A Little of Everything.

The Candidate,

The Candidate. Here's to the genial candidate! He husies early and husites late. And is always good natured and bland. He laugh when he's bored. As he heartily squeezes your hand. He nerves are strung up to high tension---He deartily squeezes your hand. His nerves are strung up to high tension---He nerves not for rest nor for sleep. His judgement is held in suspension. He is into it, gentlemen, deep. He has but one passion --to get there--He scorneth the thought of defeat. And when he states to ut, you can be there is somebody go get beat. --Punxsutamore Spirit.

H. R. Johnson, will deliver an address. The program is very interesting and instructive.

Good Show

Hi Henry's Minstrels, which appeared at the Reynolds opera house on Monday night, was the largest and best show that has been in Reynoldsville for some time. The opera house was far too small to accommodate the crowd which the company attracted. The troop came to this place over the R. & F. C. R'y in Hi Henry's special car, "The Clipper," which is a first-class hotel, business office, etc., on wheels. A representative of THE STAR was invited to visit the car, and was taken through by J. Albert Gates, who was very courteous and obliging, and is a gentleman in every way. It would be useless to attempt a description of all the conveniences and luxuries seen on the -"Clipper," but it was a visit very much enjoyed by the

Lost Her Suit for Damage.

In October, 1892, Miss Ella E. Seeley, the artist, daughter of Ed. D. Seeley of this place, was injured in a Penn Avenue street car in Pittsburg. Miss Seeley suffered considerably from the injuries received and had to undergo a surgical operation at the Pittsburg Mercy Hospital in 1894 as a result of the accident. She sued the Citizens' Traction Company for $25,000 damages and the case was tried before Judge McClung in Pittsburg last week and the court, against its will, had to rule in favor of the company, because after the accident, Samuel Bowden, representative of the street car company called on Miss Sceley and paid her $25 to sign papers releasing the company from all liabilities for any injuries she might have received, and this release was given as testimony against Miss Seeley's claim for damages.

When on the witness stand Miss Seeley gave this explanation of the release:

"Six days after the accident, when "Six days after the accident, when she was confined to bed, Bowden came to her house. When he explained that he was from the Traction company to see her in relation to the accident, he was shown to her room. He then pro-duced a paper he said he wanted her to sign. Miss Seeley was suffering greatly from pain and her condition made it impossible for her to read. Bowden said he would read the paper to her and did so, or pretended to. As read by him it was a release of the company and did so, or pretended to. As read by him it was a release of the company from a claim for damage for the destruction of Miss Seeley's clothing, which had been ruined when she was trampled on in the car, and for the injury to ber ankle. Miss Seeley signed the paper and Bowden then handed her $25 to make good the loss of her clothing. She had no intimation it was a release of the company from all liability for of the company from all liability for any injury she might have received."

A motion will be made for a new trial on the ground that the signature to the release was obtained by fraud and is not binding.

The large display lines in the heading over the article as it appeared in the Pittsburg Dispatch last Thursday, read as follows: "They won by a trick. Citizens' Traction Company's escape from liability for damages is charged to crooked work. Queer method to beat an injured Woman."

A Suggestion.

During the past few months a number of home talent entertainments have been given in Reynoldsville, and have been well patronized by our people. Most of them have been given under the auspices of the different churches and church societies and it has been clearly shown that Reynoldsville has some good talent. A number of our leading citizens have suggested that it would be a wise plan to appoint a committee from all the different churches to select some of the best talent exhibited in the entertainments of the past few weeks and arrange for an entertainment to be given for the benefit of the poor in our midst. There are many living in Reynoldsville who are not provided with the necessities of life, and we believe an entertainment such as suggested, would be well patronized, not only because of the object for which it would be given, but also because it would be well worth attending for its own merit.

Hi Henry lost one of his best men while in town. He was peering around the front of the opera house when Ab. Reynolds came along and asked what he wanted. The man replied he was trying to find out how to get into this "barn." Albert just picked him up and put him in his pocket and is still carrying him around. As Mr. Reynolds is the owner of the palatial opera house we cannot blame him.

In the list of announcements in THE STAR will be found the name of Daniel Brewer, of Perry township, for county commissioner. Mr. Brewer, who is now filling the office of commissioner, is a gentleman so well and favorably known in Jefferson county that comment from us is not necessary. Mr. Brewer and Mr. Shields have both found it inconvenient so far to do much hustling among the Republican voters, but they have friends over the county who are looking after their interests.

It looks very much as if the strenuous effort of the DuBois Courier and Esq. Woodring to save A. W. Van Houten, a former resident of DuBois, from suffering the extreme penalty of the law for the killing of Richard Newel in Colorado some time ago, would be unavailing. Van Houten was respited once, but the pardon last week refused to commute the sentence and unless the governor intervenes he will be hanged this week. Mr. Woodring is still in Colorado doing all in his power to have the sentence changed to life imprisonFirst Twenty-five.

Dogs Until You Can't Rest.

Feb. 1st.

We make the assertion, without fear of contradition, that there is no town upon the globe that has as many dogs to the square inch as are found within the limits of this borough. And about nine out of every ten are worthless, yelping canines. Reynoldsville is a delightful place to dwell in, but in two things at least our fair city falls below the heavenly city spoken of in the scriptures, for in Revelation, in referring to the Holy City, John, says: "Without are dogs, &c., and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie." About 2.30 A. M. last Saturday three hundred dogs, more or less, assembled on the corner of Grant and Fith streets and then up and down Grant they ran, each one trying its best to out do the others in yelping, howling, barking and growling. It was the "dogest" pandemonium ever heard. We were wishing that every last one of the howling mob would be presented with one pound of lead from the muzzle of a good gun, and fifty other citizens wished the same gift The tax on dog factories should be ed to ten dollars, and strictly ened for a few years, so that the town uld not be overrun with dogs.

E. Neff, Esq., of this place, has announced himself as a candidate for sheriff. Mr. Neff is a man of temperate habits, is very popular, and has a wide acquaintance in Jefferson county. He cast his first vote (while in camp) in 1864 for Abraham Lincoln. He has always been a stalwart republican, never wavering from his duty to his country and his party, and has been an ardent worker for the republican party ever since his return from the army in July. 1865. He has been a resident of Reynoldsville ever since November, 1872. He served as constable from May, 1873, until March, 1877, at which time he had been elected justice of the peace, and was re-elected in 1882, and elected again in 1892 by receiving a majority over his opponent of one hundred and nine votes, the largest majority that was ever polled by any candidate in said borough for justice of the peace up until that time. This shows the standing of this gentleman in the town in which he has been a resident for over 23 years. The republicans of Jefferson county will make no mistake by giving Mr. Neff the nomination for sheriff at the primary election February 18th.
