Daniel M. Bowlby and Miss Joanna Barry were married at the M. E. parsonage Tuesday evening, May 29th, by Rev. P. J. Slattery. We are not acquainted with Mr. Bowlby and can only say he has secured a good wife. We extend congratulations.

The nip of a poisonous snake is but a slight remove from being more dangerous than the poison of Scrofula in the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla purifies the vital fluid, expels all poisonous substances and supplies the elements of life, health and strength.

John W. Walker's withdrawal last week as a candidate for District Attorney leaves two candidates for the Republicans to select from at the primaries next week. Mr. Walker is an old soldier and a good fellow and stood a fair chance to secure the nomination.

Wm. Boardinger and wife were in Williamsport the past week. Mr. Boardinger owns a house and lot there, which he would like to dispose of and buy property where water don't get quite so familiar. The water was six feet deep in his house during the recent young Noah flood.

Last Wednesday was the first Decoration Day in fourteen years that rain kept the G. A. R. from going to the cemetery. There were Decoration Days during the fourteen years that it rained, but the rain either fell before the time for marching to the cemetery or after the soldiers returned home.

E. E. Anderson, who has been working for Griffin at DuBois, went to work Monday morning and came back to Reynoldsville on the 1:42 P. M. train the same day and had to use crutches to assist him in getting home. He jumped on a rusty nail in a board in front of the Commercial house at DuBois which ran into his left foot and crippled him.

DuBois offers two great days of sport July 3rd and 4th, and the managers are hard at work perfecting all necessary arrangements to give the people one of the most interesting meetings yet attempted in this section of the country. Parades, fantastic, trotting, pacing and bicycle races and plenty of good music will be features. DuBois will be an attractive place to visitors on July 3rd and 4th.

Miss Maud Millen, eighteen-year-old daughter of Hugh Millen, who lives at Meredith's mill, just below O'Donnell, died Saturday evening, May 26th, after an illness of four weeks. Her remains were buried in the cemetery at Bellview on the following Tuesday. Rev. Jas. H. Jelbart conducted the funeral services. Miss Maud was an exemplary young lady and was willing to answer the summons to the life beyond.

Woodward Building, Main street.

The DuBois Local News has changed not only managers but also its politics. The paper is now published by Reed & Hanson and is a Republican organ. Before the last change it was a Peoples Party advocate. During the five years F. D. Sweet run the News it changed several times, politically. In his farewell notice Mr. Sweet says he was forced to the wall by people who subscribed for his paper and did not pay their subscriptions.

Gottlieb Botzer, of Reynoldsville, had his left leg broken just below the knee in Degnan & McDonald's lumber camp near Falls Creek Monday afternoon. Mr. Botzer, who is a coal miner, went to work at this camp Monday morning and was brought home with a broken leg in the evening. Mr. Botzer has had considerable sorrow and trouble since 1894 was ushered in. He has buried two children this year, out of employment by the strike and will now be laid up for some time.

The classes of '94 and '95 in the Delaware, Ohio, University held a reception in the halls of that institution two weeks ago, and G. S. Womer, a Reynoldsville young man, was one of the toasters for the occasion. The College Transcript, of Delaware, in giving an account of the reception says: "G. S. Womer, '94, then gave 'A Glimpse of Ages.' Taking for his text the world as it appeared through the variously colored glass of his study window, he very eloquently portrayed the varying feelings of a student as he passes through the years of his college course. Womer's speech was the hit of the evening and established his reputation as an after dinner speaker."

The following lines fit a Reynoldsville young man's case as nicely as though they were written expressly for him: "Meet me," she said, "by the orchard wall, To-morrow night, as the sun goes down; And this is to-morrow, and here am I, And there's the wall, and the sun's gone down."

No Play, No Pay.

The Reynoldsville base ball club was to have played two games of ball with the DuBois nine on the grounds of the latter on Decoration Day, but the rain prevented the games. On Tuesday evening the boys received a telephone message from DuBois to be sure and come to that town in the morning. Our team went up and as above stated could not play either in the forenoon or afternoon on account of rain. The boys did not expect to get the amount agreed upon if they played ball, but they did expect to have their expenses paid, but nary a cent did they get. The DuBois club even refused to pay their hotel bill.

