

Subscription $1.50 per year, in advance. C. A. STEPHENSON, Editor and Pub. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1894.

An independent local paper, published every Wednesday at Reynoldsville, Jefferson Co., Pa., devoted to the interests of Reynoldsville and Jefferson county. Non-political, will treat all with fairness, and will be especially friendly towards the laboring class.

A strike of the coke workers in the region of Uniontown commenced Monday. At least 5,000 men are out and 4,000 still at work.

Evil when cherished in the heart is necessarily demoralizing, because it is a violation of the law of purity, and its punishment is just as certain as that God hates sin.

Coxey's commonwealth army is still on the march to Washington. They camped at the Exposition park in Allegheny last night. The army varies in numbers daily. The highest number has been three hundred and yesterday it was down to one hundred and sixty.

Each one of us is bound to make the little circle in which he lives better and happier. Each of us is bound to see that out of that small circle the widest good may flow, says Dean Stanley. Each of us may have fixed in his mind the thought that out of a single household may flow influences that shall stimulate the whole Commonwealth and the whole civilized world.

A young farmer who lives near Bellefonte has hit upon a happy thought to reduce the amount of labor required to till his fields. Instead of laying out his fields square or nearly so he has laid them out narrow and they extend the entire length of his farm. By this means he avoids turning corners so many times, which is a loss of time. He can reap ten acres of grain by going up and down the field six times.

In Parisian society there are at least a score of impeccable, unimpeachable families who, to keep up their social position, are subsidized by matrimonial agencies, writes the Paris correspondent of the New York Times. They speculate upon their names, their situations, their acquaintances; they hire out their drawing-rooms and their guests. They receive a great deal of company, and present to each other such persons as are designated to them by the broker, and, in addition to their monthly subvention, are remunerated from the commission after the marriage has been celebrated.

The best and happiest wife in this and the next generation, says an exchange, is and will be the self-supporting woman. It is so evident that arguments and proofs seem superfluous. From a severely practical standpoint, a woman who has made her own living knows the value of money, has had experience in making it go as far as possible, has sown all the wild oats of small extravagances and subsequent scripping that make trouble in many new homes. A dollar to her represents so many hours' work, not a few coining words addressed to papa. She knows what kind of a home it is pleasant to come to after a tiring day's work and what sort of breakfast is the best foundation for eight hours' toil. She has been used for so long to look after herself that it is almost heaven to have some one ask if she had her rubbers on this morning, and the trifling attention will be repaid by a devotion to socks and buttons which the masculine mind will enjoy while it may not entirely understand.

Make right and holy use of the tongue, writes the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage. It is loose at one end and can swing either way, but it is fastened at the other end to the floor of your mouth, and that makes you responsible for the way it wags. Xanthus, the philosopher, told his servant that on the morrow he was going to have some friends to dine, and told him to get the best thing he could find in the market. The philosopher and his guests sat down the next day at the table. They had nothing but tongue—four or five courses of tongue—tongue cooked in this way and tongue cooked in that way, and the philosopher lost his patience and said to the servant: "Didn't I tell you to get the best thing in the market?" He said: "I did get the best thing in the market. Isn't the tongue the organ of sociality, the organ of eloquence, the organ of kindness, the organ of worship?" Then Xanthus said: "To-morrow I want you to get the worst thing in the market." And on the morrow the philosopher sat at the table, and there was nothing there but tongue—for or five courses of tongue—tongue in this shape and tongue in that shape, and the philosopher again lost his patience and said: "Didn't I tell you to get the worst thing in the market?" The servant replied: "I did, for isn't the tongue the organ of blasphemy, the organ of defamation, the organ of lying?" Employ the tongue which God so wonderfully created as the organ of taste, the organ of articulation, to make others happy, and in the service of God!

"The Story of Our Christianity."

The people of Reynoldsville and vicinity will soon have an opportunity to become acquainted with the very desirable book bearing the above title, which will be presented for their consideration by F. M. Lucas, of Rathmel, who has the agency for Jefferson county. The book is published by the Peerless Publishing Co., of Philadelphia. Its author is Rev. Frederic M. Bird, whose ability as a writer upon sacred themes is attested throughout this work. As the name indicates the book is a history of Christianity from early times. It begins with a view of the trials and victories of the Jews before the time of Christ, who were our forerunners, and whose record must always be of interest to Christians. From those times the history of Christianity is traced through its successive stages of development, showing the readers the sorrows and afflictions that the faithful have been called upon to endure in times past and concluding with a glance at the happier conditions that now prevail, when every man in our enlightened land is free to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience. This story of the grandest cause that ever came to bless the earth cannot fail to be a source of help always to the people of our day. Its usefulness is further enhanced by the lavish use of illustrations, many of them colored ones, which tell the story of persecutions, for instance, with a force that no pen could command. The book is furnished in various styles of binding, bringing it within the reach of all. Where the book has been shown it has never failed to commend itself to one interested in Christianity's marvelous record, and without doubt the experience of other places will be duplicated in Reynoldsville.

