IN THE RUINS OF POMPEIL.

Evidences of the Commonsess of Shavery Found on All Sides.

Evidences of the commonness of slav-ery in the time of PompeiPadestruction are abundant on all sides. The gla tors were a class of slaves trained for fighting, and some of the wall scrib-blings refer to their condition as one of slavery. Here is the translation of an advertisement painted on a wall near the amphitheater:

"Twenty pairs of gladiators, paid by Decimus Lacostins Soltins Valeus, prince in the time of Nero, the son of Cassar Augustus, and ten pairs of gladiators, paid by Decimus Lucretius, the son of Decimus Valcus, will fight at Pompeii on the 11th, 13th and 14th of April.

"There will be a proper hunting scene and the awnings will be spread. Written by Clev-Emilius Clev, writer of in-scriptions; wrote this by noonlight."

The gladiators' larracks were ample for the honsing of 2,000 or 3,000 men, and it is a matter of record that at least 2,000 were engaged at one time in the life or death combats which stretched over a long festival. The actors in these murderous sports were "barbarians" from various parts of Europe or from Asia Minor and Africa. In the Naples museum is a bronze col-har which was wern about the neek of a man whose skeleton was found in a Pompetian house cellar; on the cellar is engraved, in Latin, these words: "I am a slave. Arrest no because I am run-ning away." I could not help thinking while looking at this ingenious and ernel substitute for a convict's dress. that it was possible that the poor wretch who wore it may have been one of the descendants of the blond baired Britons layonght house by Julius Casar to grace his truncph 100 years before Pom-pell disappsared beneath its pail of fava and ashes

In the Gheezeh museum, Cairo, one may look upon the black and shriveled face of that Rammer whom we know as the Flurach of the Oppression. Mummics of other Egyptian kings, priests nud people ure common enough. These primeval men, who far antedated Pompeli and Rome, stand undecayed in our presence. Bat Pompell presents the pic-ture of an entire city resurrected from the dead, with all its appliances of life and means of pleasure, profit, comfort, luxary, vice and sustemance. The life is gone out forever, but the mummified city remains-a monument of human ingentity and human frailty .- New York Times.

Caseneuvo's Rival.

Although the French courts are conducted with more ceremony than our own, they are occasionally enlivened by amusing incidents.

Maitro Caseneuve, a famons advocate of Toulonse, now dead, had a pet dog, of which he was very foud. One day he ventured to take this dog, which was small, and named Azor, into court with him. He seated Azor at one end of the bench assigned to the counsel and began an argument.

Maitro Cascucuye had a high pitched voice, and as he warmed up with his plea he raised it to a loud tone. Azor could stand it no longer. He stood up on the bench and howled-wow! wow!

wow ! Maitro Caseneuvo moderated his volco and caffed the dog "aside," whereapon Azor subsided into allence. The lawyer argued on, and by and by, forgetting himself in his engestices, raised his voice once more to a high pitch and a lond tone.

"Wow! wow! wow!" howled the little dog ence mor

This time the lawyer stopped short, turned to the dog and eyed him severely. "See here, Azor," he said alond, "this can't go on. If you are arguing this case, you'd better do it alone, but if

AN ANCIENT BLOCKHOUSE.

The Bouquet Redoubt the Only One In Existence.

Here in Pennsylvania we find what is not in existence in the east or south ue of the original blockhouses built before the Revolution and still in a perfect state of preservation. All the others have disappeared. Forts Daquesne and Pitt are things of the past, but the redoubt of Colonel Bouquet stands today as it stood 130 years ago. To the Pitts-burg chapter of the Daughters of the Revolution we are indebted for its restoration. It has been owned by them since 1888. Until that year the old resionbt of Bouquet, as it is called, was occupied as a tenant house, and within its walls was born Pittsburg's local his-torian, the late Neville B. Craige, Esq. Down on "the point," on a narrow, dirty little street called Fort street, surrounded by tumbledown buildings nearly as old as itself, is a little five sided building of stone and brick crected by Colonel Bouquet in 1764 as a defense against the Indians. The lower story is of stone and the upper of brick. In both perforations or loopholes, through which the defenders could fire with comparative safety from the enemy.

Why this redoubt was erected has been a query to us, as but a short distance away stood Fort Piti, a work of considerable magnitude and whose creation cost the colony of Virginia, or the English government, £60,000, but the redoubt was built, as a stone slab over the door with the legend, "1764 oil. Bouquet," testifies. - Philadelphia Times.

Munich Street Lamps.

The method adopted in Munich for lighting street lamps from the outside without opening the lamp has proved quite satisfactory, the results, as em-merated, being to economize in flashlight gas, to enable the lamps to be lit in a storm, to shut off the main stopcock, to light Welsbach lamps without explosion, and to prevent the casting of shadows. As described, the main pipe communi-cates with a kindling pipe, which at one end comes to the outside of the lantern and at the other goes to the burner-this kindling p'pe being bored with fine holes, which make a row of flying flames leading from the outside to the burner; the main pipe and its counce tions, with the stopcock, are divided so as to enable gas to be supplied to the Eadling pipe and burner, and then to the burner alone. The lighting is done with the ordinary rod lamp, provided with an aperture at its end which receives the lower end of the kindling tube. When the lamplighter's pole is slipped into position, wind has no effect on the kindling operation.—New York San.

