There were two auctions in Reynoldsville Saturday afternoon and evening. One at Trudgen's grocery and the other at Rowbotham's novelty store. Johnston, of DuBois, and Wiley McClain, of Brookville, were the auctioneers, and if ever they rattled their tongues they did Saturday. Opposition is the life of trade, even with auctioneers, especially when at it at the same time and so close together.

Dr. O. F. Flippo, of Philadelphia, was booked to deliver his famous lecture, "Ice in the Pulpit and who put it There," in Centennial hall on Monday evening under the auspices of the Baptist Christian Endeavor Society, but the lecture was not delivered on account of the small attendance. Dr. Flippo is a good lecturer, and like all public speakers of reputation, does not like to talk to small audiences.

Seven Months.

At a meeting of the school board Monday evening the following school tax was laid: Building, 3 mills; school purpose, 3 mills; bond, 3 1/4 mills. The school term will be seven months.

Mill Burned.

Samuel Buzzard's saw mill, which was located near George Burtop's in Beechwoods, was burned Thursday night, and ten thousand feet of lumber that was piled near the mill also ascended skywards in flame and smoke.

Save Ten Per Cent.

County Treasurer Waite will be at Hotel Belnap on Friday of this week to receive State and County taxes from the tax payers of this borough, and the Ross House on Saturday to receive West Reynoldsville and Winslow township tax.

First in Sixty-two Years.

John Pifer, who has lived on a farm in Winslow township since 1833 and has always had four or five head of stock, was in Reynoldsville last week buying feed. This is the first time in the sixty-two years that he has been compelled to buy feed for his stock.

Ten Mills.

At a meeting of the West Reynoldsville school board held on Monday evening a school tax of ten mills was laid for this year, as follows: School purposes, seven mills; school building, three mills. Prof. Lex. N. Mitchell was hired as principal for the ensuing term at $65.00 per month, and W. B. Adams as assistant at $45.00 per month.

Is Everything but an Angel.

Some boys were asked the other day to define "editor." Here are some of their definitions: "An editor makes his living out of the English language;" "An editor is a man who handles words;" "An editor is a man who does not do anything himself, and when somebody else does, goes and tells other people all about it;" "An editor is a man who has the industry of a beaver, the instincts of a bee and the patience of an ass."

Joined the Ranks.

Last Wednesday evening Rev. E. Lewis Kelley, Baptist minister, was called to West Reynoldsville to say the necessary words to unite Edward Barry and Miss Edith Bartle in the bounds of matrimony. The young couple had rented and furnished a home in West Reynoldsville and it was in their own home the ceremony was performed. That is the proper way for young people to start out in life. THE STAR extends congratulations and best wishes.

Soap Boiled Over.

John Foley's house on Pleasant Avenue was burned down last Thursday morning. Mrs. Foley was making soap in the basement kitchen and while out for a few minutes it boiled over and set the house on fire. The alarm was given and hose company No. 2 responded promptly but the building was so far away from the nearest water plug that their hose would not reach and the firemen had to wait until No. 1 got there, and by the time they arrived, on account of the time for the alarm to get down town and the hose company to get to Pleasant Avenue, the fire was beyond their control.

Nuptial Knot.

At eleven o'clock to-day Wm. H. Karns, of Pittsburg, and Miss Lulu Creighton, of West Reynoldsville, will be married at the home of A. B. Weed, by Rev. P. J. Slattery, pastor of the M. E. church, in the presence of a number of invited friends. The young couple will leave on the 1:42 P. M. train for a two weeks' wedding trip along the lakes. They will go as far as the MacInaw Straits. They will go to house-keeping at Oakmount, ten miles out from Pittsburg. Mr. Karns is telegraph operator in the Forty-third street office of the A. V. R'y Co. in Pittsburg, and assistant dispatcher.

Postponed.

The report of the town council, as published in this paper last week, showed that council had fixed Saturday, July 20th, as the day for holding a special election to give the voters of this borough an opportunity to say by ballot whether the indebtedness of the borough should be increased $8,000 for the purpose of plankning Main street from Presbyterian church to Tom Reynolds' barn, Tenth street to Jackson, Jackson street to Fifth, and Fifth from Jackson to Main. At the special meeting Saturday night it was decided to postpone the election.

