The S. of V. festival in G. A. R. hall on Tuesday evening of last week was not patronized as well as it should have been, and, consequently was not a grand financial success.

The remains of Jas. Rielly, of DuBois, one of the old settlers of that town who died Thursday, were brought to Reynoldsville and buried in the Catholic cemetery Saturday forenoon.

The majority of Reynoldsville and vicinity are just finding out that Glenn Milliren is selling goods cheap. Undoubtedly he is doing a rushing business as he is receiving new goods daily.

Thomas Green and John Conser, proprietors of Hotel Belnap, are building a house apiece on Fourth street, where they expect to live when their lease expires for the rent of the hotel, which will be in about one year.

Daniel Sharp, one of the old residents of Reynoldsville, went to Brookville Monday. He said he was at New Bethlehem last week attending the reunion and he became so accustomed to travel that since then he wants to travel all the time.

George Washington Fuller returned from the World's Fair Monday evening of last week and on the following Thursday he and Scott McClelland started for the big show at Chicago. Mr. Fuller will likely remain at the Fair until it closes.

Pat. Bolger's cow went home Tuesday morning with five garden rake teeth sticking in the region of her back bone. The man who destroyed his rake can very likely get the teeth by calling at Mr. Bolger's.

There have been eight cases of typhoid fever in the Horn Settlement. Four of the afflicted are almost entirely well and four are now in the heat of the fever. Ed. Hetrick and wife and one child were among the number.

D. W. Atwater received a message Monday forenoon which contained the sad news that his mother, who has been in delicate health for several years, had died Sunday night. Mr. Atwater left on the afternoon train for Marion, Iowa, where the funeral was to take place yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Riston and Mrs. Alex. Riston went to Punxsutawney Monday afternoon to attend a "house-warming." L. C. McGaw, son-in-law of the first mentioned couple, moved into a new house he has just had built, and that was where the party was held Monday evening.

The commissioners have secured a room in the house of Al. Coats, opposite the Catholic cemetery, where the West Winslow township voters will do their voting the 7th of next month. Just where the regular voting place for that end of the township will be located is not a settled thing yet.

H. Aldridge, of Chicago, who has been spending part of his time at Hotel Belnap and the other part at Penfield for several years, has rented one of Priestler's houses on Hill street, bought new furniture and proposes to have a home of his own this winter. Mrs. Helchro, of Penfield will keep house for him.

Mrs. S. R. Anderson, of Knoxdale, died last Wednesday and was buried at Summerville Saturday forenoon. Revs. J. W. Blaisdell and Jas. H. Jelbart conducted the funeral services. Mrs. Anderson fell through the hay mow about two months ago and received injuries which caused her death. The deceased was a cousin of our townsman, A. G. Milliren.

The West Reynoldsville town council will hold its first meeting at eight o'clock in the school house this evening. The council will henceforth be a responsible body for the welfare of the new borough. There is one ranch on Poverty Flat that will need the attention of Burgess Sutter. Don't allow such corruption of common decency to exist in your borough.

Patrick Skeen and Miss Mary Taufe were married by Father Brady in the Catholic church at eight o'clock this morning. The happy couple will go to Pittsburg this afternoon on a wedding trip. They will go to house-keeping in a new house adjoining the bride's father's residence in the east end of town. Patrick has secured a good wife and Mary a good husband.

The West Reynoldsville borough election was held last Thursday. The gentlemen whom we mentioned two weeks ago were all elected but J. N. Small for inspector of election. There were two candidates for this office and only one to be elected and David Bollinger was the victor. There are about 150 voters in West Reynoldsville, but only 41 got to the voting place for the special election.

A valuable young horse owned by Geo. Sykes was injured on the A. V. R'y crossing in West Reynoldsville Monday forenoon. The horse was hitched into a wagon with another horse and they were rather hard to hold and were trotting over the crossing when the horse's foot caught between the rail and plank. The animal was so badly sprained that it is doubtful if it will ever be very valuable again.

The semi-annual convention of the Epworth League, Clarion district, was held at Sigel, on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Mrs. Joe. M. Cathers was the delegate from the Reynoldsville League. The following members of the Reynoldsville League also attended the convention: Lou Fink, Mollie McKee, Lizzie and Minnie Harries, Mary Burge, Sadie Jones, Charity Speers, Raymond Stiles, Port Harries and Fred Reed.

