The first sleigh-riding of the season was indulged in at this place yesterday. Gentlemen call and inspect Bell's fine woollens for fall and winter suits. Why?

A few of our merchants have their display windows well filled with holiday goods. Hopkins big mill, two miles below Reynoldsville, closed for the season last Thursday.

Fifteen hundred dollars worth of English woollens just arrived at Bell's for fall suits. Why? Remember the oyster festival in S. T. Reynolds' new brick November 29th, given by the Fire Co. No. 1.

On account of the drop in price we quote you Wisconsin Driving Shoes at $5.00 and $6.00 at Robinson's. "A Hero in Rags," booked for the Reynolds opera house last Thursday evening, failed to materialize.

Merrill Rumbaugh has opened a barber shop in the building formerly occupied by D. C. Whitehill's music store. New schedules went into effect on the A. V. R'y, B. & P. R'y, C. & M. R'y, R. & C. R'y, and P. & E. railroad last Sunday.

Mrs. J. R. Green, of Rathmel, died at 12:05 A. M., Tuesday, Nov. 21st, of consumption, aged 25 years, 6 months and 17 days. Dame Rumor says that a young couple in this place worked until three o'clock the other morning doctoring a cat that had diphtheria.

E. E. Anderson and Miss Minnie Ewing were married at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. H. R. Johnson last evening. A very desirable farm of 80 acres one mile west of Reynoldsville for sale. For particulars inquire of Mrs. M. E. Wood or Mrs. A. J. Burris.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is requested to meet at the home of Mrs. E. T. Derr on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. The W. C. T. U. will serve turkey and waffle dinner and oyster supper on Thanksgiving in G. A. R. hall. The patronage of all is solicited.

A door and trunk key tied together with a piece of ribbon were found on Main street Thursday evening. The owner can get them by calling at this office. Every member of the Baptist church is requested to be present at the Wednesday evening prayer-meeting, as business of special importance is to come before the church.

The proprietorship of the Moore House in West Reynoldsville has been changed. Wm. F. Schultze has retired as landlord and George Schwem now has charge of that hostelry. Frank Reynolds got a half inch gash cut above his right eye last Friday during the noon hour at the tannery, by a mallet slipping from the hands of a companion whom he was fooling with.

Three or four young men got into trouble with the negro at the American House restaurant at Brookville one night last week, and used the colored man up pretty badly. It is likely to go hard with the young men. The sale of money at the regular monthly meeting of the Reynoldsville Building and Loan Association Monday evening was the largest sale ever made by the Association. Thirty-eight shares, representing $7,600.00, were sold at an average of 23 per cent. The largest sale before this was $6,600.00.

Levi Ludwick, who had to be taken from the home of his brother, Lewis Ludwick, at this place to his home at Greensburg the latter part of July with handcuffs on because he had lost his mind and was a dangerous character to have his liberty, died at the Dixmont insane asylum on the 6th inst. Business people are hustling around for trade and putting more than usual into printers ink. They say it pays. It is like a magician's wand, you can't tell how it is done, but there is the success in your pocket in shining dollars.—Kittanning Globe. The non-advertiser of Reynoldsville should profit by this notice. Try it.

Willie Reynolds, youngest son of Dr. S. Reynolds, narrowly escaped losing the sight of his right eye one day last week. He was running and he tripped and fell on a stick which penetrated his forehead near the right eye. The lad thought he had lost the sight of his eye and he closed his left eye immediately to test the sight. There is a fair maiden in Reynoldsville to whom the following verse can be appropriately applied: "She's the saddest of the saddest When she's sad, And the gladdest of the gladdest When she's glad. But the saddest of her sadness And the gladdest of her gladness Isn't in it with her madness When she's mad."