No Lack for Dogs.

High Constable Rodgers was authorized at the last regular meeting of town council to assess all the dogs in this borough. He began the work Friday and was limited to three days. In one section of the borough Mr. Rodgers found thirty-six dogs at fourteen places. Aaron thinks some people will prevaricate when it comes to being assessed for a dog. At one place the man of the house said they did not own a dog and while talking to the assessor a little cur ran out between the man's legs. Mr. Rodgers only found about two hundred dogs in town. The other two hundred dogs must have been shut up or out of town.

Big Surprise Party.

Surprise parties are not uncommon events among the people of this neck o' woods in the nineteenth century. The last big blowout hereabouts in the surprise party line was at the home of Robert M. Fugate, a farmer who lives between Reynoldsville and DuBois. On the evening of June 4th, 1895, at the close of the day which marked the 39th anniversary of Robert's existence on this mundane sphere, three score of friends from Reynoldsville, Rathmel, DuBois and surrounding neighborhood, per invitation, gathered at his home to spring a surprise on him. Mary Ann, Robert's good wife, was the originator and executor of the surprise party, and her husband, ignorant of the plot, even took her to some of the neighbors in the buggy to deliver invitations, on the plea that she wanted to see the ladies about some matters. By stretching the truth a little Mr. Fugate was kept in the dark about the party, and on the afternoon of the day it was to take place, Mrs. Fugate contrived to send her husband to DuBois on business so that he would get home after the people had arrived. Robert was greatly surprised on his return home from DuBois to see the crowd that had gathered, but he was soon reconciled to the situation and enjoyed the party as much as any of the others present. The visitors did not go empty handed nor did they return home with empty stomachs. They carried presents with them for Mr. Fugate and Mrs. Fugate had a large supply of good things hid away in the pantry which was brought out and spread before the visitors. After justice had been done to the production of the culinary department, a few hours were whiled away pleasantly by chatting, singing and instrumental music. When the clock began pointing its fingers to the midnight hour the surprise party broke up and the guests bid their host and hostess adieu and started for their respective homes well pleased with the result of the party.

Four Girls Drowned.

A sad drowning accident occurred in the Stump creek near Big Run about five o'clock Saturday evening. Seven girls, Sadie M. Anthony, Maggie E. Anthony, Rosa Rimer, Lilly Rimer, Cora Rugh, Della and Mary London, went in bathing. They decided to fathom the depths of one place that they were uncertain of and took hold of each others clothing and formed a line, Sadie Anthony, sixteen years old, the oldest girl in the party, took the lead. In place of the creek bottom sloping gradually it was washed out and the girls stepped abruptly into deep water, and four of them went down to death. By the heroism of Lilly Rimer, thirteen years old, Della and Mary London were rescued from the unmerciful waters. The girls drowned were: Sadie Anthony, aged 16 years, Maggie E. Anthony, aged 13 years, daughters of P. J. Anthony, Rosa Rimer, aged 15, daughter of Wm. Rimer and granddaughter of P. J. Anthony, Cora Rugh, daughter of H. B. Rugh. The bodies were all recovered in about 25 minutes after the girls went into the deep water. The four girls drowned were members of the Methodist Episcopal church in Big Run. At 10:00 A. M. Monday Rev. Vance preached the funeral sermon at the church, after which four hearsees and a long procession of grief stricken friends and neighbors slowly proceeded to the Big Run cemetery. The Anthony sisters were buried in one grave.

Special Meeting.

There was a special meeting of Town Council on Saturday evening, June 8th, at which all members attended. Burgess Lattimer, whose illness prevented his reporting at the regular meeting on June 3rd, reported amount collected for fines and permits in May, $23.50, and also presented a bill for $4.51, amount paid out by him for gas bill, services of a policeman and other items. The secretary was instructed to draw an order for the amount. Mr. Ritzke reported the result of his investigations with regard to injuries sustained by Angus Cameron, in falling off sidewalk.

Excursion Tickets to Ridgway.

On account of the District Reunion of the Knights of Pythias and the Second Annual Race Meet of the Ridgway Bicycle Club, to be held at Ridgway, June 21st, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has arranged for the sale of excursion tickets at reduced rate to Ridgway June 21st, tickets good to return until June 22nd 1895.

