The 'bus that runs between Reynoldsville and Rathmel upset at the watering trough at Cold Spring Hollow Monday forenoon. There were several ladies in the 'bus when it tipped over. One lady was well up in years and she was badly shaken up.

Big Contract.

The Reynoldsville Woolen Co. of this place have just closed a contract with a large wholesale house in Pittsburg, for fifty thousand yards of flannel. This is the largest order ever taken by a mill in this section. Twenty-five thousand pounds of wool will be consumed in filling the order and it will take three months to do thework.

The Frost Done It.

At 9.30 last Sunday morning Fifth street, from Grant to Main, was flooded. The cause of the inundation was a break in the water pipe about four feet from the fire plug at the corner of Grant and Fifth streets. The frost got under the plug and raised it up and broke the iron pipe. Several men went to work to repair the break, and they did not finish the work until after dark Sunday evening.

Paid for Interfering.

A colored man of West Reynoldsville spent Monday night in the lock-up of that borough and paid $14.75 yesterday morning—fine and costs—for interfering with the officers who were taking a man to the lock-up. The colored man was served just as he deserved to be. Any person who interferes with officers of the law when they are performing their duty is deserving of punishment, and the law is strict on that kind of conduct.

Died Tuesday

William Bush, the young man who was injured in the Sherwood coal mine early in January, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Sol. Hollowbaugh, in Sandy Valley on the evening of the 29th ult. His remains were taken to Sprankles Mills Thursday morning for burial. The deceased was twenty-seven years old and unmarried. He suffered intensely from the time he was burt until death relieved him. He was caught between a heavy loaded coal car and the side of the mine. The back of his head was cut almost from one ear to the other, by a spike in the car, and his body was badly crushed.

Mason Dead.

Alexander Robertson, an old man who has resided at Rathmel for a few years, died at his home at 4.00 A. M., Monday, after being confined to his bed for four weeks. Dropsy was the immediate cause of death. He was born in Scotland, January 7th, 1841, and was over fifty-four years old. The funeral services will be held at his late residence this afternoon, conducted by Rev. H. R. Johnson, and the mortal remains of the Scotchman will be interred in the Prospect cemetery. Mr. Robertson was a member of the Masonic lodge and that fraternity will attend the obsequies of their departed brother.

Backward Feature. One of the most backward features on the municipal face of Reynoldsville is the public school buildings. They are shabby enough for a suberb of Lynchsouthern pretentions on the James river. When public necessities are met the men who meet them are confronted with all manner of opposition; some for selfish interests, some at the hands of old foggles and still more from constitutional kickers. If Reynoldsville needs school houses, sewers and other public property the citizens will get them when they go straight ahead with the business and let the kickers kick .- Dubois Courier.

A Mean Trick. One evening last week as a sled load of pleasure seekers from Dubois were driving into Reynoldsville some mean chap in the east end of town threw a large piece of ice and snow at the party and hit one of the young ladies in the face and bruised her face and blackened one of her eyes. The good people of this place have the utmost contempt for such conduct and are sorry a stop cannot be put to it. Because the boys of other towns are mean and debased is no excuse why such things should be tolerated in Reynoldsville. We do not believe the boys of any town are encouraged in snow balling and misusing strangers, only so far as they are encouraged by not being arrested and made pay a fine for such conduct.

Highway Robbers.

Last Saturday evening about half past seven Ernest Davis started down town. He came down Jackson street to Russ, turned up Russ street to Main street and just as he stepped onto the alley crossing on Russ two masked men stepped out and grabbed him. One of the men held a revolver close to his face and requested Ernest to give up his money and valuables, and in the meantime one of the "unknown" took the young man's watch out of his pocket, but be fore the chain was disconnected Ernest persuaded the robbers to allow him to remain owner of the time keeper. Ernest emptied his pocket, which contained something over two dollars. The men wore long overcoats and had on heavy veiling for masks.

Respectfully Dedicated to Reynoldsville Board of Trade

By EDGAR A. PO-ETIC (W. J. Weaver). Oh! Board of Trade, why were you made? Why slumber at your post? Wake up and agitate our town Or else give up the ghost.

