About two thousand people witnessed the unveiling ceremonies last Friday of the monument erected at Cherrytree, Indiana county, Pa., by the State of Pennsylvania marking the boundary line of William Penn's purchase from the Indians. Gov. Pattison and Governor-elect Hastings failed to be present at the unveiling.

Complete returns from every one of the 204 legislative districts of the state give the Republicans 43 members of the senate and the Democrats 7. In the house the Republicans have 177 members and the Democrats 27. These figures are not liable to change, as they are based on the official count in all but a few counties. The next legislature will stand 220 Republicans to 34 Democrats, a Republican majority on joint ballot of 186, a gain of 96 on the general assembly of 1893.

D. C. Oyster, who was president of the Ridgway bank when it closed its doors June 22, 1893, will likely be tried in the Elk county court this week for embezzlement. The defunct bank was used as a savings bank by the working people of the county and scores of them are said to have lost all the savings they had, which covered years of hard work. It is claimed that the bank received deposits up to the very last, even when the president knew the bank could not open the next morning.

Many people think that sweet potatoes cannot be raised successfully in our section of the country, but nevertheless the contrary has been proven this fall. This year Mrs. P. A. Stockdale set out a number of sweet potato plants and when they were dug this fall they were as fine looking sweet potatoes as one would wish. When they were cooked they were a golden yellow and proved to have a rich flavor, something that makes sweet potatoes worth eating, and a flavor that is often lacking in many of the sweet potatoes that are shipped to this town. You had better try raising a few sweet potatoes next year, and watch the result. You buy the plants from some nursery at a small cost and they are sent by mail.—Punxsutawney News.

Too often people rush into matrimony without carefully considering the matter. No man should become engaged to a woman without having a perfectly frank talk with her in regard to his means, and the woman should be quite as honest in telling of her qualifications and willingness to undertake to master the problem of making a home on the income that seems assured to them. Alas, such a talk before marriage is a rare thing. The young man, in most cases, will do his best to make the young lady think he is well to do and has some money, and the young lady will do her best to appear to be a jewel in the eyes of her lover. Soon after the honeymoon the true state of affairs makes its appearance. Better far to be honest with each other before marriage, and thus save many disagreeable references to the past.

Burdette, who knows whereof he speaks, gives the following advice to the young man: "So you have got yourself into trouble, my son? Gone a little wrong, have you? Yes; well, that means you know that you have gone clear wrong, because there is only one kind of right and one kind of wrong; there is no mugwumpory in morals, my boy. And you've had such a hard time getting back that it's made you a little bitter and cynical, and you think all the world is rather hard and selfish and pitiless, and especially severe on you? Well, I wouldn't feel that way at all, if I were you. I don't think I ever did feel that way, and I know more about it than you do. I've been further down the Jericho road than you. Went down there to let my beard grow. Great town for toots, from away back. It's a bad country. Never heard of but one good woman in Jericho, and she didn't move in good society. But, my son, it isn't society's fault that you got into trouble. You knew what the Jericho road was before you went down that way. You know there was a curse on the town. You were safe enough in Jerusalem, why didn't you stay there? Don't feel bitter towards all the world because you fell among thieves and got cleaned out. It is a kind, good-natured, forgiving old world, if you give it a chance to be forgiving. True, it doesn't always look that way to a fellow in trouble, because then the fellow is apt to look at the wrong people."

Communicated.

The county institute held in Brookville during the past week was a success. No one, after listening to the instructors could help but say, "knowledge is power." Dr. Holbrook is a talented man and no better tribute could be paid him than to say, "he is a giant in the educational world. Miss Buckley, with her womanly grace and educational qualifications, proves to us that the women of to-day are, and can do work that was once supposed to be the work of man alone. Prof. E. D. Stewart does not claim to be an experienced institute instructor but he, too, is worthy of the highest commendation. His talks were entertaining, instructive and well received by the teachers. Dr. A. J. Davis, Dr. D. J. Waller and Prof. Benedict were present the latter part of the week. The merits of these men are well known to all persons interested in education. In short, Jefferson county celebrated one of its most successful institutes.