E. W. McMillen, Democratic candidate for sheriff, bought a single set of buggy harness a couple of weeks ago and last Thursday night some person entered his barn and carried the new harness away. Mr. McMillen is now having a little practice looking for a rascal so that if he is elected sheriff of Jefferson county this fall he will not be entirely inexperienced. However, Mr. McMillen is thankful the thief did not take the horse to. The barn has a lock on now, after the harness have been stolen.

The Daughters of St. George gave a lunch party to the Sons of St. George in the G. A. R. hall last Friday evening, which was greatly enjoyed by both the givers and receivers. Besides a first-class lunch of coffee, sandwiches, cake, pickles, &c., &c., the gentlemen were allowed to munch at peanuts, candy, grapes, bananas, oranges, and in fact most everything the market could furnish. The lunch was a surprise to the Sons of St. George, but the surprise did not effect their appetites any according to all reports.

New Uniforms.

Hose Co. No. 1 have just a little the prettiest uniforms to be found in this section of the country. The caps are blue with black band, silver buttons and a silver fire department emblem on in front. The shirts are buff, trimmed in blue. The officers' belts are white with red edges and name of office in black letters, and the other belts are black only where the word Reynoldsville appears and that is white with the letters in black. With the new uniforms, pretty hook and ladder truck and hose cart Hose Co. No. 1 would be a credit to Reynoldsville in any parade.

The "Devil" Frightened.

Roman E. Koehler and Harry Truitt, of this office, went for chestnuts Saturday afternoon and it is almost a miracle that we were not compelled to look for a new foreman and "devil" Monday morning. A heavy rain and wind storm visited the chestnut ridge while they were gathering nuts, and large limbs fell all around them, occasionally a large tree would fall to the ground with a terrible crash. For once, at least, our "devil" got frightened and he started for home on the fastest run he was ever known to make. When Harry goes to the woods again it will be on a beautiful calm day.

Took an Overcoat.

George Burtop came to town on business Saturday and left his overcoat hanging behind the desk in the Hotel Dillman office. Soon after dinner George wanted to go home and went to look for his coat, but the peg was empty and the coat gone. George notified Mr. Dillman and he said if the coat could not be found he would pay for it, but after several hours search the coat was found on a man's back in the east end of town. Mr. Dillman demanded the coat and the "lifter" claimed the coat was his at first, but seeing he would get into trouble if he persisted in claiming the coat, he gave it up. The old chap is now out a loafing place and also the overcoat.

Three Now.

White & Reynolds started their new milk wagon Monday morning. The wagon, which is a very pretty one, is a regular milk wagon. It is painted black and is drawn by a span of black horses. The "Reynolds Farm Dairy" is on the wagon top in large gilt letters. This makes three dairy wagons in Reynoldsville, but as long as they are run by the gentlemen who now have charge of them, O. H. Broadhead and John Goodwill being the other two dairymen, there is no danger of there being a scarcity of either water or chalk, as these men will furnish their customers with the pure lactical fluid. It would not be surprising, however, if there would be a cut in price of milk for a short time.

His Portion Already.

Thomas Dixon, a sixteen year old lad of Prescottville, son of John Dixon, has already met enough mishaps for a man of three score years. He was a driver in old Soldier Run mine a few years ago and had one of the fingers on his right hand so badly lacerated that amputation was necessary. In August, 1892, he fell off a tree and broke his right leg. The leg had to be operated on about the 19th of the following December but it never got in a condition that the boy could walk without crutches and he is to go to the Adrian Hospital to undergo another operation on his leg. The boy carries mail from Reynoldsville to Rathmel and drives a young colt. Tuesday of last week he drove to DuBois and the young horse got frightened at the street cars and ran away. Thomas was thrown out of the buggy and had his right arm broken. It was at first thought after his arm was broken that the trip to the hospital would be postponed until the arm got well, but it has been decided that he will go in a few days and the leg and arm can mend together.

Miss Mary Dixon will carry the mail while Thomas is at the hospital.

Light the Gas.

For some reason, we don't know whether they would plead poverty or not, the town council have had the gas light shut off at Hose Co. No. 1 building and lock-up. On Friday evening when the four robbers were taken out of the lock-up to be sent to Punxsutawney Addlesperger had to borrow a lantern, and when they were brought back he had to go and borrow a lantern to put them in again. When the Hose Co. ran after the hose cart and hook and ladder truck Saturday evening to respond to the fire alarm, they had to light matches to get the cart and truck out. This kind of business might do for some little hamlet, but is not the thing for a town the size of Reynoldsville. A policeman should not be asked to arrest a tough character and take him through the dark alley to the lock-up and there feel around in the dark to get his prisoner in a cell, nor should the fire lads be asked to get the hose cart out without a light. It seems there is a misunderstanding about the matter which should be looked after immediately and the light turned on. If it is economy on the part of council, it is poor economy. Hose Companies Nos. 1 and 2 are deserving of some attention and, if necessary, expenditure of money by this borough.

