Going for a Legacy.

Nicholas Moore left this place yesterday for England to take possession of a large legacy left him by an aunt. Mr. Moore has been in this section some time and has many friends here who will be delighted to hear that he has had a small fortune dropped into his lap.

Flag Pole Raised.

The flag pole in front of the new school building was raised Saturday afternoon. R. D. Beer spliced the pole, got it ready and superintended the raising of it. The pole with knob on top, is 1154 feet long, ten feet of it is buried in mother earth, which makes the pole stand 1054 feet above ground.

Young as he Use to be.

The twenty-fifth of last month Joseph T. Gurthie, car inspector for the A. V. R. Y. at this place, passed the seventy-first mile stone in life's journey. No one would think to see Mr. Gurthie get around so sprightly as he does that he was more than a half hundred years old. Mr. Gurthie began working for a railroad company forty years ago, which vocation he has followed ever since, save the time he shouldered the musket and went to the front when the country was in peril and needed the assistance of brave men.

Will Leave Friday.

Mrs. Rachel M. Alexander and sister, Miss Mary McCallen, will leave Reynoldsville Friday of this week for Jamestown, N. Y., where they will reside. Mrs. Alexander having disposed of her millinery store in this place to Mrs. Annie E. Hutchison. Mrs. Alexander came to Reynoldsville sixteen years ago and opened a millinery store and for many years has been one of our leading milliners and has always had a good trade. She and her sister have made many friends during their stay in this place who will be sorry to see them leave, but will wish them success in the future.

Stepped on to a Greased Plank.

The editor of the Volunteer made an unsuccessful attempt to walk a greased plank last Saturday afternoon in the presence of the crowd that had gathered to watch the raising of the flag pole at the new school building. M. C. Coleman gave the committee a generous supply of old butter to grease the butt end of the pole before it was raised. The butter was used liberally on the pole and on a plank. After the pole had been raised the greasy plank was left on the side of the bank in a slanting position and Mr. Elliott stepped on the slippery plank and quicker than you can say "Jack Robinson" he slid the full length of the plank.

Clean the Streets.

If the day is favorable there will be the largest crowd in Reynoldsville Friday that has ever been in the place, and the town should be neatly and beautifully arrayed for the occasion. There is no doubt but the decorations will be elaborate, but a special effort should be made to have the decorations surpass anything of the kind ever attempted in the town. All the streets should be cleaned nicely, and especially Main street. The dedication of the finest school building in this section of the state is something that every good citizen of our town should be interested in. This being the case all ought to aid in every conceivable manner to make the dedication a grand success.

Big Apples.

M. M. Moore, an industrious and thrifty farmer who resides near Reynoldsville, was in town Friday and brought with him five immense apples which he left at THE STAR office. We doubt if there are any farmers in this section who have such large and pretty apples in their orchards as those brought to this office by Mr. Moore. We measured and weighed one of the apples. It weighed 18 ounces and measured 14 inches in circumference. The apples were all about the same size. Mr. Moore says he took fifty apples off one tree and any one of them did not weigh less than one pound. The foreman of this office said: "Mr. Moore must have grafted apples on to a pumpkin vine." The apples are called Wolf River. Who can bring in larger apples?

Good Entertainment.

The entertainment in the opera house last Thursday evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Work Society of the Presbyterian church, was greeted with a full house and was first class in every particular. It consisted of recitations, vocal and instrumental music. The participants on the program were: Miss Edna A. Vaux, an elocutionist and singer of Pittsburg, Mrs. W. G. Bishop of Pittsburg, Misses Bell Arnold, Sarah Corbett, Roberta Ayers, Jennie Waite and Frank P. Alexander. Miss Vaux has the ability, and knows how to use it, to entertain an audience in the most pleasing manner. Misses Arnold and Corbett touch the keys of a piano to the satisfaction of most exact musical critics of our town. Miss Waite delighted the audience with two splendid recitations. The solos by Miss Ayers, with corset accompaniment by Mr. Alexander, were well received. Mrs. Bishop, is a very sweet singer.

Our Public Schools.

On Monday of this week the fall and winter session of our public schools began, and the scholars of Reynoldsville are now enjoying the privilege of attending school in one of the finest, most convenient and complete school buildings in the state. Everything is now favorable for a very successful term, in fact it should be the most successful term in the schools' history. Here are the names of the teachers and the rooms they will preside over:

Room No. 14, Prof. G. W. Lenkerd, principal; No. 13, Prof. N. B. Madden, assistant principal; No. 12, B. G. Woodward; No. 11, T. B. Mitchell; No. 10, C. C. Hammond; No. 9, Miss Alice Doane; No. 8, Miss Julia Kirk; No. 7, Miss Britta Butler; No. 6, Miss Jessie L. Smeltzer; No. 5, Miss Cora Milliren; No. 4, Miss Mary Patton; No. 3, Miss Myrtle Goist.

At present Prof. Madden has charge of room No. 14 and Prof. Will J. Weaver has charge of room No. 13. This is temporary to give Prof. Lenkerd an opportunity to get the schools in good working order. It may be a permanent thing, however, as the principal will have work enough to do without attempting to devote the time to room No. 14 that would be required if he is to do all the teaching in that room.

Child Married.

Ada Travis, daughter of William Travis, of "Poverty Flat," and Burl Ferrer, of Clearfield county, were to have been married in DuBois Monday evening. The girl is only a trifle over twelve years old and the boy seventeen years old. Travis gave his consent for the marriage and license was granted in this county and then the couple had to go to Clearfield county to get the consent of the parents of the boy, and get license in that county. When the father of the girl went to a Justice in this place to get papers made out for marriage license the Justice tried to persuade the father not to give his consent for the marriage of his daughter, but he would not be dissuaded. We hear of girls of tender years being married in heathen lands, but here is a case in the midst of civilization.

