LOCAL LAONICS.

Grapes are cheap. Delightful weather. New shoes at Reed's. Go to Riston's for guns. Read Bell's ad. Why? Heavy boots cheap at Robinson's.

Pittsburg Exposition is a big drawing card. The "bald headed row" was full last night.

Fresh oysters at the City Hotel restaurant at all times.

A new surrey and buggy for sale by A. L. Peters, Hopkins, Pa.

A new line of queensware and glassware just received at H. J. Nickele's.

A couple of suspicious characters have been loafing in town several days.

Gentlemen call and inspect Bell's fine woolsens for fall and winter suits. Why?

A report of the condition of the First National bank will be found in this issue.

At King & Co.'s you will find baled hay, salt, flour and a full line of general merchandise.

New fall and winter millinery goods just received at Mrs. Kate Smeltzer's on Jackson street.

It is amusing to see Wiley, the butcher, and Coleman, the druggist, falling backwheat.

Fifteen hundred dollars worth of English woolsens just arrived at Bell's or fall suits. Why?

The A. V. Ry will run a cheap excursion to the Pittsburg Exposition on Wednesday, Oct. 18th.

A good many men will have to "foot it" this winter. We wish all such had a pair of Reed's $3.00 shoes.

Two Poles packed their tickling-covered bundles and left Reynoldsville for their native land last Monday.

We are pleased to learn that Dr. J. V. Coleman is regaining health rapidly on the mountain air of Tinidao, Cal.

New rules for the principal, teachers and scholars of the borough schools have been printed and tacked up in the school rooms this week.

Chewing gum has been cheap since the first of last week. At that time began putting a the roof on S. T. Reynolds' new three-story brick.

The A. V. Ry will run a cheap excursion to the Pittsburg Exposition today. The round trip, which includes admission into the Exposition, is $3.85.

It is a sign of popularity and prosperity to see a merchant adding to his stock these days. That is just what Henry A. Reed, "the shoe man," is doing.

Rev. P. J. Slattery will begin a series of sermons in the M. E. church next Sunday evening on "What Makes a Man," which will be more especially for young men.

A mud hole on Fourth street, between Hotel Belnap and the First National bank needs the attention of the street commissioner. Three or four loads of gravel will remedy the street considerably.

George Lane has been going around with a "game eye" for several days. Rupert threw a stone at George which hit him on the lid of the right eye, and that is the reason he has had a bandage on it.

George Hughes, familiarly known as "Doc" Hughes, has moved into the Central Hotel at Rathmel and has been in charge of that hostelry. George is a pleasant and accommodating gentleman and will make a good landlord.

Carrier Thompson, the young man whose face a half pint of nitric acid was thrown by Chas. Shaffer ten days ago, is now at the Adrian Hospital, his chances for recovery are good. The sight of one eye is gone and it is a sure thing yet whether he will be able to use the other eye or not.

The new hall in H. Alex. Stoke's block called "American Hall," has been handsomely decorated with paper festooning. The work was done by W. J. Weaver. Over the new chairs are red, white and blue.

The entire designs is very artistic and sets the interior of the hall to a good advantage.

The Bellefonte Daily Gazette of Wednesday, Oct. 4th, speaks very highly of a sermon Rev. Harvey Grams Furbay, formerly of Reynoldsville, now pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Tyrone, preached before the Presbytery which was held at Bellefonte last week.

Preparations are being made to make the Sunday School convention to be held in the Baptist church next Tuesday and Wednesday a grand success. All S. S. workers of Reynoldsville should endeavor to do their part in making the visitors think Reynoldsville just a little the best place in the county for such meetings.

The Pittsburg Exposition is better this year than any previous year. The managers realize the fact if they would draw the people this season, when the great attraction at Chicago was receiving so much attention, that they would have to put forth special efforts, which they do and are succeeding in drawing large crowds and are pleasing the people.

