The Gilbloom shoe store in the Foster building will be moved to the room now occupied by Henry A. Reed on January 1st, and the room now occupied by Gilbloom will be used for a large clothing store.

The Reynoldsville Temperance Society will hold a public meeting in the K. of P. Hall on Saturday evening, Dec. 22nd, to which all are invited. A program to consist of singing and recitations will be rendered.

The eighth semi-annual convention of the Jefferson county Union of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor held at Brookwayville last week was a great success. Hereafter the convention will be held annually instead of semi-annually. The next convention will be held in Punxsutawney in August, 1895.

Rev. C. H. Fitzwilliam will lecture in Centennial hall to-morrow, Thursday, evening on the "Battle of Life." Rev. Fitzwilliam is a fluent talker and his lecture is eloquent and thrilling. The lecture is free and the public is cordially invited to hear it. Mr. Fitzwilliam comes here under the auspices of the P. O. S. of A.

James, nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Carberry, died last Friday morning of diphtheria, and was buried in Beulah cemetery Saturday afternoon, Rev. E. Lewis Kelley conducted the funeral services. Mr. and Mrs. Carberry are having their share of sorrow. Several months ago their son, Calvin, was killed in the Hamilton mine.

In accordance with its usual custom, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg R'y will this year issue excursion tickets for the Christmas and New Year holidays at one and one-third the regular fare one way, for the round trip, with minimum rate of 25c. Tickets will be sold only on December 24th, 25th and 31st, 1894, and January 1st, 1895, limited for return passage until January 2nd, 1895.

We mentioned last week that Miss Ella E. Seeley, the already skillful manipulator of the artist brush—who expects to cross the blue sea in the sweet by and by and take lessons—had put a number of fancy articles in one of the display windows of Arnold's store for sale. The young lady's work was admired and so highly appreciated that it took very little time for her to dispose of all her fancy work.

Henry A. Reed, the shoe man, has rented his store room to Mrs. S. B. Gilbloom, of Punxsutawney, Pa., who intends opening up a clothing store on January 1st, 1895. Every shoe must be sold in order to vacate said rooms. Money saved by all who buy shoes of Henry A. Reed. Call and examine shoes and get profits, which other dealers get.

The entertainment to be given in the opera house next Friday evening by the scholars of the Reynoldsville public schools will be an excellent entertainment. The scholars have drilled and worked until they are now ready to give the public an entertainment well worth the price of admission. It should be remembered the proceeds are to be expended on the school library, which is certainly a very worthy object. Help along the good work by your presence at the entertainment Friday evening.

Big Hogs.

S. M. Gourley, who lives on a farm two miles out from Reynoldsville, killed a hog last week that weighed 460 pounds, and A. Schueckers, of Hopkins, killed a porker fourteen months old that tipped the scales at 383½ pounds.

Out of Pocket.

A party of Reynoldsville gentlemen who were going to Brookville last week "chipped in" and bought an excursion ticket, which will be issued for ten fares. When they arrived home the railroad fare had cost them $1.05 apiece. A round trip ticket to Brookville sells for 90 cents. These gentlemen were 15 cents out of pocket on the excursion ticket.

Farmers' Institute.

A farmers' institute will be held at Westville on Friday and Saturday of this week. Prof. Waters, of the State College, and Mortimer Whitehead, the former lecturer of New Jersey, will be present and take prominent part in the proceedings. A good program has been prepared for the institute. R. F. Morrison, of Allens Mills, A. T. McClure, of Panoast, W. C. Smith, of Rockdale, and other beekeepers farmers are on the program.

Joined the Ranks.

On Monday evening, Dec. 17th, 1894, Joseph Hannah Nickols, of Lock Haven, and Lulu Ellen Rumbaugh, of West Reynoldsville, were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. H. R. Johnson. Mr. Nickols has been working at Hopkins mill for a number of years and is well known in Reynoldsville. The bride is a daughter of Chas. Rumbaugh and is a very nice young lady. We wish them success.

Town Hall Completed.

The West Reynoldsville town hall was completed and taken off the contractor's hands last week by the town council. The building cost $500.78 and is a credit to that borough. It is 29x40 feet, two stories high, and is divided off into a town hall, council chamber and lock-up. The contractors received a check Saturday for putting up the building. Chairs will be put into the hall so that the hall can be used for entertainments, &c. A bell will be put into the belfry in the near future.

"Don't Want Any To-day."

William T. Cox, assessor for Winslow township, in discharging his duty walked up to a house in Rathmel the other day and rapped with as much dignity as a professional book agent. The lady of the house soon appeared at the door and Mr. Cox politely said, "I am the assessor." After a moment's reflection the woman said, "Well I guess we don't want any to-day." By chomping real hard at his tobacco William smothered a broad smile that jumped onto his phiz.

