Allen Brown, has purchased the Penfield Press from C. M. Chambers. The Press has been a good little paper and no doubt Mr. Brown, who is a practical printer, will keep up the present standing of the paper at least.

THE STAR, with a number of other exchanges, stated last week that the editor of the Falls Creek Herald was the proud father of twin boys. The editor of the Herald says one bald-headed baby came to his home.

Last Thursday evening was the time for the semi-annual inspection of the members of Hose Co. No. 1, and at that time all members of the company were supposed to be present dressed in uniform. There were nineteen out of the forty members present.

Wm. Williams, an old gentleman aged 84 years, died at the home of John Richards in West Reynoldsville last Thursday morning. Mr. Williams lived at Millport, Clearfield county, and took sick while visiting in West Reynoldsville. His remains were taken to Millport for burial.

The surviving members of the 105th Regiment who attend the tenth reunion of the "Wild Cats" in this place to-morrow can tell some thrilling stories of the "Siege of Yorktown," "battle of Fair Oaks," "Seven Days Battle," "Second battle of Bull Run," and of many other hard fought battles.

W. D. Deloe, a reporter on the Du-Bois Express who disappeared mysteriously several weeks ago, of which mention was made in THE STAR last week, is at the home of his parents in Washington, D. C. He arrived home in a dazed condition and claims that he don't know how he left DuBois.

The Mahoney team, attached to the meat wagon, on Saturday last playfully attempted to do the contortion act and enter the butcher shop, wagon and all. It is the universal opinion that they must have gotten a copy of last week's STAR, containing a description of the Chicago "horse beef" industry, which, playing upon their imagination, led them to investigation.

The Volunteer stated in its issue of last Wednesday that Dr. W. H. Slack, of Corsica, and Miss Lizzie Burris, of West Reynoldsville, would be married that day. The editor was either misinformed about the date of the wedding or the wedding day was postponed. If Dame Rumor is not a base prevarientor the time is not far distant when Dr. Slack will take unto himself a wife.

Elmer Watson died at seven o'clock yesterday morning after a ten-day tussle with typhoid fever. Funeral services will be held at his late home at 3.00 P.M. to-day, conducted by Rev. H. R. Johnson, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The interment will take place in Beulah cemetery. Elmer Watson, who was thirty-three years old, has lived in Reynoldsville for years. He was a brakeman on the R. & F. C. R'y. He leaves a wife and three children.

The A. V. R'y will run a cheap excursion over its line to Pittsburg to-day, but on account of the tenth reunion of the 105th Regiment at this place tomorrow many of our citizens will not take advantage of the cheap rates who would have done so had the rate now offered been given a week or two earlier. The rate from Reynoldsville to Pittsburg and return, including admission to Exposition, to-day is $2.65, tickets good until Saturday. This makes the railroad fare one cent a mile, just about what other roads leading into Pittsburg have been giving their patrons since the exposition first opened. Dillis Caldwell, aged about twenty years, son of Mrs. Isabella Caldwell who resides on a farm near Sandy Valley, died suddenly at noon on Monday of this week from a hemorrhage. Consumption was sapping the young man's life away, but his friends did not think the end was so near. The young man had a hard attack of coughing which brought on a hemorrhage. Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Caldwell at 10.00 A. M. to-day, conducted by Rev. Buzza, M. E. pastor of the Sandy Valley charge. The remains will be interred in the Beechwoods cemetery. This makes the sixth nember of Mrs. Caldwell's family who as died from consumption.

Cow With Five Legs.

"Oklahoma Jim" of Brookville was in Reynoldsville Monday with a cow that has five legs. Jim keeps a blanket on the cow and uncovers the animal for exhibition when he is sure there is money in it for him. The fifth leg is a small one and is on the cow's left shoulder. "Oklahoma" would rather be in the show business than do anything else, even to driving a cow-freak through the country.

Don't Get Alarmed.

At the regular meeting of Hose Co. No. 1 last Thursday evening it was decided that hereafter on regular meeting nights of the Fire Co.-which is the second Thursday of each month—that eight slow taps of the fire bell will be sounded at 8.00, 8.05 and 8.10 P. M. to call the firemen to the meeting. If the people of Reynoldsville remember this notice they will not get alarmed when the firemen's call is given.

