If there were not so many children who look like their parents, perhaps there would not be so many homely looking boys and girls in the world.

Somebody has discovered that church sleepiness is to be explained on scientific principles. It is, in fact, a condition of hypnotism, and so far from indicating inattention to the sermon shows rather complete absorption by it. Fixing one's mind on the voice of the minister in the otherwise complete silence of the audience room produces just the conditions necessary to domination by another's mind, and the nodding head and drooping, heavy eyelids are not eloquent of the preacher's duliness, but rather mute testimonials of his powerful influence. Thus, one by one, are hoary traditions fading away before the searching light of science.

If any farmer in this section has pro cured samples of grain from the World's Fair agricultural building, he will do well to burn it forthwith. It is stated that the discovery has been made that the whole exhibition has been attacked by the weevilaa pest whose larva is a worm that burrows in the kernel of the grain, and has done enormous damage to the crops in south-western Russia and India, whence, doubtless, it was brought to the World's Fair. It is stated that thousands of samples of grain have been carried away from the agricultural building, and there is scarcely a corner of the United States where the pest has not been carried.

One who has tried the experiment says: A simple but effective barometer can be made by filling a common, widemouthed pickle bottle within three inches of the top with water: then taking an ordinary Florence oil flask, and, having removed the straw covering and washed it thoroughly, plunging the neck of the flask as far as it will go into the pickle bottle, you have thus a complete barometer. In fine weather the water will rise into the neck of the flask higher than the mouth of the pickle bottle, in wet and windy weather it will fall to within an inch of the flask. Before a heavy gale of wind, at least eight hours before the gale reaches its height, the water has, it is said, been seen to leave the flask altogether.

A writer who has stopped to consider the matter, says: "Very few persons realize the arduous character of the physician's work. To the average layman he seems to lead a life of case and profit, with little to do beyond the insertion of bank notes into a plethoric purse, or the enjoyment of pleasure drives about the country. But, as a matter of fact, he is subject to a constant and prodigious mental and physical strain, which throws a blaze of light upon the fact that physicians head the list of suicides every year. It is not so much the amount of labor that wears out the human machine, as the lack of continuous rest, and this the physician lacks. If the calls of suffering humanity do not summon him from his bed, anxiety as to the sick who have intrusted themselves to his hands banishes sleep from his eyes. In view of this fact it is not surprising that medical men are short-lived, nor is it marvelous that under the great mental exertion the mind gives way, and he takes his own life."

We believe there is not a class of men who give as liberally of their earthly possessions-and don't tell the world about it-as the ministers of the gospel. People who are not intimately acquainted with this class of men have no idea how often, and how deep, they run their hands down into their pockets for charitable purposes. Because the world at large, and many of the members of the churches, who give little red pennies to upon him without elicting a remark. collections for church and benevolent | The clergyman ate his dinner quietly, purposes, don't know the liberal spirit of the preacher, they think the man who gets a thousand a year is getting too much money for the work he does. It has been our good fortune to be intimately acquainted with some noble ministers who are possessed with ability to make twice one thousand a year if they followed worldly pursuits in life, but who have sacrificed worldly ambition to preach the gospel, who give largely of their emoluments in ways unknown to their congregations. If all professed christian people would give as liberally of their earthly possessions, "as the Lord prospers them," as the ministers of the gospel do, generally speaking, many little dwarf souls that are now trying to see how cheap they can get to heaven, would commence to grow and might be able to enjoy what they now profess to have-religion.

Winter Tours via P. R. R.

The final arrangements are now made by the tourist Bureau of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for the running of its personally-conducted tours for the coming season. First and foremost in point of magnitude and attractiveness come those to California and Florida. The dates for the former are January 31st and February 22d. The first date has been selected so that en route to the glorious westernmost State of the Union the Mardi Gras festivities at New Orleans may be enjoyed by the tourists. California will command unusual attention this winter by reason of the Midwinter Exposition to be held at San Francisco. This exhibition promises almost to rival the late World's Fair in completeness. Many Eastern people have already decided to attend.

Florida, always a popular haven, still justly asserts its claim as the most delightful part of our country in which to pass the inclement months of the year. Five tours will be run there, January 30th, February 13th, February 27th, March 13th, and March 27th, have been chosen as the starting dates, $50 from New York, $48 from Philadelphia and an equally low rate from other points will cover all expenses en route.

Old Point Comfort appeals strongly to those not caring to journey further from home, and on December 26th this historical spot will be visited by a special tour. Last come the tours to Washington, D. C., on December 14th and 28th, January 18th, February 8th, March 1st and 22d, April 12th and May 3d and

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company's guarantee that thorough and satisfactory methods will be pursued in conducting these trips needs no additional testimonial.

All the young women in the country would do well to heed the words which good Bishop Foster once addressed to a class of girls graduating from college. He said:

"Learn your obligation to the past, be careful of the present, and prepare yourself for the great future before you. Though you may not be found on the battlefield or at the ballot box, you can build up the future by building up the men. You live in a particularly exciting time, when you have placed in opposition to you one of the greatest vices, and you women will conquer if all those of your sex who are real women, will combine. Beware of coxcombs and libertines. They are fools, whether they know it or not. By your conduct toward them, send them from your presence. Reserve your hearts and love for men. Be not what is known as fashionable woman. There is nothing so foolish as such a woman, and none but fools admire her.'

A German clergyman who was traveling stopped at a hotel much frequented by wags and jokers. The host, not being used to have a clergyman at his table, looked at him with surprise; the guests used all their artillery of wit apparently without observing the gibes and sneers of his neighbors. One of them, at last, in despair at his forbearance, said to him, "Well, I wonder at your patience! Have you not heard all that has been said to you?" "O, yes; but I am used to it. Do you know who I am?" "No, sir." "Well, I will inform you. I am chaplain of a lunatic asylum."

Two for One. We are making a special offer to each of our readers paying a year's subscription to the STAR in advance, and to all new subscribers paying in advance, w will give them the best local paper in Jefferson county and will give them free, either the Womankind or Amertcan Farmer, for one year.
