A Clearfield county farmer who could not raise $1.50 to pay for his home paper, sent $3.00 to an eastern man to learn the secret of keeping butter from getting strong. He received the reply, "Eat it."

Memorial Day will be the next holiday. It is expected the day will be duly observed here, but as yet there has been little said about it. Year by year the veterans of the late war—the men who wore the blue in the troublous times from 1861 to '65—are dropping off. The number of responses to the roll calls in the Grand Army of the Republic becomes smaller every year. It will be but a short time—as history measures time—when the civil war will be only a memory, and all those who participated in it will have spread their tents on fame's eternal camping ground.

The management of the Emporium Mountain Echo has changed hands. C. H. Moon's name appeared at the top-most last week as manager. We understand John A. Johnston, the former editor, still has an interest in the paper, but has gone into other business. The "Silvery Queen of the Silent Night" is always the brightest when full, but it is not full all the time for it was it would never have any quarters and halves, neither will the manager of the Echo if he is full all the time. While we hope he will not get full, especially on his last quarter, as does the "Queen of Night," yet we hope his brightness may never grow dim.

An exchange says: "There is no room in this free land for the alien who comes with no purpose of acquiring citizenship, and without a particle of sympathy with the laws and institutions of our country. The oppressed from every land who come here to accept our citizenship and obey our laws, should be made welcome but the alien who comes with merely mercenary motives and to breed violence and bloodshed cannot have any part or lot with the American citizens. This is a land of freedom but our liberty is liberty of law, but no lawless elements are entitled to any sympathy from the American people and should be shipped back to their native country as speedy as possible."

It has been truthfully said that the great want of the age is men; men who are honest, sound from center to circumference, true to heart's core; men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others; men whose consciences are as steady as the needle to the pole; men who stand for right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; men who can tell the truth and look the devil right in the eye; men that never flinch or flinch, men that have courage without shouting, men in whom the currents of everlasting life run still, deep and strong; men who do not cry nor spoil their voices to be heard on the streets but who will not fail nor be discouraged till judgment be set in the earth; men who their message know and tell it; men who will not lie; men who are not too lazy to work nor too proud to be poor; men who know their places and fill them; men who are willing to eat what they have paid for.

When the bill was under consideration in March for making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, Hon. Galusha A. Grow offered the following amendment: "That any pension heretofore granted, or that may be hereafter granted, to any soldier or sailor for any disability specified by law, shall be rated from and after June 30, A. D. 1894, at not less than $12 per month." In a few remarks on the amendment Mr. Grow said: "Now, $12 a month is certainly not a large pension, considering what it is given for. Dollars and cents are not to be weighed in the patriotic scale of national gratitude against the heroic service of the men who in the prime of vigorous manhood periled their all on the battlefields of their country to save the life of the Republic and preserve the ark and the covenant of liberty to coming time. Let this amendment or some similar one be attached to this pension appropriation bill, so that whatever money may be appropriated from the National Treasury for the soldier shall be a substantial benefit to him during the remainder of his pilgrimage, for it will be but a few years before the last one of these survivors of the war will sleep in the silent chambers of the dead."

The Top Notch Keelboat.

The top notch of enterprise and liberality has been reached by the Pittsburg Times which announces that every one of its sixty thousand subscribers, and all who will become regular readers before Saturday, May 12th, will be presented with the First Part of the most remarkable Art Portfolio of the year. The work referred to is "Frank Leslie's Scenes and Portraits of the Civil War" which will furnish a complete authentic history of the conflict between the States in pictures drawn on the spot and in descriptive prose. The First Part will be delivered free to all readers of the Pittsburg Times in exchange for the first six coupons, and the other twenty-nine parts will be furnished in exchange of six coupons clipped from the Times and ten cents for each part.

There will be thirty parts, twenty-six of which will be devoted to illustrations and four to reading matter. Each of the first twenty-six parts will contain sixteen illustrations, making a total of four hundred and sixteen in the complete volume. Short descriptions will accompany the pictures in each part. The pictures were made on the scene of battle by the most famous artist of the time, and can therefore be relied upon as absolutely accurate. The work will be a supplement to every written history portraying as it does the striking incidents of battle, and giving the likenesses of the leaders whose names were on every lip in the days of strife. Here the veterans will find the past recalled, and here the young may gain inspiration to emulate their patriotism and devotion.

The Pittsburg Times deserves thanks for placing this splendid history within the reach of the people at nominal cost, and its proposed free distribution of the First Part to all its readers is generosity without a parallel. If you are not a reader of the Times, order it from your news agent at once, if there is no agent for the Times in your locality write to the Times, Pittsburg, Pa., for terms to clubs and agents.

Many persons think there must be considerable waste in a large manufacturing plant like the tannery. Such is not the case, however. The bark, after having the tanning extracted, is shoveled under the six large boilers and makes the very best of fuel, and the ashes are sold to farmers and gardeners and makes an elegant fertilizer. The hair from the hides is carefully dried and put in bales, about as large as a bale of hay, and shipped to Philadelphia and comes back to us in the shape of wool blankets, felt hats and cigarettes. The "fleshings" are placed in a large caldron, where the oil is extracted, placed in barrels shipped to New York, from whence it returns in the shape of "pure cod liver oil," oleomargarine and chewing gum. The talls are dried and put in bundles shipped to Boston and returns as canned "ox tail soup," "bullion" and gelatine. Even the bark of the tannery dog is utilized to keep Hen Miese, the night engineer, awake.—Clearfield Public Spirit.

He was Known Here.

Geo. Matthews, who was well known in this place a few years ago as a great football player, died at his home in England, April 3rd, 1894. In June, 1893, he was working his last day in the mine before his return to America when an accident happened in which he had his back broken. His brother lives at Rathmel. An England paper had the following to say about the deceased as a football player:

"Saturday would have been a time of rejoicing at Shankhouse had it not been for the death of George Matthews, which took place on Tuesday. Well do I remember him—an honest hard working player, popular alike with his club mates and the public. He was the first captain of the Shankhouse team, and many a hard battle was fought and won under his direction. Certain it is that Northumberland has not yet produced a better centre half. If any evidence of the great respect in which he was held was needed there was ample forthcoming in the great multitude which turned out to form the funeral procession on Sunday. As the immense crowd wended its way through the village scarcely a word was spoken. He had suffered many months, but while there was room for hope he had always abundance of it, and when he knew the inevitable, his heart never failed him. It is a little over a year since his mate, who was the club's trainer, died from the same cause—a broken back."

Withdrawal Notice.

To the Republicans of Jefferson County: Owing to the fact that many other interests require my attention at the present time, I am compelled, in justice to myself, to withdraw from the contest for the Republican nomination for District Attorney. I am under obligations to the many voters who have promised me their support, but they will find other worthy men in the field whose nomination will unite the party and insure success in November.

Respectfully yours,
JACOB L. FISHER.

Several hundred of the foremost citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny have organized committees to prepare for the 28th National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in Pittsburgh during the week beginning September 10th next. This promises to be the largest and most impressive demonstration ever witnessed in Western Pennsylvania. Already the committee on accommodations has secured free quarters for 40,000 men and applications for these quarters are coming in daily from posts in every direction. The railroads last year carried 268,000 persons to the Encampment at Indianapolis, and Pittsburgh being in a more populous Territory, there is a natural expectation that this number will be exceeded. Pittsburgh Councils have appropriated $25,000 toward the Encampment. Fund and Allegheny Councils $5,000, while the people of the two municipalities are expected to subscribe $75,000 to the end that the affair may be a thorough success.
