You may think you are in it, but you are not, unless you are getting the seven o'clock morning edition of the Pittsburg Dispatch. Columns of news in that paper that appear in no other paper coming to this town.

The Courier of Monday morning contained the complete testimony submitted to the Coroner's jury in the matter of the mining catastrophe which occurred at the Berwind-White shaft Monday of last week. Out of the long list of evidence there was nothing produced to show that any person had neglected their duty in the mine.

A few days ago an old man, aged 70 years, in Armstrong county attempted to kill his wife and then commit suicide because his wife would not allow him to walk over a clean floor she was just scrubbing. He used a revolver to commit his crime. Neither one of the persons died and the old man is now languishing in the Armstrong county jail for his rash act.

This is the Feast of the Passover week among the Hebrew people. It commenced at sunset Saturday and ends at sunset next Saturday. It is kept in commemoration of the incidents connected with the liberation of the children of Israel from the bondage in Egypt. During the seven days of this feast the Jewish people generally eat unleavened bread.

The Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company contemplate opening a new mine this season in the vicinity of Beechtree junction. The location will probably be somewhere up Royal run. General Superintendent Robinson is somewhat undecided whether to begin the work this season, but Superintendent Ryan, of Beechtree, wants to begin this spring so that the mine will be ready to operate when No. 3 at Beechtree is worked out. The company has a fine body of coal where the new opening is projected.—Brookwayville Record.

The public is cautioned against a traveling fraud who has already victimized people in a number of towns in the state. He claims to be an agent of the government, and going to the houses of the veterans says that the department is about to give orders for several hundred thousand blue army shirts. Wishing to give the wives of the veterans a chance to make a little money, the government has decided to give the shirts out to soldier's families to make up. When he receives an order for the shirts the agent looks over the sewing machine in the house and finds that the stitch is not just right offers to change it for a dollar, the money to be given back when the material for the shirts is delivered by an assistant. His victims are now looking for the assistant.—Ex.

Just now there is a big hustle among the live business men of DuBois to get the B. R. & P. R.'s car shops to locate at that place. To secure the shops it is necessary for the citizens of that place to raise a purse of $15,000. That is certainly a large sum to raise, and yet if the people of DuBois are interested in the future of the town the amount will be raised. In one respect, at least, DuBois is like Reynoldsville. She has within her border line men who are willing to reap a harvest from all the booms that bloom, but are unwilling to furnish any of the seed necessary to bring about the harvest. Every property owner in every town on the globe should be willing to contribute to help secure an industry that is sure to be a benefit to the town in which he lives.

The editor of a Prohibition paper should be careful what he takes. One item appearing in this week's Reynoldsville STAR without credit is in the Raftsmen's Journal and several other papers and another appeared in the Oil City Herald.—DuBois Express. You are right, and we have no doubt but that Bro. Watts, editor of the Clearfield Monitor, the only Prohibition paper published in this section, is careful about what he takes. As to the charge against THE STAR for plagiarism, we acknowledge to having clipped one or two small items from the Raftsmen's Journal, as that paper has on several occasions clipped from our columns, but we do not exchange with the Oil City Herald. People who live in glass houses should think twice before they throw stones at their neighbors. A paper that is guilty of plagiarism had better not even insinuate that another paper is guilty of such an act. Not later than Monday of this week the Express published an article that was stolen from an exchange.
