Some of the papers have already commenced to poke fun at the "sweet girl graduate." One of them tells how she described the way in which a goat butted a boy out of the front yard: "He hurled the previous end of his anatomy against the boy's afterward with an earnestness and velocity which backed by the ponderosity of the goat's avoirdupois, impaired a momentum that was not relaxed until he landed on terra firma beyond the pale of the goat's jurisdiction.

The quantity of pepper, particularly red pepper, that is consumed by the natives of teopleal countries will be deemed incredible to people who live in more temperate regions, but there is a physiological reason for the use of these sharp condiments. The use of red pepper in the tropies braces up the digestive organs when impaired and relaxed by the great heat. In other words, pepper is nature's tonic against hot weather, and the more liberal use of it in the summer time might be beneficial even to the natives of temperate

Mrs. F. B. Thurber, in an article in the July number of the Demorest Magazinc on "Is Fourth of July Celebrated Patriotically," says: American patriotism possibly has been declining,-I am not certain. However, I believe there is now a positive revival of a patriotic spirit among us, for I see it in many phases of our national life, especially in music. I believe that with the great reviving wave of patriotism in this country, music is at least to have its place. On Fourth of July, American melodies are played all over this land and in every country in which our Day of Independence is celebrated. We have already an American opera. We established an institution where a musical education, quite equal to any abroad, can be acquired; and I see, not far ahead, a school of musicians which shall be distinctively American, and which will be recognized as such by all the world.

It is not enough to "keep store" in these days, but, in order to keep your business going at a pace that your rival can't outstrip, you've got to let the public know what you are doing. You may know all about it yourself, you may know that you have the best store in town, equipped with every facility for doing business properly, and lots of other people may know it, too-they gradually find it out by telling one another-but the public don't know it, and won't know it, until their attention is sharply called to the fact by intelligent, forceful advertising. It is wonderful how the work of years can be accomplished in a few brief months by the right kind of publicity. Many a wide awake business man has been forced from obscurity into the tavorable notice of the public eye, and then kept there through each succeeding year as steady and strong as the sparkling stream that unites the vast ocean with its humble source in the distant hills,-Ex.

Let us never lose our faith in human nature, no matter how often deceived. Do not let the deceptions destroy confidence in the real honesty, goodness, generosity, humanity and friendship that exists in the world. Channey Depaw says: "I have lost twenty-five per cent, of all I have ever made in lending money and endorsing notes, and have incurred generally the enmity of those I have helped because I did not keep it up. But every once in a while there was somebody who did return in such full measure the credit for the help that was rendered, that faith was kept alive and the beauty and the goodness of our human nature were made evident I have appointed about a thousand men to office and employment which gave them the support and chance to climb to positions of greater responsibility and trust if they had the inclination and ability. About nine out of every ten of them throw stones at me because I did not do better for them, keep on pushing them; and yet there are a hundred or so who, by the exercise of their own ability, their own grasp of the situation, have gone on to the accomplishment of such high ambitions and successes, and have appreciated in so many ways the help extended to them by helping others, that again my faith in human nature remains ondiminished.
