

An independent local paper, published every Wednesday at Reynoldsville, Jefferson Co., Pa., devoted to the interests of Reynoldsville and Jefferson county. Non-political, will treat all with fairness, and will be especially friendly towards the laboring class.

C. A. STEPHENSON, Editor and Pub. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1893.

We all know that it is much easier to tell others how they should walk than it is to keep on the "straight and narrow way" ourselves.

It is a blessing for some young men that their fathers are able to keep the table supplied or they would get very hungry. It is not necessary to go outside of our town to find such gentry.

Those who have lived many years in this world are long ago convinced of the fact that false reports have wings and are often swifter than the truth. That is one reason why people who have respect for a man's character should decline to indulge in unauthenticated gossip. It is possible by a little carelessness in this direction to do people deadly harm.

When the paving of the Main street of Brookville is completed it will be one which the citizens of that town will have reasons to be proud of. The paving will cost something like $20,000; but it will be in good condition for many years. After the work is finished and the rubbish cleared away, it will be discovered that board sidewalks are unsightly beside a brick-paved street, and property holders will have to put down something a little better.

Thinking of pleasant things as much as possible is a great help when matters seem to be going wrong, and one is tempted to brood over them and grow morbid. Saddest life has its real, precious mercies, and most lives have far more of peace and gladness, if appreciated aright, than of distress. We do great injustice sometimes even to those who actually have treated us unkindly by dwelling on our injuries. There is danger lest we may come to believe that, instead of their ill treatment of us having been exceptional, it expressed their deliberate and hostile feelings.

I know that there are women of most undesirable nature, who wander up and down the country—having no homes of their own or forsaking their own homes—talking about their rights, and we know very well that they, themselves, are neither fit to vote nor keep house, writes the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage. Their mission seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such women would enact, nor to have cast upon society the children such women would raise. The best rights that woman can own she already has in her possession. Her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congratulation. The grandeur and power of her realm have never yet been appreciated; she sits today on a throne so high that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not make for her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot-box, and the congressional assemblage, and the legislative hall.

A young man does not always find it easy to get on in the world without education, or family influence, or personal friends, or property, or health; but he will find in the long run that it is far easier for him to make his way among men without any or all of these advantages than to make substantial progress in the world without the reputation of a good character, even though he has all these other possessions. Character stands for something everywhere in spite of its frequent slights. Men who are themselves lacking in a good character appreciate it and value it in others. A band of robbers would want an honest treasurer. The young man whose word cannot be believed, whose honesty is not above suspicion, and whose personal life is not what it ought to be, is not the young man that the business world has open places for. He may have health and wealth, and family position, and a host of friends, but if he is without character he is at a disadvantage in every position in life. When a young man who has lost his good name makes an honest effort to recover it he finds that his way upward is a hard one—a great deal harder, in spite of all other helps, than it would have been if he had made a right start without these helps. Friends are comparatively powerless in their efforts to win confidence for one who has proved himself unworthy of it on former occasions. Then it is that the young man is likely to realize as never before that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," even as a worldly investment. Because it is so hard to get on without a good name, or to regain it when once surrendered, every young man who has that possession ought to count it above price, and to have a care lest he lose it.

Avalon Terrace.

The latest addition of town lots thrown on the market in this borough is Tom Reynolds' batch of 102 lots known as Avalon Terrace. There are few, if any, prettier lots in Reynoldsville than those for sale in this terrace. The new lots begin near Mr. Jesse L. Test's property at the corner of Tenth and Grant streets, and extend almost to Cold Spring Hollow. Grant street, which runs directly through the center of Avalon Terrace, will be open up to Beech street. There is some what of an ascent from Main street to the terrace and back of it there is another hill, but the lots on Avalon Terrace are as pretty and level as any man would desire to own. The view is very beautiful. The lots on both sides of Grant street are 50 x 150 feet, and are offered for sale at a very reasonable price. Those who have never been on the ground have no conception of what a desirable place it would be to own a home. Any person who anticipates buying a lot and building a home may be sorry in after years if they do not visit Avalon Terrace before they select a place to build. For title, terms, &c., apply to Jesse L. Test. Some People think Mr. Reynolds is foolish to sell these lots for the money he asks for them, as they will be valuable lots in a few years.

Those laced bluchers at Reed's are easy as an old shoe.

Fair Warning.

To the parents of children who endanger their lives on the R. & F. C. R'y:

I once more appeal to the parents of the children who so persistently continue to get on and off the cars on the R. & F. C. R. R., and ask them to prevent the practice, if possible. Not a day goes by but this is indulged in. We endeavor to prevent this, as much as possible, and there are parents in this town who well know that I have gone to them personally, and informed them of the conduct of their little ones in this regard. It is astonishing what the children will do. Only a few days ago our Superintendent, Mr. Mellinger, discovered several small ones playing on the track underneath a train of cars that was liable, at any moment, to be put in motion by a locomotive at work close by. Will you not keep your children, both large and small, away from the cars? This is the third time I have publicly appealed to you to do it. Nothing now remains but for us to let them keep on, if you will not stop them, and suffer the consequences, or have them arrested, and in either event those who failed to prevent this dangerous practice will no doubt incur us. It does seem that we have done all that should be required of us.

Fifteen hundred dollars worth of English woollens just arrived at Bell's for fall suits. Why?

A full line men's leather boots at Robinson's.

A new line of necklaces and scarf pins at H. J. Nickle's.

The time has come to try your soles. If you wear Reed's $4.00 shoe, your soles will stand the test well.

Is the L. G. D. Included?

The Kittanning Globe said last week: "The Allegheny Valley Railway employees are to have a two weeks' excursion to the World's Fair, tendered by the company. The excursionists will have dining and sleeping cars en route, and during their stay, placed at their disposal." How about the Low Grade Div. men, are they in it too? There is no railroad in the country that has a better class of men or any more deserving than just the Low Grade Div. men of the A. V. R'y.

It needs no special message of the President to tell the people of Reynoldsville where Reed's shoe store is.

Dish pans for 20, 25 and 35 cents at H. J. Nickle's.

Mrs. Annie S. Gibson lost a gold dollar with a pin on it last Friday evening some where between the G. A. R. hall and G. G. Sprague's residence on Main street. She valued the pin highly, not for its real worth, but because it was a present from her deceased husband, and will reward the finder if they return the pin to her.

School tablets with shoes at Robinson's.

Buy your new shoes while the styles are fresh. Reed's shoes are nobby.

DENTISTRY!

When we say Dentistry we do not refer to the dentistry of your grandfather's time, which somewhat resembled butchery, but to Modern Dentistry with all its conveniences and painless operations. And this is what we are enabled to practice; as our office is equipped with all the latest instruments and appliances for the practice of this Painless Dentistry.

After you have called on us once, you will not think of the dentists' office with a shudder, but with pleasant recollections of how, amid pleasant surroundings, you were relieved of your pain and your teeth were made articles of service and adornment.

Gold, Platina, Silver, Bone and all other filling materials used in their proper places; and Rubber, Gold Lined Rubber, Aluminium and Gold Plates made to resemble nature as closely as possible.

CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK is our specialty. We very respectfully solicit your work and assure you of the best work and attention.
