Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Weekly Press, a new paper published at Penfield with C. M. Chambers as editor and publisher, found its way to our exchange table Saturday. The new sheet bears indications of a good paper. The editor has our best wishes for success. Penfield had a printing office once before but the office was destroyed by fire several years ago.

Phillip Koehler received an ugly gash in his right hand last Thursday at the tannery. He was walking past one of the employees in the fleshing room who had a large knife in his hand and the man did not notice Mr. Koehler and just as he got behind him the man carelessly swung his hand around with the knife and it struck Mr. Koehler on the back of his hand.

In accordance with its usual custom, the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh R'y will this year issue excursion tickets for the Christmas and New Year holidays at one and one-third the regular fare one way, for the round trip, with minimum rate of 25c. Stauffer; treasurer, George Engle; organist, Carrie Albright; chorister, S. M. Lowther; librarian, George Roller.

Eye Injured.

J. J. Pifer, of Paradise settlement, was breaking lime stone one day last week and a small piece struck him in the right eye, which may result in the loss of the sight of that eye to Mr. Pifer. He went to Pittsburg Saturday afternoon to have an eye doctor of that city save the eye for him if possible.

Supervisors Guilty.

E. W. McMillen, of this place, brought suit against the supervisors of Winslow township for negligence in not keeping the road from his mill to Prindables in repair. The case was tried last week and the supervisors were found guilty. The act of assembly requires supervisors to effectually open, and keep constantly in repair, all the public roads, and to keep them clear of all impediments to easy and convenient passing and traveling on the same.

Merry Christmas to All.

The type setters of THE STAR office, who have been sticking close to the cases for six months, want a short vacation and as it has been our custom not to issue a paper during the holidays, we have decided to observe the custom on this occasion and give the employees a short respite from their labors, and in consequence thereof will not issue a paper next week. This will be the last issue of THE STAR for 1894. We wish our readers a Merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year.

First Visit in Forty Years.

Steve Ross and daughter, Amelia, of Worthington, Pa., visited the former's sister, Mrs. Wood Reynolds, in Reynoldsville last week. Notwithstanding the fact that it is not a great distance from this place to Worthington, which is six miles out from Kittanning, this is the first visit Mr. Ross has made to Reynoldsville since 1852, almost forty-three years ago. As the town was then a thing of the future and the surrounding country a vast wilderness, it is hardly necessary to state that Mr. Ross noticed a wonderful change in the town and its surroundings when here last week.

Good Entertainment.

The school entertainment given in the opera house last Friday evening was a decided success. The program, as published in THE STAR last week, was carried out with the exception of one or two selections. The young people who took part all done nicely and deserve credit. The house was packed and the people were well pleased with the entertainment. The admission was 15 and 25 cents and it took a large house to run the receipts up to the amount the participants deserved for the work done, but the library fund will be greatly increased when the proceeds are dumped into the treasury. The door receipts were $78.25.

An Old Lady Gone.

Mrs. Rebecca Dougherty, of Beechwoods, relict of John Dougherty, died at 3.00 A. M. Sunday, Dec. 23rd, and was buried in the Beechwoods cemetery at 10.00 A. M. to-day. Mrs. Dougherty has been an invalid for years. She was about seventy-seven years old. She moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison, from Ireland into the Beechwoods when a girl of sixteen summers, and was consequently one of the old settlers in that section of the county. The deceased was a sister of Joseph Morrison of this place. She had been a consistent member of the Presbyterian church for years and was ready to pass over. She was the last of her family to leave these mundane shores.

A Donation.

Rev. Johnson and family were treated to an agreeable surprise last Thursday evening by the members and friends of the Presbyterian church. At about seven o'clock the people began thronging the parsonage, each bringing a Christmas donation, and what was even better, a warm genial spirit. For nearly three hours people were coming and going, leaving behind them tokens of their good will. Rev. Johnson has often said that he wished to be highly stimulated for duty, even though it be brought about by an occasional scolding from his people. He says, though, that the kindness of Thursday evening will not only serve this excellent purpose, but also enable him to do his work with good cheer.

Juvenile Entertainment.

