long enough to give the audience some of their peculiar music, and the wind toyed with the tree tops, the picnicers were busy storing away the viands that had been prepared by those adept in the culinary department.

At 2:30 the program was again taken up. The choir sang several excellent pieces and J. T. Allman, of Thompson-town, Pa., lecturer for the Pennsylvania State Pomona Grange was introduced, and he occupied the platform for an hour. Then D. B. McWilliams, of Juniata, was introduced and he gave the people a good talk.

A number of the people ate their supper in the grove. In the evening an ice cream festival was held in the Grange hall which was largely attended, mostly by young people.

Bells are always busy in their tailoring department. Why?
