TRADE REVIEW.

Lower Prices in Iron Have Resulted Some Important Contracts.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their "Weekly Beview of Trade," says: Failures in October thus far show liabilities of $7,624,532,of which $3,938,-175 were of manufacturing and $3,621,556 of trading concerns. In 1803 failures the same week were $15,072,929. Failures this are 231 in the United S ates, against 231 last year. Already lower prices in iron have brought out some important contracts. Labor diffi-culties, though including a strike of many Pennsylvania coal miners, who do not seem to be succeeding, are on the whole of no serious importance. Money markets cause remarkably little frouble, considering the heavy movement of products. Coeler weather has generally helped rotali trade, and with in-creased consumption by the millions, the way will be clear for better business. Iron boasts some good contracts this week, one from Russia for several months' produc-tion of armor plate by the Carnegie works, one for government appraisers' stores here and others for 2,050 freight cars, with pros-pet of as many more. Bessener pig ad-vances, but inhese products on the whole decime as much, other pig fron not rising. show liabilities of $7,624,532,of which $3,938,- vances, but linkshed products on the whole decline as much, other pig iron not rising. It is too late in the season for good business in structural forms or pipes, and tank steel is lower, with sheets weaker. Halls to October 1, 1.570,000 tons delivered and 709,000 tons sold, make a pitiful record for works which have turned out over 2,000,000 tons in a year, but this only renders more surprising the in-crease in other uses of iron.

Worther tin plate works will take 000,000, 0.0 pounds of steel this year, as the latest official report indicated, will depend on prices, and sales of coke below the intest es-tablished prices are noticed, with the intrast traduction or second. The the intest established prices are noticed, with the inruest production on record. Textile minutactur-ers have been for the moment disturbed, rather than heiped, by the decline in cotton, as it checks buying of some fabrics, with lower prices for print cloths and prospects of lower prices for other goods. The demand for worsteds and dress goods is oncournging, while in woolen goods the situation does not improve. Although hides have failen fully jee at Chicago and some kinds of leatner are lower, quotations of boots and shoes do not change, and many factories have stopped for time. Moavy is undisturbed, with a remark-ably high movement westward, which, for the time of year, is curiously significant.

A Big Contract.

A Big Contract. A recent dispatch from St. Petersburg an-nounces that the Russian government has just closed a contract with the Carnegie Steel Company for a large amount of their patent armor, the recent tests of which at Washing-ton were so remarkable. The order is for immediate delivery, and will occupy the Homestead works for fully five months.

Not Tempted.

There is a quaint story told of a couple of Scotch ministers who were taking dinner together one summer day in a little parsonage in the Highlands. It was the Sabbath day, the weather was beautiful, and the bubbling streams were full of trout and the woods full of summer birds. One turn-ed to the other and said: "Mon, don' ye often feel tempted on these beautiful Sundays to go out fishing?" "Na na," said the other, "I never feel tempt ed, 1 just gang."-Household Words.

Too Neat.

The number of people in the world who are economical at the expense of others is immense. The ability to do this was somewhat picturesquely illustrated in a case in which two mothers were discussing their little boys.

"Oh, dear," snid Mrs. Brown, "my Willy is so dirty and destructive! All his clothes are spolled right away. "Oh, that's too bad." said Mrs. Green.

"My little Johnny, now, is so neat and saving. Why, rather than soil his clean handkerchlef, he always borrows one from one of the boys."

A Marvelous Pond. Catarrh Cannot be Cured There is a pond in Ottawa, Kan., that is a mystery in that, notwithstanding the fact that it contained no water during the protracted dry weather of last senson, it is now well supplied with sun perch and mud catfish. It is claimed that no fish have been planted there, and it is a matter of conjecture where the present supply came from. It is not at all unlikely that before the pond went dry last senson it con-tained fish and that they had deposited their spawn, which remained fertile until the pond was again filled with water, when the fish which now inhabit it were intched. Both the mud cat and the sun perch are rapid growers, which fact would account for their being of medium size now.

The Whistling Pigs.

C. V. Hooper, Al Van Epps and H. Smith returned from the Icicle range Saturday, where they had been fishing, rustleating and prospecting. They disovered a new lake on the apex of one of the mountains, and listened to weird. and luxurious music of the whistling plg, of which there are many in that high range. This peculiar animal re-sembles a fox more than a pig, and weighs from 25 to 40 pounds. In color it ranges from a dark or iron gray to almost white. Its whistling propensities are marvelous and many a time has it fooled the lonely prospector into the belief that he was not entirely companionless in the mountains. Mr. Van-Epps declares they are musical wonders, and that they often give open-air concerts of the most entrancing nature. -Leavenworth Times.

Orient and Occident.

In the Eastern world, the prince of to-day is what the European prince was two or three hundred years ago-an arrogant person who consults his own ease, and who thinks it lowers his dignity to be punctual. In Western countries, princes have become to such an extent the servants of the nation that they can hardly be said to have any personal freedom. The difference between Orient and Occident in this respect has been illustrated lately in the visit of the son of the Ameer of Afghanistan, Nasrulla Khan by name, to England. This young prince has been magnificently entertained.

The first virtue of a European prince is nunctuality. He must be on hand at any public proceeding at he very moment when he is expected; but the Afghan prince holds himself subject to no such law.

Nasrulla Khan was given a "breakfast" at London, and though the hour was late, the prince was not ready. He was, in fact, in bed. He was summoned, but refused to get up, and the "breakfast" in his honor proceeded without him.

A more amusing circumstance was his late appearance at the state dinner given him in the India House. An offeer of high rank was sent to Dorches ter House, where the prince was staying, to accompany him to the dinner. They started in time, but on the way passed a Punch and Judy show. Nas rulla Khan was greatly interested in this, and insisted on getting out of the carriage to watch it.

The English officer respectfully pro-tested, but the Afghan prince refused to move from in front of the Punch and Judy show, where he remained threequarters of an hour, keeping the British royal family and distinguished public functionaries waiting all that time. When, at last, he arrived, he merely explained that he had stopped to see the show, deeming this quite sufficient. Another circumstance, due to his Oriental training, is perhaps more to the prince's credit. Arriving at a ball which was given in his honor, he found the costumes of the ladies so improper, acrding to his standard, that he stead-