The scholars of the four rooms in the Reynolds block, of which Mildred Fuller, Mollie Miles, Mattie Waite and Minnie Whitmore are teachers, gave an entertainment in Miss Fuller's room on Friday afternoon. The little folks done real nicely. The program was as follows: Song by school; song, Nulu Neale; recitation, Bessie Senor; song by a number of girls; recitation, Etta Shaffer; song, Oma Keller; recitation, Jessie Campbell; recitation, Eula Shaffer; recitation, Gertrude Whitmore; recitation, May Whittaker; recitation, Bert Burns; song, six boys; recitation, John Bohren; recitation, Wallace Lowther; recitation, Ethel Shaffer; recitation, Twila Shaffer; dialogue, four boys; recitation, Frank Bohren; recitation, Laura McPherson; recitation, Annie Trudgen; dialogue, Irene Phillipi and Chester Belnap; recitation, Jennie Malden; recitation, Jennie McGaw; recitation, Frances Sayers; recitation, May Tapper; song, class of girls; closing song by school.

"Herald" Office in Ashes.

For the third time within nine months the Falls Creek Herald office has been destroyed by fire. In March the office was burned and Editor Bangert bought a new and complete office. In June the new office went up in smoke. Bangert, although somewhat discouraged, bought another new outfit, built himself a new office and again sent the Herald out as spicy and neat as ever before. About one o'clock last Thursday morning David Postlethwait, of this place, engineer on the R. & F. C. R'y, and several other men of the crew who were doing work in the Falls Creek yard, saw flames and smoke issuing from the rear of the Herald office. They gave the fire alarm and also hastened to the office to assist in saving property if possible. There was so much smoke and fire in the interior that they could only get out a few books. There seems to be no doubt but that Chas. J. Bangert is the victim of some incendiary fiend, an imp that should be where he rightfully belongs. Bangert is outspoken and generally calls things by their right name, and has been something of a terror to evil doers—which all newspapers should be—and it is likely he has stirred up some vile and corrupt character that is seeking revenge by the incendiary torch. Bangert has lost courage—is it any wonder?—and says he will not rebuild in Falls Creek again. Bro. Bangert has our sympathy in his third misfortune.

New School Building.

The school board has agreed to erect one brick, twelve-room, school building on the Rhoads place, near the site of the present school house, and will ask the voters of this borough to say by their ballots at the February election that the borough can be bonded for $25,000 to build the new school house. We are glad the school board has arrived at a conclusion on the school building question and that they have decided to erect one large school house. The voters are so well posted on the necessity of a new school building that we have not the least doubt but that the vote to bond the borough will carry by a large majority. Since the board has decided on one building, instead of two, it is hoped that they will make calculations on putting up a school house that will be a credit to the town. We should have a modern school house with all the modern improvements. The time is past for towns the size of Reynoldsville to have anything short of modern schools and modern school buildings. Erect a building that future generations will call you "blessed," instead of saying you were "antiquated foggies" even in the latter days of the nineteenth century. We do not presume to say that our school board would even think of building anything else than a modern school building throughout, but we make these remarks before the board decides on the plan of the building.

A Good Act.

Last week Lewis Rosenthal, of this place, and H. King, of Punxsutawney, were in Helvetia, this county, on business. These gentlemen found themselves possessed with several hours of leisure and while walking around squandering their spare time they came up to a miner's house where a constable had just sold all the household goods of the family and a woman and three children were turned into the world without a home. The two men were touched by the pitiable scene and inquired into the case and found the goods had been sold for a small amount. The two business men bought the cook stove back and presented it to the woman. This act seemed to strike a tender cord in the hearts of the people who had bought other articles, and they began one by one giving the goods back until the woman and children were soon in their home again with almost all their goods back. The kind act on the part of Rosenthal and King was the means of redeeming the household goods for the family that had been thrown out of home.

Just the Thing.

Has the thought ever struck you that a year's subscription to THE STAR would be just the thing to give as a Christmas present? One beauty about such a present is that the receiver will be reminded of the giver every Wednesday during 1895. It would be a useful present for any family that does not already receive it. THE STAR gives all the local, county and general news each week.

A Pointer for Santa Claus.

At G. Bohren's City Bakery will be found a fine line of sweets for Christmas. Choice candies from 10 to 40 cents a pound; oranges, Florida Russets and Brights, nuts, figs, dates, lemons, all kinds of cakes, in fact his stock of candies, cakes, nuts and fruits will please the most fastidious. All his goods are fresh.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to me will please call and settle before Jan. 1st, as I expect to go away after Jan. 1st. All accounts not settled by the first will be left for collection at "Squire Neff's" office.

