A MOTHER'S STORY. HAPPINESS COMES AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING.

The Terrible Experience of a Well Known Official's Wife—A Story That Ap-peals to Every Mother in the Land.

From the Chattanooga, Tenn., Press. No county official in East Tennessee in better known and more highly esteemed than Mr. J. C. Wilson, Circuit Court Clerk of Rhen County, at Dayton, the home of Mr. Wilson. He enjoys the confidence and respect of all classes, and in the business community his word is as good as his bond. Just now Mr. Wilson is fecelving heartlest congratulations from his numerous friends bemuse of the restoration to robust health of his estimable wife, who has for years been a helpless invalid. Mrs. Wilson's high stan i-ing in society, and her many lovable traits of character have won her a host of friends, and her wonderful recovery has attracted widespread attention.

As the Press was the medium of bringing to the invalid lady's attention the remedy that has effected her remarkable cure, a reporter was sent to Dayton to interview Mrs. Wilson, in order that the general public might have the benefit of the sufferer's experience and be made aware of the treatment that wrought such a marvelous change in perience and be made aware of the treatment that wrought such a marvelous change in her condition. The reporter was welcomed at the Wilson home, and the enthusuastic lay of the affliction and the manner in "Yes," said Mrs. Wilson, "I was for 8 years in invalid with one of the most dis-story of her afflictions woman can suffer. Demorest got out his sharking tackle and prepared to hook one of the man-eaters. The line was a stout manilla rope with a shark hook fastened to it with wire. A live porgie was used for bait. This had no sooner struck the water than a dark fla was seen. A second later a shark had the baited hook down his throat. The anchor rope was cast off, and Demor-

THEY MISSED £300,000

How the British Government Let That Sam Silp Thro' Their Fingers.

All England isideeply interested in new mystery-what became of King Theebaw's crown jewels and other wealth when the British occupied the palace in Mandalay, Burmah, after the campaign of 1885.

This question has come up through the death-bed confession of a private in the West Surrey Regiment, who declares that he and a companion, Private William White, se used all or a portion of these treasures and hid them in a most in the vicinity. This statement has been made public, and Private White has been sent to Burmah to help recover the treasure. At the time of the British occupation orders were given by the Gov. ernment that the annexation of Bur-mah should be carried out peacefully and without bloodshed, and every endeavor was made to obtain King Theebaw's submission. But he refused to comply with the British de-mands, and the troops were marched from the fotil a to the palace walls. An assault was then made, and the palace was occupied. Shortly after Theebaw abdicated, and he and his two wives were sent off by steamer As soon as the King had given his submission guards were hurriedly placed in the royal rooms to protect the jewels of countless worth which were known to be there. And great was the British disappointment when it was discovered that the treasures had disappeared. Among these mis-sing treasures was a gold calf weighing several hundred-weight, as well as a portion of the rega ia and quantities of precious stones. The crown is studded with rubies and diamonds and is sura ounted by a peacock

At the time suspicion rested on the Burmah Ministers and the maids of honor, and every effort was made to trace the treasure, but without avail. Now, after nine years, the whole subject comes up on this confession of a private soldier who was present at the attack on the palace, and who declared that he and a companion buried the stolen plunder beneath a sentry-box.

Theebaw's kingly wealth was indisputable. He had accumulated from his ruby mines a most valuable collection of stones, and his insignia were set with diamon is of the rarest s ze. What was known as his betel-box was of pule gold, and the cover was ornamented with rows of rubles and diamonds, the center ruby alone weighing thirty-nine and onehalf carats. There was also in this collection a golden ewer, made as a receptacle for sacred water to be used at the coronation. It was done in the shape of a crayfish, of pure gold and studded with jeweis. The crown is also of gold and covered with pearls and diamonds.

These articles, together w th the royal peacock and the Henza, were present at all royal audiences and were ther, ore familiar to the many agents and officers of the Brit'sh Government who had been admitted to Theebaw's presence. They were, in fact, carried about with him.

Through all this picturesqueness one can perceive an earnest pique that Great Britain somenow failed to gobble that thirty-nine carat ruby.
