Out of the sixty-seven counties in Pennsylvania Galusha A. Grew had a majority in all but eleven.

It is not a sign of good manners or smartness for people to sneer and make fun while attending religious services. It is a disgusting sight.

The New York Independent has received and rejected a communication whose author attempts to prove that the Bible does not provide any place in heaven for women. However, he is benevolent enough to admit that they will not be utterly ignored. A separate place has been provided for them, he says.

The Swedes are described as a quiet, taciturn people. There is no jostling even among the lower classes. When a train leaves a platform or a steamboat pier the lookers-on lift their hats to the departing passengers and bow to them—a compliment which is returned by the passengers. You are expected to lift your hat to the shabbiest person you meet on the street, and to enter a shop, office or bank with the hat on is considered a bad breach of good manners. In retiring from a restaurant you are expected to bow to the occupants. Bowing and hat lifting are so common that the people seem to move around more slowly than elsewhere in order to observe the courtesies.—Ex.

An assault and battery case was tried in the Washington county court last week. A man was accused of kissing another man's wife and acting very improperly with her. Judge Melvaine, who heard the case, interpreted assault and battery as follows: "Assault and battery is the unlawful infliction of physical violence by one person upon another without his or her consent. For instance, if one of you should put your arm around and kiss another man's wife without her consent and against her will, it would be an assault and battery; but if she consents to your kissing her, and you did so, it would not be an assault and battery, although it would be, under most circumstances, a very imprudent thing to do."

The Press and Printer says: "A motto of many young women and men now seems to be, when all else fails try literature, especially newspaper writing. Most newspaper offices are beset with applications from girls, matured women and young men who cannot do anything else and who suppose that newspaper work is easy and profitable. Few of them have the faintest idea that every newspaper writer of even moderate success has to have years and years of training and is only valuable according to his experience, knowledge, acquaintance and versatility. It may be said that ten years is considered a very moderate term of apprenticeship in newspaper work. Many who have been at it twenty years find they are just learning."

There are many strange things in nature. The spider spins its ladder out of itself. When it ascends it eats the ladder; when it wants to go down it spits it out again. There are plants which eat animals. They have mouths and stomachs. If a fly falls on one of these, it shuts up and begins at once to digest it. Having done so, it opens again ready for another meal. The leaves are the lips. The opossum has pockets. In its side-pockets this animal carries its young. "If the cat had only been provided with pockets, she would not have to carry her kittens in her mouth by the back of their necks." It is said that the huma never alights. There are sea-birds which can roost on the waves in the worst storm. The carrier-pigeon knows the way home if let loose many a mile away. Camels weep. They are patient, but know by sight and smell when danger is near, and show their fears by tears. While being loaded the camel stops chewing its cud. The mouth of the whale is an instance of ingenuity and foresight. It is a kind of shrimping net. One would hardly suppose that one of the largest animals would seek its food among the smallest, that millions would be destroyed to support one life, but so it is, according to McCulloch. But if the whale had to swallow all the water it must draw into its mouth with its prey, it would be exceedingly inconvenient. So providence has provided a singular piece of machinery to prevent this. It is a series of flat hoops meeting from both sides of the mouth into arches, carrying ranges of bristles, which form a strainer, and also a kind of net. The water is thus rejected, and the mass of shrimps is delivered to the throat.

Bristles.

You've heard of the man who only needed bristles to be a pork. If you see him send him to us. We've got the bristles for him. Our bristles are all made up into the finest line of brushes we ever had. There are clothes brushes, tooth brushes, hair brushes, nail brushes, bath brushes, paint brushes, all kinds of brushes. STROKE, Registered Pharmacist.

To Perfume Properly.

Sachet powder is necessary. What kind you use depends on your own taste. Sachet bags in drawers and closets give to clothes that delicately distinct odor which is the stamp of refinement. We have all the popular odors, sweet, dainty and penetrating. STROKE, Registered Pharmacist.

About Prescriptions.

The best of medicines are none too good for sick folks. It's had enough to be sick without running chances with second grade drugs. That's the reason we buy only the very highest quality of everything. It's a great satisfaction to us to know that every prescription we send out is just as good as drugs will make it. No matter what you paid for it you couldn't get it better. STROKE, Registered Pharmacist.

F. M. Brown, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the M. E. Church of Reynoldsville, will receive sealed proposals, up to March 15th, 1894, for the janitor work of said church for the year beginning April 1st, 1894. The proposals will be opened on March 15th, and the Board of Trustees reserve the right to reject any or all bids. The successful bidder will be requested to sign an agreement for the faithful discharge of the duties herein after enumerated: The janitor will ring the bell and be present at all church services, the pastor to decide what constitutes a regular church service. The church must be thoroughly swept at least once a week, and oftener, if necessary. All seats and furniture must be thoroughly dusted each time after the church is swept. The floor between and under the pews must be mopped, whenever necessary; the lamps to be kept clean and filled. Once each year the church must be thoroughly cleaned and the carpets removed and beaten. The church must be heated and well ventilated for each service. In winter the walk in front of the church must be kept free from snow and ice. The janitor will see that all the doors are securely locked at the close of each service, and look after the church property in general. No children or irresponsible persons will be allowed to do the work of the janitor. The church should be open, heated and ready for occupancy at all regular church services.

Life is a Lottery.

Perhaps. But you can't afford to take any chances when you're sick. Don't let the druggist enrich himself at your expense. Lookout for impure drugs. They are cheaper, of course,—for the druggist—but how about you? Then again, how about accuracy and skill in compounding your prescription? That counts for something too, don't it? We pride ourselves on combining all these features. H. ALEX STROKE, Registered Pharmacist.
