HIS CLAIM NOW SETTLED.

William McGarrahan, a Noted Washingington Figure, Dead. William McGarrahan, one of the most enspieuous figures about the Capitol at Washington for the last thirty years, died at Providence Hospital on Tuesday morning Providence Hospital on Tuesday morning. He has been failing rapidly during the last year, and went to the hospital a few weeks ago. He was visited there by many Senators who have grown attached to the old man who, always jkind and courteous, had be seeched Congress to do him justice, but his beseeched in vain. In addition to a complication of diseases, dropsy set in and death soon followed.

plication of diseases, dropsy set in and death soon followed.

Mr. McGarrahan had hopes of Congress granting his claim, and he promised the Sisters in the hospital that when he got his money he would donate $50,000 to build an annex to the regular buildings. It is probable that his friends in Congress will bury him, as he had no relatives or money.

The famous "McGarrahan claim" has been before the country for 36 years. The courts able that his friends in Congress will bury him, as he had no relatives or money.

The famous "McGarrahan claim" has been before the country for 36 years. The courts have five times decided in favor of the claimant, and, beginning with the fortieth even for the claimant, and, beginning with the fortieth congress, when a bill for his relief passed the House, it has been before Congress in some shape or another at nearly every session. In 1858 William McGarrahan bought from the original grantee a vast tract of mountainous land in Southern California, paying $11,600 for it. Not long after large deposits of quick silver were discovered on it, and the New Idria Mining Company located its mines, refusing to recognize McGarrahan's title, which was based upon a Mexican land grant. He brought suit against the United States, from whom the intruders claimed title, and the validity of his grant was twice confirmed by the United States Supreme Court. He then applied for a patent for the lands, and Secretary of the Interior Smith, then in Lincoln's cabinet, granted one, but it was never issued, and later examination showed that the records in the Interior department in reliation thereto had been mutilated.

He then went to Congress, and bills for his relief have been introduced at every session. They have frequently passed one House, but not until the close of the first session of the Fifty-second Congress did a bill pass both branches. President Harrison, however, while admitting the justice of the claim, was dissatisfied with some of its provisions and vetoed it. It was altered to meet his objections and passed the Senate, but was not reached in the House

A bill to permit him to bring his claim before the court of Private Land Claims was introduced this session, passed the Senate and was unanimously reported by the House Committee having it in charge, on the very day McGarrahan, heart-broken by nearly 40 years of anxiety and trouble over his claim, broke down and was taken to the hospital.

The McGarrahan claim is one of

Whereas, It is currently reported that unarmed, law-abiding and peaceably disposed but unemployed citizens of the United States are about peaceably to assemble in Washington to petition Congress for relief from their existing condition;

Resolved, First, that under the Constitution of the United States, citizens of the United States, regardless of their rank or station in life, have an undoubted and unquestionable right to peaceably assemble and petition the government for a redress of their grievances at any place within the United States, where they do not create a breach of the peace, menars or endanger persons or property or disturb the transaction of public business, or the free use of streets and highways, by the public; second, that such persons have as undoubted a right to visit the assembly in the city of Washington for any and all peaceable purposes as in other portions of the territory belonging to the United States, at all times being amenable to the law for any violation thereof; third, that such persons have a right to center on the capitol grounds of the United States and in the capitol itself as fully and to as great an extent as other citizens or persons as long as they do not disturb or hinder the transaction of the public business and property, and any threat of violence to such person under such circumstances would be a clear violation of their Constitutional rights; fourth, that we commend the prompt enforcement of all just Constitutional laws looking to the preservation of the public business and the prevention of crime, but under pretense of preserving the public peace and the prevention and publishment of crime peaceable and law-abiding citizens must not be disturbed in the full and free exercise of their Constitutional rights.

A Decrease in 1893 of 29 Per Cent.

Over 1892.