Oh! Board of Trade, we're sore afraid That you are in the toils Of old "Procras," the thief of time, While others get the spoils.

Oh! Board of Trade, neglect has played Sad havoc with your band. And other towns secured the prize That wriggled through your hand.

Oh! Board of Trade, you have been weighed Within the balance true. But liven up, there yet is time To catch the residue. Oh! Board of Trade, your banner's frayed By adverse winds galore. Good chances have escaped your grasp, Yet still there's room for more.

Oh! Board of Trade, be not dismayed, You've weathered storms before; Then hold her nozzle 'gainst the bank Till the last galoot's ashore.

Oh! Board of Trade, the collonade Of any active town. Be wary, watchful, vigilant And never trampled down. Oh! Board of Trade, it has been said. You slumber in the tomb, But fervently we hope to see You come from out the gloom.

Oh! Board of Trade, how have we prayed That you might resurrect. So that with industries in time Our town shall be bedecked. Oh! Board of Trade, from every glade Bring business into town. Then will be showered on your head Both glory and renown.

A Wanderer.

Last Thursday Solomon Hise, an old man 74 years old, who has no abiding place, but is at home wherever he takes off his bat, came into Revnoldsville and squatted down in a chair beside a warm fire in the little store that Milton Sloppy runs near the iron bridge. The old tramp had been this way about four months ago and had stopped with the above named gentleman several days. Mr. Sloppy made the man welcome to his hospitality again several days last week and then called the overseers of the poor in to take charge of the man. He has been a tramp for years and the overseers have been unable to get any information from him that will give them any reason to think that some other poor district has more right to provide for him than Reynoldsviile borough has. The man has been a wanderer so long that Messrs. Atwater and Beebe, poor overseers, are of the opinion that he will move on when the weather moderates. A number of years ago Solomon worked in a clearing for Judge Schultzes in the neighborhood of Pleasant Avenue. The old man says he has no faith in woman.

Town Council.

The town council met in the council chamber of this borough Monday night and transacted the following business:

The Burgess reported $6.00 in cash received for building permits and fines for January. Bill for labor, gas and bardware, amounting to $143.81 were presented and orders drawn for the amounts. Orders were drawn in favor of Dr. W. B. Alexander for $125.00, and Imogene

Reynolds for $9.00, interests on coupon

The Burgess was instructed to notify Henry Bigge, or owner of the property occupied by Alfred Wiggett as a fish market, on Main street, to tear down and rerove the wooden awning in front of said building. If the owner cannot be found, the Street Commissioner is to tear down the awning, as it is in a dangerous condition. The logs that were torn away from across Soldier Run, are to be hauled back to Mill street to be used later on for a foot walk across Soldier Run.

Reporter in Trouble.

J. B. Johnston, of the Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph reportorial staff, can interview a president or queen, or write up common, every-day doings of city life with any of the profession, but he cannot drive his father-in-law's irongray nag in a sleigh. Tuesday morning the pencil pusher got into Mr. John Coax's sleigh to take his sister-in-law. Miss Netta Coax, to the Jenks school, where she looks after the educational interests of the youth of that neighborhood five days a week. Mr. Johnston succeeded in keeping the horse in the road and averting any mishaps until the rail road crossing in West Reynoldsville was reached and it was there the reporter became a good subject to be interviewed. On account of the gentleman being a professional newspaper man we will let him down easy and merely add that the horse did not propose to quietly walk over a railroad track within two or three feet of a snorting engine, but it would run off, and it did run off.

Pleasure and an Upset.