Queer Story About a Church.

In connect a with the church of St. Raphael, where the marriage between Helene de France and the Duke of Aosta took place, there is a story not generally known. It was built with the money of a converted Jew named Raphael. Just after the building was completed Raphael had a dream that he would die within a week after the consecration of the place of worship. As a matter of course he endeavored to delay the consecration by fair and unfair means, un-til a priest, with the help of a licensed victualer from the neighborhood, who procured a bottle of absolutely pure wine, consecrated the edifice. Then he told Raphael, who took to his bed and died three days afterward .- Saturday Review.

A Rabbit on His Hand.

'O'Neal Patton, who at last accounts was a cattle rancher in Deaf, Smith county, Tex., has one of the oddest birthmarks that has ever been reported in the medical journals. Patton's mark, which has given him the nickname of had pain in the back, no appetite, and Rab, is a perfect figure of a rabbit on his left hand. The mark is slightly raised and is a perfect image of a rabbit, even to the, eves, cars, nose, mouth, feet, body a. 1 tail. In 1889 Mr. Patton visited Chicago with several carloads of stock from his ranch, and while there the museum men offered him a salary of $2,500 per year to exhibit the hand bearing the curious mark. The offer

NEEDED NO LAWYER.

Because He Did Not Want to Take Advantage of the State.

Judge Jim Griggs was reminded of a story by the passing of an electric car and began :

"One of the funniest things that ever happened during my connection with the Georgia judiciary was when I was first elected solicitor. "The demands of my position frequently put me in the attitude of prose-cuting a friend. It was hard, but I did

"An ex-shoriff of a county in my cir-cuit—a fellow that I had known and liked for a long while-was prosecuted for making away with some money. It was an ugly charge. The evidence was conclusive against him. "When I went down to court, he came staggering into my room about two-thirds drunk. 'Jim,' he said, 'these in-fermal scoundrels are trying to prosecute me-perfect outrage. I told 'em just wait till I saw Jim Griggs, and we'd fix it—I told 'cm we'd let 'em know who to prosecute. And we will. Won't we, Jim?' "I looked at him very gravely, and said : 'Tom, I've got a dead case against you, I'm going to prosecute you, convict you and send you to the penitentiary. You are guilty. You got the money, and I've got the evidence to prove it.

'He looked at me in perfect amazement. He was dumfounded. He said I didn't mean it. I told him I did. He straightened himself up and marched out without a word.

"His case was the first one called after dinner. The judge asked him if he had any counsel. He said no and didn't want any. He spoke in a half dranken fashion. 'But,' said the judge, 'you are charged here with a serious offense, and if you have no money to employ a lawyer I'll appoint one for you.' "The defendant didn't like it. He arose with difficulty. He steadied him-self against a table, and speaking in a maudlin fashion said :

"'Yer honor, I said I don't want no counsel, and I don't want none. I meant what I said. I don't want-hie-take no 'vantage of ze state. State ain't got no counsel - what der I want with any?" "-Atlanta Constitution.

"Old Kentucky Home" is the twen-fieth song in Fester's book of plantation melodics, though when and under what circumstances it was composed cannot be exactly stated One writer on musical enrice says that it was suggested by an allusion that Foster heard a slave make to his former home in the Blue Grass State

The Color In Irish Ferse.

Of course there is no deficiency of local color in such a book. We hear much of the "Suggarth aroon," the "Tubber-na-Scorney," the "Cushla Macree" and na-Scorney," the "Cushia Macree" and other things pre-eminently Irish. Now, the "Suggarth aroon" is a capital fish, especially when served with "sance Hollandaise," and all the world knows that the "Tubber-na-Scorney" is one of the most picturesque of ancient sym-bolic Irish customs. Still the merely Saxon reader, who is not familiar with the Irish language, is sometimes "maire the Irish language, is sometimes "maire bhan astorred" when he comes across a bhan astorred" when he comes across a poem plentifully sprinkled with Irish expressions, with the exception, of course, of such a universally understood remark as "Begorrah," or that touching phrase of endearment, "Faugh a bal-lagh."—W. L. Alden in Idler.

Galveston Streets.

The streets of Galveston are not mere ly lettered like those of Washington, but in Galveston they name some of the streets with half letters. This produces such an astonishing system that one reads on the carts that milk can be had on P-and-a-half street and eggs are for sale between N and N-and-a-half. For sale between N and N-and-a-half. Make Clothing For Dogs.

It is well known that there are dentists in London and in Paris whose specialty it is to fit lapdogs with a set of false teeth. It now appears from a Parisian monthly magazine of fashions that there are tailors and fashion plates for dogs. The list of garments includes mackintoshes, Jaeger vests, comforters and respirators, side pockets with a lace handkerchief inside, fur collars, small silk umbrellas, which dogs are taught to carry over the head.—Chicago Tribune.
