A society for the suppression of scandal has been organized in the ancient city of Insterberg. What a blessing it would be if Reynoldsville had just such a society.

Dunbury, Conn., has a society of young women, with a membership of over four hundred, whose members are pledged not to marry any man who uses liquor. There is no human power that will bring young men over on the side of temperance any quicker than just that kind of a society. Reynoldsville should have such a society.

At the Populist State Convention held at Williamsport July 4th, the following nominations were made: State Treasurer, Geo. W. Dawson, of Beaver; Judges of Superior Court, W. C. Rhem, Franklin county; J. H. Stevenson, Pittsburg; J. B. Young, Beaver; J. W. Allison, Erie; D. C. Coughlin, Luzerne. Thompson was re-elected State Chairman.

A new form of money orders is to be issued. The changes are not material, although the new order will be a trifle smaller than the old. The assignment will be placed on the back, and the figures at the right side of the order will be duplicated on the back, so that the amount for which the order is drawn can be determined from an inspection on either side. The seal of the department will be noticed in the center of the order, being made in the tint of the paper.

The writer who said "the love of a mother is never exhausted," uttered an undeniable truth, if the mother has not had her affections paralyzed by the vice of this nation. A mother's love never changes; it never tires. A father may turn his back upon his child, brothers and sisters may become inveterate enemies, husbands may desert their wives—wives their husbands, but a mother's love endures through all; in good repute, in bad repute; in the face of the world's condemnation a mother still loves and still hopes that her child may turn from his evil ways and repent; still she remembers the infant smiles that filled her heart with rapture, the merry laugh, the joyful shout of childhood, the opening promise of his youth, and she can never be brought to think him unworthy.

Gov. Hastings vetoed the bill to prohibit peddling, selling or hawking of merchandise, wares or other goods without a license, and in so doing the Governor said: "This bill is severe in its provisions, and I am prompted to withhold my approval from the same because, first, it requires a license in every county in which sales are made and the giving of a bond in such county; and, secondly, because I believe its effect would be to legislate against the people of our own State and in favor of other States. I am of the opinion that it would be ineffective and inoperative as against persons, firms and corporations resident in other States and sending agents into this State to make sales of their merchandise, wares or other goods. The effect, therefore, would be that our own citizens would be required to pay heavy license charges in order to make sales of their goods in the various counties of the State, while those from other States would not be subject to the burden."

Prof. Boyesen defines love as follows: "Love is, to my mind, nothing but an enthusiastic congeniality of soul. It is a profound sense of a pervasive harmony of being. Its first symptom is not a physical attraction, but a delicious realization, on the part of each, of a strange consonance of nature. More than half its joy consists in the feeling of being completely understood in one's noblest potentialities. The lover is for a time what his beloved believes him to be; and she is what he believes her to be. What happy audacity of speech, what glorious heights of feeling, what rare flashes of insight, as the two chords go sounding together, in melodious embrace, reveling in each other's eloquence, charm and beauty! To be thus tuned up an octave above one's ordinary self, to feel the resonance of one's speech in a noble woman's soul, to receive one's thoughts back enriched and beautified by having passed through her mind, is about the highest benefit to which earth has to offer."

Is it Profitable?

EDITOR STAR:—A good cow is, without doubt, profitable in a family, and especially when you can get a rich pail of milk from her in the morning and then start her away from your door yard; it makes no difference if she is a trespasser on your neighbor's property. It is not an uncommon thing for the owner of property to spend a good part of his time chasing the cows out of his enclosure, but he must be gentle with them; open the gate and let them out without exciting them, for our "boss" don't jump or break fences. The cow comes home in the evening with another pail full of milk. The owner of the "boss" attended to his regular business through the day and his neighbor loses two or three hours running after gentle "boss" for which he does not even get thanks. There is not one man out of every twenty who owns a cow that has a place to keep one, and they are trespassing from the time they leave their own door yard in the morning until they return at night. If the property owner was bothered with them once in a while he could put up with it, but it is every day, especially through the summer months. It costs considerable to build fences and keep them in repairs year after year and we don't propose to build fences for other people's stock after this season. We propose that every person shall take care of their own stock hereafter, and, therefore, we give everybody due notice that they can prepare themselves for it.

"The rapid introduction of the American Silver Truss, and subsequent sale of them with gratifying success by the druggists, have demonstrated the fulfillment of all claims made for them by the company.
