Do not find fault. You can always look around you and see some fellow being that would be thankful if he were in your place.

The talk of building an electric road between Punxsutawney and Indiana has been revived. This time it is the General Electric Company of New York and Chicago that is making an investigation of the advisability of such a road.

Congress convenes this month. This is the old Congress. It will be in session until March 4th, 1897, and on that day it ceases to exist. The new Congress will not convene until December. 1897, unless the President calls them into extra session.

The editor of the Penfield Press thinks that Thanksgiving Day should be in October, and gives the following reasons for thinking so: "November is the blenkest, blackest, sorriest, saddest, bluest, muddiest, rainiest, dismalist month of the twelve." That may be applicable to some other November, but it don't hit November of 1896.

The Ladies' Home Journal for Decem ber gives the following pointers on the study of the hands: "Palmists say that long fingers are the sign of refinement. A short, stubby hand argues a lack of sensibility; a thin thumb, rather small, denotes weakness. Strength of character is shown by the thumb asserting itself over the other fingers. If the thumb curves backward its owner is obstinate."

An "old subscriber" wants to know the origin of the word "dude." It is from a Gypsy word, meaning clothes. The word, or a corruption of it, is frequently used in the United States, many persons referring to their clothes as "duds." It is also common in Scotland. A "dude" is one who is practically clothes.-Punxsutawney Spirit. If we are to understand the above definition to mean clothes and no brains, then we feel safe in saying Reynoldsville has a few "dudes."

gin to blow from far off northern clime. The wood saw sings, the coal bin groans the tree doth mean with sorrow; the sun shines bright and warm to-day, might snow like blazes to-morrow. We gladly think of times to come when we shall swiftly sour, through minee pie skies and night-mare drives and stomach-aches galore. Subscribers who are two years back, should to the sanctum roll and soften times which sorely try the editorial soul.

Perhaps the meanest man in the world is the fellow who pretends to your face that he is your friend, while when your back is turned he is your most bitter enemy. A man who wishes you well to your face and antagonizes you and does you all the harm possible when your back is turned, is the vilest serpent that creeps upon the earth and you should press your beel down upon his head at the first opportunity. To the detriment of the human race, such people exist, and they are to be found in every community.-Falls Creek Herald. You are right, Charley. We have them in Reynoldsville.

Clearfield county is large enough and wicked enough to have a large and substantial jail, but according to notices appearing in the Clearfield papers the jail is in a very dilapidated condition. In fact the sheriff and his family and the inmates of the jail risk their lives by staying in the old thing. We don't know how many prisoners there are in the jail, but we should judge that if murder and other high crimes are committed in other portions of the county as they are in DuBois, and the criminals make good their escape, that there is little use for a county jail only for keeping people in for trival offenses, who have no desire to escape. This being the case why not rent a good sized house and allow the sheriff to move into it and keep his prisoners where their lives would not be daily

"ADAM NEVER WAS A BOY.

"Of all the men the world has seen Since time his rounds began, There's one I pity every day— Earth's first and foremost man; And then I think what fun he missed By failing to enjoy The wild delights of youthtime, for He never was a boy.

"He never stubbed his naked toe Against a root or stone; He never with a pin-hook fished Along the brook alone; He never sought the bumble bee Among the daisles coy, Nor monkeyed with its business end,— He never was a boy,

"He never was a soy.
"He never hookey played nor tied
The ever ready pall.
Down in the alley all alone
To trusting Filo's tail!
And, when he home from swimming came,
Ills happiness to clay
No slipper interfered, because
He never was a boy.

"He might refer to splendid times
"Mong Eden's howers, and yet
He never acted Romeo
To sis-year Julius;
He never sent a valentine
Intended to annoy
A good, but mairien aunt, because
He never was a boy.

"He never cut a kite-string, no, Nor hid an Easter egg, the never tore his Sunday pants While playing mumbly-peg; the never from the attle stole A coon hum to enjoy. To find the old man' watching, for the never was a boy.

"I pity him, why should I not? I even drop a tear. He did not know how much he missed, He never will. I fear; And when the scenes of 'other days' My growing mind employ, I think of him, earth's only man, Who never was a boy."

Well, boys and girls, here we are again after a week's recreation; back home again and all gathered together within the walls of our school building. ready, we hope, for active work after your rest. We are now started on our fourth month and are nearing the middle of our term and as Noah said to the camel who was slow in getting into the ark, we must "hump" ourselves. You rested a week while your teachers were at school, for this is what an institute really is. A school for teachers, where they assemble from day to day and listen to the teaching of able instructors and educators who are employed by our county superintendent, and after spending a week thus they return to their several school rooms better prepared to Impart instruction to you, my numerous nephews and nieces of Jefferson county, that is, if they have been good pupils and listened attentively to the instructors as they talked from day to day. We will talk to you a little regarding tenchers' institutes. The object as already stated, is to impart instruction to the teachers and discuss plans for advancing the best interests of the schools and getting the views of the most successful teachers in order that all difficulties in the way of teaching may be obviated and that you may reap may be obviated and that you may reap the advantage by receiving better instruction, for it is your interest, boys and girls, that the true teacher has at heart, and it is for you that the true teacher sits up night after night and burns the midnight oil studying out plans to better impart instruction to you. Do you ever think of this boys and girls? We trust you do and appreciate all the efforts in your behalf. If you could attend an institute you would be astonished, for upon entering the old, dingy court house you would see.—

And all dressed in their best and so many of them iadies, a conglomerated mass of gushing pedagogical sweetness all done up in ribbons, bangs and furbelows, and the heart of the susceptible pedagogue, who is teaching his first term and struggling to raise his first term and struggling to term and struggling to raise his first mustache, fleps up and down like a churn dasher as he mingles among them, yet as a rule the teachers are sociable and the superintendent tries to have each one become acquainted with every body else so that sociability and instruction go hand in hand at our county institutes. We hope next year to have the institute held here in Reynoldsville when you will have an opportunity of seeing the workings of it, and if we are real good we think that Superintendent Teitrick will decide to hold it here as we have convinced him that our town is big, our halls ample and our people hospitable and united in asking him to come to visit us next year and bring his institute along with him and we will take the best care of him and the three hundred big boys and girls he has under his charge in the county. But we will take the seat of the girls he has under his charge in the county. But we will stop now and give county. But we will stop now and give you time to figure over your last month's reports and devise your plans as to how you can make them better this month, for your next review will be a scorcher, a general one, so make it a point to be ready for it, and don't allow yourself to be caught uppping when examination day comes 'round. day comes 'round.