FALL CONVENTION

Of the Jefferson County Sunday School Association.

The seventh semi-annual session of the Jefferson County S. S. Association convened in the Baptist church at this place at two o'clock yesterday afternoon with a large number in attendance. Rev. Hunsinger, the president, not being present, Rev. Jas. H. Jelbart, vice-president, presided over the convention. The secretary, W. B. Cowan, was at his post of duty. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Geo. Ballentine, of Richardsville. The following committees were appointed: On credentials, S. Shaffer, Noah Syphrit and Wm. Boser. On resolutions, Rev. W. B. Purdy, J. W. Walker and J. C. Kelso. Rev. R. H. Johnston, pastor of the Reynoldsville Presbyterian church, delivered the address of welcome so pleasantly that the delegates felt they were certainly welcome visitors. C. C. Benseater, of Brookville, was to have delivered the response, but he not being present J. W. Walker, Esq., of the same town, was called upon and he responded. A recess was given to shake hands and assign the delegates to their stopping places during the convention. All present had a large supply of smiles, hearty hand-shakes and pleasant words.

After recess the first thing that came before the convention was a motion to amend the constitution to hold the conventions annually instead of semi-annually. The motion carried by a vote of 46 to 3, therefore the meetings will be annual hereafter. The report of the committee on credentials was received. Sixty-three delegates present. The annual convention is to be held not earlier than May 15th, nor later than June 1st. The next convention will be held at Brookwayville. Rev. J. E. Brown, pastor of the M. E. church at Clarington was introduced to the convention. Adjourned.

The evening session opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. J. E. Brown, of Clarington. Rev. Geo. H. Hill, of Beechwoods, who was the delegate from the Jefferson County S. S. Asso. to the State S. S. Association, which was held at East Liberty last week, read a very interesting report from the State convention.

The topic, "The relation of the S. S. to temperance," was opened by Rev. Geo. Ballentine, and discussed by Rev. J. E. Brown, S. M. Stone, Mr. Temple and Rev. E. T. Derr.

Mrs. Geo. Ballentine read a paper on the topic of "Parental co-operation in the S. S. temperance work."

Rev. W. B. Purdy gave a plain but impressive black board talk.

The Question Box contained two questions which were answered by Rev. Hill, Rev. Slatery and S. M. Stone.

J. C. Kelso was appointed to conduct the devotional exercises at 9:00 A. M. today, and the evening session closed with the benediction by Rev. Hill.

Has Always Been Enterprising.

Frank J. Black had not advanced far in his teens when he went into the confectionery and stationery business with his father in Reynoldsville. Frank was full of push and made the business a success and soon bought his father's interest and "went it alone." He bought an interest in the Reynoldsville Paper and soon owned the entire plant himself, and was not only the brightest editor of his age in this section, but also took an active part in politics when he was always to be found in whatever he undertook to do. Frank J. is now proprietor of Hotel McConnell and he has built up a good reputation for his house among the traveling public. At present several men from the Blake Electric Co., of Penn Yan, N. Y., are at work putting in an electric bell system which connects twenty-four rooms with the office so that the guests can ring for what they want, and the clerk in the office can awaken the guests by touching a button and ringing a bell in the room of the guest to be called, and when the bell is started in the room it will not stop until the occupant gets up and touches the electric button in his room. Hotel McConnell has already been equipped with many modern improvements since Frank took charge, and he does not propose to stop with this last improvement, but expects to add to from time to time until his hotel is second to none outside of the large cities. Thus it will be seen that Frank has not lost any of the spirit of enterprising which he manifested in his boyhood days. The electric buttons will be ready to be touched the latter part of this week.

Eighth Reunion.

The eighth reunion of the 105th regiment which was held at New Bethlehem last Thursday was largely attended. It had been heralded far and near that the colors which this regiment lost in the battle along the Weldon railroad on Oct. 27th, 1864, were to be returned to the regiment at this reunion by the man who had taken them, and for this reason the crowd was larger at the eighth reunion than it otherwise would have been, but the lost colors and the man who wore the gray failed to get to New Bethlehem. The following members of the 105th from this section attended the reunion: Co. A., D. W. Leech; Co. B., William Lucas, Co. E., John M. Hays; Co. H., T. C. Reynolds, captain of Co. H., George Sharp, Simpson Kirker, Ebenezer Dally, Henry Stevenson, Jacob Dickey, Geo. W. Warnick, Daniel Sharp, W. J. Dunlap. The reunion will be held at Brookville next year.

