The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hood's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hood's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: W. C. The cleaning of men's straw hats, says the New York Mail and Express, by means of a whirling wheel, soap, water, brushes and hot irons, is spreading to all parts of the city, and where there were only a few places downtown early in the summer they can now be found on most of the busy business avenues and streets as far north as 125th street.

An item of Rubinstein's will set aside a sum of money the interest of which, after accumulating five years, was to form a prize for the best piano concerto, a condition of the bequest being that it should be performed for the first time in public by the composer himself. Waterford is almost the only town in Connecticut that, after calling a meeting to vote on taking advantage of the law for improving highways, has decided against going on with the work. The meeting was held Wednesday and several speeches in favor of road building were made, but the sentiment of the meeting was the other way and the proposition was voted down by an overwhelming majority.

John Norton, who is 93 years old, has lived all his life in his house near Compo Lake, Connecticut, and, although he has been in sight of both the Northampton Division of the Consolidated and of the New England Railroad, never rode in a car of any kind until recently. The old gentleman is hale and hearty, with all of his faculties keen and alert, and has a good prospect of living to be 100. He seemed to enjoy his ride very much.

A mortgage was put on record against the First Baptist Church of Cincinnati. It is in favor of Rev. C. Lockwood, who is about to retire from the pastorate, and his wife. The church owes Mr. Lockwood $1,000 salary, and Mrs. Lockwood the same amount, as money borrowed for some church improvements. The mortgage is to secure these amounts. This church is the oldest one of the denomination in Cincinnati.

The "agricultural ants" of Sonora, Mexico, are said to plant fields of grain and regularly harvest their crops, upon which they depend wholly for food. In fact, should the crops fail, they would perish of famine. On the other hand, the cereals that they grow have been specialized by cultivation, like the wheat and other grains of the human husbandman, and, it is stated, would quickly disappear if the insects neglected to attend to them.

It is not generally known that the young flat fish have an eye on each side of the body, and that it is only in the adult stage that the eyes are both on one side. There has been much discussion among scientific men as to the mode in which the change takes place, but in the flounder the eye has been observed to travel over the ridge of the head, while in some other fish it passes directly through the soft tissue of the young fish to the other side.

A remarkable coincidence is noted in the family of Mrs. Matilda Craig, who lives near Sand Hill, Ky. She is the oldest child of a family of twelve children. Her mother was the youngest child of a dozen children. Mrs. Craig is the mother of twelve children. Each of these families had a pair of twins. Mrs. Craig was born May 3, 1828, and was married on the 3d of May. If she lives until the 3d of next May she and her husband will celebrate their golden wedding.

Paul Kreuper, of South Bend, Ind., retiring township trustee, upon cashing up his accounts, found himself $5,000 short, and, without waiting for a re-examination, and nearly crazy with excitement, he notified some of his bondsmen, and there was the mischief to pay. The deputy county auditor found Kreuper toying with a revolver and well-nigh distracted, and the deputy sent him home and called in an expert. A re-examination demonstrated that not only was there no shortage, but a balance was due to Mr. Kreuper.

She was removed to the Amityville hospital, and in a short while grew worse. She was then brought to her father's house here. A few days ago Miss Remsen tried to assault her mother. Then it was decided to remove the unfortunate girl to Bloomingdale.

CABALLERO'S AIR-SHIP.

Description of the Newest Device for Navigating the Upper Air.

The invention shown in the accompanying illustration is described in the Scientific American as follows:
Among the many efforts constantly being made to construct a vessel which will be able to travel and carry passengers through the air, those which depend largely upon the use of the aeroplane for their support in motion, and for making use of the air currents to the best advantage, seem to have of late attracted the most attention. An air vessel of this class is shown in the accompanying illustration, and forms the subject of a patent recently issued to Estanislao Caballero de los Olivos, New York city.

In a suitable light, but strongly made, basket or car is carried the best obtainable type of engine for operating sustaining screws on the upper ends of shafts journaled in a light framework, to which is pivoted an elongated ring surrounding the screws. To the latter ring is pivoted, in a manner to form a universal joint, an aeroplane, which may be inclined in any direction relative to the sustaining screws, and held adjusted in the position desired, by means of ropes or equivalent means, the aeroplane having a central opening of sufficient size to allow it to be so inclined without impinging upon the framework or the screws.