City Hotel Changes.

The City Hotel changed hands last Friday. David M. Roll, who opened the hotel and was proprietor of it for two years, sold out to M. J. Coyle and "Jack" O'Hara. The new proprietors are both young men well known in Reynoldsville and have many friends here. They propose making some decided changes in the hotel in the near future. The new proprietors are pleasant fellows and will doubtless keep a good house. Mr. Roll, the retiring landlord has not fully decided what business he will enter into.

Ben. Yohe Dead.

Ben. Yohe, a noted character who has lived in Henderson township, Jefferson county, for a half century; died at the Burns House in Reynoldsville at eleven o'clock Saturday night from apoplexy. Ben left home Saturday morning in comparatively good health and when coming down the Paradise hill into Prescottville the disease asserted itself and by the time he got to the grist mill Ben was very sick. A gentleman got into the buggy with him and drove to the Burns House where he was put to bed and a doctor sent for. Medicine would not perform its work and Ben's spirit left the tenement of clay at the time above mentioned. Ben was well known in Jefferson county. Ben's remains were taken to his home Sunday and Monday afternoon buried in the cemetery on his farm.

Crossed Over.

James R. Patterson died at his home on Jackson street at half past three Monday afternoon, a victim of consumption. He was 66 years and 27 days old. Mr. Patterson was born in Scotland. He came to Reynoldsville from Arnot, Tioga county, Pa., nine years ago and has since worked in the mines until ten weeks ago when he could no longer work at his occupation. Funeral services will be held at the house at two o'clock this afternoon, conducted by Rev. H. R. Johnson, and interment will take place in Beulah cemetery. The deceased was a member of the K. of P. and I. O. O. F. lodges and these lodges will attend the funeral. A wife, two sons, John D., of this place, and William, of Gazam, Pa., and three daughters, Mrs. Maria McDowell and Mrs. Ed. Lewis, of Glen Richey, Pa., and Mrs. Adam Hutchinson, of Houtzdale, survive him.

Court Proceedings.

Kate Bater, keeping a disorderly house; convicted but not sentenced.

Wm. Lockyer, assault and battery; not guilty; plaintiff, Jos. Spears, to pay costs.

Court convened at Brookville on Monday of last week. The following cases were disposed of:

Wm. F. Fairman, of Punxsutawney, assault and battery; defendant found guilty, and to pay $5.00 and costs.

William Reinard, for selling liquor without license at a campmeeting near Panic last July. Convicted but not sentenced yet.

Jos. and George Maero and Antonio Colosondo assault and keeping a disorderly house. Bill ignored and plaintiff to pay costs.

Joseph Spears, assault and battery; defendant found guilty, and to pay $15.00 fine to Commonwealth and costs of prosecution.

In September, 1893, Charles Shaffer, a school teacher, walked into a store at Cool Spring, this county, and threw a tumbler full of acid into the face of H. C. Thompson, also a school teacher. Thompson's life was despaired of for a time. His face was an awful sight. By having flesh from his arms grafted into his face it was well patched up, but badly disfigured. After Shaffer done the heinous crime he made good his escape. In September of this year he gave himself up to the law and the case came up for trial last Wednesday and lasted until Saturday evening. Monday morning Judge Clark charged the jury, and at 10.10 A. M. the jury retired and remained out until noon Tuesday when they brought in a verdict "not guilty."

Shaffer and Thompson had been enemies for years, and according to rumor Thompson had been insulting Shaffer until the latter became desperate and resorted to the terrible revenge above stated.

An Old Soldier Gone.

William Lucas, one of the old citizens of this borough, died at his home on Worth street Sunday afternoon and was buried in Beulah cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral services were held at the late home of Mr. Lucas, conducted by Rev. H. R. Johnson. The deceased was almost 78 years old. His death was caused by cancerous catarrh. He has lived in Reynoldsville a quarter of a century. Mr. Lucas was a quiet man and a law abiding citizen. During the unpleasantness between the North and South William Lucas was at the front wearing a sergeant's uniform with the gallant boys of the 105th Penna. Volunteers. He served his country four years. When his remains were carried to the "silent city" to await the final bugle call a number of the G. A. R. men of this place followed and there paid their last tribute of respect to one whom they honored and loved. On account of a defect in his hearing Mr. Lucas was not often found in a public place of worship, but he died with a hope that bridged the gulf between time and eternity. He was a great bible student. A wife and son, Meado Lucas, and three step-children, Frank S. and Willis B. Hoffman and Mrs. Wm. Wiley, survive him.

Surprised Him.