The ladies of the Guiding Star lodge, A. P. L. A., held a social in G. A. R. hall Friday night. The tables were loaded with the best in the market, in fact the feast was so bountiful that even the fastidious epicurian, Postmaster J. W. Foust, was surprised, but he done his best to relieve one of the tables of its load. The Guiding Star ladies know how to get up a good meal. If reports are true there is a house on Railroad street, occupied by Polanders, that needs the special attention of the Board of Health. A Polander in the house has had typhoid fever for four weeks and has received no medical attention. It is claimed by parties who live near the Polanders that the house and premises are so filthy that the smell that arises therefrom is sickening. If County Superintendent Hughes would have some of the nincompoops of Brookville muzzled next year when the institute is held, so that they could not assemble at the Court House and annoy the teachers who attend the institute to get some good therefrom, it would give the Brookville boys and girls a better reputation, and would be appreciated by a large majority of the school teachers. Robt. J. Thomas, the barber, visited the home of his parents at Pansy last week. "Bobby" took a dog and gun with him for company while walking from Maysville to Pansy. In making the trip he shot a chicken hawk and brought it down with a broken wing, but had quite a fight with the hawk before he got it into his game bag. The hawk is now one of the attractions at "Bobby's" barber shop. The first entertainment under the management of the Lecture Association for this season, was given by the Lotus Glee Club at Centennial hall last evening. The weather was unfavorable, yet the hall was comfortably filled and the people were highly delighted with the entertainment. All the members of the Glee Club possess fine voices and their selections evoked loud and long-continued applause. Miss Minnie Marshall's recitations were the feature of the entertainment. Joseph Henderson, an honest and upright gentleman who has lived at Hancock for almost a score of years, died at his home at two o'clock Thursday afternoon, Nov. 16th. He had been in poor health for a year or more, caused by diabetes. The immediate cause of his death, however, was pneumonia. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn for him. The deceased was married to Hattie Childs, daughter of George W. Childs, about sixteen years ago. The remains were buried in Beechwoods cemetery Sunday afternoon, followed thither by a large number of friends. Every town has: A liar, a smart Alex, some pretty girls, men who know it all, a woman that tattles, a neighborhood fiend, more loafers than it needs, a few meddlesome old women, a stock law that is not enforced, a man who understands the silver question, some men that make remarks about women, hens that scratch up other people's gardens, a young man who laughs every time he says anything, scores of men with the caboose of their trousers worn smooth as glass, and men who can tell you all about the finances and how to run other people's business, but have made a dismal failure of their own.—Albion Biscard. Emma Florence Fuller, daughter of Abel Fuller, deceased, died at the home of her mother at Fuller station, Nov. 13th, and her remains were buried in the Moore cemetery last Wednesday. Emma was thirty-two years old the 9th of last April, and was an invalid all her life. She bore her affliction patiently, and being a devoted christian death had no terror for her, for she had a hope that spanned the narrow stream and was ready and willing to enter into the City of her Redeemer. Those who enjoy health and strength and become impatient in life's conflict, can learn a lesson from the calm and patient life of the invalid above mentioned.