While at the World's Fair Dr. B. E. Hoover attended Sunday school at the Model S. S. Building and was elected treasurer pro. tem. for the services. The collection amounted to over fifty-seven dollars. The superintendent asked all who were S. S. superintendents, secretaries or treasurers to stand up, and as Doctor acts as a treasurer of a S. S. when at home, he arose with others and that is why he received the honor.

Dr. S. Reynolds returned from the World's Fair Wednesday evening of last week very sick. He caught a bad cold at Chicago and, like most all who attend the Fair, he had drawn heavily on his mental and physical powers, and it was not until Saturday that the doctors fully decided that he had typhoid fever. At present Doctor is getting along as well as could be expected and there is no reason to think he will not recover from the disease.

One of the great money making schemes at the World's Fair is the Ferris wheel, and the man who contrived it will make a big thing out of it. Those who cannot attend the Fair and want to see an infant ferris wheel work, can do so by looking into Ed. Gooder's jewelry store display window. Mr. Gooder is certainly a wire-twisting genius, as the work on the wheel will show. The works of an old clock have been utilized for the power to keep the wheel on the move.

There was no business done at the Board of Trade meeting Friday evening, because there were not enough present to constitute a quorum. Unless there is more interest taken the Board of Trade will soon be of no benefit to the town, and a place without enough energy to keep up a Board of Trade will not make much of a stir in business circles outside of its own borders, nor much inside, for that matter. Indifference will strangle the life out of most any kind of an organization.

Capt. W. J. Leahy, who purchased the Gordon property, which we made mention of last week, does not intend to move to Reynoldsville at present. He thinks this town has a bright future before it and that an investment in property here is a good thing. Mr. Leahy is a shrewd business man and if he has confidence in the town's future it only confirms what we have been blowing about for some time, and that is that Reynoldsville is a solid town and will be much better in the days to come.

Just after we had our Reynoldsville edition off last Wednesday morning Milton C. Coleman came down Main street on horse-back at a rapid speed and gave the fire alarm. The fire companies responded promptly and were soon at the residence of Jos. Shoeseley, Jr., in the East End, where the fire had attempted to destroy a home. A bucket brigade of neighbors had succeeded in putting out the fire before the companies got there. It is estimated that the damage would amount to one hundred dollars. The fire was started by a little girl trying to light a lantern.

A fellow from Eleonora drove into town Saturday evening and tied his horse on Main street and proceeded to load himself with "bug juice." When he was ready to start home he got into his buggy and could find only one line, but his horse was not hard to handle and he managed to get it stopped. When an investigation was made it was discovered that some scamp had stolen the line. The man got a rope to use in trying to keep his horse in the middle of the road. Stealing lines off a horse on Main street in the early part of an evening is not the best credit for our town.

The remains of Mrs. Wm. Bumgardner, of Millville, who died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dr. J. A. Henry, at Falls Creek last Saturday afternoon, Oct. 7, were taken through Reynoldsville on the west-bound train Monday afternoon for burial at Millville. The deceased was twenty-one years and nine months old, was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Henry and was married to Wm. Bumgardner the 27th of last April. Laura was a telegraph operator at Millville before she was married. She was visiting her parents when she died. The pall bearers who accompanied the remains were members of the I. O. O. F. lodge of Falls Creek.

Snakes Plenty. Milton I. Winslow, who is working at Dents Run, was at home one day last week, and in conversation with a representative of the STAR he said: "Dents Run is the place to kill rattlesnakes. Three or four fellows went out several Sundays ago and killed thirty-five rattlesnakes in a half hour. I saw the snakes myself."

Have You Seen it? Two years ago some wag started the story in town that the Pittsburg Exposition was sending up an electric star every evening which could be seen in the heavens south-west of Reynoldsville. Quite a number of our people saw the large electrical star and admired it, but they found out afterwards that it was Venus, one of the planets, second in order from the sun. The story has been sprung on the people again and the evening star is now being admired by some of the Reynoldsville people as an electric star sent up by the Exposition several hours in the early part of the evening. Look for it between six and seven o'clock this evening.

