

An independent local paper, published every Wednesday at Reynoldsville, Jefferson Co., Pa., devoted to the interests of Reynoldsville and Jefferson county. Non-political, will treat all with fairness, and will be especially friendly towards the laboring class.

Communications intended for publication must be accompanied by the writer's name, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Interesting news items solicited. Advertising rates made known on application at the office in Arnold block.

Lengthy communications and change of advertisements should reach this office by Monday noon. Address all communications to C. A. Stephenson, Reynoldsville, Pa. Entered at the postoffice at Reynoldsville, Pa., as second class matter.

A total eclipse of the moon will occur next month. It will be visible in the United States.

The gripe is no respecter of persons. The editor of the New Bethlehem Vindicator had a tussle with the disease last week.

The Clearfield Spirit said: "Do unto the newspaper reporters as you would have them do unto you" is the new golden rule which is gaining favor right along.

The editor can always write more cheerfully of the business interests of a town when his columns are liberally filled with the advertisements of the business houses. No editor can advocate the doctrine of buying from home merchants unless the home merchants show they are interested in entering to the home trade by advertising in the columns of the local newspaper. It is depressing to the editor to find business men patronizing every advertising fake that comes along, and at the same time the name of those business men are rarely, if ever, seen in the advertising columns of the local newspaper.—Patton Courier. Right you are, Bro. Green.

There are entirely too many people in Reynoldsville who go out into the farming section during the summer months and club and stone trees, enter orchards and fields, little caring what the owner may think or say about it. For the benefit of such people we publish the law passed by the last Legislature about such conduct, so if found guilty they cannot plead ignorance. The law states: "That any person or persons who shall wilfully enter or break down, through or over any field, orchard, garden or yard fence, hot-bed or greenhouse, who shall wrongfully club, stone, cut, break, bark or otherwise mutilate or damage any field crop, nut, fruit or ornamental tree, shrub, bush, plant or vine, trellis, arbor, hot-bed, hot or greenhouse, or who shall trample or in any wise injure any grain, corn, rye, wheat or any field crop, fruit or vegetable plants, nuts, berries or any fruit or ornamental trees, vines or shrubs, whether the same be attached to the soil or not, shall be subject to a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars for each and every offense."

It has been said that every man has a "grand opportunity" once, and only once in a lifetime. If he embraces it he is on the road to success; if he suffers it to escape him, he may run after it till he is weary and his strength is spent, and even then it will elude him. To a certain extent this is true, but why do we run after lost opportunities? If we have lost the silken scarf, can we not be content with the woolen one? If we cannot be generals we can at least be soldiers. Every man cannot be famous; but every man can be great. If we cannot achieve fame for ourselves, we can help others on the road to it. A kindly smile and an encouraging word has smoothed many a rugged hill in the path to success, and raised many a flagging spirit and deepening energy. If we cannot attain success, we will prove some satisfaction to know we have attempted to gain it. And after all, we have something more to live for than the praise of men. If we can truly feel at the end of life's journey that we have left the world a little better and brighter for our having lived in it, we need not regret that our names are not placed upon the scroll of fame.

The following law, which was passed by the last Legislature, is of importance to the different school boards and may be new to some of the readers of THE STAR: "The boards of school directors and controls of each school district of this Commonwealth, be and they are hereby required at least once during each full school term and prior to the first of January of each year, and within thirty days after the close of each annual school term, to have taken out, removed and hauled away all excrement and waste matter from every outhouse or water closet connected with or standing upon the premises of every public school house in the Commonwealth, or have the same properly disinfected, and they are required to have every outhouse or water closet scrubbed, washed out and cleaned, the inside walls white washed, and the vaults or receptacles covered with a layer of fresh dirt or slacked lime within ten days of the opening of each annual school term. That the president of each board of school directors or controllers is required each year to certify, in the regular form provided for that purpose, that the requirements of this Act have been fully carried out before the district can draw its annual appropriation from the State."

Royal Arcanum and What It Is.

Death 10,914 B. C. 105,072 Order 10,914 $3,000. The Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum. Boston, August 3, 1895. Pay to the order of Matilda Hickinges, widow of the late John Hickinges, three thousand dollars on account of the death of said John Hickinges, late full rate member of Century Council No. 789 R. A., located at Reynoldsville, State of Pa., and charge to account of Widows and Orphans Benefit Fund. To E. A. Skinner, Supreme Treasurer, Westfield, N. Y. Accepted, payable at Farmers Deposit National Bank, Pittsburg, Pa. Supreme Treasurer, E. A. Skinner.

The above is a copy of the many answers sent out by the Royal Arcanum that should convince the doubting "Thomas" who question life insurance, and place evidence before those who scoff at "dying to win," that all people are not wrapped up in self. Death is a certainty for all—even to the man who insures property that never burns, or who will not insure himself for his family's benefit, but is willing to speculate in insurance on any member of his family for his own benefit. The wisdom of Bro. Flickinger in providing for his family is shown in the above amount, paid to his widow and orphans just thirty days after his funeral. The same amount will be paid in a few days to the widow of A. A. Jackson, who was superintendent of A. V. Ry at this place a few years ago.

The Royal Arcanum was organized with nine members nineteen years ago; now it has a membership of one hundred and seventy-one thousand. It is fraternal insurance founded on the latest and best features and business principles of all beneficiary orders; its main characteristics are, to unite fraternally all white men of sound bodily health and good moral standing, between the age of 21 and 55 years. Its Widow and Orphan Benefit Fund pays to beneficiaries three thousand dollars death of the member. A rigid medical examination, passing two examiners is required.

The initiation is short, business like, with no nonsense, or levity. When a member is disabled by sickness or accident, his dues and assessments are paid by the Council, and it is not necessary to plead poverty to obtain this benefit. The assessments are light compared with other insurance—age 21 to 22, one dollar; age 22 to 33, one dollar and fifty cents. The assessments are made 14 to 15 times each year and the assessment rate never increases with your age, always remaining same as at your entrance to order, averaging 7c. per day.

There are many older orders, but none better. Among the older founded on similar principles, is the Count de Winton Beneficiary Society, established in year 1138 under reign of Henry II. It has been in existence over 700 years. Next oldest is the Loyal Arcanum, organized in 1358, and is over 500 years old. There are nearly 1,000 fraternal and beneficial societies in England over 100 years old. The membership in one is 850,000. Over seven million people in England, one million in France insured in these societies.

By a short sermon Brother Taimage gives his earnest expression of insurance on life, using as his text "And let them gather all the food of those good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh."—Genesis xli, 35 verse. "And Pharaoh the king sent for Joseph to decipher his midnight dream. And Joseph said, let us take one fifth of the corn crop of the seven years of prosperity, and save it for the years there shall be no crop." The king took counsel and caused the farmers to pay in one fifth of their income as an assessment. The dark days came and all would have starved if it had not been for this wise provision for the future. "In the land of Egypt there was bread." This was a divinely organized association for the protection of all when the dark days would come. The Bible denounces all who provide not for the future, all who fail to provide for their families while they live