Gave $1.00 Apiece.

Degnan & McDonald, lumber contractors of Reynoldsville, have about seventy-five men in their employ at the Green Briar camp. Last Friday noon, just before the men started out to work, Pat McDonald called them together and spoke of the miners strike at Reynoldsville and said a number of them were in need, and asked the men if they were willing to pay one dollar apiece to assist the miners. A vote was taken and the woodmen decided to give the money. Mr. McDonald said if any of the men, who had families, felt that they could not give the dollar that he would pay it, as he wanted the miners to get the amount of one dollar apiece from the men and if they would not pay it he would. Few men who employ as many men as does Degnan & McDonald would be willing to help men who are striking for living wages.

A Bold "Kid."

There is a youth in Reynoldsville about eleven years old that has the qualifications for developing into a bold highwayman, and unless some restraint is brought to bear upon the lad he will certainly become a bad character, in fact he is now as bold and bad as boys of such tender years can possibly be. Not long since he entered Fremont Chambers' barn, harnessed his horse, hitched it into the wagon and enjoyed a ride in the suburbs of town until some one notified Mr. Chambers and he went after his horse and wagon. Monday evening about six o'clock the little fellow entered Sam'l Tilton Reynolds' barn and harnessed one of his horses, run a new buggy out of the barn, hitched the horse into it and started for a drive. When he struck the main boulevard he also struck the horse, which was a fiery nag, with the whip and the horse struck a gait livelier than the boy had expected to drive. Fred Butler, who happened to be coming down street, comprehend the boy's dilemma and stationed himself near where the buggy would pass and caught on behind and managed to get hold of the lines and stop the horse. The boy told Fred that he and Harry Reynolds were going to drive to Punxsutawney and that he had hitched up and was driving around until Harry got his supper. It may be possible that the boy had intended to drive to Punxsutawney or some other town, as he leaves home clandestinely often. He generally walks or steals a ride on the trains.

Borough "Dads."

The borough "dads" held a meeting in the council chamber Monday evening which savored of the present Congress style and the president had to enforce Tom Reed's rule. It was the "stubbornest" time they have had for some time. Geo. Sheetz asked council to furnish an outlet for water on his lot coming from a neighbor's lot. Council claimed the matter was out of their jurisdiction. Bills to amount of $213.00 were ordered to be paid; bill of $550.34 for new hose, cart, Siamese connections, &c., was received, but not acted upon; petition for sidewalk to be built on both sides of Pleasant Avenue, from 9th to 10th street, was received and ordered to be built; petition for walk on south side of Jackson street, from Thos. Neale's to Wm. Barkley's, was read, but petition not granted on account of the dangerous walk it would be after dark; petition for walk on east side of 4th street from Grant to Hill st. was tabled indefinitely; petition for walk on Russ st. was read and granted; certificate of indebtedness No. 3, which amounted to $250.00, with $13.50 interest, was ordered to be lifted; committee on East Main street fire department reported progress; orders for interest to amount of $42.50, on 17 bonds due May 1st, was ordered drawn; High Constable was instructed to make thorough assessment of all dogs in town at once and report; Street Commissioner was instructed to put in an open box in gutter on 3rd st., part way between Main and Grant st.; Mrs. Frank Miller to pay for one-half the lumber; Sewer pipe between 3rd st. and creek is to be laid deep enough to provide sewerage for all property along said sewerage; a new bridge is to be built across Soldier Run at Worth st.; Ab. Reynolds is to pay a license of $15.00 a year for his opera house, and leases of Centennial Hall to pay a license of $10.00. Council adjourned to hold a special meeting June 16th.

Death of M. F. Phillippi.