The ascent and descent of the vessel are designed to be controlled by the operation of the screws, and when the aeroplane is set at an inclination to the plane of the screws, the reaction of the air striking the inclined surface causes a forward movement in the direction of the highest point of the aeroplane if the vessel is ascending, and in the opposite direction if the vessel is descending, the direction being changed or reversed without altering the speed of the engine or the position of the screws.

A Curious Custom in Alaska.

A fact remarkable to our civilized women is the one that Alaska squaws make their ages public. They wear a piece of wood or bone in the lower lip the size of the ornament indicating the age of the owner. When a girl marries her lower lip is pierced and a peg of wood or a piece of bone the size of a pea inserted. As she grows older this is increased in size until it is almost as wide as her chin, and one-fourth of an inch high. The result is naturally most unsightly. There is an interesting family at Fort Wrangel, which illustrates perfectly this peculiar custom. It includes four generations. A young girl may be seen sitting at one side of the one-roomed square house, while her mother, grandmother and great grandmother are squatted on the earth in floor near the door, offering mats and baskets to the ship's passengers who come on shore. There is no disfiguring ornament on the girl's chin but there is a big one on the lip of the great-grandmother.—Chicago Tribune.

It is only eternal vigilance that is worth anything in protecting the public from improperly constructed buildings. When Buddensiek was convicted and punished in New York it was assumed that the public had heard the last of building collapses; but the fall of the building at West Broadway and Third street shows apparently that building inspection has again become lax, and that builders or contractors are availing themselves of the laxity.

A sycamore tree believed to be 400 years old was recently felled at Los Angeles, Cal. It measured twenty-two feet in circumference and was 125 feet high.

A Canton (Conn.) dog undertook to do up a porcupine that he met in the course of his wanderings. It took half an hour to get all the quills out of him afterwards.

The word "forest," as applied to Rannoch Moor, Breadalbane's famous Black Mount deer forest and many another in Great Britain where no tree now grows, is merely a survival. On Rannoch Moor there are still plenty of the roots bedded in the peat.

The Big Muddy, as the Missouri is called by the Indians, justified its name the other day when it was filled with what was graphically described as "fifty miles of dead fishes," which it is supposed were washed out of the smaller streams by the floods and were unable to live in the soup-like water of the Missouri.

The longest, largest and most expensive railway bridge in Continental Europe, which, of course, excludes those of Great Britain, is that across the River Vistula, between Forde, in Prussian Poland, and Culmsee, in Germany. It was opened for traffic in December, 1893, and is 1450 yards in length. It was begun in 1889, and cost 8,000,000 marks, exclusive of the piers.

Richelieu's skull has been put back in its tomb in the Church of Sorbonne, Paris, and the cavity near by where it was buried when stolen during the revolution was sealed up with great ceremony the other day in the presence of M. Hanotaux, Minister of Foreign Affairs; of the director of the Beaux Arts, the vice-rector of the Academie, and the Princess of Monaco, representing the family.

Gigantic remains of elephants have been found in a new railroad cutting in the department of the Charente, France. Besides two tusks, one of the extraordinary length of 9 feet, there are elephants' molars and bones, remains of mammoths, teeth of rhinoceros, bison, and hippopotamus, and a large number of flint implements. The discovery of human relics with remains of such antiquity is very unusual.

Brick Work Built to Stay.

In demolishing a part of the Albert warehouses in Liverpool it occurred to the assistant engineer in charge of the work to make some investigations into the strength of the old brick work. The wall was built about fifty years ago of hand-made bricks, laid in ground mortar made with Flintshire lime. This lime is in a high degree hydraulic and has a reputation of making mortar of exceptionally good quality.

The engineer conceived the happy thought of leaving a piece of it in the form of a horizontal beam having a twelve-foot span and measuring about two feet square in section, seven courses in the height of a two-foot wall. The ends of the beams were not cut free from the rest of the work.

A centrally placed load of five tons fifteen hundred-weight was then gradually piled upon it, and was borne for several days without apparent effect upon the brickwork. Finally the weight was increased to 6½ tons, which was sustained for thirty hours, when the beam collapsed during the night and came down in pieces more like broken timber than anything else. Other tests were made with similarly astonishing results, but the above are sufficient to show what really first-rate brickwork in hydraulic lime will stand.—London Chronicle.

School Lunches.

"And then their foot!—healthy boys and girls need plenty of food, but it must be of the right kind, and while denying them many sweets it requires much thought and careful planning to provide a variety of wholesome food so that they will not tire of it. I think a child's desire for unwholesome foods can almost always be overcome by frequent changes in the regular diet.