Send in a Dollar. A Reynoldsville poet came into our sanctum one day last week and started his poetleal machine and the following two verses were the outcome.

She is Known.

There has been much talk in Reynoldsville the past ten days about a woman parading the streets at night dressed in black with a black veil over her face. Many and various stories were told about her lifting men's hats looking for a man with a sear in his forehead, drawing knives and revolvers at people, chasing women and doing other things that led the timid to look upon her as a person they had no desire to meet after the earth was covered with darkness. A thorough investigation was made but the reports would not hold good when the people whom the mysterious woman had molested were requested to tell the truth. A woman had been walking the streets but she did so without molesting or interferring with any one. She is of a nervous disposition and wanders the streets for the want of something better

Night Watchman

In the minutes of the town council published last week mention was made of the fact that the business men wanted a night watchman put on, the borough to pay half the monthly wages of the watchman and the business men pay the other half. Council did not accept the proposition and the business men succeeded in getting the subscription increased to a sufficient amount to pay a watchman and Frank P. Adelsperger was hired. He goes on duty at 8.00 P. M. and keeps his hawk eye open for evil doers all night. His beat is between Third and Fifth streets. The business men have made a good choice in putting Mr. Adelsperger on as watchman. There is an old saying that "you can't tell by the appearance of a toad how far it can hop," neither can strangers tell by looking at Adelsperger what a wiery fellow he is nor his boldss where duty demands it, and people who are out for mischief and don't want to get "pulled in" had better get in the dark places until Adlesperger passes by.

A Small Riot.

A dozen or more Italians made things lively on East Main street between eight and nine o'clock last Friday evening. As near as we can learn the Ikes had been drinking beer until they were pretty well "boozed" and got to quarrelling among themselves and became very boisterous. John Brennen has opened a meat shop opposite the Burns House and the Ikes smashed in a front window of the meat shop. By this time it looked very much as if a young riot was being sprung upon the people of that end of town. Councilman Robertson called upon the citizens standing around to help squelch the disturbance. In the excitement of the moment and under the influence of strong drink one shade tree was destroyed to furnish clubs for the lawless gang of foreigners. It took courage for a citizen to step in among a lot of drunken Ikes, who were well armed with knives, razors, revolvers and clubs, to try to quiet them. There were enough brave men in that section of town to restore peace and quietness, although some of them did not escape without getting hurt. One man was hit back of the right ear with a club and another one was hit on the right arm. These two citizens were holding a wild Ike and tying his arms to his body so they could keep him a prisoner, when two of his fellow countrymen used clubs as above stated. Only six of the Italian rioters were arrested for the fracas and they paid seven dollars apiece for their sport. It is too bad all of the participants were not captured and charged with riot and sent to the "pen," or at least fined to the full extent of the law. These fellows should be taught in no mild manner that they cannot indulge in such pass time on the public thoroughfares of this town and escape to their huts without paying well for their uncivilized

Don'ts for the School Room.

Don't be in a hurry when studying your lessons; make haste slowly, bearing in mind that "the more haste the less speed" and that one-half page thoroughly learned is worth one dozen hastily skimmed over. Whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well.

Don't imagine for a moment that you know it all:" don't forget that "the best part of our knowledge is where knowledge leaves off and ignorance begins."

Don't scowl and frown when your teacher corrects you. His duties are pnerous and ill-paid and he is laboring for your advancement, and by being obedient you aid in making his labors a

Don't copy. It is yourself you are deceiving, not your teacher. You might as well have one of your classmates eat your dinner for you and expect to derive the benefit therefrom as to expect to be benefited by copying another's work; be independent and selfreliant and success will crown your

Don't be lazy. Remember that school hours are for school duties only. The plow most used is the brighter, and the mind must be active to be bright. "The firefly shines only when on the wing, so it is with the mind, when once we rest we darken.

Don't be supercilious or overbearing. Remember that God hasn't given all the same talents and we with the brighter minds should be charitable to those of ess active brains. Don't be proud, haughty and arrogant, and look down upon your less fortunate neighbor, simply because he or she is dressed in plainer raiment than you. Don't judge a man by the coat he wears," for "there's many an honest heart beats beneath a ragged coat:" then despise them not. Remember that Garffeld, Lincoln and many others, the brightest stars in the educational and political world, were once barefooted boys, humble both in spirit and surroundings.

