The election day draweth near.

Some people will keep everything they get but secrets.

The voters of Pennsylvania have four candidates for Governor to select from.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet, died at his home in Beverly, Mass., last Sunday afternoon.

It is said that the bread of sorrow is leavened with error, mixed with impudence, kneaded with perversity, and baked in the oven of dissipation.

An editor appreciates kind words said about his paper, but the best way to show that you like the paper is to advertise in it and subscribe for it, and be sure you pay your subscription.

Over 1,000,000 children are enrolled in the schools of Pennsylvania.

What the homes of America want to-day is more willing, sunny daughters who will not fret when asked to wipe the dishes, or sigh when requested to take care of the baby; daughters whose chief delight is to smooth away mother's wrinkles, and who are as willing to lighten their father's cares as his pocket book; girls who think their own brothers quite as fine as some other girl's brother.

Judge Mayer of Clinton county has adopted a rule relative to the naturalization of foreigners which cannot help but have a wholesome effect upon that community, and would be a good ruling for Judge Clark to adopt.

Andrew G. Curtin, Pennsylvania's War Governor, died at his home in Bellfonte, Pa., at five o'clock Sunday morning last.

It seems a trifle mysterious why an occasional subscriber becomes offended on receiving a notice of arrearage on subscription.

George Stevenson says: "Law is law—law is law, and as in such and so forth, and hereby and aforesaid, provided always, nevertheless and notwithstanding. Law is like a country dance; people are led up and down in it till they are tired. Law is like a book of surgery, there are a great many desperate cases in it. It is also like physic, they take least of it are best off. Law is like a homely gentlewoman, very well to follow. Law is also like a scolding wife, very bad when it follows us. Law is like a new fashion, people are bewitched to get into it; it is also like bad weather, most people are glad when they get out of it."

West Reynoldsville School Notes.

It has well been said that education is the bulwark of a nation. When the patrons of the public schools, generally speaking, realize the strong defense that is being placed about us as citizens of one of the greatest nations of the world to-day by the public schools, high schools and colleges, there will be less boys and girls between six and twenty years of age neglecting to educate themselves when there are good schools within a few steps of their homes.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The ninth annual convention of the Womans Christian Temperance Union met in the M. E. church, Reynoldsville, Oct. 3rd, 1894, and was presided over by the President, Mrs. Mary J. Campbell.

Wednesday evening the meeting was opened with music. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Wick.

Thursday morning the convention opened by singing "All hail the power of Jesus name." Miss Corbett conducted the devotional exercises.

Miss Blanche Millin favored us with a beautiful recitation, well rendered. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Campbell; vice-presidents, Mrs. Britt, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Hays and Mrs. Grafius; recording secretary, Mrs. Tillie Fitch; corresponding secretary, Mrs. V. S. Blood; treasurer, Miss Lizzie Torrence.

The fourth session was opened with devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. Whitehill, after which Mrs. D. M. Dunsmore gave a very interesting report of her work among the railroad men.

Twenty-two have signed the pledge and wear the white button. Mrs. Taylor then read a paper on "The Relation of Temperance to the Sabbath School," which very much pleased the audience, and it was decided to have it printed in the county papers.

Thursday evening Rev. Slattery, of Reynoldsville, conducted the devotional exercises, after which Mrs. V. S. Blood read a fine paper, "The complex subject of life" followed by a paper by Miss Mabelle Smathers, "Forms of Cruelty."

Friday evening the meeting was opened with music. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Wick.

Saturday morning the convention opened by singing "All hail the power of Jesus name." Miss Corbett conducted the devotional exercises.