Auction.

Sales every day are now going on at the Novelty Store in the Bee Hive block, opposite the postoffice. There is a large line of useful goods and they are being sold in lots to suit buyers. This a good chance to get goods at half their value. Wiley McClain is carrying on the sale and that is guarantee enough that all is right. Stop afternoon or evening.

"Hashed Recherche."

Dedicated to the people at large by Edgar A. Po-Etic (W. J. Weaver.)
We hear of literary men
Of some religious creed;
And as to books we wonder when
And where does Henry "Roed."
When on the raging "Sandy Lick"
Fierce waves around you boil,
Pull in your ropes, you'll never stick
If you let Morris "Coyle."
When autumn comes and fruits abound
One's heart within ten years
To look across the way and see
Brave Thomas gather "Kearna."
At base ball game or social dance
While having glorious fun
Some one will ask, and look askance,
"Whar now has A. E. Dunn?"
We read of heroes by the score
Upon the nation's roster,
Yet no one knows the cares of yore
That once did William "Foster."
'Twould keep a person busy to
Keep track of all the turfs,
Yet nothing but the meter tells
How much gas E. C. "Burns."
Talk not of sleeves a yard in width
While gentry's lining wiles,
One must be "in it" sure as fate
And follow L. A. "Stiles."
Perchance you have a favorite cat;
If not, why go and get it,
Then feed it well and make it fat
And leave Miss Della "Pettit."
In little scraps or sundry broil
One hears a sounding thwack,
And queries, after the recoil,
"Whose eye did Frank J. "Black?"
Our judges use their Latin terms
While sitting on the bench,
But what we wish to know is, who
Is teaching Charles "French?"
Wise folks don't herald all they know
Nor half that they have seen,
But some well before you go
And don't think Thomas "Green."
Some strange things happen and we ne'er
Can tell the reason why,
Yet sundry episodes might tend
To make our friend Walter "Spry."
Our Cycle Club's a dandy
And it moves without a flaw,
And every member's handy, when
They hear our Charlie "Kah."
A maid at times can scarce decide
Which party to prefer,
Which puts us in this quandary,
"Whar does it Frank "Sutter."
When'er you chance upon a stream
That can't be crossed by board,
Sit on the bank and let it dream
And watch our Billy "Ford."
 Oftimes in church on Sunday eve
Some curious traits reveal,
In time of prayer we looked around
And saw Doc. J. B. "Nenle."
In hospitals in warring times
Were many cuts of palm;
Yet never could be found the one
Whereon had David "Lane."
Around on Fourth street daily, too,
The people, laundry bring,
And when their "chuckles" they return
It makes poor old Wah "Sing."
In steamer on the briny deep
If engine isn't broke,
Turn on the steam and put her through
And have H. Alex. "Stoke."

Short Engagement.

While C. E. Lytle held the position as train dispatcher on the B. R. & P. R'y, after leaving Reynoldsville, he got acquainted with Miss Hattie L. Oyster, one of Ridgway's charming daughters, and Cupid got in his work on Charley. Time rolled on and about the 20th of April, 1895, Mr. Lytle found it convenient to make a trip from Marquette, Mich., to the county seat of Elk. Just five minutes before time for him to leave to catch the train on which he proposed to start for home, Charles "popped the question" to Miss Hattie and said if she accepted he would remain until another train and if not he would go. Five minutes was not much time to consider such an important question. Hattie said she would have to ask mamma. It is sufficient to say Mr. Lytle did not go on that train. The next matter to settle was the time. Mr. Lytle said thirty days, but Miss Oyster said that it was impossible and the time was extended to forty five days.

Mr. Lytle arrived in Brookville in his special car on Monday preceding his wedding day to see Bencoter, Gordon and some of his other old-time chums and to get up his courage for the great event of his life. Charley said he always thought it was a good joke when any of his friends got married, but failed to see the joke about his wedding, in fact to him it was a solemn matter, and unless Bencoter and Gordon accompanied him from Brookville he did not see how he could go to Ridgway. The two legal lights did not forsake their friend in the time when he was out of "sand."