Big Pigs. Henry Roden butchered two seven-month-old pigs last Thursday that weighed six hundred and seventy-five pounds dressed. Must be Vaccinated. According to a recent proclamation issued by the State Board of Health, "no pupil shall be allowed to attend school who has not been successfully vaccinated within seven years." If this is violated the person or persons so violating are liable to a fine of $100. Lost Her Speech. Four weeks ago last Saturday Mrs. Robt. Doughtit lost the use of her voice. She could hear all right but could not speak. Last Sunday while reading the bible her speech returned again. Mrs. Doughtit had to make known her wants by writing during the four weeks she could not talk. She can more fully appreciate the blessing of talking now. How Could He? A very youthful nimrod of this place hired a target rifle at Reynolds' drug store recently and hid away to the woods in quest of game. He returned the gun in the evening and informed the owner that the gun was "n. g." as he had not been able to shoot anything, not even a tree, during the day. When the gun was examined it was discovered that the first ball had lodged in the barrel of the gun and had persuaded the other thirteen balls, the "kid" had tried to shoot, to remain in the barrel also. 'Tis not strange the boy came home without game. "He would if he could, but if he couldn't how could he," get game with such a gun? Could you? Lecture Course. The Reynoldsville Lecture Association are well pleased and encouraged with the support the people have given them by buying season tickets. The Association hired good talent for the course at a risk of being out of pocket. Last year 140 season tickets, at $1.50 a ticket, were sold. This year 206 tickets, at $1.75 a ticket, have been sold. This is a good increase, and is an encouragement to the Association, as their only object is to persuade the people of Reynoldsville to become a lecture-going people. The men interested in the course here will not make any money out of the lectures, for if there is more money taken in than will pay expenses it will be used for the season of 1894-95. Paid a Bet. Geo. Hughes and Richard Taafe, of Rathmel, bet on the election in Ohio. Hughes bet the Democrat candidate for governor would be elected and Taafe bet on the Republican candidate. The winner was to get two dollars in cash and a wheelbarrow ride. The election bet was paid last Saturday, and was witnessed and enjoyed by a large crowd of people. Mr. Taafe done the riding, when he was not out in the mud, into which he was frequently upset, and Mr. Hughes manipulated the wheelbarrow handles. The Rathmel brass band furnished music for the parade. It was, without doubt, the most laughable affair that has occurred in Rathmel for many a day. It was real sport for the people. Ready to do a Favor. Newspapers will quarrel and sometimes lead their readers to believe that the squabble will end only when the red gore from the blue veins of one of the editors is spilt on the ground, and yet in the very midst of the war of words either one of the newspapers will gladly do the other a favor if possible. The DuBois Courier and Express have been at it, even to the disgust of their readers by times, and yet last Thursday morning the Courier's press was broken and the Express kindly allowed the Courier, as it is wont to call it, to print the morning edition on their press. Disputes will arise, people will disagree even until angry passions arise, but all people can learn a profitable lesson from newspaper men, and that is to do a kind favor when an opportunity presents itself, no matter what words may have been said. There are very few, if any, exceptions to the above newspaper men, and why not people in all callings of life do the same? Better Accommodations. The new schedule on the B., R. & P. R'y, mentioned in THE STAR last week, went into effect last Sunday. The trains will run as follows: Trains Nos. 13 and 14 will be discontinued between Falls Creek and Bradford, trains Nos. 7 and 8 between DuBois and Punxsutawney; train No 13 will leave Falls Creek at 7:35 A. M. arriving at Punxsutawney at 8:45 A. M.; train No. 15 will leave Falls Creek at 1:45 P. M., arrive at Punxsutawney at 2:50 P. M.; train No. 11 leave Falls Creek at 6:00 p. m., arrive at Punxsutawney at 7:15 P. M.; train No. 17 leave Falls Creek at 7:30 P. M., arrive at Punxsutawney 8:40 P. M.; train No. 4 leave Falls Creek at 8:50 A. M., arrive at Bradford at 12:30 P. M., Rochester 6:00 P. M. and Buffalo 6:10 P. M.; train No. 8 leave Falls Creek at 2:20 P. M., arrive at Bradford at 6:00 P. M. This train will have no connections for points north of Bradford. Train No. 14 leave Punxsutawney at 6:00 A. M., arrive at Falls Creek at 7:00 A. M.; train No. 16 leave Punxsutawney at 12:15 P. M., arrive at Falls Creek at 1:20 P. M.; train No. 18 leave Punxsutawney at 5:50 P. M., arrive at Falls Creek at 7:00 P. M.

