Gen. W. W. Greenland, of Clarion, Adjutant-General during Gov. Pattison's last administration, died at his home in Clarion on Saturday evening.

Dame Rumor says that the celebrated dude, Oscar Wilde, who some years ago visited this country, has been partaking largely of the qualities which are suggested by his last name, and that instead of being a tender bud of innocence and purity he is really a tough old wall flower of unsavory perfume.

Governor Hastings last week vetoed a bill granting a pension to Hamilton Smith, of Jefferson county, on the ground that if the bill became a law it would establish a dangerous precedent in view of the claimant's inability to clearly establish his right to a bounty. The governor suggests that "to the end that all proper cases may a afforded that relief which the constitution of the state contemplates, it would seem to be desirable that the legislature should establish some tribunal or adopt some methods by which the merits of claims of this character may be determined in advance of the passage of bills appropriating money for their payment."

The measure pending in the Legisature to provide about five hundred free scholarships in the Pennsylvania State College for the young men and young women of the Commonwealth has called attention to the relation of the college to the state, and the assistance already given to it. From 1857 to 1867, before it became a state college, the Legislature assisted the founders with appropriations aggregating $99,900. The number of students averaged 124 yearly. During the next twenty years, after the state had accepted its quota of land given by the United States for establishing state colleges and had pledged itself to the United States government to provide and maintain buildings for the school, it gave for this purpose $83,000, about $4,500 yearly. The average number of students each year was 112. Since 1887, when the college began to develope and to establish industrial education firmly, the State has given $480,000, a yearly averof $60,000, for buildings, repairs, equipment and insurance. As a result, the college has five commodious administration buildings and laboratories, well equipped for the industrial and technical instruction it is imparting to its students. During the last period mentioned above, the attendance has averaged 249 per year, the present number being 372, representing 50 counties of the State. Each state in the union has "land grant" colleges, the best known being Cornell (New York) and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the east and the universities of Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin and California in the west. Their current expenses are paid jointly by the United States and the several states.

Senator James G. Mitchell, of this county, introduced in the Senate last week a bill authorizing the governor to appoint a commission to adopt or edit and compile a uniform series of text books to be used in the common schools The commission is to consist of one county superintendent of common schools from each congressional district and the superintendent of public printing, who shall act as president thereof. The commission is to meet in Harrisburg on the second Wednesday of September, 1895, and each sixth year thereafter for the purpose of adopting a uniform series of text or school books. The commission shall have the power to prescribe and cause to be adopted and used, a uniform series of text books in the principal studies pursued in the public schools, namely, orthography, reading, grammar, arithmetic, physiology, geography, bygiene and United States history, and no school district shall be entitled to receive its portion of public school money from the state unless such text books as said commission prescribe shall be adopted and used by the public schools. The text books are to be issued by the superintendent of common schools and delivered at the most convenient railway station at the expense of the state to the various school boards, and the said school board shall deliver the same to the teachers of their respective district. On and after the first Monday of June, 1896, whenever the directors in any school district desire to change the text books, they may apply to the superintendent of the department of public schools, who shall deliver to said directors a new book of the uniform series in exchange for an old book of a like kind. The governor is authorized to fill by appointment all vacancies

Burned to Death.

On Thursday afternoon of last week while Julius Critser, a German living about a mile north of town, was burning brush near his house, his sevenyear-old daughter who was watching the work got so close to the fire that a a puff of wind caused the flames to reach out and envelope her dress. Before the father was aware of his little girl's danger her clothes were all ablaze. He ran to her assistance and succeeded in getting it out but too late to save his daughter's life. He hastened to town and summoned Dr. Beyer but the cruel flames had done their work only too well. The child's flesh was burned to almost a crisp and she died several hours after the accident.-Punxsutawney News.

The girl that gives way to a desire to gad about the streets, to cultivate the acquaintance of young men and act simperingly is laying a foundation for a useless afterlife, then, two to one, when married she will develop into a slatternly gossip, if no greater misfortune befalls her. It is the girl who loves home and helps her mother that wins the model man and becomes an ornament to womanhood. The girl who does this and devotes some of her spare time to reading and strives for the graces of mental culture, commands the respect and esteem of every body, while the street gadding ornament wins only the admiration of those whose admiration is not worth having.

BROWNELL—CLOVEL—At the M. E. parsonage in Brookville, March 21st, 1895, by Rev. Russel M. Warren, D.D., Ross E. Brownell, of Lindsey, Pa., and Miss Emma R. Clover, of Fisher, Clarion, Co., Pa.

Many people believe that all paints are alike—that they are nothing but oil and color mixed. That's the case with common, inferior paints.

Are also used to blend good paints. So is conscience. Paint made without a blending of skill and honesty is no good. We keep only the Best. It would not pay us to handle poor paint at any price. We have all sorts of the good sort, ready mixed and fit for use.