HENRY A. REED.

Pens and pen holders, in gold and silver, a nice thing for a Christmas present, at Ed. Gooder's.

Robinson has the largest stock of shoes at the lowest prices.

Free, but Good.

A large number of Reynoldsville people have reasons to be thankful to the members of the P. O. S. of A. Camp at this place for the privilege they enjoyed last Thursday evening of hearing Rev. C. H. Fitzwilliam deliver a grand lecture. His subject, "The Battle of Life," was discussed with a vigor, humor, pathos and philosophy rarely, if ever, surpassed by any speaker who has appeared in this town. His lecture was a plea to the young and middle-aged to endeavor to live grand and noble lives. The lecture was splendidly conceived and was eloquently delivered. The P. O. S. of A. Camp at this place deserves much credit for renting the Centennial hall and paying the lecturer out of their own pockets and giving Reynoldsville people a free lecture. The hall was comfortable filled, but not packed. Had the people known the treat in store for them the hall would have been too small to accommodate the crowd that would have gathered there. After the lecture in Centennial about one hundred members of the order from this place and Rathmel repaired to the P. O. S. of A. hall where Mr. Fitzwilliam delivered another lecture in the interest of the order. The Camp expect to treat themselves to another good lecture in the near future and will give the public an opportunity to hear it free.

Tells How it was Done.

Frank Meade, one of the fellows who robbed Ed. Covill at Brockwayville on the evening of the 10th inst., was arrested at Renovo on the 13th inst., but his "pard" escaped the officers. The robber had Covill's gold watch in his possession when arrested. Meade, who is about twenty years old, made a confession of the job done at Brockwayville and gave the following account of it: "We went into the store at about 8 o'clock and my partner held up Covill while I searched him. I got $50 in money and a watch on his person and before I could make a search of the store some parties on the outside were attracted to the place by the racket, for Covill slipped his gag and shouted 'robbers!' I told my partner to plug him and he knocked him to the floor. We then made a dive out of the place. At the door some of the fellows on the outside made a faint effort to stop us. We shot at them twice—that is," with a grin, "we shot as near to their heads as we could without hitting them and you'd have died to see them run. We ran a couple of blocks and got away all right. From that place we went to Ridgway and hung around that vicinity until Thursday, when we went to St. Marys and boarded the freight train for Renovo. We started for that place with the intention of doing a job as we were low in pocket again."

Christmas Presents.

Christmas tide is here again. Tomorrow mirth and joy will be found in many of the homes of our land. Sad indeed is the home where Christmas time does not bring happiness. Many people forget that the angels sang "On earth peace, good will toward men" on the first Christmas morning of long ago, and only think of the day as a time for giving and receiving presents, and having a good time. While Christmas presents are the go, it does not necessarily follow that such gifts should be expensive. Nothing should be given unless the heart goes with it, and if the recipient be worthy the humblest offering will possess the highest possible value. To give because it is "the fashion," or because somebody "expects" a gift, is to degrade a beautiful custom. Let your gifts be simple and inexpensive; let them go only to those whom you love and who, you have reason to believe, love you. Then the most common offering, especially if it be made by your own hands will be accounted as of great value, a value that cannot be estimated in dollars and cents.

Temperance Society.

The entertainment held in the K. of P. hall Saturday evening by the Temperance Society was largely attended. The program, in substance, was about as follows, although not in order as given: Music by Prescottville band; recitation, Annie Lockyear; solos, Mrs. N. Downs and Laura Downs; instrumental duet, W. G. White and N. Downs; male quartette, John Braund, John Reddecliff, Wm. Bolt, jr., and James Tyson; recitation, John Braund; "Social Glass," John Young, James Tyson and Abe Marriott; quartette, Elizabeth Northy, Mary Ann Pomroy, John Reddecliff and Wm. Bolt, jr.; remarks by Rev. Jas. H. Jelbart, Thomas Main and John Young. While the speeches from Young and Main were not delivered as eloquently as some of the addresses made by temperance orators of to-day, yet the gentlemen were talking from experience and they gave their hearers some plain and wholesome truths to carry home with them.