A number of old soldiers of Reynoldsville besides the members of the 105th regiment attend the reunion at New Bethlehem last week, among whom was J. C. Kellar. He says he never saw so much hand-shaking and expressions of real genuine gladness as there was at the New Bethlehem reunion. The old soldier boys enjoy such gathering immensely.

Four of a Kind.

Thieves entered the store of M. H. Morrison at Punxsutawney last Wednesday night and help themselves to about $300.00 worth of clothing and jewelry. The chief-of-police of this place, Frank P. Addlesperger, received word of the robbery and was on the lookout for the robbers if they come this way. Friday morning Frank saw two fellows on Main street who had a suspicious air about them and wore new suits. The two chaps were very shy of Addlesperger and kept some distance from him. Frank was coming up Main street and the two men turned down Fifth street and when out of the policeman's sight they ran towards the swamp. Addlesperger did not go after them nor did he turn the corner where they could see him, but had a small boy tell him where they were going. Before dinner Addlesperger was sure the four men in the woods below town were the men who were wanted at Punxsutawney for robbery. He telegraphed to that town and asked for a duplicate warrant. Constable Stiver and Mr. Morrison came to Reynoldsville and the four men were arrested. The new suits they wore were some of the clothing stolen from Morrison. The chaps were locked up for awhile and after supper were hand-cuffed two together and put in a hack to be taken to Punxsutawney for a hearing, as one of the men demanded it. Two men started through the rain and darkness with the four prisoners for Punxsutawney. They had only traveled several miles through the dark woods when the man who wanted a hearing become very boisterous and tried to get out of the hack. The two men were afraid their prisoners would escape and they returned to Reynoldsville. The prisoners were put in the lock-up and John Schultz and his father-in-law, Owen Kane, kept guard over the thieves until morning. In the morning the fellow who was determined the night before to have a hearing, realized his chance of escape was no good and he was willing to go to Brookville jail without a hearing. This chap was so hateful that none of his "pards" would bunk with him Friday night, and he made threats then and there that he would convict all of them if he had to swear a hole through a two inch plank. They are now boarding with Sheriff Young.

When the small, "sandy," terror-to-evil-doers, Addlesperger, gets after law-breaking game he generally gets it, and for that reason it is not wise for robbers to linger long in this locality when he is on their track.

Discovered in Time.

At half past seven o'clock Saturday evening it was discovered that Deible Bros' wagon shop was afire. The alarm was given and Hose Co. No. 1 responded quickly, but those who were first at the wagon shop did not stand around with their hands in their pockets, but went to work with water in buckets and succeeded in putting out the fire before the Hose Co. arrived. The damage done was slight, but had the fire not been discovered for a few minutes more it would have devoured six or seven thousand dollars worth of machinery, wagons, &c., on which there was no insurance at all. Just before quitting time Saturday evening the blacksmith was welding some very heavy iron and Deible Bros. think a spark flew into a pile of short pieces of wood and burned slowly until it got through the floor and then the draft soon fanned it into a flame which burned rapidly among the dry lumber. The main building, where the fire was, contains nearly three thousand dollars worth of tools, machinery and stock; the building where the wagons are stored when ready to be painted, which is nearby, contained two thousand dollars worth of stock, and the shed where the wagons and sleds are stored when finished was filled with fifteen hundred dollars worth of stock. With the strong wind that was blowing Saturday evening it would have been impossible to have saved any of the buildings and very little of the stock and machinery had the fire gotten a good start. The insurance rates are so high that Deible Bros. so far have been running a risk rather than pay the high rates to the insurance companies.

Is it only Guess Work?

According to newspaper statements there will be several changes in the running of trains when the new winter schedule is issued on the B., R. & P. R'y, and if the railroad company make their schedule as the papers say, then Reynoldsville and Punxsutawney will lose one passenger train. The through mail from Buffalo and Rochester, which reaches DuBois at 5:15 p. m. will be run to Clearfield instead of Punxsutawney, and the C. & M. train between here and Clearfield will be discontinued between Reynoldsville and DuBois. The crew on the passenger train have never wanted to run down to Reynoldsville and would use their influence to stop the train at DuBois. Reynoldsville people are entitled to a through train to Clearfield and if the company would build a platform and small station at this place and stop for passengers at Sandy Valley and Panooset and make the train to Reynoldsville a settled thing, considering all the extra expense there would be connected in running the train here, there is no reason why it would not pay.
