C. A. STEPHENSON, Editor and Pub. WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1893.

An independent local paper, published every Wednesday at Reynoldsville, Jefferson t.O. Pa., devoted to the interests of Reynoldsville and Jefferson county. Non-political, will treat all with fairness, and will be especially friendly towards the laboring class.

Subscription price $1.50per year, in advance. Communications intended for publication must be accompanied by the writer's name, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Interesting news items solicited. Advertising rates made known on application at the office in Arnolds' Block.

Lengthy communications and change of advertisements should reach this office by Monday noon.

Address all communications to C. A. Stephenson, Reynoldsville, Pa., Entered at the postoffice at Reynoldsville, Pa., as second class mail matter.

You can't draw a boundary line around a moral evil and say to it "You may continue, but you must keep within these particular limits." The only way to keep it from aggressive warfare is to keep it fighting for its existence.

We call the attention of our readers to the announcements of the Pittsburg Christian Advocate, in another column. The Advocate is the official organ of the M. E. church in this locality, and should be patronized by all Methodist who wish to keep informed in matters pertaining to the church of their choice. Send for sample copy.

A large postal card, in use for some months, will soon become obsolete if reports be true. It is given out that the government has decided that the size of the card is greater than is needed, as has been shown in the great majority of cases in its use, and therefore a new card, not so large, will be issued in a few weeks, possibly by the beginning of the new year.

It is estimated that there are 117,000 unemployed people in Chicago, many of whom are starving to death. A committee of 100 citizens of the World's Fair city were appointed to raise $1,000,-000 for the relief of the needy. Is this the re-action from the extra boom the World's Fair gave that city, or the general depression that stalks through the land? Perhaps both.

An act may possess the properties of fitness and utility, but for want of right Intention be just the reverse of what it seems to be. The churl may reach forth his hand in acts of beneficence; but because other ends than those of charity are intended, they possess no virtue, and he remains a churl. Or, if a man gives his neighbor a potion which he really believes will poison him, but which in the event proves salutatory and does much good, in moral estimation he is a criminal and not a benefactor.

A house will be kept in turmoil where there is not toleration of mistakes, no mack submission to injuries, no soft answer to turn away rath. If you lay a single stick of wood in the grate and apply fire to it, it will go out; put on another stick, and they will burn; and a half dozen, and you will have an effective blaze. There are other fires subject to the same condition. If one member of a family gets into a passion and is left alone, he will cool down, and possibly be ashamed and repent. But oppose temper to temper, let one harsh answer be followed by another, and there will soon be a blaze which will mended and repolished to look as good enwrap them all in its burning heat.

Anarchism, nihilism and all destructive phases of socialism are the product of monarchical governments, under which hereditary perogatives prevail, and the laboring classes are subject to various disabilities which render their lot in life hard and depressing. But in this country they are out of place. At present, times are hard and many men cannot get employment, but generally speaking, an American, if he be industrious and sober, can make an honest living by honest work; and if he has energy and business abilities of any kind, can attain to an honorable and even prominent position in the community, as many thousands have done who began life in the most humble

The future of the ex-convict, who is turned out upon the world again after serving his term, is a subject which has strongly engaged the attention of earnest penologists of late years. As a general thing, the ex-convict meets with a very freezing reception in the world, even when he departs from the prison enclosure with a real purpose of leading a new life and becoming a useful member of society. He finds that he is regarded by respecta-ble society as something of a moral leper. All doors of employment are closed against him. He must either go to some far-distant region, with a changed name, and take his chances or there is nothing left for him to do save to return to his old vicious ways and take his chances among the outlaws. Some men, strong of purpose, have lived down the curse which seems to rest upon them, and have conquered their way to places in the industrial world. But the vast majority of ex-convicts, meeting no friendly hand to guide and help them, and being made to realize that a brand has been impressed | dealers ask you 100, $115 and $140 for, upon them, fall by the wayside in de-spair, and are subject to every evil

Mrs. Beulah Peters.

Mrs. Beulah Peters, of Unionville, Center county, Pa., died at 2.30 A. M., Thursday, November, 30th, 1893, at the home of her son, William F. Peters, at Central City, where she was visiting. She had been sick a few days with a heavy cold, which ended her useful life on earth. She was exceedingly kind and generous lady and was a member of the Baptist church of Unionville for over 39 years. Her life was extended to 73 years and 4 months, most of which was devoted to doing good. About 51 years ago Mrs. Beulah Peters and her husband, Lewis C. Peters, located in what is now the borough of Unionville; they built the first house in the town. Her husband preceded her to the Heavenly land 14 years. They were both pillars in the Baptist church. Since her husband's death she spent the most of her time with her seven children, but still retained her home at the old homestead as a place for the children and her many friends to meet her. Her maiden name was Miss Beulah Fisher, she was of one of the oldest and most prominent families in Centre county: three brothers and one sister survive, her W. P. Fisher, the nurseryman, Ezra and Elijah Fisher and Mrs. Jacob Hoover. The following children survive her: John M., of Unionville; Mrs. Addie Smith, of Bellefonte: William, of Central City: Edward, of Union township; Osear, of Milesburg; Alfred L., of Reynoldsville; Joseph, of Pleasant Gap. Her remains were interred in the Friends graveyard near Unionville. The services were conducted by Rev. Sole, the Baptist minister of Milesburg. The pall bearers were her six sons.

"Come, let us join our friends above, Who have obtained the prize; And on the eagle wings of love To Joy celestial rise,"

"Let saints below in concert sing With those to glory gone, For all the servants of our King In Heaven and earth are one."

"O, Saviour, be our constant guide; Then, when the word is given, Bid Jordan's narrow stream divide And land us safe in Heaven."

The Trouble Over.

A prominent man in town exclaimed the other day: "My wife has been wearing out her life from the effects of Dispepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Her case baffled the skill of our best physicians. After using three packages of Bacon's Celery King for the Nerves she is almost entirely well." Keep your blood in a healthy condition by the use of this great vegetable compound. Call on W. B. Alexander sole agent, and get a trial package free. Large size 25 and 50 cents.

arrous Rocks In Mashonsland. A characteristic feature of Mashonaland, the kopje, is frequently mentioned in the dispatches reporting the en-gagements with the Matabele. Some description of these curious elevations is given in a letter to Professor Geikie, from Mr. J. B. Don, formerly one of his pupils. A uniform granite formation is, he says, by far the most prominent geological peculiarity of Mashonaland and indeed of most of the interior of South Africa. Sometimes it rises into mountains, but usually the general level is only broken by low kopjes, and in those parts where the bed rock and surface are flattest the kopjes present the most singular appearance. The whole country seems dotted with huge curbstones, and in whichever direction you look they gradually close in the view, as the trunks of trees would in a forest. Some of these curbstones are 800 feet or more high, sheer all round, and apparently of smaller diameter than height. Sometimes the original mass has been so broken up as to form the most marvelous steeplelike struc-tures springing out of the rich foliage that grows in all the crevices. Native huts are built on these kopjes in almost inaccessible positions.—London News.

Elevators In New York.

New York contains 7,500 elevators at present, including those in private houses and others where the traffic is comparatively small. If you assume, however, merely to dazzle the fancy. that 5,000 of these are in busy build-ings, then you find that the elevators of New York could carry up and down per day 5,000 times 10,000 people, or not far from the entire population of the United States. Again, by a beautiful law of averages, you find that 20 miles is a fair daily run for a New York elevator. -- Boston Globe.