A Bold Gang. The gang of thieves who visited this section last week, made a bold attempt to carry an entire jewelry store off at Marionville about two o'clock on Wednesday morning. They were frightened away before the job was made a success, but not until they had drilled a hole through the top of the safe and had the powder and fuse inserted all ready to blow it open. There were five in the gang, all masked, two outside as watchers and three to do the work inside. A young man named Guth, who slept in the jewelry store, and a companion were returning home from a party when the two robbers outside, with revolvers pointed at the young men, requested them to stop. Guth was not so easily frightened and attempted to reach the store, but was knocked down and with a revolver pointed at him, with a threat to shoot if he made any noise, Guth gave the alarm and as a result got an ugly cut on his head by being struck with a revolver. The robbers did not hasten away without taking several hundred dollars worth of jewelry with them which had been left out of the safe. Two sacks with D. North printed on them were left in the store with the burglars' outfit of tools in them. These sacks were stolen from Curt North's barn with his team on Monday night of last week, which is evidence that it was the same gang that was here. Mr. North found his team standing on the roadside near Sheffield, not many miles from Marionville, Wednesday, where they had been abandoned by the robbers. Among the other things stolen from Mr. North was 32 quart of chestnuts. Two quart of the nuts were left in the hack. The law-breakers must have amused themselves munching chestnuts while fleeing from justice. Mr. North's team was not feeling very frisky when he found it. These chaps were professionals and as they were so successful will likely come this way sometime again. Will H. Bell don't hanker after their patronage, he is perfectly willing for them to do their dealing at some other store when they come back to Reynoldsville. Have Gone to Work. The miners and mine laborers of this section took a three-days' vacation last week to discuss the advisability of accepting a reduction of five cents per ton for digging coal, or coming out on a strike. A meeting was held in Centennial Hall Tuesday night and delegates were elected to confer with the miners at DuBois and Punxsutawney and report Thursday afternoon. The Centennial Hall was packed to its utmost capacity at the meeting Thursday afternoon. T. A. Bradley, president 2nd Dist. U. M. W. of A., was at the meeting. His talk was "accept no reduction." At this mass meeting the miners decided to remain idle the remainder of the week, and appointed a committee to wait on the general manager of the mines, S. B. Elliott, to learn if the reduction could not be averted. A mass meeting was held in the hall Saturday evening to hear the report from the committee who had interviewed Mr. Elliott and to take final action in the matter. They decided to go to work Monday. It is seldom that as well-to-do, well-behaved and gentlemanly lot of miners can be found as we have in Reynoldsville, generally speaking. There is one thorn the better class of miners' have to annoy them, which could be removed, and that is the Polanders and Italians employed in the mines. If these fellows were removed the men would be well contented. Italians and Polanders can save more money on a dollar a day than an American can on two dollars a day. A man who lives on fat bacon and spreads his bread with lard, can save money to send to some foreign land. "New" Postoffice Rules. A funny postmaster recently sent to the Postoffice Department a new set of Postoffice rules. They were: A pair of onions will go for two cents. Ink bottles must be corked when sent by mail. Persons are compelled to lick their own postage stamps and envelopes; the postmaster cannot be compelled to do this. Persons are earnestly requested not to send postal cards with money orders inclosed, as large sums are lost in that way. Nitro glycerine must be forwarded at the risk of the sender. If it should blow up in the postmaster's hand he cannot be held responsible. When letters are received bearing no direction the persons for whom they are intended will please signify the fact to the postmaster that they may at once be forwarded. It is unsafe to mail apple or fruit trees with the fruit on them. Ducks cannot be sent through the mail alive. The quacking would disturb the slumbers of the clerks on the postal cards. When watches are sent through the mail, if the sender will put a notice on the outside, the postmasters will wind and keep in running order. John Smith gets his mail from 674,279 postoffices, hence a letter addressed to John Smith, United States, will reach him. The placing of stamps upside down on letters is prohibited. Several postmasters have recently been seriously injured while trying to stand on their heads to cancel stamps placed in this manner.