"I try to have a little different luncheon for them to carry every day, in which is always included a bottle of milk when the weather is not too hot; bread sandwiches, filled with meats chopped fine, scrambled egg, cheese or fruits, are always the basis of the luncheon, with a little jar of fruit of some kind, or apples or oranges, or bananas, something of the kind with cookies for dessert, instead of the cold pie so often found in children's lunch baskets. I find, too, that children are very fond of the English biscuits that you can get in tin boxes at any grocery, now, and they afford a pleasant change from the regular 'cookies.'"—Womankind.

STOMACH AND HEAD PAINS.

A REMEDY.
Women Are Subject to Both, on Account of Tight Lacing.

From the Evening News, New York, N. Y.
One of the happiest women in this city is Mrs. George G. Boiss, of 29 Montgomery Street.

"No one to look at me now," said Mrs. Boiss to a reporter, "would think for a moment that I was so ill that the doctors said I could not possibly be saved. About three years ago I began to suffer from terrible pains in my stomach and it was almost impossible for me to do any work. Then I had severe headaches that almost distracted me and altogether I was in a very sad condition. Of course I wanted to be well again, and like most people in such cases, I consulted a doctor, spent money for medicine and took it faithfully. To my infinite regret I got no better, and another doctor was called in. More medicine was prescribed and this I took, but it did no good. Those terrible pains continued to make life miserable for me. The doctors blandly told me that I could not be cured entirely, if at all. Pleasant news, wasn't it? Well, I continued to work about the house here and suffered untold agonies. I did not give up hope but did all I could to relieve my misery. Nothing gave me any relief, however, and I had begun to think that my hope must be abandoned, when, in reading the Evening News, I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised. The printed testimonial coming from a resident of this city led me to believe that I, too, might be benefited by these pills and, without some misgivings I bought a box of them.

"Almost as soon as I began to take them I felt relieved and the first marked indication of improvement was when that tired, weary, do-no-more feeling disappeared. This was in itself something to be grateful for, but other and more pleasing results followed after I had taken more of the pills. My headaches ceased entirely and the pain in my stomach troubled me no more. Now once in a great while I have an occasional ache or a pain, but I know the cure. Out comes the Pink Pills, and after taking one or two of them, away the pain goes. It all seems so good to me that at times I can scarcely believe that it can be true and yet I know that it is. I had not used these Pink Pills I would still be suffering agony such as few people do in this world."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, scurvy, neuritis, rheumatism, nervous weakness, the after effect of influenza, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—these are never sold in bulk, or by the 100) by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

The Conscientious Elder.
The late Duke of Hamilton, during the races at Hamilton some years ago, invited certain tenant farmers to the palace to witness the sports. Among those who came were some elders of the kirk, and one who held a similar office in the Free Church. After the races were over the duke asked the Free Church elder how he had enjoyed himself. "Grand, your grace, just grand; an' I've won some bits o' bawbees, too, but dinna let on to onybody, for I'm an elder." "Tut, never mind that," said the duke. "So-and-so and So-and-so have been betting, too, and they are elders." "Oh, ay; they are elders, nae doot; but they are Auld kirk elders, an' they're no' nearly so strict about their duties as us Free Church folk."

borrowing from health.

If you have borrowed from health to satisfy the demands of business, if your blood is not getting that constant supply of fat from your food it should have, you must pay back from somewhere, and the somewhere will be from the fat stored up in the body.

The sign of this borrowing is thinness; the result, nerve-waste. You need fat to keep the blood in health unless you want to live with no reserve force—live from hand to mouth.

AN UPRIGHT MAN

There is certainly some slight feeling of humiliation in being bent down and obliged to creep along for fear of a snap in the spinal column. It is such a plain show of decrepitude that we feel embarrassed. It is seen every day when Jimboose takes a good hold on a stick in the back. There is a very little sympathy for one in such a plight, for it is so well known that St. Jacobs Oil will cure it promptly and that neglect is the cause of so much disability. Why not keep the remedy always on hand and prevent such discomfort.

A German Custom.
The custom of celebrating gold and silver weddings belongs to Germany. The silver wedding occurred only on the twenty-fifth anniversary, and most people could celebrate that, but to be fifty years married was a sort of an event in a family. The house was quite covered with garlands, all the neighbors from far and near were assembled.