Bright Outlook. Rev. H. R. Johnston was installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church last Wednesday evening, as announced in the STAR he would be, but all the preachers who were to be present and assist in the installment ceremonies were not here. Dr. Jas. Conway, of Brookville, was detained by sickness and Rev. J. V. Bell, of DuBois, failed to put in an appearance, but Revs. J. S. Helm, of Punxsutawney, and Geo. Hill, of Beechwoods, were equal for the emergency, and Rev. Johnston was as gracefully seated as he would have been had all four preachers assisted in the ceremonies. The Presbyterians have been successful in getting another excellent pastor, and if the membership of the church does not increase and the Lord's work advance within their ranks, the laity of the church had better look into their own lives, personally—not their neighbor's—and see wherein lieth the trouble.

Died at Chicago. On the 6th of September Harry M. Kernott, of Clintonville, Venango county, Pa., landed at Chicago to visit his brother Ed. and take in the World's Fair. The young man was sick when he arrived at Chicago and had to go to bed immediately and from that time until the 6th of October he wrestled with typhoid fever and the disease gained the victory. Harry was a brother of Mrs. L. J. McEntire of this place and was quite well known here, and was a favorite among his associates. On Friday morning L. J. McEntire received a message to come to Chicago at once, as Harry was very low with typhoid fever. L. J. got ready to go on the 1.42 P. M. train, but just as he was leaving his home he received another message which bore the sad news that Harry was dead and his remains would be brought to Clintonville for burial. Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. McEntire went to Clintonville to attend the funeral.

Fell Dead. A teamster from the neighborhood of Panic came to Reynoldsville last Friday and filled up to the neck with whiskey, got two bottles full of the same stuff and started for home. He managed to remain on the wagon, which had no box on, until he got out of the borough limits and he fell off into the middle of the road dead. A gentleman happened along just at that time and he stopped the horses and carried the corpse to one side of the road. A number of people soon gathered around and attempted to restore the man to life, but their efforts were all in vain. The dead man's face turned a dark purple color. Dr. Neale chanced to pass by and after an examination he pronounced the man dead—drunk. For three hours the man remained on the roadside. Several boards were put on the rear part of the wagon, some hay put on top of the boards and the dead-drunken man placed on the hay and tied on. The team was driven by a man who had started on his way towards Panic on foot, and thus the corpse was hauled home.

He has done it. W. T. Alexander and wife, of Clarion, stopped at Dr. W. B. Alexander's several days the past week on their way home from their annual trip to Curwensville and Clearfield. W. T., who is now eighty years old, has traveled over the hills by stage-coach for nearly fifty years and he wanted to live long enough to make the entire trip by rail, which he was able to do this time, and no doubt the old gentleman is now ready to "shuffle off this mundane sphere" most any time. There has been considerable travel westward from Clearfield by stage in the last half century, but the echo of the stage-coach driver's voice and the crack of his whip on the hills and in the valleys between this and Clearfield, as he urged his jaded nags to the journey's end, is now a thing of the past. The iron-horse hauls people from Clearfield to Reynoldsville in one hour and forty minutes. The stage-coach is not in it now days. We hope the old couple, above mentioned, may enjoy their annual trips a dozen years more at least.

A Notable Reunion. The reunion of the 105th regiment at New Bethlehem on Thursday of this week, will be an event of much interest to the old soldiers, and especially the survivors of the 105th regiment, for the battle flag that was torn from the color sergeant at the battle of Boynton Plank Road on the 27th day of October, 1864, will be restored to the survivors of the gallant old regiment by the man who took it from the color-bearer on that day when the battle raged furiously. It was in this terrible battle that John C. Conser, of Reynoldsville, father of John C. Conser, one of the proprietors of Hotel Belnap, was killed while fighting desperately that the stars and stripes might float in the breeze over the "land of the free and home of the brave." It is evident from the following article, which was clipped from last week's New Bethlehem Visitor, that the people of that town will show their respect for the old soldiers and for the occasion: "The committee on the Reunion requests that on Oct. 12th, all places of business and dwellings will be decorated suitably for the occasion. Let us hang out to the breeze the flags and bunting and show to the boys of '61 to '65 that we are their friends and bid them a hearty welcome. All places of business are requested to close at 7 o'clock, P. M., on the evening of Oct. 12th, so all can attend the camp fire in the Opera House."