BROOKVILLE MEMORIAL HOME. A Place Where Cruelty is Dealt Out with a Lavish Hand. The Brookville Memorial Home, which was established about four years ago as a monument of the sympathy and large-heartedness of the Woman's Relief Corps of Pennsylvania, has been forsaken by its founders because it has been taken out of their hands. The W. R. C. ladies of our town worked nobly to help get the Home open and support it for the first few years. Now they are done with it while it is under the present management, and they are as wise in that as they were willing workers at first. The object in the hearts and minds of the ladies of the W. R. C. was to provide a home for old soldiers, soldier's widows and soldier's orphans, where they could live and not have the gaunt wolf of despair staring at them daily, and where they might be able to sip a little of life's pleasures so far as comfort could supply it, but the beautiful thought, put in action, has been sullied by the hand of barbarism. The stories that are told about the cruelty enacted at the Memorial Home at Brookville seem almost incredible in an institution that is intended to be a place of comfort and plenty. The following is an extract from an article published in the Brookville Republican last week: "These acts of cruelty consisted in the locking of Ettie Parris and a girl named Sylvius in their room and requiring them to go to bed on Friday evening and allowing them nothing to eat until the following Sunday noon. The whipping of a demented boy, Alonzo Jackman, by the Matron, until she was entirely exhausted. Imprisoning children between the bed stand and the wall, shoving the bedstead so tight against them that they could neither turn around or change their position, a position in which they were left for hours at a time, and when released many of them sank exhausted to the floor. That this punishment was of such frequent occurrence that there was seldom a time when some of the children were not in the stocks. That Alonzo Jackman was taken from the bath room, led through the halls naked and put in the stocks and kept there two hours. That Willie Liephart, a boy three years old, was kept in the stocks for hours at a time. That George Hinkley, a child about seven years old, was kicked by an employee of the Home, knocked against the corner of a bench and a hole cut in his ear. That he was taken to the Matron in this condition, but the employee was not even reprimanded. That a dark vault in the cellar, used as a refrigerator in which to keep beer when the building was used as a hotel, was kept as a dungeon, and boys and girls imprisoned there as punishment for trivial offenses. That one little girl was kept in this dungeon until it was thought, when she was released, that she had lost her reason from fright. That Samuel Spangler, an inmate of the Home, was sent to the rooms of the children as late as nine and ten o'clock at night to whip them for wetting their beds while asleep, and that he used a strap on their bare bodies, and that the Matron punished the children in the same way for the same offense. That the screams of the children, while being punished, were heard all over the premises and by the neighbors. Forcing children to eat their food when sick, and requiring them to eat all that was placed before them regardless of their wants." If that is not hard-hearted cruelty, where can it be found? Mrs. Carrie Lindsey, of this place, had a little boy in the Home whom she clothed and kept there with the understanding that she could take the boy out whenever she so desired, and a lady at Brookville had a little son in the Home also. These two boys, with a number of others, were sent to an orphan school in the eastern part of the state without even giving the mothers an opportunity to say good-bye or a notice of the removal of their darlings, nor did they know it until several weeks after the children had been removed. Do you call that a Memorial Home? Ah, yes, it is a home which the inmates will never forget while life lasts. Some of the old soldiers or widows draw eight dollar pensions. Eighteen out of the twenty-four dollars received every three months goes to the Home for their support. The state appropriation is $6,000 annually and the Relief Corps of the state have been giving liberally to the institution until recently. Several weeks ago the management asked the W. R. C. of Reynoldsville to give them fifty-dollars, but we are glad to say they refused to give even a penny. It is hinted that the Matron is a southern lady and has no sympathy for those who seek shelter at the Home. If the above facts are not true why do the managers rest under them, and if they are true then the sooner the Brookville Home is closed the better, or else have the tyrants ousted and their places filled by less barbarious people. The Noble Coal Company Sale. [St. Marys Gazette.] All the real estate of the Noble Coal Company, consisting of about twenty-two hundred and fifteen acres of land in Fox and Horton township, and coal and mineral rights on five hundred and fifty-seven acres in said townships, was sold at receiver's sale at the court house in Ridgway, Tuesday morning last, to Mr. Andrew Kaul and Mr. J. K. P. Hall, for $20,000, subject to the liens against the property. In the afternoon of the same day, the personal property was sold at the works to the same parties for $800. Those $12.00 Tricot Macintoshes reduced to $10.00 at Glenn Milliren's.