Don't be slovenly. Remember that deanliness is a virtue and next to godliness. Don't come into the school room with hair uncombed, carelessly dressed or shoes unpolished. Be tidy with your books, desk, &c., as well as with your person. Don't litter the floor with scraps of paper, but take as much care of the school room as you would of your own parlor. Remember that as "a man is judged by the company he keeps," so is a pupil's home judged by his conduct in the school room.

Don't be rude or boisterous and abuse the smaller pupils simply because you are the stronger. "Do as you would be done by" and forget not that cruelty belongs to the brute and that a cruel boy will assuredly develop into a cruel man. Be gentlemanly and polite; they cost you nothing and are a source of pleasure to yourself and schoolmates.

In conclusion, don't forget that now is the time to take advantage of your opportunities. Don't leave any task off for the future. "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do to-day." Time once lost can never be regained. Then each day add to your store of knowledge and garner in the golden grains while the harvest is at hand. If you neglect it now, when your school days are past you will bitterly regret it as thousands have done before you. Then don't.

DRIFTING WITH THE TIED.

Rev. Parley P. Womer and Miss Verna Bing Married.

Rev. Parley Paul Womer, B. D., an erstwhile Reynoldsville young man who spent his youthful days in this place: who is a graduate of the Delaware (Ohio) University, and who graduated in a three years' course at Yale University in May, now pastor of a wealthy Congregational church at Somersville, Conn., believed with the poet who said:

Tis well to woo, 'Tis well to wed, For so the world has done Since myrtle grew and roses blew And morning brought the sun.

And to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that he believes it "tis well to wed," at 4.00 P. M. on Wednesday, Oct. 9th, at the home of the bride's parents on Grant street, he led Miss Verna Edith Bing to hymen's altar and plighted vows that yoked the two lives together as one. Rev. J. W. Crawford, pastor of the M. E. church of this place, tied the nuptial knot.

The bride, who is the handsome, accomplished and only daughter of Andrew T. Bing, the dry goods merchant of this place, was arrayed in a white silk dress, trimmed with pearl garniture and lace, and carried a beautiful boquet of flowers. To say that she looked as pretty as a picture would be but giving utterance to the truth. We do not blame Rev. Womer for being smitten with the charms and beauty of the now Mrs. Womer.

The marriage ceremony was solemnized in the presence of a few relatives and close friends of the contracting parties. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and smilax, and the house was filled with sweet perfume from the flowers that had been plucked from the parent stems for this especial occasion. After hearty congratulations a dinner, that was a feast for the loner man, was served, and if ye editor wanted to be personal, the names of a few people could be mentioned who enjoyed the good things immensely.

The wedding presents were numerous, valuable, ornamental and useful.

The newly wedded pair were driven to the A. V. R'y station behind a span of flery gray nags in time to catch the 6.57 P. M. train, eastward bound, for their new home at Somersville. Rev. Womer had a house already furnished and the young people expected to be in their own home Thursday. A large crowd of the best young people of Reynoldsville gathered at the station to offer congratulations, to throw rice, and wish Parley and Verna all the success attainable as they journey life's pathway together.

This couple, start out in life with the brightest of prospects before them. If Rev. Mr. Womer continues to grow intellectually he is destined to become a preacher who will not only do a great work in the Master's Vineyard, but will not for himself a reputation that he and s friends will have reason to be proud of. The young bride is highly esteemed by a host of Reynoldsville peo ple who wish her happiness continuosly.

Then scatter rice and fling the shoe, With friends you are surrounded; Therefore, Miss Verm "Bing" its you, We wish you joy unbounded.

Don't "Parley" much but hold your own, Time's wasted in replaing. Remember that life's clouds, though dark, Have always sliver lining.

We wish you loy, long life and wealth, Most charming Verna Edith. He faithful to your husband and Still follow where he lendeth. When Rev. Womer and wife arrived at Somersville Thursday evening they found their house warm, lamps lighted and an excellent supper on the table for them, but there was no one to be found in the house. Besides a good supper they found numerous valuable presents from members of Rev. Womer's congrecation.
