Judge White, of Pittsburg, says: "A person who has been in this country five years and has not learned to speak English should be denied the benefit of an interpreter in a suit at law." All who claim the protection of the courts and rights and privileges of an American citizen, should have enough interest in the institutions of the country to care for the language in which they are described.

A woman trusts and is betrayed. To her betrayer the hand of every saint and sinner in the community is held out and the world smiles at him in thanksgiving at one faint sign of repentance. To the woman every face bears a frown of hatred, and against her every hand is uplifted: an exile from home, an outcast from society and a target for every vile tongue of slander, she struggles along friendless and unforgiven, even though she may repent in sack cloth and ashes and water her couch with tears of remorse for years to come. The doors of the church are turned against her, and the saints who sing songs of thanksgiving at the turn of her betrayer draw their robes about them and pass by on the other side when she seeks to approach the mercy seat. But He who said to the outcast of nineteen centuries ago, "Go and sin no more," takes notice of these things and rejoices more over the repentance of one unfortunate than ninety and nine who strike her down every time she seeks to regain her lost estate. "Forgive and ye shall be forgiven."—Ex.

Some of the most important bills passed by the Legislature at the session just closed, and approved by the Governor, are as follows: Making it a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $100, or imprisonment not exceeding one year, to willfully or wantonly raise a false alarm of fire; fixing the number of councilmen to be elected in boroughs at seven, they to be elected for a term of three years; authorizing notaries public, prothonotaries and clerks of courts to administer oaths and take affidavits in divorce proceedings; abolishing the law of 1772 by striking out the provision requiring the kissing of the Bible in the administration of oaths so that hereafter all swearing will have to be done with the uplifted hand or the laying of the hand on the open Book; authorizing county commissioners to erect and maintain a suitable monument at the county seat in memory of the soldiers and sailors of the late war; punishing pool selling, the receiving or transmitting of bets by telegraph or aiding in pool selling or betting; authorizing county commissioners to appoint county solicitors to serve for three years; requiring the clerks of orphans' courts to keep their marriage license docket open for the inspection of the public, to allow copies and abstracts of the same to be made for publication in newspapers, and providing a penalty of fifty dollars to be levied on such officials who refuse to fulfill the obligations of the act.

The following, taken from an exchange, gives some of the various duties required of constables: They must report all places where liquor is sold as a beverage, contrary to law, including drug stores. They must make a personal examination of all the bridges, both township and county, in their district, and report upon their condition. Also as to whether the index boards are in position. They must also return all illegitimate children with the name of the mother and that of the reputed father. They must also report all tippling houses, including all so called club rooms where intoxicating liquors are sold or furnished in violation of law. Also gambling houses. This is to include any place, house, room, outhouse, or other place whatsoever, where any games with dice, cards, billiard balls, or any other article or thing, is used at which money, or other valuable thing, may or shall be played for, or staked or betted upon. They must give name of the person or persons controlling such places; also the name or names of the owner, tenant, lessee or occupant of the place. Also all disturbance of peace at elections. The place where oleomargarine is kept, sold or offered for sale, with name of person or persons keeping, selling or offering for sale the same. They must visit at least once each month, since their quarterly return, all places, licensed or unlicensed, where intoxicating liquors are kept for sale, or where they have good reason to believe they are sold or kept contrary to law.

Rathmel Union Sunday School.

The Union Sunday School was instituted in April, 1883, by Rev. Mr. Christendon, of the American S. S. Union Society, and was the first christian institution organized in Rathmel. Through the influence of Mrs. A. B. Nichols, Mr. Christendon was induced to come to our town for that purpose. The writer notified a few of the neighbors to meet at the Wilson Co. boarding house on Friday evening. Quite a number responded to the call. Mr. Christendon stated the object of the meeting, followed by singing a hymn and offering prayer. J. F. Shaffer was named for superintendent. The organizer donated us ten dollars. A. B. Nichols and George Elliott gave five dollars each, and a number of the working men gave liberally.

After getting permission from the board of directors for the use of the Dean's school house, we met in that place on the following Sabbath at 3:00 P. M. We held our Sunday school here for about five years. From there we moved to the Rathmel school house, remained there about three years and six months, and from there moved to the M. E. church. We do not mean to boast of our school, but there are some things worthy of notice. In twelve years we have missed but three Sabbaths; one on account of extremely stormy weather, two on account of funerals. We have had our trials as well as other Sunday schools. Notwithstanding all the trials and difficulties the school has prospered. At present it is in a prosperous condition. We are strictly union and recorded so in the American S. S. Union. Our object is to work to that end in the future, also to bring the children into the Sabbath school, as well as the older ones, to teach them the truths that are higher and more noble than earth can afford. Our Sunday school numbers about two hundred and fifty—thirteen classes. Some of the classes are too large; we are crowded for room and cannot divide our classes. Five members are working in the school who were here when it was organized. We have been represented four years in the Jefferson County S. S. Association, sending one or two delegates each year. We are composed of Baptists, Church of God, M. E. and Presbyterians, also Lutherans. We protest against any other denomination making a report of the school to their particular church departments, either denominational or union, without the authority to do so from the school.

Our desire is to be mutual workers together working for one grand object. We have established the banner class system in the school, the class giving the largest amount of money each quarter earns the honor for the next quarter. Mrs. Guiney's class had the honor of carrying the banner on Decoration Day, and is the banner class at present. Since January, 1895, quite a number of our teachers have left the town. Thus far we have succeeded in filling all vacancies. The following are names of teachers who have left us: B. F. Crosley, Fred. Crosley, Mrs. Bell Broadhead, Alexander Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. Angus Walker and Miss Ella Brown, who was our organist and a teacher also. We are always sorry to lose a faithful Sunday school worker and hope they will have an opportunity to work in some other school. We could say more but will close.