Mr. Lucas is also agent for Sam Small's great book, "The White Angel of the World," which has recently been enlarged into a magnificent edition.

We learn from lumbermen, who have just returned from Pittsburg, that the lumber market promises to be much better the present season than last, especially for the holders of pine timber, the available stock of this class of lumber being exceedingly short, a fact which the buyers recognize, causing them to come into the market early and offer good price for fair timber. The prospects for hemlock and hard woods is not so well defined, but holders expect at the least last season's prices and cash sales or their equivalent. The owners of boat-yards on the Clarion report ready sales and satisfactory prices.—Brookville Republican.

Two for One.

We are making a special offer to each of our readers paying a year's subscription to the STAR in advance, and to all new subscribers paying in advance, we will give them the best local paper in Jefferson county and will give them free, either the Womankind or American Farmer, for one year. The two papers above mentioned are excellent monthly papers and the subscription price of each is 50c. a year. This offer is made only to those in Pennsylvania.

An exchange has the following: The Pennsylvania company is about to discard the old method of stamping tickets with ink and will punch the year and day clear through the ticket by means of powerful stencils. This is done to keep scalpers and others from altering the date and thus extending the limit of mileage book and excursion tickets. The orders state that all tickets are to be stamped as prescribed. When one thinks of the thousands of special excursion tickets sold on July 4th and other occasions, the work devolving upon the agent may be imagined. A peculiar feature is that the month does not appear. Everything is reckoned in days of the year, "20th, 43rd or 251st," as the case may be. Following the day stamp is the final figure of the year, "4" remaining until next January.

A School-Girl's Meditation.

In the school-room I am sitting, With my books all strewn about, Oh! how fast the moments are flying, And the school is almost out. I am thinking of my school-mates Who once were gathered here, And wondering what is their fate Since they have gone both far and near. Some are seeking for pleasure, Whilet draining deep the falsely sparkling bowl; Some in the light of love are seeking the treasure Whose worth may satisfy the craving soul. Yet I am still thinking Of the school days that are o'er; And Oh, how I am wishing We could view them all once more. I am thinking not of school-mates only, And Oh, I am so lonely As the long weary years roll on. I am thinking of them daily, As I did long years ago, But they have gone and left me sadly In this cold and dreary world below. So I'll think of them no more, And I'll banish them forever From my heart and mind for some more true. A SCHOOL-GIRL.

Good News. No other Medicine in the world was ever given such a test of its curative qualities, as Otto's Cure. Thousands of bottles of this great German remedy are being distributed FREE OF CHARGE, by druggists in this country to those afflicted with Consumption, Asthma, Croup, severe Coughs, Pneumonia and all Throat and Lung diseases, giving the people proof that Otto's Cure will cure them, and that it is the grandest triumph of Medical science. For sale only by W. B. Alexander. Samples free. Large bottles 25 and 50c.

About Prescriptions.

The best of medicines are none too good for sick folks. It's bad enough to be sick without running chances with second grade drugs. That's the reason we buy only the very highest quality of everything. It's a great satisfaction to us to know that every prescription we send out is just as good as drugs will make it. No matter what you paid for it you couldn't get it better. STOKE, Registered Pharmacist.

Counterfeit Dollar.

New counterfeitlets of the one dollar silver certificates have appeared in this State. The notes bear the portrait of Martha Washington, are of the series of 1891, of check-letter A, and signed J. Fount Tillman as Register, and D. N. Morgan of the United States. The counterfeit notes have the actual silk threads in the paper, but the general appearance of the note is not good. The work appears dark on both face and back it is similar to a badly printed note with sticky or thin ink. The centre lathe-work on the face of the bill is as good as the genuine, but the stipple or other fine work about the portrait, the small lettering above it, and the whole border is bad work; and the parallel ruling for the number panel in the lower left corner is especially bad. The blue numbers are also bad. Pay no attention to the threads in the paper as such only deceive you. Tomatoes 10 cents a can at Schultze's.

Life is a Lottery.

Perhaps. But you can't afford to take any chances when you're sick. Don't let the druggist enrich himself at your expense. Lookout for impure drugs. They are cheaper, of course,—for the druggist—but how about you? Then again, how about accuracy and skill in compounding your prescription? That counts for something too, don't it? We pride ourselves on combining all these features.
