HORSE MEAT WAR IN PARIS.

Amusing Complications from Using Flesh in Sausages, An amusing warfare has been carried on in Paris between the Government chemists and the makers of sausages in which borseflesh has been

Some time ago the Butchers' Association of Paris strongly advocated a law rendering it compulsory to dealgnate by a label or otherwise all sauwhich horseflesh had been mixed with other meats. The authorities, while perfectly willing to make regulations enforcing this practice, declined to do so on account of the impossibility of punishing offenders. To punish the violators of a law it is necessary to detect the violation and also to show proof of it. In the present state of scientisic knowledge it is not possible to satisfactorily determine the difference between flesh of the horse and that of any other animal when they are both chopped fine and mixed together. A chemist finally discovered that if the meat were treate with lodated water a reddish-brown reaction would be apparent if horseflesh were present.

Pork or beef does give this peculiar tinge. The pork butchers rejoiced and prepared to push the wished for legis-lation.

The horsement men had a card up their sleeves, however, and commenced adding a little flour to their sausage meat. When the lodated water was applied contact with the starch of the our immediately produced a brilliant blue, which effectually masked all traces of any other color. This blue, of course, would point to the likelihood of horsemeat being present, but it could not be sworn to. Supposing the meat to be pure beef and the flour added, the blue would be the same when the test was applied.

The chemists again went to work and discovered that if the starch was separated by maceration and subsequent filtration, and the residue treated with two or three chemicals, the horsement would be detected. So far the victory rests with the chemists, and the law will probably be passed unless the horsement men make another discovery. In 1802 20,000 horses were slaughtered in Paris, three-fourths of which went into sausages, so that the importance of the industry may be real-

Fame of the American clock.

"The click of the American clock is heard around the world," says an Euglish newspaper. We sell clocks to the value of nearly $1,500,000 yearly in the markets of the world. England is the largest buyer, taking almost one-haif of that amount. We export directly to every country in the world but Turkey, Switzerland and Roumania. In Australia, China and Japan we have hardly any rivals in the clock trade Not only are our clocks the best timekeepers in the world, but they exist in very great variety. Every sort of material is used-glass, ivory, pearl, plush marble, metal, paint, porcelain. All sorts of devices are attached for special purposes. Clock making and hat making are two original Yankee industries. In the latter we have not kept pace with some other countries, but in clocks we lead the world.

ALL LINES IMPROVING

Recent Bettering of Crop Conditions the Chief Feature.

R. G. Dun & Co's., weekly review of trade enve:

It is no longer a question whether business improves. Not for a long time have our reports from all parts of the country been so uniformely favorable. The daily average of bank clearings in June is 24.8 per cent larger than last year, though 11.4 per cent less than in 1892. The most potent influence has been receipts of more lavorable advices regarding growing crops. Labor troubles are getting out of the way, wages in many establishments are rising, and with the iron industry just now leading, there is general improvement in manufactures. Monetary condition also helps. The time draws near when, with good crops, exports will bring gold hither, and though foreign operations in stocks and bonds have been insignificant this week, the effect of previous transaction has not been exhausted. Much diminished receipts of money from the interior indicate better employment in business, especially in the West, and the volume of commercial loans steadily rise, and is now fair for this smacon even in a good year. improves. Not for a long time have our re-loans steadily rise, and is now fair for this season even in a good year.

Western receipts for two weeks in June were 3,116,650 bushels of wheat, against 3,061,202 last year, while Atlantic exports, flour included, were only 3,364,847 bushels, against 4,630,227 last year. Effects of the rise in prices were seen in the official report of May exports, showing a decrease of 1,000,000 bushels from Atlantic but an increase of 2,000,000 from Pacific on export. The price was reduced 21/2c in trading. Corn also declined about 1c with better reports of growth.

Tu. A firm policy is now more than ever neuessary.

The following cablegram from Rev. J. R. Hykes, at Shanghai, has been received at the office of the Methodist missionary society in New York: "Property at Cheng-Tu destroyed. Missionaries all sale." "These advices," said Dr. Baldwin, the recording secretary of the society, "are official and while confirming reports of property loss, should set at rest the rumors of the massacre of the missionaries."

Will Make China Pay.

The confirmation of reports that American missionary property has been destroyed, makes it probable that the United States government will require China to make suitable indemnity, when the facts are officially established. A precedent for such recompense was made when the United States paid China a considerable amount for mob depredations on Chinese in the far northwest. The reports of losses to mission propery in China vary. It is said that the indemnity asked will cover not only the actual damage and loss to the American missionaries, but also a punitive sum, as recompense for the indignity suffered.

Mummies Make Good Onion Manure. In view of the fact that Egypt was once the center of civilization and learning, whence science radiated to every corner of the globe, vestiges of Egyptian lore being found even in this hemisphere, it is somewhat painful to think that the only item which the land of the Pharaohs now contrib utes to the world is onions, which are being shipped in huge quantities to the United States. And to make matters worse, we are informed that the popular "baell," as the Egyptian onion is called, owes its fine flavor as well as its size to the fact that the fields in which it is grown are fertilized with the powdered mummles of the sages who flourished on the banks of the Nile 3,000 and 4,000 years ago.-New York Tribune.