Dr. Millen F. Phillippi, who was well known in Reynoldsville, died at the home of his father, Solomon Phillippi, near Sykesville at 11:00 A. M. Thursday, May 31st, of consumption. During the winter Dr. realized that he had severe pulmonary trouble and last February he went to Venezuela, South America, hoping by the change to recuperate. The change of climate done him no good and he returned home in an emaciated condition. He arrived at his father's house on Wednesday and in twenty-two hours afterwards, surrounded by his wife, two children, parents, brothers and sisters, he succumbed to the ravishing of that dread disease, consumption. It is a wonder to his friends, and all who saw him, how the man ever reached his home in the condition he was in. The funeral services were held in the Baptist church at Sykesville Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Selner, Lutheran minister, of Luthersburg, assisted by Rev. J. G. Noble, of Punxsutawney. It was one of the largest, if not the largest funeral ever seen in Jefferson county. The remains were buried in the Synchrit cemetery, and although all the conveyances that were at the church did not go to the cemetery, yet the funeral procession was about one mile long. Dr. Phillippi was a member of the Reynoldsville K. of P. lodge and sixty-two members of that order, besides many other Reynoldsville people, attended the funeral. A special train of two coaches was run from Punxsutawney to Sykesville.

Ten years ago Dr. Phillippi was married to Edith, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sprague who then lived on a farm near Rathmel, but now live in Reynoldsville. His wife and two children, a girl eight and a boy six years old, survive the Doctor. The widow will live with her parents. The deceased was thirty years old last December. Few men the age of Dr. Phillippi have seen as much of the world and crowded as much into thirty short years of life as did he. He made three trips to South America. The dental rooms now occupied by Risher & Gerow, were built for Dr. Phillippi, where he conducted a profitable business for several years and then sold out and moved to Washington, D. C., where he done a good business, but being of a roving disposition he sold his dental office in that city and went to South America and opened an office, which was destroyed in the South America war in 1892. Dr. was a pleasant gentleman and fluent talker and could make friends without difficulty wherever he would go, hence his friends were numerous.

Cupid's Work.

People never know just what is in store for them, even a country editor is agreeably surprised once in a long while. Last Thursday morning we were meandering through town looking for news and were not any happier than an angel could be, for the people, weather, business and everything else seemed gloomy until we met Ben. Haugh, who looked like one of Cupid's victims. After a few minutes conversation with Mr. Haugh we were invited to his place for supper. He said Rev. Slattery, pastor of the M. E. church, and several others would be there. We asked him what was going on at his house, which question Mr. Haugh was loath to answer, but at last said, "I am going to get married." To whom, the soon to be benedict sayeth not. Of course the invitation was accepted for it meant two very important things for an editor—news and a square meal. We watched our chance and walked up with Rev. Slattery. In due time we arrived at Mr. Haugh's home in the suburbs of Prescotville and in a few minutes afterwards, in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Dr. J. S. McCreight and son Norris, of Ridgway, Mrs. Jas. M. McCall, of Falls Creek, Mrs. Anna S. Gibson and ye scribe, Rev. Slattery said the words that united Ben. Haugh and Miss Ada Blanche Ross in the holy bonds of matrimony. Soon after the ceremony we all repaired to the dining room where the table was spread with a feast fit for kings. The culinary department had certainly been in the hands of an expert.

Three years ago Mr. Haugh's first wife died and Miss Ross, who was his niece by marriage, went to keep house for him. To make a long story short, Mr. Haugh fell in love with his housekeeper and she reciprocated and the twain decided to become one. The groom was in the army when his present bride was born and her parents, who were warm friends of Mr. Haugh, asked him to name their daughter. Although Mr. Haugh is a few years older than his bride yet he is in the prime of life and will make a good husband. Mrs. Haugh, who is a good housekeeper, will make Mr. Haugh an excellent wife. It is seldom that two people are married that are any happier than the above couple seem to be. We, with their numerous friends, extend congratulations and wish them a joyous and prosperous life.

Bolls, abscesses, tumors and even cancers, are the result of a natural effort of the system to expel the poison which the liver and kidneys have failed to remove. Ayer's Sarsaparilla stimulates all the organs to a proper performance of their functions.

VETERANS DISAPPOINTED.

DECORATION DAY ADDRESSES DELIVERED IN CENTENNIAL HALL.

Graves Decorated by a Committee of the G. A. R. and S. of V.