The Relief Corps invited the Corps of Brookville to come to this place on a visit. The invitation was accepted and Monday evening of this week was the time set for the visit. About five o'clock two dozen ladies, in two sleds, arrived from the county seat and were escorted to the G. A. R. hall where the ladies of Reynoldsville had prepared a feast of good things for them. After the supper was disposed of a special meeting of the Corps was held and the evening was pleasantly spent. The ladies of both Corps tried to outdo each other in making the most appropriate and eloquent remarks for the occasion. In due time the visitors were packed into their sleds with hot bricks, hot water bags, hot boards, and an abundance of blankets and robes. The visitors started away from the G. A. R. hall in high glee, a damper was soon put on the occupants of one sled load, for they were all dumped into the ditch in front of Robinson's Main street residence. The horses were feeling spirited, and so was the driver, and in trying to pass another sled the entire load of ladies came to grief. Some of them were well shaken up, especially Mrs. Brady, the oldest lady in the party. One lady got her nose skinned, in fact bardly one of them escaped without some slight bruise. The ladies went to the Commercial and got warmed and prepared for a second start. The side seats of the sled were in the ditch on Main street yesterday just where the upset occurred.

An Invalid Gone, Rev. Henderson, of Brookville, died at his home in that place last Wednesday morning. During the late war Rev. Henderson was shot through the hips by a ball from the enemy, which left him a sufferer. He was paster of the Brookville Baptist church for sometime after the war, but about eight years ago he lost the use of his legs from the effects of his wound and from that time on was an invalid. He was a man that was loved by many of the Brookville people. His remains were taken to East Brady Friday for interment. Funeral services were held in the Brookville Baptist church Thursday evening and the casket and its contents were left in the church until train time Friday morning. The funeral services were well attended and very impressive.

Gordon and Wolf.

Charlie Gordon and Isaiah Wolf, rhom we mentioned a few weeks ago as having been arrested at Big Run for burglary, theft, etc., and who were afterwards taken to Clarion for trial on similar charges there, are finding the way of the transgressor to be a hard one. In the Clarion county court they both pleaded guilty week before last to the charges of burglary and attempted robbery, and Gordon was sentenced to 8 years and 3 months in the penitentiary, and Wolf to 5 years and 3 months. After their sentence there the court directed them to be turned over to the sheriff of Jefferson county, and they will be tried here next court on the indictments pending in our court.—Brookville Democrat.

On the Track.

Six young men who were in Reynoldsville Monday with a team of gray horses met with a mishap at the junction just above Prescottville that might have resulted in a horrible death for one of the party. The occupants of the sleigh had been imbibing "tangle foot" and were a trifle reckless and when nearing the junction the horses got frightened at a coal train and ran off, dumping all the young men in the snow but one and he was thrown onto the railroad track in front of the approaching train. Fortunately for the man the train was moving slowly and was stopped in time to prevent crushing the life out of him.

Normal School.

Prof. Lex N. Mitchell, principal of the West Reynoldsville schools, will conduct a normal school in the West Reynoldsville building for a term of ten weeks, beginning April 8th. The school is designed for teachers, those preparing to teach, and pupils of the public school. Tuition, advanced grade, $5.90; intermediate grade, $4.00; primary grade, $2.50. Prof. Mitchell has been very successfull with normal work in the past and will, without doubt, give good satisfaction with his normal school in West Reynoldsville.

Cold Snap.

Early last Thursday morning some of the thermometers in Reynoldsville were down to 22 degrees below zero. At 7.00 A. M. the thermometer at the Ross House was down to 20 degrees below and at moon it was 44 above zero, making a difference of 64 degrees in five hours. It is no wonder that a number of our people are suffering with bad

Fine Art Publication.

"Earthly Footsteps of the Mam of Galilee" is a superb religio-educational. fine art publication, the result of months of travel and observation, involving three separate tours of the Holy Land, two by Bishop Vincent, and one lately concluded by Dr. Lee, upon which he was accompanied at every stage of the journey by R. E. M. Bain, with the finest photographic outfit procurable in America. These gentlemen were under special commission to present pictorially and descriptively the "Land of the Savior." His very footsteps have, therefore, been followed with note-book and camera, and the journeyings of His Apostles have also been traced, as shown on the eight-colored map in all portfolios. These splendid portfolios can be secured at H. Alex. Stoke's drug store for every purchase of goods and ten cents additional.