PERSONALS.

Jim Hoffman Sundayed in Brookville. Mrs. N. Hannu visited in Brockwayville last week. J. C. Swartz, of Kensington, was in town the past week. John Fugate, of Geneva, N. Y., is visiting in Reynoldsville. Father Brady was in New Bethlehem the forepart of this week. Getus Schlabig and wife, of DuBois, spent Sunday in Reynoldsville. Miss Kate Hoy, of New Bethlehem, is visiting friends in Reynoldsville. Mrs. Geo. W. Stoko, sr., spent Sunday with her sister at Punxsutawney. Mrs. S. T. Dougherty went to Pittsburg Thursday afternoon on a short visit. Robt. Clark, of DuBois, formerly a Reynoldsville citizen, was in town Monday. Mrs. Benjamin Haymaker returned Friday from a visit with friends at Punxsutawney. Mrs. C. J. Rhea, of Oil City, visited her daughter, Mrs. L. M. Simmons, at this place last week. Rev. J. H. Jelbart assisted Rev. C. Peters dedicate the new M. E. church at Sabula last Sunday. Clark Beer, of Los Angeles, Cal., visited R. D. Beer's family in West Reynoldsville, the past week. Misses Etta and Cora Shaffer, daughters of Solomon Shaffer, visited in Summerville the past week. Mrs. Camden Mitchell was called to Pittsburg yesterday by the death of Jos. Steele, a brother-in-law. John Russell, of Kensington, who has been in Reynoldsville four or five weeks, returned to his home yesterday. Jim Mitchell, of Richmond, Ky., came to Reynoldsville yesterday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mitchell. John Campbell and wife, of East Brady, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Dunsmore in West Reynoldsville. E. W. McMillen, who was a resident of Grant street during the summer, has moved to the mill again, three miles out from town. S. W. Buck, representing the Elmira Building and Loan Association, has been in town the past week working for the interest of the association. Mrs. W. H. Snyder and daughter, Helen Ayers Snyder, of Renovo, are visiting their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Matilda Ayers, on Main street. Mrs. M. Thomas, who has had a hard tussle with typhoid fever, has recovered sufficiently to be able to visit her parents at Pansy, Pa., where she went last Friday. Rev. Harvey Greeme Furbay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Tyrone, visited Reynoldsville friends this week. He was called home to attend a funeral. Prof. John Ballentine, of Clarion, teacher of Greek and Latin in the Clarion Normal school, preached in the Baptist church at this place last Sunday morning and evening. Harry E. Faust, of Helvetia, was in town last Friday. About seventeen years ago Harry was a "devil" in the print shop at this place. He is not a devotee of the "art preservative" now. Rev. E. T. Derr was in Pittsburg and Cleveland, O., during the past week. Preached in Canton, Pa., Sunday. Visited relatives in Williamsport since Sunday and returned home yesterday. Birthday Surprise Party. On the morning of Nov. 17 everything at the home of Mr. Syphrit was moving in the same manner as usual, the morning work was done and Mrs. Syphrit had settled herself, as she thought, for a whole day's sewing, when some of the neighbors began dropping in, carrying mysterious looking packages and baskets, which she soon took to mean more than a neighborly call. Next her mother, Mrs. London, of Big Run, and others came in. Then she began to understand the "racket." Still they kept coming until the house was filled. The next thing was the unpacking of baskets and boxes in which there was certainly no trace of hard times or starvation, but plenty of good things in endless variety, on which at least seventy-five persons feasted, after which the table was cleared and the presents displayed. This spread filled the table again, but was for Mrs. alone. To go into details and enumerate each article and give the donor's name would take a whole column, so I shall only mention a few: A beautiful decorated dinner set by the London Bros., a lovely black dress pattern from her husband, a nice bed quilt from her mother, &c. On the whole it was both a pleasant and profitable surprise, and a day to make a green spot in the memory of the participants. From Sire to Son.