A Brutal Crime. Yesterday morning the DuBois Courier contained the following account of the act of an unpunished fiend at Punxsutawney: One of the most fiendish crimes in the knowledge of man, was committed at this place Sunday afternoon, while our people were resting peacefully in their homes, little thinking that a fiend incarnate was in their midst premeditating and carrying out the most abominable crime possible to conceive. In the afternoon Jos. Lesko, a Hungarian, secured some candy, and with it lured to the woods a 5 year old girl by the name of Lenoche, accomplished his hellish purpose; raped and left her bleeding and unconscious in the woods, to a fate he cared not for after his lust had been appeased. The parents of the child missing her during the afternoon, instituted a search for her but did not find her until midnight. When found she was covered with blood, rigid, and unable to move a muscle. She was taken home and this evening is still living, but the chances of recovery are thought to be slight. The father of the child, together with other of the outraged people, are searching for the inhuman brute with guns, and if found while feelings run as high as to-night short work will be made of him.

House Breakers. Before the mid-night hour Monday night a man attempted to gain an entrance into Thomas E. Evans' house, but was foiled in the attempt. The man raised the window and was crawling into the house when the window fell on him. Mr. Evans heard the racket and got out of bed in time to get a good shot at the thief, but the revolver, which had not been used for some time, refused to perform its duty and the man escaped. Shortly after eleven o'clock Monday night a man six foot tall tried to get into A. Katzen's house. When asked what he wanted the man said he was a friend and wanted in. Mr. Katzen told him to leave or he would shoot him down like a dog, and at the same time Mr. Katzen had nothing to shoot with and was trembling like an aspen leaf. The merchant done his sleeping after four o'clock the following morning. He has since bought a revolver and it will not be wise for any person to fool around his house after night in the future.

Don't Give it Away. Mrs. D. M. Dunsmore, Mrs. Geo. W. Sykes and Mrs. Joanna Anderson hired a horse and buggy Saturday evening and started to visit the A. P. L. A. lodge at Sykesville, but the pleasure of the trip was destroyed by a mishap before the trio got to Sykesville by a collision with another horse and buggy, which they tried to pass. Mrs. Dunsmore and Mrs. Sykes were thrown into the road and Mrs. Anderson was thrown onto the horse's back, where she rode a short distance before the nag was stopped. She stuck onto the horse as nicely as though she had practiced bare-back riding. The other two ladies were badly bruised and narrowly escaped serious injury. The ladies don't want the above known and as we got it confidentially we give it to you the same way, so keep it to yourself. The buggy was badly demolished. Moral: Don't go driving without your husband.

Western Style. A Denverite has been stopping at one of the hotels of this town for over a week, and he is not averse to imbibing "tangle foot." One day since his arrival he had been indulging freely and while in the dining room he drew a revolver out of his pocket and was giving the dining room girls a little "wild and woolly" western style of persuading people to wait on him as he wanted them to. The girls got frightened and left the dining room in double quick order. Those laced bluchers at Reed's are easy as an old shoe.