D. W. Atwater and Ira Beebe, poor overseers of this borough, gave Howard Steel, the poor, dirty piece of humanity that has been a pitiable sight on our streets for five or six weeks, a surprise last Wednesday. They bought him a new outfit from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet and took him to the coke ovens and gave him a bath and togged him out so that Howard would not have known himself had he looked into a mirror; and then they found quarters for him in the "Old Sandy Lick" until it is decided whether he is to be a charge on the borough or Winslow township. Mr. Atwater says the young man has been sleeping at the coke ovens with a board laid on top of him for shelter.

PEACEFULLY PASSED AWAY.

James Gibson Died Friday Evening Aged Eighty-five Years.

At 6.40 P. M., December 14th, James Gibson, father of C. C. Gibson, died at his home in this place. Mr. Gibson has lived in Reynoldsville for twelve years. He was feeble when he moved here and consequently was not often seen upon our streets. The deceased was born in what was then Armstrong county, near Reidsburg, but which has since been formed into Clarion county, in 1809, which made him 85 years, 8 months and 18 days old, as we reckon time, when he passed into the Glory World. On the last day of March, 1842, he was united in marriage to Eveline Merideth, daughter of Owen Merideth. To them three children were born, Dr. W. M. B. Gibson, C. C. Gibson and Emma. The daughter, who only lived six years, died in 1864, and Doctor Gibson, who practiced in this town for a number of years, died seven years ago. James Gibson was born and reared on a farm. In 1864 he moved into Reidsburg, Clarion county, where he resided until he moved to Reynoldsville in 1882. He served as Justice of the Peace in Monroe township, Clarion county, ten years, and was postmaster at Reidsburg four years. His widow and son, C. C., two brothers, John Gibson, of South Oil City, and Lowery Gibson, of Reidsburg, and one sister, Mary Ann Johnston, of Clarion county, survive him. Mrs. C. Mitchell, whose maiden name was Cora Wallace, was left motherless when eighteen months old and this couple took her to their hearts and home and she was looked upon as one of the family.

The deceased joined the Presbyterian church forty-five years ago and has since been a consistent member. His body seemed to be worn out and his life ended as a result of old age; he quietly and peacefully passed away without any pain. He told those who were watching at his bedside as the Messenger of Death hovered over him that he was in sight of the heavenly land. He said he thought they should all rejoice because he was so near home. The old man was ready, and gladly responded to the summons to pass over.

Funeral services were held at his late residence Sunday afternoon conducted by Rev. H. R. Johnson, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and the mortal remains of James Gibson were placed beneath the sod of Beulah cemetery to await the resurrection morning.

"White Washing Don Here."

Down at Reynoldsville there is a man who does whitewashing, and as he has lived in that town for some time, he has inherited that general feeling among the merchants of the town to do as little advertising as possible, and to do it as cheap as he can, regardless of quality. He painted himself a little sign and hung it in front of his residence. It read: "Whitewash Don Here." A neighbor happened to pass a little while after he had put his sign up, and walked up to the whitewash artist and said: "You don't expect people to bring their whitewashing here to have it done, do you?" "Well," said the artist, "how would you put it?"—Falls Creek Herald.

We have not seen the "Whitewash Don Here," sign in Reynoldsville, but we do know that, with a few exceptions, the Reynoldsville merchants "do as little advertising as possible." It may be a broad assertion, yet we honestly believe that Reynoldsville would be a better town to-day than it now is if all the merchants would use printers ink more liberally. By looking over our Brookville, Falls Creek, Dubois, Punxsutawney, Brookwayville, and many other newspaper exchanges, we see that the merchants, bankers, doctors, lawyers, hotel men, &c., believe it pays to advertise, at least they do it. THE STAR has a large circulation in the surrounding community, and also reaches the outside world, and as a prayer-meeting is the "pulse of a church," so also the advertising columns of a newspaper indicates whether the merchants of the town are alive to their best interests. If you want the people in the surrounding community to come to town you must let them know through the papers that you keep just what they want. Many of our farmers take three or four papers, and they, like all the rest of the human family, are looking for bargains, and if they don't see any inducement in THE STAR to come to Reynoldsville, but see a bargain offered in one of the other newspapers by some live merchant at Brookville, Dubois or Punxsutawney, why that is where they will go. As we said in the beginning of this article, we have a few business men who believe in advertising, but we have too many, for the town's good, who don't take much stock in newspapers. If it pays the merchants of other towns to advertise, why in the name of Marmaduke Hinderlightenfelter will it not pay Reynoldsville merchants? While making your resolutions for 1895, resolve that you will try a little judicious advertising in your home papers during 1895 and see if you will not find a large return for the money invested before 1896 is ushered in. We don't believe it is wise to run an advertisement too long without changing it. This article is not written merely in the interest of THE STAR, but we believe the advertiser, the town and THE STAR would all profit by it if the merchants would do their duty.

For fine cigars and good tobies go to Herpel, the barber.

Three dollar shoes at the auction at Arnold's selling at one dollar a pair.