There Are Others.

There are women who are comely, and there are women who are homely, but be careful how the last word you say. There are women who are healthy and women who are wealthy, there are women who will always have their way. There are women who are truthful, women who are youthful—was there ever any woman who are old? There are women who are sainted, and women who are painted, and women who are worth their weight in gold. There are women who are slender and women who are tender, there are women who are large, fat and red. There are women who are married, there are women who have tarried, there are women who are talkless—but they're dead.—Ex.

Officers Elected.

The following officers were elected at a recent meeting of the Reynoldsville Cemetery Co.: President, J. J. Sutter; secretary, A. T. Bing; treasurer, James K. Johnston; directors, M. M. Davis, Henry Deible, J. J. Sutter, W. F. Marshall, H. S. Belnap, Henry Herpel and Solomon Shaffer. Men are at work fixing up the streets that have been laid out in the Pleasant Avenue cemetery, which is now owned by the Reynoldsville Cemetery Co. A new frame building 10x20 feet, to be lined, weather-boarded and painted, will be built in the cemetery.

Railroad Officials.

A special train of two cars containing officials of the B., R. & P. R'y Co., was run to this place over the R. & F. C. R'y Monday afternoon. They remained here several hours. Some of the officials on the train were A. G. Yates, president of the road, Geo. E. Merchant, asst. president, R. W. Davis, general freight agent, Geo. F. Gardner, superintendent, J. M. Flossch, chief engineer of the C. & M. R'y, and Lucius W. Robinson, general manager of the Jefferson and Clearfield Coal and Iron Company.

Bicycle Wreck.

Harry Copping, of this place, who was one of the twenty-two starters in the one mile handicap race at Brockwayville last Saturday, met with an accident which might have proven serious. His wheel was badly damaged and Harry received a few bruises. The accident occurred by a tire coming off the wheel in front of Copping's. Three of the riders were in the smash up.

Edward Wendell, the subject of this sketch, and who departed this life on Tuesday, Aug. 25th, was born in New Castle, in the County Limerick, Ireland, in the early part of the year 1811 and was consequently a little over eighty-five years of age. He was married to Miss Catharine O'Sullivan in London, England, in the year 1849 and came with her to America in 1852, forty-four years ago. Mr. Wendell was educated in the City of Limerick and, showing great aptitude for mathematics, qualified as surveyor. He was an employee of the P. & E. and also of the A. V. R. R. for a number of years, and gained the esteem of his superiors in office. Twenty-five years ago, he moved to Reynoldsville—then in its infancy—and has resided here since then, a respected citizen. He was a kind hearted man and gave liberally of his means towards any charitable or church enterprise brought to his notice. He walked before the world in the fear of the Lord, in the integrity of his conscience, practicing the precepts of the Christian religion to the best of his ability. His life was blameless. His bright example of a life well spent will shed its benign influence upon those who knew and loved him, and who now cherish his memory in the silent recesses of their hearts. Mr. Wendell was a peaceful citizen, a good neighbor, a kind and loving father and an affectionate husband. He leaves an aged widow, four children and nineteen grand children to mourn his departure—a loss only to be repaid where parting is no more. His memory is entwined in the hearts of sorrowing relatives and sympathizing friends. He died in the hope of a blessed immortality. Requiem Eternam dona ei Domine. A FRIEND.

For Parents.

With the opening of the Reynoldsville schools on Monday of this week went into operation the "Compulsory Education Bill," passed by the Legislature of Pennsylvania at the session of 1895. In order that parents may know just what their duty is and what risks they run, we publish below that portion of the Act which states what children must attend, and gives the penalty that parents or guardians shall be subjected to for failing to obey the law, as follows:

"Parents are required to send their children between the ages of eight and thirteen years to schools in which the common English branches are taught during at least sixteen weeks of each year in which the schools are in session, excepting children who are disabled mentally or otherwise, whose the school house is two miles from their homes, or whose children are educated in private schools for the required period. For the first neglect, parents are subjected to a fine of two dollars, and not exceeding five dollars for each subsequent conviction, the money to be paid to the county treasurer for the use of the district. If the boards desire, they may appoint attendance officers to arrest children of school age and also set aside truant rooms. The assessors at the spring election must take a census of children between the ages of eight and thirteen years. The list will be furnished principals and teachers for their information. The parents of children who have been absent five days in any month are subject to a fine, if upon due notification and without a good excuse the absence continues. Complaint can be entered before petty magistrates, but parents or guardians have the right of appeal."

We Observe.

That picnics have been numerous the past two weeks.
That too many Reynoldsville boys smoke cigarettes.
That no man gets rich by sitting around stores and saloons.
That a good many people try to cover their own blots with blemishes of others.

That an echo is the only thing that can flim-flam a woman out of the last word.
That there is every reason to believe the moon is on silver basis. Her change is all in quarters.

That there are many street corner philosophers just now busy saving the country from financial ruin.
That the hand that rocks the cradle can scare the wits out of a fellow when it shakes a stick at the chicken in the garden.

That the sidewalks on the Fifth street side of the Seeley, Alexander & Co. bank and at the east end of the Main street iron bridge need immediate attention.
That one of the sad things of life is to see a young girl throw her life away by marrying a man to reform him. Not one in a hundred is made any better by marriage, though for a time there may be a semblance of reform.