PERSONALS. Miss Hettie Beer is in Pittsburg this week. Miss Robie Womer is visiting friends in DuBois. Miss Mary Cooper is visiting friends in Tarentum. M. J. Farrell and wife were at Clearfield last Saturday. Tom Reynolds was in the Smoky City on business last week. Mrs. David M. Roll visited relatives in Brookville this week. Will G. Kline, of DuBois, spent Sunday in Reynoldsville. Miss Maude Riston is visiting Mrs. Harvey G. Furbay at Tyrone. Miss Mabel Strouse went to the Pittsburg Exposition this morning. Rev. J. C. McEntire preached for the Methodists in DuBois last Sunday. John W. Phillip, the hustling agent of Punxsutawney, was in town yesterday. M. J. McEntire will take his family to Driftwood to-day where they will live. Mrs. H. P. Thompson, of Portland Mills, visited her parents here the past week. Dr. Balmer, of Brookville, made a professional visit to this place last Saturday. Mrs. J. A. Cooper, of Tarentum, Pa., visited in this section the past few weeks. Col. Boyles, of Sligo, Pa., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. Van Reed, at this place. Jos. Utter, of Ithaca, N. Y., brother of A. P. Utter, visited G. Walter Falen last week. Thomas Tapper, one of our liverymen, made a business trip to Brookwayville on Monday. Mrs. Kate Smeltzer returned last week from a months' visit in Westmoreland county. Miss Carrie Frazier, of Punxsutawney, is visiting Miss Anna Black on First street. Mrs. H. Alex. Stoke is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Jackson, at Allegheny City. Miss Phoebe Perkins, of Pittsburg, is visiting her friend, Mrs. F. W. Campbell, at this place. Miss Kate Isett, of Spruce Creek, went to her home Saturday after a short visit at Alex. Riston's. Geo. W. Harding, of Ocala, Florida, who is visiting here, returned from the World's Fair yesterday. Mrs. Thomas Hileman, of Harvey's Run, Pa., is visiting her brother, Scott McClelland, at this place. Mrs. Clara Roll returned to Brookville Monday after a weeks' visit with her sons, D. M. and Fin. Roll. John R. Hillis, one of the enterprising young men of Paradise Settlement, is taking in the World's Fair. Thomas Neff, who has been at Pittsburg several years, is visiting his father, Esq. E. Neff at this place. Mrs. Thomas E. Evans and Mrs. Lizzie Willard visited friends in New Bethlehem during the past week. James A. Cathers, of Winslow township, ex-commissioner of Jefferson county, visited Brookville Saturday. Mrs. N. Hanau left here Tuesday morning for an extended visit with friends at Philadelphia and New York City. Mrs. R. M. Alexander, the milliner, went to Pittsburg this morning to see the latest fashions and visit the Exposition. Mrs. Sam'l Miles, of Pittsburg, Mrs. David Reynolds, Miss Sue Reynolds and Miss Ida Miles visited friends in DuBois this week. Miss Carrie Phillips went to Philadelphia yesterday for a two months' visit with her two married sisters who live in the Quaker City. S. B. Elliott, general manager of the B. & Y. C. M. Co., went to Buffalo Saturday and from there he started for the World's Fair Monday. Wm. Burke, of Allegheny, accompanied by his family, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burke, sr., in West Reynoldsville. M. C. Coleman requests the party who took one section of the fire ladders from his shed to return it immediately or he may get into trouble. George Bliss and his mother left here on the westbound train yesterday morning to visit several months with relatives in the state of Missouri. G. W. Barkley and wife, of Wilkinsburg, visited in this section the past week. Mrs. Barkley was Mrs. Della Karstap, daughter of Peter Emerick. Mrs. Aaron Reitz, of Pansy, Pa., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. M. Thomas, who is dangerously ill with typhoid fever, returned to her home yesterday. Robt. Beer, a telegraph operator of Mead, Neb., who has been visiting his parents in West Reynoldsville the past month, returned to Nebraska the first of this week. E. F. McCall, of Lake City, Minn., who was at one time manager of the Bell, Lewis & Yates store at DuBois, visited his old friend, E. J. Lofts, at this place Monday. C. B. Covill, who has been an employee of the B. & Y. C. M. Co. at Big Soldier, has resigned his position by request of the company. Mr. Covill went to Brookwayville Monday to look for a new job. Thomas Kearns, of this place, who was at Smethport last week assisting the Roscoes to furnish music for the Catholic fair at that place, returned home Monday. Thomas says the