For the first time in fourteen years the Grand Army of this place was prevented, by rain, from marching to the city of the dead and doing honor to the brave men whose remains lie buried beneath the sod. Had the day been favorable we believe the procession that would have marched to Beulah would have been larger last Wednesday than on any previous Decoration Day. The years roll by and yet the people of this land do not forget the great debt they owe to the soldiers who left home, loved ones and business to respond to the country's call in her hour of peril. All honor to the soldier boys! Decoration Day dawned wet and dreary, and the rain continued all day. In the morning the soldiers had hopes of favorable weather in the afternoon, but when it was still raining at noon they abandoned hope and appointed a committee of five to visit the cemeteries and strew flowers on the graves of their comrades who sleep the sleep that knows no waking. The committee was composed of three old soldiers, John Davis, Thos. Clawbaugh and Major Epler, and two Sons of Veterans, W. H. Bell, jr., and A. M. Wading. This committee visited Beulah, Baptist, Fuller, Prospect, Pleasant Avenue and Catholic cemeteries.

The Grand Army has two services for Decoration Day, hall services and cemetery services. The cemetery services were postponed, but the hall services were gone through in Centennial Hall in the afternoon. The Keystone band was present and furnished music. The hall was well filled. Hon. S. B. Elliott and Frank K. Mullen were the speakers. While it was expected that these two gentlemen, who are home talent, would deliver good addresses, yet it must be said they surpassed the expectations of their hearers. Mr. Elliott thinks that the people are now making Decoration Day too much of a family affair. One day out of 365 has been set apart to pay homage to our heroes and 364 are left to decorate the graves of those who never knew the hardships of soldier life. Mr. Elliott thinks this custom should be discouraged and that on Decoration Day the graves of soldiers only be covered with flowers. Mr. Mullen, in speaking of the brave men who served faithfully and are now disabled from old wounds or disease, that have been dropped from the pension roll said: "It is a shame! It is a disgrace! It is a dishonor and it is an insult to the majority of 65,000,000 of American citizens. Government spies I believe are now at work throughout the land, under pay, to steal away from these brave and heroic defenders of our country that which they proved themselves entitled to and which was guaranteed them in the name of the U. S. Government by our martyred President, Abraham Lincoln. These paid spies were not soldiers during the war, but either sneaking cowards, or sympathizers of the lost cause, or else they were in their swaddling clothes while those off whom they are taking their little pension were out at the front making it possible for these sneaking cowards to live under the best country in the world. Shame, shame and doubly shame upon the man who calls himself an American citizen and at the same time, like the assassin in the dark, stab the old soldier in the back. Shame, shame I say upon any administration, I care not what the political complexion of that administration may be, that will try to reduce the expenditures of this Government at the expense of those brave and heroic cripples whose dauntless courage and sacrifices saved this country."

There were very few places of business where the red, white and blue was not displayed. There would have been quite a display of the stars and stripes had the day been a pretty one. The banks were closed all day, the postoffice part of the day, most all the stores from 9:00 A. M. to 12:00 noon. The following business hours were closed from 9:00 A. M. to 6:00 P. M.: Henry A. Reed, J. B. Arnold, D. F. Robinson, W. H. Bell, Jr., Bing & Co., A. E. Dunn, Glenn A. Millren, S. B. Gilbloom and Bolger Bros.

The children of the Catholic church intended to march to the Catholic cemetery on Decoration Day, but did not do so on account of the rain. They had practiced singing for the occasion. The girls would all have been dressed in white and all the boys and girls would have carried wreaths.

O. U. A. M. Reunion.

The third annual reunion of the O. U. A. M. to be held at this place tomorrow, June 7th, promises to be a big day in Reynoldsville. Excursion trains will run from Clearfield, Punxsutawney and Ridgway and will arrive here about 9:30 A. M. The town will be arrayed in Fourth of July attire. Four arches are being put up across Main street at the following places, opera house, Hotel Beulah, Arnold Block and near Presbyterian church. Some new and interesting features will appear in the parade, which takes place at 2:00 P. M. If the weather is favorable this will be a big parade. After the parade a mass meeting will be held in Centennial Hall which will be addressed by prominent men of the order from abroad. A large crowd of strangers will be in town.