Reports received at the geological survey, Washington, D. C., from twenty-three States and two Territories, give a total production of 11,507,607 long tons of iron ore in 1893. This amount is smaller than any recorded for any year since 1887, and is a decrease of almost 29 per cent. over 1892. No increase is reported in any of the States producing over 100,000 tons of iron ore except in Minnesota where, owing to the development of the Mesaba range and the completion of transportation facilities, the output increased about 250,000 tons, and in Colorado where, owing to the production of larger amounts of pigiron locally, about 30,000 tons more iron ore were required than were consumed in 1892. The proportionate decline of iron ore production during the year was greatest in Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and New York.

The crew of a fishing steamer in the Pacific found a white looking substance about 100 miles from the coast, of which they saved a small piece, throwing the rest, about 100 pounds, overboard. Later examination of the piece saved showed it to be ambergris and the value of the piece thrown away to be about $250,000.

Amateur photographers do not thrive in Russia. The fascinating oursuit is beset with many difficul-ties. In the first place, it is necessary to communicate with the police and obtain a license. This having, after considerable delay been granted, it is advisable for one to be very care ful where he or she is seen photograph ng. If one happens to be in proximity to a fortress when discovered by the Secret Intelligence Department, he stinds a chance of being dispatched on a free excursion to Siberia, where return tickets are not supplied. Of every picture made a copy must be sent to the police authorities and another must be filed by the photographer for reference. The police have also the right, at any time of the day or night to enter your dark room and examine everything therein, and to search all of your photographic paraphernalis. Nor is this all the unfortunate amateur has to put up with. All of his dry plates have to be imported—as they are not manufactured in Rustia -and each box is opened and every plate examined. It is a wonder they do not immerse each one in a developer as well, to as crtain if there are any nihilistic communications latent in the film. Poor, suffering amateur photographers!

If the following letters had been written by your best known and most esteemed neighbors they could be no more worthy of your confidence than they now are, coming, as they do, from well known, intelligent, and trustworthy citizens, who, in their several neighborhoods, enjoy the fullest confidence and respect of all who know them. The subject of the above portrait is a well known and much respected lady, Mrs. John G. Foster, residing at No. 33 Chapin Street, Canandaigua, N. Y. She writes to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Chief Consulting Physician to the Invalide' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., as follows: "I was troubled with eczema, or salt-rheum, seven years. I doctored with a number of our home physicians and received no benefit manufers, New York, Philadelphia, Jersey City, Binghamton, and received no benefit from them. In fact I have paid out hundreds of dollars to the doctors without benefit. My brother came to visit us from the West and he told me to tay Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, He had taken it and it had cured him. I have taken ten bottles of the 'Discovery,' and am entirely cured, and if there should be any one wishing any information I would gladly correspond with them, if they enclose return stamped envelope."

Not less remarkable is the following from Mr. J. A Buxton, a prominent merchant of Jackson, N. C., who says: "I had been troubled with skin disease all my life. As I grew older the disease seemed to be taking a stronger hold upon me. I tried many advertised remedies with no benefit, until I was led to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When I began taking it my health was very poor: in fact, several persons have since told me that they thought I had the consumption. I weighed only about 125 pounds. The eruption on my skin was accompanied by severe liching. It was first confined to my face, but afterwards spread over the neck and head, and the itching became simply undertable. This was my condition when I began taking the 'Discovery.' When I would rub the parts affecte tles of the 'Discovery.' It has now been four years since I first used it, and though not using scarcely any since the first year, my health continues good. My average weight being 155 to 160 pounds, instead of 125, as it was when I began the use of the 'Discovery.' Many persons have reminded me of my improved appearance. Some say I look younger than I did six years ago when I was married. I am now forty-eight years old, and stronger, and enjoy better health than I have over done before in my life."

Yours truly.

Thousands bear testimony, in equally strong terms, to the efficacy of this wonderful remedy in curing the most obstinate diseases. It rouses every organ into healthy action, purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, and, through it, cleanses and renews the whole system. All blood, skin, and scalp diseases, from a common blotch, or eruption, to the words scrofula are cured by it. For tetter, salt-rheum, eczema, erysipelas, boils, carbuncles, goitre, or thick neck, and enlarged glands and swellings, it is an unequaled remedy. Vitulent, contagious, blood-poison is robbed of its terrors by the "Discovery" and by its persevering use the most tenied system renovated and built up aneae.