Fair was a grand success. C. F. Hoffman, one of our jewelers, packed his little "grip" and bled away to the Garden City last Friday where he will join the great throng and get awfully tired tramping around looking at the exhibits at the World's Fair. Misses Lucile Mitchell and Maud Reynolds came home from Pittsburg Saturday. Lucile had been visiting friends there for a few weeks and Maud stopped off at Pittsburg on her way home from the World's Fair and visited several days with Miss Mitchell and her friends. Mrs. D. A. Mellus, of Ridgway, visited her brother, Geo. W. Warnick, whom she had not seen for over fourteen years, at this place during the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Mellus moved into Ridgway just recently. Rev. J. G. Noble, of Punxsutawney, preached an excellent sermon to the K. of P. lodge of Rathmel last Sunday morning. There was a large crowd in attendance. A number of Reynoldsville people went up to Rathmel to hear him. E. T. McGaw will go to Pittsburg next Monday where he has been summoned as a petit juror for the District Court of the U. S. Esq. J. T. Coax has been filling that position for Uncle Sam's Court for some time and just how Esq. McGaw beat him out of the job we cannot tell at this writing. J. H. Bell, general superintendent of the Bell, Lewis & Yates C. M. Co., at DuBois and Reynoldsville, will move to this place the first of next week. His family passed through town on the east bound train Monday to Punxsutawney where they will visit a few days. Mr. Bell's family consists of his wife, two boys, two girls and his mother. The oldest boy remained in Virginia where he has charge of a mine. As stated before, Mr. Bell has rented M. J. McEntire's house on Grant street. Dr. H. Wadsworth Slack, an erst while pedagogue of this borough, who was one of the Columbian Guards at the World's Fair from the early part of May until about the first of October, spent several days the past week in Reynoldsville. He entered the West Penn Medical College at Pittsburg for the second term this week. Dr. Slack had not intended resigning as a Guardsman until the 10th of October, but on account of his brother being seriously ill with typhoid fever he was called home. The windy city must agree with Doctor, as he has raised a little mustache and is a flesher. Harry Cartwright, of Chicago, Ill., formerly of Reynoldsville, visited his sister, Mrs. Ed. Lewis, at this place last week. Mr. Cartwright gets tired of the "hurry and flurry" of Chicago life. He works for E. O. Excell and their office is near the World's Fair grounds and the immense crowd daily makes traveling to and from the office a hard task. Although Harry came from the city of attractions, yet his eye is keen enough to notice the substantial improvements that have been made in Reynoldsville in the past two years. He said he would rather live in Reynoldsville than Chicago. Communication. To comply with the law all children and adults must be vaccinated. Also to comply with the law school teachers should take up school at 9.00 A. M., closing at 4.00 P. M., taking one hour at noon, instead of one and one-half hours as is done by the teachers in our town. There is a misunderstanding by many as to the demands of the land owners from whose land the Water Co. get their supply. It is not for the water they want damages, but the Co. desires to fence up the land owners' springs and streams to insure a clean supply of water to the town, thereby depriving the land owners of the private use of these springs and streams. As the company is a soulless water corporation it can take the springs, but must pay the owners. First Night Alone in 44 Years. [DuBois Courier.] 'Squire J. T. Coax and wife, estimable aged people living near Reynoldsville, within the past week spent the first night in forty-four years without a son or daughter under their roof with them. They are the parents of W. H. Coax, the accommodating brakeman on the Clearfield and Mahoning train, and also of eleven living sons and daughters besides, and four dead. The oldest is Mrs. Grimshaw, of Scranton, who is 46 years old. They have many grandchildren and several great grandchildren. It is extremely doubtful if another old couple could be found in the State who have lived forty-four years without passing a night without one of their own children in their home. Notice. Any persons having our oil cans, who are not buying oil from our agent, will please return or pay for them at once. ECLIPSE LUB. OIL CO. LHM.
